(ii) the income or profit from the active business for the year computed in accordance with the income tax law of the country in which the business is carried on, in any case not described in subparagraph (i) where the affiliate is required by that law to compute that income or profit, and

(iii) in any other case, the amount that would be the income from the active business for the year under Part I of the Act if the business were carried on in Canada, the affiliate were resident in Canada and the Act were read without reference to subsections 80(3) to (12), (15) and (17) and 80.01(5) to (11) and sections 80.02 to 80.04,

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(a)(iii)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 16, 2005:

Mr. Charles Webster, Ernst & Young LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Webster:

I am writing in response to your correspondence dated January 13, 2005 to Mr. Wallace Conway in connection with the definition "earnings", of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations.

As you note in your correspondence, subparagraph (a)(iii) of the earnings definition provides that "earnings" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year from an active business means the amount that would be the income from the active business for the year under Part I of the Income Tax Act if the business were carried on in Canada, the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada and the Act were read without reference to certain specified provisions of the Act. That subparagraph applies only where the foreign affiliate is not required by the income tax law of the country in which the foreign affiliate is resident or carries on the business to compute the income or profit from the active business.

You also note that, in the draft technical amendments released by the Minister of Finance on February 27, 2004 relating to foreign affiliates, proposed new paragraph 95(2)(f.1) of the Act provides in part that, for the purposes of subdivision i of the Act, the income or loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from property or from a business other than an active business is to be computed as if the business were carried on in Canada, the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada and the Act were read without reference to certain specified provisions of the Act (including subsection 18(4) of the Act).

You express your concern that subsection 18(4) is one of those specified provisions in proposed paragraph 95(2)(f.1) but not in subparagraph (a)(iii) of the earnings definition in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations.

It would seem appropriate to amend Part LIX of the Regulations so that, in applying subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations to determine the amount that would be the foreign affiliate's income from an active business, the Act would be read without reference to subsection 18(4). We are prepared to recommend such a change and, consistent with the coming-into-force provision proposed in the February 2004 foreign affiliate proposals for new paragraph 95(2)(f.1), that it apply to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 17, 2005:

Mr. Charles Webster, Ernst & Young LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Webster:

I am writing in response to your letter dated May 26, 2005 in connection with the definition "earnings", in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations, which defines the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year of the foreign affiliate from an active business.

In a letter sent to you on May 16, 2005, we informed you of our intention to recommend that Part LIX of the Regulations be amended in a manner that would result in subsection 18(4) of the Income Tax Act being ignored in computing, pursuant to subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, the amount of the income from an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada. As well, in that letter, we informed you of our intention to recommend that such an amendment apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002.

In your letter, you have requested a change to the recommended effective date for the recommended amendment. Your preference would be to have the recommended amendment apply to the 1976 and subsequent taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada. In your view, the recommended amendment has relevance for all taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of which subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) applied to determine the amount of the income from an active business of the foreign affiliate. In particular, you are concerned that, if the recommended amendment were made effective, as was originally indicated, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada that begin after December 20, 2002, the foreign affiliate would have foreign accrual property income and taxable surplus in prior years because of the technical deficiencies that the recommended amendment would correct. While you have presented no evidence that the relevant rules in the Act and the Regulations have been administered by the Canada Revenue Agency in this manner in the past, you do present understandable concerns.

After further consideration prompted by your letter, we are not prepared to recommend that the aforementioned amendment apply to the 1976 and subsequent taxation years. As you know, however, a series of amendments to the foreign affiliate rules has been proposed with effect, on election by the taxpayer, to taxation years of the foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994. Consequently, we will continue to recommend that the recommended amendment concerning the earnings definition apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002 (the "applicable taxation years" of the foreign affiliate), but will also recommend that, where a taxpayer so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, it apply to taxation years of each foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 (referred to as the "applicable taxation years" of the foreign affiliate, if that election is made). As well, it will be recommended that there be available to a corporation resident in Canada, whether or not it has made that election, an additional election such that, where the corporation resident in Canada so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, Part LIX of the Regulations would provide that, for the purposes of calculations made at any time in the applicable taxation years of the foreign affiliate, the amount of the exempt and taxable surplus, the exempt and taxable deficit and the underlying foreign tax of the foreign affiliate in respect of the corporation resident in Canada be determined as if the recommended amendment concerning the earnings definition applied for the 1976 and subsequent taxation years of the foreign affiliate.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

adjusted in each case in accordance with subsections (2), (2.1), (2.2) and (2.9) and, for the purposes of this Part, to the extent that the earnings of an affiliate from an active business carried on by it cannot be attributed to a permanent establishment in any particular country, they shall be attributed to the permanent establishment in the country in which the affiliate is resident and, if the affiliate is resident in more than one country, to the permanent establishment in the country that may reasonably be regarded as the affiliate's principal place of residence, and

(b) in any other case, the total of the amounts by which the income for the year from an active business of an affiliate is increased because of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act;

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b) [to be further amended, below]

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of income that is required under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act to be included in computing the affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year;

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(2), will amend para. (b) of the definition "earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999.

Para. 50(1)(a) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35; see History at the end of ITA 95, then the amendment is also applicable to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) is relevant for the purposes of computing the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate. Paragraph (b) of the definition "earnings" ensures that "earnings" will reflect the total of all amounts by which the affiliate's income for the year from an active business is increased because of ITA paragraph 95(2)(a).

Paragraph (b) of the definition "earnings" is being amended to ensure that "earnings" will reflect all income amounts required by paragraph 95(2)(a) to be included in computing a foreign affiliate's income or loss from an active business. This change is consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes.

This amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after 1999. However, this amendment may have earlier application where an election referred to in clause 50 is filed.

Elections under Bill C-28

Clause 50 of these amendments contains rules requiring the early application of certain portions of the amendments, referred to above, to subsection 5907(1). These early applications are, for the most part, consequential to the early application of certain provisions of section 95 of the Act that are required by virtue of certain elections under Bill C-28.

Subclause 50(1) deals with elections made under subsection 26(46) of Bill C-28. This election is commonly referred to as the "global election". Subclause 50(2) deals with elections made under paragraph 26(35)(b) of Bill C-28. Both of these elections generally provide for the application of certain specified provisions to taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after 1994.

Assessments

Clause 53 of these amendments provides for the automatic override of the normal statute-barring rules of subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act for clauses 50 to 52 and any provision of clause 46 to which clause 50 applies, i.e. provisions that are subject to the foreign affiliate elections in section 26 of Bill C-28. For the provisions of clauses 29 to 38 and 40 to 49 (other than a provision of clause 46 that is subject to clause 50), taxpayers have the option of overriding those statute-barring rules, on a provision by provision basis, by filing an election on or before June 30, 2011.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b)

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of income that would be required under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act to be included in computing the affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year if that income were computed taking into account the rules in subsection (2.03);

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(1), will amend amend para. (b) of the definition "earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Amendment above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph (b) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) incorporates deemed active business income (pursuant to paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act) into the earnings of a foreign affiliate. Such earnings enter into the computation of either exempt or taxable earnings and then exempt or taxable surplus or deficit of a foreign affiliate.

Paragraph (b) is being amended to ensure that the "forced deductions" rule in new subsection 5907(2.03) is taken into account in computing those earnings. For more details, refer to the commentary below for new subsection 5907(2.03).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5906(2)(a) — Meaning of "permanent establishment"; Reg. 5907(2.03) — Earnings determined on basis that foreign affiliate claimed maximum deductions; Reg. 5907(2.9)(a)(i) — Fresh-start rule — addition to earnings.

"exempt deficit" of a foreign affiliate of a corporation in respect of the corporation at any time means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined at that time under any of subparagraphs (i) to (vi) of the description of B in the definition "exempt surplus" in this subsection

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined at that time under any of subparagraphs (i) to (vii) of the description of A in that definition;

Related Provisions: ITA 34.2(8)(b) — Whether corporate partner stub-period accrual applies.

"exempt earnings" of a particular foreign affiliate of a particular corporation for a taxation year of the particular affiliate is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount by which the capital gains of the particular affiliate for the year exceed the total of

(i) the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in the description of B in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act,

(ii) the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i) and (d)(iii) of the definition "net earnings" in this subsection, and

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt earnings"(a)(ii) [to be further amended, below]

(ii) the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in any of subparagraphs (c)(i), (d)(iii), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net earnings", and

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(3), will amend subpara. (a)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of property that occur after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "exempt earnings" is relevant for the purposes of computing the exempt surplus and exempt deficit of a foreign affiliate.

This definition is being amended in a number of ways, as described below.

Subparagraph (a)(ii) is being amended to include references to taxable capital gains that are described in new subparagraphs (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net earnings". This amendment ensures that there is included, in computing "exempt earnings", only the non-taxable portion of capital gains realized in respect of dispositions of excluded property referred to in paragraphs (c) and (c.1) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act where that excluded property relates to active business income that has its source in a non-designated treaty country.

This amendment is consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes in respect of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt earnings" before (a)(iii)

"exempt earnings", of a particular foreign affiliate of a particular corporation for a taxation year of the particular affiliate, means, subject to subsection (2.02), the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount by which the capital gains of the particular affiliate for the year (other than capital gains included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the particular affiliate's hybrid surplus, or hybrid deficit, in respect of the particular corporation) exceed the total of

(i) the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in the description of B in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act,

(ii) [Before 2013 see transitional version in Application annotation — ed.] the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net earnings", and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(2), will amend the portion of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) before subpara. (a)(iii) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Amendment above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011 except that, for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin before 2013, subpara. (a)(ii) of the definition is to be read as follows:

(ii) the amount of the taxable capital gains for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i), (d)(iii), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net earnings", and

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "exempt earnings" is relevant for the purposes of computing the exempt surplus and exempt deficit of a foreign affiliate.

This definition is being amended in a number of ways.

First, the "preamble" is being amended to exclude any amounts that would otherwise be included in "exempt earnings" but are instead re-classified as "taxable earnings" by virtue of the new anti-avoidance rule in subsection 5907(2.02), as discussed below.

Second, paragraph (a) of "exempt earnings", which deals with capital gains, is being amended to exclude any gains that are included in computing the affiliate's "hybrid surplus" or "hybrid deficit".

Third, subparagraph (a)(ii) is being amended to remove the reference to subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "net earnings" in subsection 5907(1), as a consequence of the repeal of paragraph (d) of that definition.

The first and second amendments apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011. However, in light of the two-stage transitioning into the "hybrid surplus" regime, as discussed below, the third amendment only applies for taxation years that begin after 2012.

(iii) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the particular affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of the amount by which the capital gains of the particular affiliate for the year exceed the total of the amounts referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii), and for the purpose of this paragraph, where the particular affiliate has disposed of capital property that was shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the particular corporation to any corporation that was, immediately after the disposition, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, the capital gains of the particular affiliate for the year shall not include the portion of those gains that is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value at the end of the particular affiliate's 1975 taxation year of one of those shares disposed of over the adjusted cost base of that share,

(a.1) the amount determined by the formula

A – B

A is the total of all amounts each of which is a particular amount that would be included, in respect of a particular business of the particular affiliate, by paragraph (c), (c.1) or (c.2) of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1) of the Act in determining the particular affiliate's capital dividend account at the end of the year if

(i) the particular affiliate were the corporation referred to in that definition,

(ii) the references in paragraphs (c.1) and (c.2) of that definition, and in paragraph (c) of that definition as that paragraph read in its application to taxation years that ended before February 28, 2000, to "a business" were read as references to a business that

(A) is not an active business (as defined in subsection 95(1) of the Act), or

(B) is an active business (as defined in that subsection 95(1)) the particular affiliate's earnings from which for the year are determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings", and

(iii) the particular amount did not include any amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued while no person or partnership that carried on the particular business was a specified person or partnership (within the meaning of section 95 of the Act) in respect of the particular corporation, and

B is the amount determined for A at the end of the particular affiliate's taxation year that immediately precedes the year,

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(4), will add para. (a.1) to the definition "exempt earnings" in subsec. 5907(1), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002, except that the description of A is, for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin before December 19, 2009, to be read without reference to its subpara. (iii).

Para. 50(1)(b) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35; see History at the end of ITA 95, then the amendment (read as described in the Application provision above) is also applicable to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002.

See Application note under Proposed Amendment to Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b) for rule (s. 53 of the draft legislation) permitting late reassessment to give effect to this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "exempt earnings" is also being amended by adding new paragraph (a.1). This new paragraph includes in exempt earnings, in certain circumstances, the untaxed portion of income realized by a foreign affiliate from the receipt of an amount in respect of eligible capital property. It applies where the income relates either to a business of the affiliate that is not an active business or to a business that is an active business but whose "earnings", as defined in subsection 5907(1), are determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of that definition (i.e. using Canadian tax rules). It would apply, for example, to a disposition of intellectual property that is eligible capital property used in carrying on an investment business of a foreign affiliate.

This new paragraph is meant to provide consistent treatment for non-taxable amounts in respect of capital property and eligible capital property.

This new paragraph applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after December 20, 2002, except that the description of A in this new paragraph is, for taxation years of the affiliate that begin on or before December 18, 2009, to be read without reference to subparagraph (iii). This amendment may have earlier application where an election referred to in clause 50 is filed.

(b) where the year is the 1975 or any preceding taxation year of the particular affiliate, the total of all amounts each of which is the particular affiliate's net earnings for the year,

(c) where the year is the 1975 or any preceding taxation year of the particular affiliate, the earnings as determined in paragraph (b) of the definition "earnings" in this subsection to the extent that those earnings have not been included because of paragraph (b) or deducted in determining an amount included in subparagraph (b)(i) of the definition "exempt loss" in this subsection,

(d) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the particular affiliate and the particular affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country, each amount that is

(i) the particular affiliate's net earnings for the year from an active business carried on by it in Canada or a designated treaty country, or

(ii) the earnings of the particular affiliate for the year from an active business to the extent that they derive from

(A) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act that are derived by the particular affiliate from activities that could reasonably be considered to be directly related to business activities carried on by a non-resident corporation, to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year, in the course of an active business carried on by the non-resident corporation the income from which would, if the non-resident corporation were a foreign affiliate of a corporation, be included in computing the non-resident corporation's exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(B) where the particular corporation is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada throughout the year and the particular affiliate is a foreign affiliate in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year, amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act that are derived by the particular affiliate from activities that could reasonably be considered to be directly related to business activities carried on by the particular corporation in the course of an active business carried on by the particular corporation in a country other than Canada, the income from which would, if the particular corporation were a foreign affiliate of another corporation and were resident in the country other than Canada in which that active business of the particular corporation is carried on, be included in computing the particular corporation's exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(C) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or a partnership of which it is a member by a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year, to the extent that, if the non-resident corporation were a foreign affiliate of a corporation, the amounts paid or payable by the non-resident corporation would be deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(D) where a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year is a member of a particular partnership (other than where the non-resident corporation is a specified member of the particular partnership at any time in a fiscal period of the particular partnership ending in the year), amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or another partnership of which it is a member by the particular partnership to the extent that, if the particular partnership were a foreign affiliate of a corporation and were resident in the country in which the non-resident corporation is resident and subject to income taxation, the amounts paid or payable by the particular partnership would be deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(E) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(B) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or a partnership of which it is a member by another foreign affiliate of the particular corporation in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year, to the extent that the amounts paid or payable by the other foreign affiliate are deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(F) where another foreign affiliate of the particular corporation in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year is a member of a particular partnership (other than where the other foreign affiliate is a specified member of the particular partnership at any time in a fiscal period of the particular partnership ending in the year), amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(B) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or another partnership of which it is a member by the particular partnership, to the extent that, if the particular partnership were a foreign affiliate of a corporation and were resident in the country in which the other foreign affiliate is resident and subject to income taxation, the amounts paid or payable by the particular partnership would be deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(G) where the particular affiliate is a member of a particular partnership (other than where the particular affiliate is a specified member of the particular partnership at any time in a fiscal period of the particular partnership ending in the year), amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(C) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or another partnership of which it is a member by the particular partnership, to the extent that, if the particular partnership were a foreign affiliate of a corporation and were resident in the country in which the particular affiliate is resident and subject to income taxation, the amounts paid or payable by the particular partnership would be deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt loss,

(H) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or a partnership of which it is a member by another foreign affiliate (in this clause referred to as the "second affiliate") of the particular corporation to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year, to the extent that the amounts paid or payable

(I) are on account of interest on borrowed money used for the purpose of earning income from property or interest on an amount payable for property, where

1. the property is shares of a foreign affiliate (in this clause referred to as the "third affiliate") of the particular corporation in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year and that are excluded property, and

2. the second affiliate, the third affiliate and each other affiliate relevant for the purpose of determining whether the shares of the third affiliate are excluded property are resident and subject to income taxation in a designated treaty country, and

(II) are relevant in computing the liability for income taxes, in the designated treaty country in which the second and third affiliates are resident, of the members of a group of corporations composed of the second affiliate and one or more other foreign affiliates (the shares of which are excluded property) of the particular corporation that are resident in that country and in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year, and, for the purposes of this clause, "excluded property" has the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1) of the Act, except that for that purpose,

(III) the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act shall be read without reference to amounts receivable referred to in paragraph (c) of that definition where the interest on the amounts is not, or would not if interest were payable on the amounts, be deductible in computing the debtor's exempt earnings or exempt loss, and

(IV) the shares of a foreign affiliate (in this subclause referred to as the "non-qualifying affiliate") that is not resident and subject to income taxation in a designated treaty country are not considered relevant for the purpose of determining whether shares of the third affiliate are excluded property unless the shares of the third affiliate would not have been excluded property if the shares of all such non-qualifying affiliates were not excluded property,

(I) where the particular corporation is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada and the particular affiliate is a foreign affiliate in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the year, amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act that are derived from amounts paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to it or a partnership of which it is a member by the particular corporation in the course of the particular corporation carrying on its life insurance business outside Canada, to the extent that, if the particular corporation were a foreign affiliate of another corporation and were resident in the country in which the particular corporation carried on its life insurance business outside Canada, the amounts paid or payable by the particular corporation would be deductible in the year or in a subsequent taxation year in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss,

(J) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iii) of the Act that are derived from the factoring of trade accounts receivable acquired by the particular affiliate, or by a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member, from a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year, to the extent that the trade accounts receivable arose in the course of an active business carried on by the non-resident corporation any income from which would be included in the exempt earnings of the non-resident corporation if it were a foreign affiliate of a corporation, or

(K) amounts by which the income of the particular affiliate from an active business for the year is increased because of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iv) of the Act that are derived from loans or lending assets acquired by the particular affiliate, or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member from a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the particular corporation are related throughout the year, to the extent that the loans or lending assets arose in the course of an active business carried on by the non-resident corporation any income from which would be included in the exempt earnings of the non-resident corporation if it were a foreign affiliate of a corporation, or

(d) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the particular affiliate and the particular affiliate is, throughout the year, resident in a designated treaty country,

(i) the particular affiliate's net earnings for the year from an active business carried on by it in Canada or a designated treaty country, or

(ii) the particular affiliate's earnings for the year from an active business to the extent that they derive from

(A) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act and that would

(I) if earned by the other foreign affiliate referred to in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(I) of the Act, be included in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss of the other foreign affiliate for a taxation year, or

(II) if earned by the life insurance corporation referred to in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act and based on the assumptions contained in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(B)(II) of the Act, be included in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss of the life insurance corporation for a taxation year,

(B) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act where the income is derived from amounts that are paid or payable by the life insurance corporation referred to in that clause and are for expenditures that would, if that life insurance corporation were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year,

(C) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(B) of the Act to the extent that the amounts paid or payable referred to in that clause are for expenditures that are deductible in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss, for a taxation year, of the other foreign affiliate referred to in that clause,

(D) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(C) of the Act to the extent that the amounts paid or payable referred to in that clause are for expenditures that are deductible in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year,

(E) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act where

(I) the country referred to in subclause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D)(IV) of the Act is a designated treaty country, and

(II) that income would be required to be so included if

1. paragraph (a) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read as follows:

(a) used or held by the foreign affiliate principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business carried on by it in a designated treaty country (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5907(11) of the Income Tax Regulations),

2. paragraph (c) of that definition "excluded property" were read as follows:

(c) property all or substantially all of the income from which is, or would be, if there were income from the property, income from an active business (which, for this purpose, includes income that would be deemed to be income from an active business by paragraph (2)(a) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (v)) that is included in computing the foreign affiliate's exempt earnings, or exempt loss, as defined in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations, for a taxation year,

(F) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iii) of the Act to the extent that the trade accounts receivable referred to in that subparagraph arose in the course of an active business carried on by the other foreign affiliate referred to in that subparagraph the income or loss from which is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year,

(G) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iv) of the Act to the extent that the loans or lending assets referred to in that subparagraph arose in the course of an active business carried on by the other foreign affiliate referred to in that subparagraph the income or loss from which is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year,

(H) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(v) of the Act, where all or substantially all of its income, from the property described in that subparagraph, is, or would be if there were income from the property, income from an active business (which, for this purpose, includes income that would be deemed to be income from an active business by paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act if that paragraph were read without reference to its subparagraph (v) and, for greater certainty, excludes income arising as a result of the disposition of the property) that is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year, or

(I) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(vi) of the Act, where the agreement for the purchase, sale or exchange of currency referred to in that subparagraph can reasonably be considered to have been made by the particular affiliate to reduce its risk with respect to an amount of income or loss that is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year, or

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(5), will amend para. (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999, except that

(i) the opening words of para. (d) of the definition are, in their application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin before December 19, 2009, to be read as follows:

(d) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the particular affiliate and the particular affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country,

(ii) subcl. (d)(ii)(E)(II) of the definition is, in its application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin after 2008 and before June 19, 2010, to be read as follows:

(II) that income would be required to be so included if paragraph (c) of the definition "exceluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read as follows:

(c) property all or substantially all of the income from which is deemed, or would be deemed, if there were income from the property, to be income from an active business by paragraph (2)(a) (which, for this purpose, includes income that would be deemed to be income from an active business by paragraph (2)(a) if that paragraph were read without reference to its subparagraph (v)) that is derived from amounts payable by payers who are, or would be, if they were foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, entitled to deduct the amounts in computing their exempt earnings or exempt loss, as defined in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations, for a taxation year,

(iii) subject to para. (iv) below, subpara. (d)(ii) of the definition is, in its application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1999 and begin before 2009, to be read as follows:

(ii) the particular affiliate's earnings for the year from an active business to the extent that they derive from

(A) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act and that would,

(I) if earned by the non-resident corporation referred to in sub-subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(I)1 of the Act and based on the assumptions contained in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(B)(I) of the Act, be included in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss of the non-resident corporation for a taxation year,

(II) if earned by the foreign affiliate referred to in sub-subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(I)2 of the Act, be included in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss of that foreign affiliate for a taxation year, or

(III) if earned by the life insurance corporation referred to in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act and based on the assumptions contained in subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(B)(I) of the Act, be included in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss of the life insurance corporation for a taxation year,

(B) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act to the extent that the amounts paid or payable referred to in that clause are for expenditures that would be deductible in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year of the non-resident corporation or the partnership, as the case may be, referred to in that clause if it were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation,

(C) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(B) of the Act to the extent that the amounts paid or payable referred to in that clause are for expenditures that

(I) are deductible in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss, for a taxation year, of the other foreign affiliate referred to in that clause, or

(II) would be deductible in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss, for a taxation year, of the partnership referred to in that clause if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation,

(D) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(C) of the Act to the extent that the amounts paid or payable referred to in that clause are for expenditures that would be deductible in computing the exempt earnings or exempt loss, for a taxation year, of the partnership referred to in that clause if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation,

(E) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act where

(I) the country referred to in subclause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D)(IV) of the Act is a designated treaty country, and

(II) that income would be required to be so included if paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read as follows:

(c) property all or substantially all of the income from which is deemed, or would be deemed if there were income from the property, to be income from an active business by paragraph (2)(a) (which, for this purpose, includes income that would be deemed to be income from an active business by paragraph (2)(a) if that paragraph were read without reference to its subparagraph (v)) that is derived from amounts payable by payers who are, or would be, if they were foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, entitled to deduct the amounts in computing their exempt earnings or exempt loss, as defined in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations, for a taxation year,

(F) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act where the income is derived from amounts that are paid or payable by the life insurance corporation referred to in that clause and are for expenditures that would, if that life insurance corporation were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year,

(G) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iii) of the Act to the extent that the trade accounts receivable referred to in that subparagraph arose in the course of an active business carried on by the non-resident corporation referred to in that subparagraph the income or loss from which would be included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year if it were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation,

(H) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(iv) of the Act to the extent that the loans or lending assets referred to in that subparagraph arose in the course of an active business carried on by the non-resident corporation referred to in that subparagraph the income or loss from which would be included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year if it were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation,

(I) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act, where all or substantially all of its income from the property described in this subparagraph, i.e., or would be if there were income from the property, income from an active business (which, for this purpose, includes income that would be deemed to be income from an active business by paragraph 95.1(a) of the Act if the paragraph were read without reference to its subparagraph (v) and, for greater certainty, excludes income arising as a result of the disposition of the property) that is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year, or

(J) income that is required to be included in computing the particular affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(ii) of the Act, where the agreement for the purchase, sale or exchange of emissions referred to in that subparagraph was reasonably be considered to have been made by the particular affiliate to reduce its risk with respect to an amount of income or loss that is included in computing its exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year, or

(vi) subcl. (d)(iii)(E)(III) of the definition, as set out in the read as text contained in para. (vi) above, is, in its application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1999 and begin before December 21, 2002, to be read as follows:

(III) that income would be required to be so included if paragraph (e) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read without reference to amounts receivable referred to in that paragraph (e), where the interest on the amounts is not, or would not if interest were payable on the amounts, be deductible in computing the debtor's exempt earnings or exempt loss for a taxation year.

Para. 5907(1)(c) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35, see History at the end of ITA 95, then subpara. (d)(iii) of the definition (as it reads in the Application provision above, but without reference to para. (vi) above) is also applicable for taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000, except that, for those taxation years

(a) cl. (d)(iii)(A), as so read, is to be read without reference to its subcl. (II);

(a) if the taxpayer has not made a valid election under para. 26(35)(b) of S.C. 2007, c. 35, cl. (d)(iii)(E) as so read, is to be read as if it also contained a subcl. (I.1) that read as follows:

(I.1) the shares of a foreign affiliate (referred to in this subclause as the "non-qualifying affiliate") that is not resident and subject to income taxation in a designated treaty country are not considered relevant for the purpose of determining whether shares of the third affiliate that is referred to in clause 95(2)(a)(iii)(D) of the Act are excluded property unless the shares of the third affiliate would not have been excluded property if the shares of all such non-qualifying affiliates were not excluded property, and

(iii) each reference to "income or loss" in cls. (d)(iii)(H) and (I), as so read, is to be replaced by a reference to "income".

Subsec. 5(2) of the draft legislation provides that if a taxpayer has not made a valid election under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35 has not made a valid election under para. 26(35)(b) of that Act, subpara. (d)(ii) of the definition, being read in the manner described in paragraphs (iii) and (iv) of the Application provision above, also applies to taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

See Application note under Proposed Amendment to Reg. 5907(1) "earnings"(b) for rule (s. 53 of the draft legislation) permitting late reassessment to give effect to this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) includes in a foreign affiliate's "exempt earnings" for a taxation year certain income of the affiliate for the year where the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country.

The "preamble" of paragraph (d) is amended to require that the affiliate be resident in a designated treaty country throughout the taxation year. However, there is a new rule in subsection 5907(1.02) that deems, in certain circumstances, a foreign affiliate to meet this "throughout the year" requirement in the year in which it becomes a foreign affiliate.

This amendment applies for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after December 31, 2009.

Income of a foreign affiliate that would otherwise be its income from property but is reclassified under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act to be its income from an active business is included by subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) in computing its "exempt earnings" if the affiliate meets the residence requirement in the preamble of paragraph (d) (i.e. it must be resident in a designated treaty country) and the reclassified income meets the conditions set out in the relevant clause of subparagraph (d)(iii). A major aspect of the conditions in the relevant clause is the existence of a sufficient connection between the reclassified income and active business income that has its source in a designated treaty country.

Consequential to changes to paragraph 95(2)(a) that were made as part of the Budget 2007 Act changes, significant amendments are being made to subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "exempt earnings". These amendments can be grouped into the following categories:

- amendments to replace references to "income" with references to "income or loss";
- amendments to reflect the repeal of former clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act and the elimination in other provisions of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the ability to have income reclassified by reference to activities and payments of related non-resident corporations;
- amendments to reflect changes to clause 95(2)(a)(iii)(D) of the Act;
- amendments to reflect the additions of subparagraphs 95(2)(a)(v) and (vi) of the Act;
- other miscellaneous amendments.

In addition, the presentation of the individual clauses of subparagraph (d)(iii) is being simplified in that the conditions in the corresponding provisions of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act are, to the extent possible, no longer being repeated within subparagraph (d)(iii). This is aimed at making subparagraph (d)(iii) more user-friendly.

The amendments in subparagraph (vi)(II) apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after 1999, but there are a number of transitional provisions. In addition some transitional provisions may have earlier application where an election referred to in clause 5(3) is filed.

As a result of these amendments, clauses (A) to (K) of the current version of subparagraph (d)(iii) are being replaced by:

- clauses (A) to (I) in that subparagraph as it reads in its "enacted version" (i.e., the version applicable for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 2006); and
- clauses (A) to (I) in that subparagraph as it reads for the transitional periods.

The following table provides a comprehensive review of the old version, the transitional versions and the proposed version of the relevant provisions of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act and the old/current, transitional and proposed versions of the corresponding clauses in subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 19, 2006

Mr. Stephen S. Raby, Davies Ward Phillips & Vineberg LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Raby:

I am writing in response to your many recent letters, e-mails and phone calls relating to certain narrow issues arising from the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004 by the Minister of Finance.

Subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations

Regulations

Proposed subclause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act uses a test for determining whether a non-resident corporation is considered to be subject to income taxation in a particular country. That test addresses situations where that corporation is a flow-through entity for tax purposes in the country.

You have identified a need for a similar test in proposed clause (d)(ii)(D) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations"). As well, similar issues exist in a number of other provisions in draft subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings", and a number of provisions in draft subparagraph (c)(ii) of the definition "exempt loss", in subsection 5907(1).

We are prepared to recommend revisions to section 5907 to provide that, in applying subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings", and subparagraph (c)(ii) of the definition "exempt loss", in subsection 5907(1), a test similar to the test used in clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) will be employed to determine whether or not a flow-through entity is subject to income taxation in a particular country.

Should our recommendations be acted upon, it is contemplated that the recommended new rule in section 5907 would have the same application date as that of draft subclauses 95(2)(a)(ii)(D)(III) to (V) of the Act.

References to "year"

Another issue raised relates to the reference in draft clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act to expenditures referred to in subclauses 95(2)(a)(ii)(A)(I) and (II) being deductible in the "year" or "a subsequent taxation year" by the non-resident corporation or the partnership referred to in those subclauses, if the non-resident corporation or the partnership, as the case may be, were a foreign affiliate, in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business. The "year" is intended to be a taxation year of that non-resident corporation or that partnership, as the case may be. However, in terms of the text itself, the "year" could be read as referring to the taxation year of the "particular foreign affiliate" (i.e., the recipient of the payments) described in the preamble of draft paragraph 95(2)(a). The other uses of the expression "the year" in that draft clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) of the Act would remain as references to "the year" of the particular foreign affiliate. It would be appropriate to clarify those aspects of those provisions. As well, it would be appropriate to make comparable clarifying modifications to deal with similar issues in various other clauses in that draft subparagraph 95(2)(a)(ii) of the Act and in various provisions in draft subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings", and draft subparagraph (c)(ii) of the definition "exempt loss", in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations.

It is contemplated that these revisions would have the same application date as that of draft subclauses 95(2)(a)(ii)(D)(III) to (V) of the Act. . . .

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 9, 2006:

Mr. Glenn Ernst, Goodman LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Ernst:

I am writing in response to your letter dated March 17, 2006 concerning proposed clause (d)(ii)(H) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations"), as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

Draft clause (d)(ii)(H) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations provides that, where income from property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is recharacterized by clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") as active business income, that recharacterized income is included in computing the foreign affiliate's exempt earnings if the requirements set out in draft clause (d)(ii)(H) are met.

One requirement is that the shares held by the "second affiliate" in the capital stock of the "third affiliate" would be excluded property of the second affiliate. In making this determination, paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act is to be read in the manner modified by draft clause (d)(ii)(H). In that modified version of paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property", income from property is tested as to whether it is derived from amounts payable by payers who are entitled to deduct the amounts in computing their exempt earnings or loss. You express concern about the interpretation of that modified version of that paragraph in cases where the payer is a partnership that does not compute exempt earnings or losses.

Other provisions of subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings" test whether payments made by a partnership would be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or loss on the explicit assumption that the partnership is a foreign affiliate of a corporation and is resident in the country in which the relevant partner is resident and subject to income taxation.

We agree that draft clause (d)(ii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition should be revised to contemplate payer partnerships in appropriate cases. We will recommend appropriate changes to paragraph (c) of the excluded property definition, as read for the purposes of clause (d)(ii)(H), to test whether amounts payable by such a payer partnership would (on explicit assumptions) be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or loss. It is anticipated that the tests and assumptions used for this purpose would be consistent with those that are used in the other provisions of subparagraph (d)(ii).

If our recommendation is acted upon, we would expect that the revision to draft clause (d)(ii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition would have the same application date as the application date of that draft clause.

We also note that a similar issue arises in draft clause (c)(ii)(H) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, which is the counterpart to draft clause (d)(ii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition. We would thus recommend a comparable change to that draft clause (c)(ii)(H).

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letters with respect to paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") and clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations").

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act

[See under 95(2)(a.3) — ed.]

Clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations

You have also expressed a concern with respect to draft amended clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, as contained in the proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

Existing subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act provides, if certain conditions are met, for the recharacterization of property income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada as active business income where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation and the property income is derived from active business activities carried on in a country outside Canada by a foreign branch of the taxpayer. The version of subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act contained in the February 2004 proposals expands the scope of that subclause to refer not only to a life insurance corporation resident in Canada that is the taxpayer (as at present in the Act) but also to refer, alternatively, to a life insurance corporation resident in Canada that controls, or is controlled by, the taxpayer.

In your correspondence, you note that the draft version of clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations refers to a life insurance corporation resident in Canada that is the particular corporation resident in Canada. You suggest that, consistent with draft subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act in the February 2004 proposals, draft clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations should be revised to also refer, alternatively, to a life insurance corporation resident in Canada that controls, or is controlled by, the corporation resident in Canada.

As clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations is a rule to determine what portion (if any) of the foreign affiliate's active business earnings because of subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act are to be included in the foreign affiliate's exempt earnings, we agree that the wording of that clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations in the February 2004 proposals should be made consistent with the wording of draft subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(II) of the Act in those proposals. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend that draft clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations be revised so that

- that clause will apply where the particular corporation is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada (the "insurer"), a corporation controlled by the insurer or a corporation that controls the insurer and the particular foreign affiliate is a foreign affiliate in respect of which the particular corporation has a qualifying interest throughout the taxation year, and
- where that clause applies and the conditions described in the preamble of paragraph (d) of the exempt earnings definition are met, the amount calculated by that clause for inclusion in the particular affiliate's exempt earnings for the year will be equal to the amounts included in computing the particular affiliate's income from an active business for the year because of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act that are derived by the particular affiliate from activities directly related to an active business carried on by the insurer in a country other than Canada, the income or loss from which would, if the insurer were a foreign affiliate of another corporation and were resident in the country other than Canada in which that active business of the insurer is carried on, be included in computing the insurer's exempt earnings or loss.

Draft clause (c)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, as contained in the February 2004 proposals, is the exempt loss definition's equivalent of clause (d)(ii)(B) of the exempt earnings definition in subsection 5907(1). As we note that similar concerns arise in connection with that draft clause of the exempt loss definition, a recommendation will be made that that draft clause of the exempt loss definition be revised in an analogous fashion.

It will be recommended that those draft clauses of the exempt earnings and exempt loss definitions, including those aforementioned revisions, have the application dates that are provided in the February 2004 proposals for those draft clauses.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006

Ms. Sandra Slaats, Deloitte & Touche LLP, Toronto ON

Dear Ms. Slaats:

I am writing in response to your letter dated April 25, 2006 concerning proposed clause (d)(iii)(H) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations"), as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

Draft clause (d)(iii)(H) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations provides that, where income from property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is recharacterized by clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") as active business income, that recharacterized income is included in computing the foreign affiliate's exempt earnings if the requirements set out in draft clause (d)(iii)(H) are met.

One requirement is that the shares held by the "second affiliate" in the capital stock of the "third affiliate" would be excluded property if the second affiliate, in making this determination, paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act is to be read in the manner modified by draft clause (d)(iii)(H). In that modified version of paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property", income from property is tested as to whether it is derived from amounts payable by payers who are entitled to deduct the amounts in computing their exempt earnings or loss. You express concern about the interpretation of that modified version of that paragraph in cases where the payer is a non-resident corporation that is not a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada and, as such, the payer does not compute exempt earnings or losses.

Other provisions of subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "exempt earnings" test whether payments made by a non-resident corporations — that are not foreign affiliates of the corporation resident in Canada — would be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or loss on the explicit assumption that it is a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada.

We agree that draft clause (d)(iii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition should be revised to contemplate payer non-resident corporations — that are not foreign affiliates of the corporation resident in Canada — in appropriate cases. We will recommend appropriate changes to paragraph (c) of the excluded property definition, as read for the purposes of clause (d)(iii)(H), to test whether amounts payable by such a payer would (on the explicit assumption that it is a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada) be deductible in computing its exempt earnings or loss. It is anticipated the tests and assumptions used for this purpose would be consistent with those that are used in the other provisions of subparagraph (d)(iii).

If our recommendation is acted upon, we would expect that the revision to draft clause (d)(iii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition would have the same application date as the application date of that draft clause.

We also note that a similar issue arises in draft clause (e)(ii)(H) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, which is the counterpart to draft clause (d)(iii)(H) of the exempt earnings definition. We would thus recommend a comparable change to that draft clause (e)(ii)(H).

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 13, 2007: See under ITA 95(2)(a).

(e) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the particular affiliate, each amount that is included in the particular affiliate's exempt earnings for the year because of subsection (10), minus the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the particular affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of the earnings referred to in paragraph (c) or in subparagraph (d)(ii);

Related Provisions: ITA 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest for para. (d); ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 5906(2)(a) — Meaning of "permanent establishment"; Reg. 5907(1.02) — New FA deemed resident in designated treaty country throughout year; Reg. 5907(2.02) — Anti-avoidance rule; Reg. 5910(1) — FA carrying on foreign oil & gas business deemed to have paid income or profits tax.

"exempt loss" of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for a taxation year of the affiliate is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount by which the capital losses of the affiliate for the year exceed the total of

(i) the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in the description of E in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act,

(ii) the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i) and (d)(iii) of the definition "net loss" in this subsection, and

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt loss"(a)(ii) [to be further amended, below]

(ii) the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in any of subparagraphs (c)(i), (d)(iii), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net loss", and

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 6(6), will amend subpara. (a)(ii) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of property that occur after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is enacted is void. In the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsec. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "exempt loss" is relevant for the purposes of computing the exempt surplus and exempt deficit of a foreign affiliate.

This definition is being amended in a number of ways as described below.

Subparagraph (a)(ii) is being amended to include references to allowable capital losses that are described in new subparagraphs (d)(iii) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net loss" in subsection 5907(1). This amendment ensures that, since a loss is taken into computing "exempt loss", only the non-deductible portion of capital losses incurred in respect of dispositions of excluded property referred to in paragraphs (f) and (f.1) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act where that excluded property relates to active business income that has its source in a non-designated treaty country.

This amendment is consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes in respect of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt loss" before (a)(iii)

"exempt loss", of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for a taxation year of the affiliate, means, subject to subsection (2.02), the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount by which the capital losses of the affiliate for the year (other than capital losses included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the particular affiliate's hybrid surplus or hybrid deficit, in respect of the particular corporation) exceed the total of

(i) the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in the description of E in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act,

(ii) [Before 2013 see transitional version in Application annotation — ed.] the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net loss", and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(1), will amend the portion of the definition "exempt loss" in subsec. 5907(1) before subpara. (a)(iii) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation, see Proposed Amendment above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011 except that, for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin before 2013, subpara. (a)(ii) is to be read as follows:

(ii) the amount of the allowable capital losses for the year referred to in subparagraphs (c)(i.1), (d)(iii), (e)(i) and (f)(iv) of the definition "net loss", and

See also Application under ITA s. 80 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "exempt loss" is relevant for the purposes of computing the exempt surplus and exempt deficit of a foreign affiliate.

The amendments to "exempt loss" are similar to the amendments to "exempt earnings" including the coming into force provisions. For details, refer to the commentary under "exempt earnings", directly above.

(iii) the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country for the year to the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax refunded in respect of the amount by which the capital losses of the affiliate for the year exceed the total of the amounts referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii),

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt loss"(a.1)

(a.1) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of an eligible capital expenditure of the affiliate, in respect of a business of the affiliate, that was not included at any time in the affiliate's cumulative eligible capital in respect of the business, where

(i) the business

(A) is not an active business (as defined in subsection 95(1) of the Act), or

(B) is an active business (as defined in subsection 95(1) of the Act) the affiliate's earnings from which for the year are determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings", and

(ii) in computing its income for the year, the affiliate has deducted an amount described in paragraph 24(1)(a) of the Act for the year in respect of the business,

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(7), will add para. (a.1) to the definition "exempt loss" in subsec. 5907(1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "exempt loss" is also being amended by adding new paragraph (a.1). This new paragraph includes in "exempt loss", in certain circumstances, the non-deductible portion of eligible capital expenditures. It applies where the expenditure relates either to a business of the affiliate that is not an active business or to a business that is an active business but whose "earnings", as defined in subsection 5907(1), are determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of that definition (i.e. using Canadian tax rules). This amendment is similar to the addition of paragraph (a.1) of the definition "exempt earnings", but deals with amounts not deducted from income rather than amounts not included in income.

(b) where the year is the 1975 or any preceding taxation year of the affiliate, the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) the affiliate's net loss for the year from an active business carried on by it in a country, or

(ii) the amount, if any, for the year by which

(A) the amount determined under the description of D in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for the year

exceeds

(B) the amount determined under the description of A in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for the year,

(c) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the affiliate and the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country, each amount that is the affiliate's net loss for the year from an active business carried on by it in Canada or in a designated treaty country, or

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt loss"(c)

(c) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the affiliate and the affiliate is, throughout the year, resident in a designated treaty country,

(i) the affiliate's net loss for the year from an active business carried on by it in Canada or a designated treaty country, or

(ii) the amount by which

(A) the affiliate's loss for the year from an active business to the extent determined by applying the provisions of subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings" in respect of the year with any modifications that the circumstances require

exceeds

(B) the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country for the year to the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax that was refunded in respect of the amount determined under clause (A), or

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(8), will amend para. (c) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999, except that the opening words are, in their application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin before December 19, 2009, to be read as follows:

(c) where the year is the 1976 or any subsequent taxation year of the affiliate and the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country,

Para. 50(1)(a) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35, see History at the end of ITA 95), then the amendment (with the opening words of para. (c) being read as shown in the Application provision above) is also applicable to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

See Application note under Proposed Amendment to Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b) for rule (s. 53 of the draft legislation) permitting late reassessment to give effect to this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection 5907(1) includes in a foreign affiliate's "exempt loss" for a taxation year certain losses of the affiliate for the year where the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country.

Consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes made to paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act and to the amendments being made to the "preamble" of paragraph (d) and to subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1), paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt loss" is being restructured to add a new provision, found in its new subparagraph (ii), that ensures that losses recharacterized under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act are, in appropriate circumstances, included in "exempt loss".

New subparagraph (c)(ii) of the definition "exempt loss" mirrors subparagraph (d)(ii) of the definition "exempt earnings" and is directly referenced thereto. In addition to new paragraph (c)(ii), the preamble of paragraph (c) is being amended, similar to the amendment to the preamble of paragraph (d) of the "exempt earnings" definition, to require that a foreign affiliate be resident in a designated treaty country throughout the year. However, there is a new rule in subsection 5907(1.02) that deems, in certain circumstances, a foreign affiliate to meet this "throughout the year" requirement in the year in which it becomes a foreign affiliate.

The amendments to paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt loss" apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after 1999, except that the "throughout the year" requirement in the preamble applies only to taxation years that begin after December 18, 2009. In addition, the amendments to paragraph (c), other than the "throughout the year" requirement, may have earlier application where an election referred to in clause 50 is filed.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus" opening words

"exempt surplus", of a foreign affiliate (in this definition referred to as the "subject affiliate") of a corporation in respect of the corporation, at any particular time, means the amount determined by the following formula in respect of the period that begins with the latest of the following times and that ends with the particular time:

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(4), will amend the portion of the definition "exempt surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) before para. (a) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "exempt surplus" is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate, pursuant to subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations and subsection 113(1) of the Act.

Subparagraph (vii) of the description of A in the definition "exempt surplus" includes in the computation of a foreign affiliate's exempt surplus all amounts added to the affiliate's exempt surplus under paragraph 5907(7.1)(d). Consequential to the repeal of subsection 5907(7.1), subparagraph (vii) is being amended to indicate that the reference to paragraph 5907(7.1)(d) is relevant only for dividends paid on or before August 19, 2011.

The definition "exempt surplus" is also being amended in order to modernize its structure and to make it correspond with the structure of the new definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection 5907(1).

(a) the first day of the taxation year of the subject affiliate in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(b) where the corporation is an acquiring corporation referred to in subsection 5905(5) and the subject affiliate is a particular affiliate referred to in that subsection or another foreign affiliate in which such a particular affiliate had an equity percentage at the time referred to in that subsection, the last time at which that subsection was applicable in respect of the affiliate, and

(c) where the subject affiliate is a foreign affiliate referred to in subsection 5905(1), (2), (8) or (9) or paragraph 5905(3)(b), the last time at which any of those subsections or that paragraph was applicable in respect of the subject affiliate

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus"(b), (c)

(b) the last time for which the opening exempt surplus of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905, and

(c) the last time for which the opening exempt deficit of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(9), will amend paras. (b) and (c) of the definition "exempt surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "exempt surplus" is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate, pursuant to subsections 5900(1) and subsection 113(1) of the Act.

Various amendments are being made to the definition "exempt surplus". Some of these amendments restructure certain aspects of the definition in order to allow more flexibility in picking up appropriate references to the provisions of sections 5902 and 5905 as they may be amended from time to time. A new subparagraph (vi.1) has also been added under variable A in order to allow for adjustments that arise from the new fill-the-hole rule in subsection 5905(7.2) and the elective transitional rules (as contemplated by clause 51 of these amendments) in subsections 5905(2), (4), (6) and (8) relating to the consolidated net surplus regime.

For detail about the amendments being made to sections 5902 and 5905, refer to the commentary for those sections.

These amendments generally apply after November 1999, except that new subparagraph (vi.1) of variable A generally applies to acquisitions and dispositions of foreign affiliate shares that occur after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus" opening words above.

B is the total of those of the following amounts that apply in respect of the period:

(i) the opening exempt deficit of the subject affiliate as determined under subsection 5905(1), (2), (3), (5), (8) or (9), at the time established in paragraph (a), (b) or (c),

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus"B(i)

(i) the opening exempt deficit, if any, of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation as determined under section 5905, at the time established in paragraph (c),

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(12), will amend subpara. (i) of the description of B in the definition "exempt surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus"(b), (c).

(ii) the exempt loss of the subject affiliate for any of its taxation years ending in the period,

(iii) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country by the subject affiliate that may reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of any amount referred to in subparagraph (iii), (iv) or (v) of the description of A,

(iv) the portion of any whole dividend paid by the subject affiliate in the period and before the particular time deemed by paragraph 5901(1)(a) to have been paid out of the subject affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation,

(v) each amount that is determined under paragraph 5902(4)(a) or subparagraph 5905(2)(a)(i), (6)(a)(i) or (8)(a)(i) in the period and before the particular time, or

(v) each amount that is required under section 5902 or 5905 to be included under this subparagraph, or subparagraph (1)(d)(xii) as it applies to taxation years that end before February 22, 1994, in the period and before the particular time, or

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(13), will amend subpara. (v) of the description of B in the definition "exempt surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Reg. 5907(1)"exempt surplus"(b), (c).

(vi) an amount, in the period and before the particular time, deducted from the exempt surplus of the subject affiliate or added to its exempt deficit under any provision of subsection (1.1) or (1.2);

Related Provisions: ITA 34.2(8)(b) — Whether corporate partner stub-period accrual applies; ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 5905(1) — Acquisition or disposition of foreign affiliate; Reg. 5905(3) — Effect of foreign merger; Reg. 5905(4)(a)(i), (4)(b) — Inclusion in exempt surplus on disposition of share; Reg. 5905(5.1) — Exempt surplus after amalgamation or windup of corporation holding FA; Reg. 5905(6)(a)(i) — Computation of exempt surplus; Reg. 5905(7.2) — Blocking deficit — inclusions in A(vi.1) and B(v.2); Reg. 5907(1)"exempt deficit" — Where A–B is negative; Reg. 5907(11) — Designated treaty country; Reg. 5910(1) — FA carrying on foreign oil & gas business deemed to have paid income or profits tax.

"hybrid deficit", of a foreign affiliate of a corporation in respect of the corporation at any time, means the amount, if any, by which

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined at that time under any of subparagraphs (i) to (v) of the description of A in that definition;

Technical Notes: The definition "hybrid deficit" is a new definition that is being added consequential to the introduction of the "hybrid surplus" regime. "Hybrid deficit" is simply the term that applies when "hybrid surplus" is negative. It is similar in structure to the definitions "exempt deficit" and "taxable deficit" in subsection 5907(1).

"hybrid surplus", of a foreign affiliate (in this definition referred to as the "subject affiliate") of a corporation in respect of the corporation, at any particular time, means the amount determined by the following formula in respect of the period that begins with the latest of the following times and that ends with the particular time:

(a) the first day of the taxation year of the subject affiliate in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(b) the last time for which the opening hybrid surplus of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905, and

(c) the last time for which the opening hybrid deficit of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905

where

A is the total of all amounts, in respect of the period, each of which is

(i) the opening hybrid surplus, if any, of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation as determined under section 5905, at the time established in paragraph (b),

(ii) [Before 2013 see transitional version in Application annotation — ed.] the amount of a capital gain (except to the extent that the taxable portion of the capital gain is included under the description of B in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act in respect of the subject affiliate), for a taxation year, of the subject affiliate, or of a partnership of which the subject affiliate is a member (to the extent that the capital gain is reasonably attributable to the subject affiliate), in respect of a disposition, at any time in the period, of

(A) a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(B) a partnership interest, or

(C) a property, that is an excluded property of the subject affiliate because of paragraph (c.1) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act, that related to

(I) an amount that was receivable under an agreement that relates to the sale of a property that is referred to in clause (A) or (B) the capital gain or capital loss from the sale of which is included under this subparagraph or subparagraph (ii) of the description of B, as the case may be, or

(II) an amount payable, or an amount of indebtedness, described in clause (c.1)(ii)(B) of that definition "excluded property" arising in respect of the acquisition of an excluded property of the affiliate that is referred to in clause (A) or (B) any capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of which would, if that excluded property were disposed of, be included under this subparagraph or subparagraph (ii) of the description of B, as the case may be,

(iii) the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country to the subject affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as having been refunded in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (ii) or (iii) of the description of B,

(iv) the portion of any dividend received in the period and before the particular time by the subject affiliate from another foreign affiliate of the corporation (including, for greater certainty, any dividend deemed by subsection 5905(7) to have been received by the subject affiliate) that was prescribed under paragraph 5908(1)(a.1) to have been paid out of the payer affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the corporation, or

(v) an amount added to the hybrid surplus of the subject affiliate or deducted from its hybrid deficit in the period and before the particular time under subsection (1.1) or (1.2), and

B is the total of those of the following amounts that apply in respect of the period:

(i) the opening hybrid deficit, if any, of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation as determined under section 5905, at the time established in paragraph (c),

(ii) [Before 2013 see transitional version in Application annotation — ed.] the amount of a capital loss (except to the extent that the allowable portion of the capital loss is included under paragraph (a) of the description of E in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act in respect of the subject affiliate), for a taxation year, of the subject affiliate, or of a partnership of which the subject affiliate is a member (to the extent that the capital loss is reasonably attributable to the subject affiliate), in respect of a disposition, at any time in the period, of

(A) a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(B) a partnership interest, or

(I) an amount that was receivable under an agreement that relates to the sale of a property that is referred to in clause (A) or (B) the capital gain or capital loss from the sale of which is included under subparagraph (i) of the description of A or this subparagraph, as the case may be, or

(II) an amount payable, or an amount of indebtedness, described in clause (c.1)(ii)(B) of that definition "excluded property" arising in respect of the acquisition of an excluded property of the affiliate that is referred to in clause (A) or (B) any capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of which would, if that excluded property were disposed of, be included under subparagraph (ii) of the description of A or this subparagraph, as the case may be,

(iii) the amount of a capital loss for a taxation year of the subject affiliate that would arise in respect of a disposition, at any time in the period, of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation in the course of the liquidation and dissolution of that other affiliate if subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(III) of the Act were read without reference to its sub-subclause I and section 93 of the Act were read without reference to its subsection (4),

(iv) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country by the subject affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (ii) or (iv) of the description of A,

(v) the portion of any whole dividend paid by the subject affiliate in the period and before the particular time deemed by paragraph 5901(1)(a.1) or, if subsection 5901(1.3) applied to the whole dividend, paragraph 5901(1)(b) to have been paid out of the subject affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the corporation,

(vi) each amount that is required under section 5902 to be included under this subparagraph in the period and before the particular time, or

(vii) an amount, in the period and before the particular time, deducted from the hybrid surplus of the subject affiliate or added to its hybrid deficit under subsection (1.1) or (1.2).

Technical Notes Overview

1. Hybrid Surplus. This package of amendments introduces a new category of surplus called "hybrid surplus". (This term and related terms not defined in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations.) As its name suggests, "hybrid surplus" is a hybrid of exempt and taxable surplus in the tax hands of any shareholder from hybrid surplus is exempt [ITA 15(1)(a.1)(ii) — ed.] and the other half is taxable, with allowance for a deduction reflecting grossed-up underlying taxes [ITA 113(1)(a.1)(ii) — ed.]. Hybrid surplus is the replacement for a regime, proposed as part of the 2004 Proposals, of gain suspension in respect of internal transfers of shares of foreign affiliates. Hybrid surplus will generally capture 100% of any gains from the sale of shares of a foreign affiliate by another foreign affiliate [Reg. 5907(1)"hybrid surplus"A(ii)(A), (B) — ed.]. This contrasts with the currently-enacted rules which classify one half of such gains as exempt surplus and the other half as taxable surplus. Essentially, hybrid surplus retains that principle but requires the two surplus pools to be distributed together. . . .

The definition "hybrid surplus" is a new definition that is being added to capture capital gains and losses from the disposition of certain shares of a foreign affiliate, certain partnership interests and certain financial instruments relating to such shares and partnership interests.

"Hybrid surplus" replaces the current regime whereby one-half of capital gains realized in respect of dispositions of the above-noted items is included in exempt surplus and one-half is included in taxable surplus. The entire amount of such capital gains will now be included in "hybrid surplus". Upon repatriation of such amounts to Canadian corporate shareholders, one-half of hybrid surplus amounts will be deductible from taxable income and the other half will be eligible for a deduction based on grossed-up underlying tax. These deductions are provided for in new paragraph 113(1)(a.1) of the Act, as discussed above. Essentially, this new regime retains the current principles inherent in the categorization of such gains with one significant difference: both components of those surplus amounts will now be required to be distributed together, i.e. it will no longer be possible to distribute only the exempt portion and defer the distribution of the taxable portion.

The structure and content of the definition "hybrid surplus" is otherwise similar to the definitions "exempt surplus" and "taxable surplus", with three additional distinctions:

- there is no equivalent to "exempt earnings" or "taxable earnings" — the equivalent provisions are incorporated directly into the "hybrid surplus" definition,
- hybrid surplus amounts in respect of capital gains arise at the time of the relevant disposition rather than upon the completion of a foreign affiliate's taxation year, and
- hybrid surplus contains, in subparagraph (iii) of the description of B, a reduction for any capital loss of a foreign affiliate from a disposition of non-excluded property shares of a disposing affiliate that are disposed of in the course of a liquidation and dissolution that is a designated liquidation and dissolution of the disposing affiliate. For more details, see the commentary above for amended paragraph 95(2)(e) of the Act.

This new definition applies after August 19, 2011 for dispositions to a "designated person or partnership", but only after 2012 in respect of dispositions to other persons or partnerships. For that transitional period, section 5907 is to be read as if it contained an additional subsection that specifies the identity of the person or partnership to which certain types of dispositions are made.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 5905 — Computation of amounts affecting hybrid surplus; Reg. 5907(1)"hybrid deficit" — Where A–B is negative; Reg. 5907(5.01) — Where amount in B(iii) is not in Canadian currency.

"hybrid underlying tax", of a foreign affiliate (in this definition referred to as the "subject affiliate") of a corporation in respect of the corporation, at any particular time, means the amount determined by the following formula in respect of the period that begins with the later of the following times and that ends with the particular time:

(a) the first day of the taxation year of the subject affiliate in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the corporation, and

(b) the last time for which the opening hybrid underlying tax of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905

where

A is the total of all amounts, in respect of the period, each of which is

(i) the opening hybrid underlying tax, if any, of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation as determined under section 5905, at the time established in paragraph (b),

(ii) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country by the subject affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of any amount referred to in subparagraph (ii) or (iv) of the description of A in the definition "hybrid surplus",

(iii) each amount that was prescribed by paragraph 5900(1)(c.1) to have been the foreign tax applicable to the portion of any dividend received in the period and before the particular time by the subject affiliate from another foreign affiliate of the corporation (including, for greater certainty, any dividend deemed by subsection 5905(7) to have been received by the subject affiliate) that was prescribed by paragraph 5900(1)(a.1) to have been paid out of the payer affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the corporation, or

(iv) the amount by which the subject affiliate's hybrid underlying tax is required to be increased under subsection (1.1) or (1.2),

B is the total of those of the following amounts that apply in respect of the period:

(i) the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country to the subject affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as having been refunded in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (ii) or (iii) of the description of B in the definition "hybrid surplus",

(ii) the hybrid underlying tax applicable to any whole dividend paid by the subject affiliate in the period and before the particular time deemed by paragraph 5901(1)(a.1) or, if subsection 5901(1.1) applied to the whole dividend, paragraph 5901(1)(b) to have been paid out of the subject affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the corporation before that time,

(iii) each amount that is required under section 5902 to be included under this subparagraph in the period and before the particular time, or

(iv) the amount by which the subject affiliate's hybrid underlying tax is required to be decreased in the period and before the particular time under subsection (1.1) or (1.2);

Technical Notes: The definition "hybrid underlying tax" is a new definition that is being added to subsection 5907(1) in order to account for taxes paid in respect of "hybrid surplus". Its structure and effect are similar to the concept of "underlying foreign tax", which applies in the context of "taxable surplus".

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

"hybrid underlying tax applicable", in respect of a corporation to a whole dividend paid at any time on the shares of any class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation by the affiliate, means the proportion of the hybrid underlying tax of the affiliate at that time in respect of the corporation that

(a) the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the corporation

(b) the affiliate's hybrid surplus at that time in respect of the corporation;

Technical Notes: The definition "hybrid underlying tax applicable" ("HUTA") is a new definition that is being added to subsection 5907(1). Its structure and effect are similar to the concept of "underlying foreign tax applicable", which applies in the context of "taxable surplus", with one significant exception: HUTA does not contain an ability to disproportionately allocate underlying taxes to a particular dividend paid from "hybrid surplus".

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(24), will add the definitions "hybrid deficit", "hybrid surplus", "hybrid underlying tax" and "hybrid underlying tax applicable" to subsec. 5907(1), applicable after August 19, 2011; however, in respect of dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011 and before 2013,

(a) the portion of subpara. (ii) of the description of A in the definition "hybrid surplus" before cl. (A) is to be read as follows:

(ii) the amount of a capital gain (except to the extent that the taxable portion of the capital gain is included under the description of B in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act in respect of the subject affiliate), for a taxation year, of the subject affiliate, or of a partnership of which the subject affiliate is a member (to the extent that the capital gain is reasonably attributable to the subject affiliate), in respect of a disposition, at any time in the period, to a person or partnership that was, at that time, a designated person or partnership in respect of the corporation, of

(b) the portion of subpara. (ii) of the description of B in the definition "hybrid surplus" before cl. (A) is to be read as follows:

(ii) the amount of a capital loss (except to the extent that the allowable portion of the capital loss is included under paragraph (a) of the description of E in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act in respect of the subject affiliate), for a taxation year, of the subject affiliate, or of a partnership of which the subject affiliate is a member (to the extent that the capital loss is reasonably attributable to the subject affiliate), in respect of a disposition, at any time in the period, to a person or partnership that was, at that time, a designated person or partnership in respect of the corporation, of

(c) s. 5907 is to be read as if it contained a subsec. (1.001) that reads as follows:

(1.001) For the purposes of subparagraph (ii) of the description of A, and subparagraph (ii) of the description of B, in the definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection (1)

(a) if a foreign affiliate of a corporation redeems, acquires or cancels shares of its capital stock those shares are, for greater certainty, deemed to be disposed of to the affiliate by the person or partnership that, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, holds those shares;

(b) if a partnership redeems, acquires or cancels interests in the partnership those interests are, for greater certainty, deemed to be disposed of to the partnership by the person or partnership that, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, holds those interests; and

(c) if a person or partnership is deemed under subsection 40(3) of the Act to have disposed of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, the person or partnership is deemed to have disposed of those shares to itself.

"loss" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year of the affiliate from an active business carried on by it in a country is the amount of its loss for the year from that active business carried on in that country computed by applying the provisions of paragraph (a) of the definition "earnings" in this subsection respecting the computation of earnings from that active business carried on in that country, with any modifications that the circumstances require;

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"loss" [to be further amended, below]

"loss", of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year of the affiliate from an active business, means

(a) in the case of an active business carried on by it in a country, the amount of its loss for the year from the active business carried on in the country computed by applying the provisions of paragraph (a) of the definition "earnings" respecting the computation of earnings from that active business carried on in that country, with any modifications that the circumstances require, and

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of a loss that is required under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act to be included in computing the affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year;

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(1), will amend the definition "loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999.

Para. 50(1)(a) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35; see History at the end of ITA 95, then the amendment is also applicable to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

See Application note under Proposed Amendment to Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b) for rule (s. 53 of the draft legislation) permitting late reassessment to give effect to this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "loss" is relevant for the purposes of computing the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate.

Consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes to paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act, the definition "loss" is being amended by changing the layout of the provision and by adding new paragraph (b) that ensures that "loss" will reflect all loss amounts required by paragraph 95(2)(a) to be included in computing a foreign affiliate's income or loss from an active business.

This amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after 1999. However, this amendment may have earlier application where an election referred to in clause 50 is filed.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"loss"(b)

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of a loss that would be required under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act to be included in computing the affiliate's income or loss from an active business for the year if that loss were computed taking into account the rules in subsection (2.03);

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(7), will amend para. (b) of the definition "loss" in subsec. 5907(1) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Amendment above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph (b) of the definition "loss" in subsection 5907(1) incorporates deemed active business losses (pursuant to paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act) into the loss of a foreign affiliate. Such losses enter into the computation of either exempt or taxable loss and then exempt or taxable surplus or deficit of a foreign affiliate.

The amendments to "loss" are similar to the amendments to "earnings", including the coming-into-force provisions. For details, refer to the above notes under "earnings".

Related Provisions: Reg. 5907(2.03) — Loss determined on basis that foreign affiliate claimed maximum deductions; Reg. 5907(2.9)(a)(ii) — Fresh-start rule — addition to loss.

"net earnings" of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for a taxation year of the affiliate

(a) from an active business carried on by it in a country is the amount of its earnings for the year from that active business carried on in that country minus the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of those earnings,

(b) in respect of foreign accrual property income is the amount that would be its foreign accrual property income for the year, if the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read without reference to the variable F in that formula, minus the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of that income,

(b) in respect of foreign accrual property income is the amount that would be its foreign accrual property income for the year, if the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act were read without reference to F and F.1 in that formula and the amount determined for E in that formula were the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the description of E in that formula, minus the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of that income,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(8), will amend para. (b) of the definition "net earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definitions "net earnings" and "net loss" are relevant for the purposes of computing the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate.

Paragraph (b) of the definition "net earnings" ensures that the FAPI of a foreign affiliate is included in computing the affiliate's "taxable earnings" and, ultimately, "taxable surplus" or "taxable deficit".

Paragraph (b) is being amended as a consequence of the addition of new variable F.1 to the FAPI definition in subsection 95(1) of the Act and the amendments to variable E of that definition. These amendments are part of the initiative to "stream" capital losses in a FAPI context. For more details, refer to the commentary above for new section 5903.1.

(c) from dispositions of property used or held by it principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business carried on by it in a country that is not a designated treaty country (other than Canada) is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from those dispositions that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after November 12, 1981

exceeds

(ii) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(d) from dispositions of

(i) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which paragraph 95(2)(c), (d) or (e) of the Act was applicable), or

(ii) partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"net earnings"(d)(i), (ii) [temporary]

(i) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which any of paragraphs 95(2)(c) to (e) of the Act was applicable and dispositions in respect of which the amount of the capital gain is included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the affiliate's hybrid surplus, or hybrid deficit, in respect of the corporation), or

(ii) partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions in respect of which the amount of the capital gain is included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the affiliate's hybrid surplus, or hybrid deficit, in respect of the corporation)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(9), will amend subparas. (d)(i) and (ii) of the definition "net earnings" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 16(31) of the draft legislation [see Application annotation to Proposed Amendment to ITA 95(2)(d.1)], the amendment also applies to all mergers or combinations in respect of foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002 and in taxation years of those foreign affiliates that end on or before August 19, 2011, except that, in respect of those mergers or combinations, subparas. (d)(i) and (ii) are to be read as follows:

(i) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which any of paragraphs 95(2)(c) to (e) of the Act was applicable), or

(ii) partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph (d)(i) of the definition "net earnings" ensures that taxable capital gains (net of income or profits tax) from the disposition of shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate that are excluded property of a particular affiliate are included in computing the particular affiliate's "taxable earnings" and, ultimately, "taxable surplus" or "taxable deficit". Subparagraph (d)(ii) provides similar results in respect of dispositions of partnership interests.

Consequential to the introduction of the concept of "hybrid surplus", subparagraphs (d)(i) and (ii) of the definition "net earnings" are being amended so that "net earnings" does not include gains that are subject to the hybrid surplus regime.

In addition, subparagraph (d)(i) is being amended to include, in its carve-out provision, a reference to amended paragraph 95(2)(d.1) of the Act as that amended paragraph now contemplates the possibility of a gain arising under a so-called "relevant cost base" election, as defined in subsection 95(4).

These amendments to paragraph (d) apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011. However, if a taxpayer elects retroactive application of amended paragraph 95(2)(d.1) (i.e. for mergers or combinations that occur after December 20, 2002), the additional reference to that paragraph applies on the same basis.

is the amount, if any, by which

(iii) the portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from such dispositions that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year

exceeds

(iv) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (iii);

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 5907(1)"net earnings"(d)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(10), will repeal para. (d) of the definition "net earnings" in subsec. 5907(1), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 2012.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph (d) of the definition "net earnings" is repealed altogether for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 2012. This reflects the two-stage transition into the hybrid surplus regime, as discussed below.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1)"net earnings"(e), (f)

(e) from the disposition of a property that is an excluded property of the affiliate that is described in paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act but that would not be an excluded property of the affiliate if that paragraph were read in the manner described in sub-subclause (d)(ii)(E)(II)2 of the definition "exempt earnings" is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of the property that accrued after its 1975 taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax that was paid in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(f) from a particular disposition of a property, that is an excluded property of the affiliate because of paragraph (c.1) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act, that related to

(i) an amount that was receivable under an agreement that relates to the sale of a particular property the taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from the sale of which is included under any of paragraphs (c) to (e) of this definition or of the definition "net loss", as the case may be,

(ii) an amount that was receivable and was a property that was described in paragraph (c) of that definition "excluded property" but that would not have been an excluded property of the affiliate if that paragraph were read in the manner described in sub-subclause (d)(ii)(E)(II)2 of the definition "exempt earnings", or

(iii) an amount payable, or an amount of indebtedness, described in clause (c.1)(ii)(B) of that definition "excluded property" arising in respect of the acquisition of an excluded property of the affiliate any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from the disposition of which would, if that excluded property were disposed of, be included under any of paragraphs (c) to (e) of this definition or of the definition "net loss", as the case may be,

is the amount, if any, by which

(iv) the portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gain for the year from the particular disposition that accrued after its 1975 taxation year

exceeds

(v) the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country for the year by the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax that was paid for the year in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (iv);

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(14), will add paras. (e) and (f) to the definition "net earnings" in subsec. 5907(1), applicable in respect of dispositions of property that occur after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definitions "net earnings" and "net loss" are relevant for the purposes of computing the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate.

These definitions are being amended by adding new paragraphs (e) and (f) to each of them. These amendments are consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes that introduced a replacement paragraph (c) and a new paragraph (c.1) to the definition of "excluded property" in subsection 95(1).

New paragraphs (e) and (f) of the definition "net earnings" ensure that, in certain circumstances, taxable capital gains (net of income or profits tax) from the disposition of excluded property referred to in paragraph (c) or (c.1) of the "excluded property" definition are included in computing a foreign affiliate's "taxable earnings" and, ultimately, "taxable surplus" or "taxable deficit".

Similarly, new paragraphs (e) and (f) of the definition "net loss" ensure that, in certain circumstances, allowable capital losses (net of income or profits tax refunded) from the disposition of excluded property referred to in paragraph (c) or (c.1) of the "excluded property" definition are included in computing a foreign affiliate's "taxable loss" and, ultimately, "taxable surplus" or "taxable deficit".

Related Provisions: Reg. 5910(1) — FA carrying on foreign oil & gas business deemed to have paid income or profits tax.

"net loss" of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for a taxation year of the affiliate

(a) from an active business carried on by it in a country is the amount of its loss for the year from that active business carried on in that country minus the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country for the year to the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax refunded in respect of that loss,

(b) in respect of foreign accrual property income is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of the amounts determined under the descriptions of D, E and G in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for the year

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"net loss"(b)(i)(A)

(A) the total of

(I) the amount determined for D in the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for the year,

(II) the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the description of E in that formula for the year,

(III) the amount determined for G in that formula for the year, and

(IV) the amount determined for H in that formula for the year

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(11), will amend cl. (b)(i)(A) of the definition "net loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: "Net loss" is being amended on a similar basis to the amendments to paragraphs (b) and (d) of "net earnings" (except that a reference to variable H in the FAPI definition is also being added), including the repeal of its paragraph (d). The application dates are also the same.

(c) from dispositions of property used or held by it principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business carried on by it in a country that is not a designated treaty country (other than Canada) is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the portion of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from those dispositions that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after November 12, 1981

exceeds

(ii) the portion of any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country for the year to the affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as tax refunded in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(d) from dispositions of

(i) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which paragraph 95(2)(c), (d) or (e) of the Act was applicable), or

(ii) partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"net loss"(d)(i), (ii) [temporary]

(i) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which paragraph 95(2)(c), (d) or (e) of the Act was applicable and dispositions in respect of which the amount of the capital loss is included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the affiliate's hybrid surplus, or hybrid deficit, in respect of the corporation), or

(ii) partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions in respect of which the amount of the capital loss is included in computing the amount, at any time in the year, of the affiliate's hybrid surplus, or hybrid deficit, in respect of the corporation)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(12), will amend subparas. (d)(i) and (ii) of the definition "net loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5910(1) — FA carrying on foreign oil & gas business deemed to have paid income or profits tax.

"net surplus" of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada in respect of the corporation is, at any particular time,

(a) if the affiliate has no exempt deficit and no taxable deficit, the amount that is the total of its exempt surplus and taxable surplus in respect of the corporation,

(b) if the affiliate has no taxable surplus, the amount, if any, by which its exempt surplus exceeds its taxable deficit in respect of the corporation, or

(c) if the affiliate has no exempt surplus, the amount, if any, by which its taxable surplus exceeds its exempt deficit in respect of the corporation,

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"net surplus"(a)-(g)

(a) if the affiliate has no exempt deficit, no hybrid deficit and no taxable deficit, the amount that is the total of its exempt surplus, hybrid surplus and taxable surplus in respect of the corporation,

(b) if the affiliate has no exempt deficit but has a hybrid deficit and a taxable deficit, the amount, if any, by which its exempt surplus exceeds the total of its hybrid deficit and taxable deficit in respect of the corporation,

(c) if the affiliate has no exempt deficit and no hybrid deficit but has a taxable deficit, the amount, if any, by which the total of its exempt surplus and hybrid surplus exceeds its taxable deficit in respect of the corporation,

(d) if the affiliate has no exempt deficit and no taxable deficit but has a hybrid deficit, the amount, if any, by which the total of its exempt surplus and taxable surplus exceeds its hybrid deficit in respect of the corporation,

(e) if the affiliate has an exempt deficit but no hybrid deficit or taxable deficit, the amount, if any, by which the total of its hybrid surplus and taxable surplus exceeds its exempt deficit in respect of the corporation,

(f) if the affiliate has an exempt deficit and a hybrid deficit but no taxable deficit, the amount, if any, by which its taxable surplus exceeds the total of its exempt deficit and hybrid deficit in respect of the corporation, or

(g) if the affiliate has an exempt deficit and a taxable deficit but no hybrid deficit, the amount, if any, by which its hybrid surplus exceeds the total of its exempt deficit and taxable deficit in respect of the corporation,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(14), will amend paras. (a) to (c) of the definition "net surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, and add paras. (d) to (g), applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "net surplus" in subsection 5907(1) is relevant for various provisions of the Regulations which require measurement of a foreign affiliate's total surplus balances. "Net surplus" is currently measured as the aggregate of an affiliate's exempt and taxable surplus, where there is no exempt or taxable deficit, and by way of netting where one balance is positive (surplus) and the other is negative (deficit).

The definition "net surplus" is being amended as a consequence of the introduction of the "hybrid surplus" concept.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "taxable earnings" is relevant for the purposes of computing the taxable surplus and taxable deficit of a foreign affiliate.

Paragraph (b) of the definition "taxable earnings" is being amended to add a new subparagraph (iv.1) which captures amounts that are re-classified from "exempt earnings" to "taxable earnings" under the anti-avoidance rule in new subsection 5907(2.02), as discussed below.

(v) the affiliate's net earnings for the year from dispositions of shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that were excluded property of the affiliate (other than dispositions to which paragraph 95(2)(c), (d) or (e) of the Act was applicable) or dispositions of partnership interests that were excluded property of the affiliate,

(b)(iii) and (iv) of the definition "taxable loss" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999, except that, in respect of dispositions of property that occur before December 18, 2009, subpara. (b)(iv) is to be read as follows:

(iv) to the extent not included under subparagraph (ii), the affiliate's net loss for the year determined under paragraphs (c) and (d) of the definition "net loss",

Para. 50(1)(d) of the draft legislation provides that if a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in the above amendment makes a valid "Global Section 95 Election" under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35; see History at the end of ITA 95, then the amendment (with subpara. (b)(iv) read as shown in the Application provision above) is also applicable to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

See Application note under Proposed Amendment to Reg. 5907(1)"earnings"(b) for rule (s. 53 of the draft legislation) permitting late reassessment to give effect to this amendment.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "taxable loss" is relevant for the purposes of computing the taxable surplus and taxable deficit of a foreign affiliate.

Similar to the changes to the definition "taxable earnings" noted above, paragraph (b) of the definition "taxable loss" is being amended to reflect the addition of paragraphs (e) and (f) to the definition "net loss". Paragraph (b) is also being restructured to simplify its language.

Paragraph (b) is also being amended as a result of the Budget 2007 Act changes to take into account certain losses that are recharacterized under paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act. This is achieved by the reference in amended subparagraph (b)(iii) to paragraph (b) of the "loss" definition in subsection 5907(1).

These amendments apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after 1999, except that no reference is made to paragraphs (e) and (f) of the "net loss" definition for dispositions that occur before December 18, 2009.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"taxable surplus" opening words

"taxable surplus", of a foreign affiliate (in this definition referred to as the "subject affiliate") of a corporation in respect of the corporation, at any particular time, means the amount determined by the following formula in respect of the period that begins with the latest of the following times and that ends with the particular time:

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(16), will amend the portion of the definition "taxable surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) before para. (a) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "taxable surplus" is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate, pursuant to subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations and subsection 113(1) of the Act.

This definition is being amended in three ways.

First, subparagraph (v) of the description of A in the definition "taxable surplus", which includes in an affiliate's taxable surplus all amounts added under paragraph 5907(7.1)(e), is being amended as a consequence of the repeal of subsection 5907(7.1) to indicate that the reference to paragraph 5907(7.1)(e) is relevant only for dividends paid on or before August 19, 2011.

Second, subparagraph (iv) of the description of B in the definition "taxable surplus", which deducts in the computation of an affiliate's taxable surplus the portion of any whole dividend paid by the affiliate that is deemed by paragraph 5901(1)(b) to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus, is being amended to contemplate the possibility of an election under subsection 5901(1.1). Such an election has the effect of re-ordering taxable and hybrid surplus in respect of the payment of a particular "whole dividend". Where such an election is made, the taxable surplus amounts are governed by paragraph 5901(1)(a.1) rather than paragraph (b).

Third, the definition "taxable surplus" is being amended in order to modernize its structure and to make it correspond with the structure of the new definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection 5907(1).

(a) the first day of the taxation year of the affiliate in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(b) where the corporation is an acquiring corporation referred to in subsection 5905(5) and the subject affiliate is a particular affiliate referred to in that subsection or another foreign affiliate in which such a particular affiliate had an equity percentage at the time referred to in that subsection, the last time at which that subsection was applicable in respect of the subject affiliate, and

(c) where the subject affiliate is a foreign affiliate referred to in subsection 5905(1), (2), (8) or (9) or paragraph 5905(3)(b), the last time at which any of those subsections or that paragraph was applicable in respect of the subject affiliate

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"taxable surplus"(b), (c)

(b) the last time for which the opening taxable surplus of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905, and

(c) the last time for which the opening taxable deficit of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(18), will amend paras. (b) and (c) of the definition "taxable surplus" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "taxable surplus" is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate, pursuant to subsections 5900(1) and subsection 113(1) of the Act.

Various amendments are being made to the definition "taxable surplus". Some of these amendments restructure certain aspects of the definition in order to allow more flexibility in picking up appropriate references to the provisions of sections 5902 and 5905 as they may be amended from time to time. A new subparagraph (iv.1) has also been added under variable A in order to allow for adjustments under the elective transitional rules (as contemplated by clause 51 of these amendments) in subsections 5905(2), (4), (6) and (8) relating to the consolidated net surplus regime.

For detail about the amendments being made to sections 5902 and 5905, refer to the commentary for those sections.

These amendments generally apply after November 1999, except that new subparagraph (iv.1) of variable A generally applies to acquisitions and dispositions of foreign affiliate shares that occur after December 20, 2002.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"underlying foreign tax" opening words

"underlying foreign tax", of a foreign affiliate (in this definition referred to as the "subject affiliate") of a corporation in respect of the corporation, at any particular time, means the amount determined by the following formula in respect of the period that begins with the later of the following times and that ends with the particular time:

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(20), will amend the portion of the definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsec. 5907(1) before para. (a) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsection 5907(1) is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate of a corporation, pursuant to subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations and subsection 113(1) of the Act.

Three amendments are being made in this regard.

First, subparagraph (ii) of the description of A of the "underlying foreign tax" definition includes the portion of any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country by a foreign affiliate that can reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of taxable earnings. Consequential to the introduction of the anti-avoidance rule in new subsection 5907(2.02), which reclassifies certain amounts of exempt earnings to taxable earnings, subparagraph (ii) is being amended to include, for greater certainty, the portion of any income or profits tax that relates to amounts included in taxable earnings by virtue of paragraph 5907(2.02)(a).

Second, subparagraph (ii) of the description of B of the "underlying foreign tax" definition, which reduces the underlying foreign tax of a foreign affiliate by the amount of the underlying foreign tax applicable to any whole dividend paid by the affiliate that is deemed by paragraph 5901(1)(b) to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus, is being amended to contemplate the possibility of an election under subsection 5901(1.1). Such an election has the effect of re-ordering taxable and hybrid surplus in respect of the payment of a particular "whole dividend". Where such an election is made, the taxable surplus amounts are governed by paragraph 5901(1)(a.1) rather than paragraph (b). Amended subparagraph (ii) thus makes reference to paragraph 5901(1)(a.1), in appropriate circumstances.

Third, the definition "underlying foreign tax" is being amended in order to modernize its structure and to make it correspond with the structure of the new definition "hybrid underlying tax" in subsection 5907(1).

(a) the first day of the taxation year of the subject affiliate in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(b) where the corporation is an acquiring corporation referred to in subsection 5905(5) and the subject affiliate is a particular affiliate referred to in that subsection or another foreign affiliate in which such a particular affiliate had an equity percentage at the time referred to in that subsection, the last time at which that subsection was applicable in respect of the subject affiliate, and

(c) where the subject affiliate is a foreign affiliate referred to in subsection 5905(1), (2), (8) or (9) or paragraph 5905(3)(b), the last time at which any of those subsections or that paragraph was applicable in respect of the subject affiliate

(b) the last time for which the opening underlying foreign tax of the subject affiliate in respect of the corporation was required to be determined under section 5905

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(23), will amend para. (b) of the definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, and repeal para. (c), applicable after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "underlying foreign tax" is primarily relevant for the purposes of determining the deductibility of dividends received from a foreign affiliate, pursuant to subsections 5900(1) and ITA 113(1).

Various amendments are being made to the definition "underlying foreign tax". These amendments restructure certain aspects of the definition in order to allow more flexibility in picking up appropriate references to the provisions of sections 5902 and 5905 as they may be amended from time to time.

(ii) the amount by which the underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the corporation immediately before the whole dividend was paid exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (a);

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(26), will amend para. (b) of the definition "underlying foreign tax applicable" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to whole dividends paid on the shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "underlying foreign tax applicable" is relevant for determining the amount deductible by a corporation resident in Canada under paragraph 113(1)(b) of the Act (by virtue of paragraph 5900(1)(d)) in respect of a dividend paid out of the taxable surplus of a foreign affiliate of the corporation. One of the primary features of this definition is a provision that allows taxpayers to disproportionately allocate underlying foreign tax to taxable surplus dividends in order to increase the amount otherwise deductible in respect of a taxable surplus dividend.

This definition is being amended consequential to the introduction of the "tax-free surplus balance" concept in subsection 5905(5.5). Because the "tax-free surplus balance" concept is premised on the equivalence of grossed-up underlying foreign tax and exempt surplus, it is no longer appropriate to impose any restrictions on the ability to disproportionately allocate underlying foreign tax to a particular dividend from taxable surplus. As such, the restrictions imposed by current subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii) of the "underlying foreign tax applicable" definition are being repealed.

"whole dividend" paid at any time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is the total of all amounts each of which is the dividend paid at that time on a share of that class except that

(a) where a dividend is paid at the same time on shares of more than one class of the capital stock of an affiliate, for the purpose only of section 5900, the whole dividend referred to in section 5901 paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is the dividend paid at that time on a share of the capital stock of the affiliate,

(b) where a whole dividend is deemed by paragraph 5902(1)(c) to have been paid at the same time on shares of more than one class of the capital stock of an affiliate, for the purpose only of that paragraph, the whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is a whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate, and

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"whole dividend"(b)

(b) where a whole dividend is deemed by subparagraph 5902(1)(a)(ii) to have been paid at the same time on shares of more than one class of the capital stock of an affiliate, for the purpose only of that subparagraph, the whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is a whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate, and

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(27), will amend para. (b) of the definition "whole dividend" in subsec. 5907(1) to read as above, applicable to elections made in respect of dispositions that occur after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "whole dividend" is relevant for the purposes of determining the portion of a dividend paid out of the various surplus accounts of a foreign affiliate under subsection 5900(1).

Consequential to the amendments being made to section 5902, paragraph (b) of the definition "whole dividend" is being amended to replace the reference in that paragraph to paragraph 5902(1)(c) with a reference to subparagraph 5902(1)(a)(ii).

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1)"whole dividend"(b) [transitional]

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), s. 51, reads as follows:

51. Subject to section 52, if a corporation resident in Canada elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the corporation's filing-due date for the corporation's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this Act is assented to, the following rules apply, namely,

(a) [see Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5902(1) [transitional] — ed.]

(b), (c) [see Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5905(1) [transitional] — ed.]

(d) if there is a designated section 93 election [defined in para. (a) above, reproduced under Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5902(1) [transitional] — ed.],

(i) [see Proposed Addition — Reg. 5905.1 [transitional] — ed.];

(ii) paragraph (b) of the definition "whole dividend" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations is, in respect of the designated section 93 election, to be read as follows:

(b) where a whole dividend is deemed by paragraph 5902(1)(g) to have been paid at the same time on shares of more than one class of the capital stock of an affiliate, for the purpose only of that paragraph, the whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is a whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate, and

(iii) [see Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5908(8)(c) [transitional] — ed.]

See also s. 52 of the draft legislation, reproduced under Reg. 5902(1) [transitional].

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Reg. 5902(1) [transitional].

(c) where more than one whole dividend is deemed by paragraph 5900(2)(b) to have been paid at the same time on shares of a class of the capital stock of an affiliate, for the purposes only of paragraph 5900(1)(d) and the definitions "underlying foreign tax" and "underlying foreign tax applicable" in this subsection, the whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is a whole dividend deemed to have been paid at that time on the shares of a class of the capital stock of the affiliate and all of that whole dividend shall be deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation.

History: Subsec. 5907(1) definitions amended and rearranged by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(1), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the definitions apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate; and

(b) in applying the definitions for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin before 1996 and in respect of which subsecs. 5907(11)–(11.2) (as amended) do not apply, the references to "designated treaty country" shall be read as "country listed in subsection (11)".

Cl. 5907(1)(a)(i)(C) amended by P.C. 1996-571, s. 2, April 23, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 1, 1996, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

Subpara. 5907(1)(d)(vi.1) substituted, applicable in respect of 1976 et seq.; subparas. (1)(d)(vii.2) and (1)(k)(vi.2) added and (1)(d)(xiv) and (1)(k)(xiii) substituted, applicable for purposes of making computations under Part LIX after March 15, 1989; subparas. (1)(d)(xii.1) and (1)(k)(xi.1) substituted, effective from November 13, 1981; that portion of subpara. (1)(m)(ii) preceding cl. (A) substituted, applicable (by subsec. 5(6) as amended by P.C. 1994-1129, July 4, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 27, 1994, applicable after March 15, 1989) in respect of whole dividends paid after 1987; by P.C. 1989-321, subsecs. 3(1) to (8), March 2, 1989, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 15, 1989.

Cl. 5907(1)(b)(i)(B) substituted, cl. 5907(1)(b)(i)(C) added, applicable in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property made after November 12, 1981; cl. 5907(1)(c)(i)(B) substituted, cl. 5907(1)(c)(i)(C) added, applicable in respect of capital losses from dispositions of property made after November 12, 1981; subparas. 5907(1)(d)(ii), (iii), (iv), (vi), (viii), para. 5907(1)(g), all that portion of para. 5907(1)(d) following subpara. (xi) substituted and subparas. 5907(1)(d)(vii.1), (f)(iii), (f)(iv) added, applicable commencing November 13, 1981; cls. 5907(1)(i)(ii)(D), (E), and (j)(ii)(C), (D) added, applicable in respect of dispositions made after November 12, 1981; cl. 5907(1)(j)(ii)(B), subparas. 5907(1)(k)(ii), (iii), (iv), (vi), (vii), 5907(1)(l)(ii), (iii), (iv), (vii), (x), all that portion of para. 5907(1)(k) following subpara. (x), all that portion of subpara. 5907(1)(m)(ii) preceding cl. (A) substituted and subparas. 5907(1)(i)(vi.1), 5907(1)(l)(vii.1), (xi) added applicable commencing November 13, 1981 by P.C. 1985-467, subsecs. 4(1)–(22), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985.

Subparas. 5907(1)(d)(vi.1) added, 5907(1)(d)(x), (xiv) substituted by P.C. 1980-503, subsecs. 5(1)–(3), February 8, 1980, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 27, 1980, effective in respect of 1976 et seq.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.001)

(1.001) [Transitional rule before 2013 only; see Application annotation below — ed.] For the purposes of subparagraph (ii) of the description of A, and subparagraph (ii) of the description of B, in the definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection (1)

(a) if a foreign affiliate of a corporation redeems, acquires or cancels shares of its capital stock those shares are, for greater certainty, deemed to be disposed of to the affiliate by the person or partnership that, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, holds those shares;

(b) if a partnership redeems, acquires or cancels interests in the partnership those interests are, for greater certainty, deemed to be disposed of to the partnership by the person or partnership that, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, holds those interests; and

(c) if a person or partnership is deemed under subsection 40(3) of the Act to have disposed of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, the person or partnership is deemed to have disposed of those shares to itself.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), para. 30(53)(c), will add subsec. 5907(1.001), applicable in respect of dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011 and before 2013.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

(1.01) [Interpretation for ITA 113] — For the purpose of section 113 of the Act, "exempt surplus" and "taxable surplus" have the meanings assigned by subsection (1).

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1.01)

(1.01) [Interpretation for ITA 113] — For the purposes of section 113 of the Act, "exempt surplus", "hybrid surplus" and "taxable surplus" have the meanings assigned by subsection (1).

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(25), will amend subsec. 5907(1.01) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(1.01) provides that, for the purposes of section 113 of the Act, "exempt surplus" and "taxable surplus" have the meanings assigned by subsection 5907(1). Subsection 5907(1.01) is being amended to similarly provide that "hybrid surplus" has the meaning provided by subsection 5907(1).

History: Subsec. 5907(1.01) added by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(1), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(1.02) ["Qualifying interest", "related"] — In paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection (1), the determination of whether a corporation

(a) has a "qualifying interest" in respect of a foreign affiliate throughout a taxation year, or

(b) is related to another corporation throughout a taxation year shall be made as it would for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act.

Proposed Repeal — 5907(1.02)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(30), will repeal subsec. 5907(1.02), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 2008.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5907(1.02) is an interpretive provision for the purposes of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1). It ensures that the determination of whether a corporation has a "qualifying interest" in respect of a foreign affiliate throughout a taxation year, or is related to another corporation throughout a taxation year, is to be made as it would for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act.

The Budget 2007 Act changes to paragraph 95(2)(a) and the amendments herein to paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) have removed any need for the determinations contained in subsection 5907(1.02). As such, it is being repealed.

Proposed Addition — 5907(1.02)

(1.02) [New FA deemed resident in treaty country throughout year] — For the purposes of paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" and paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection (1), if a foreign affiliate of a corporation becomes a foreign affiliate of the corporation in a taxation year of the affiliate, otherwise than as a result of a transaction between persons that do not deal with each other at arm's length, and the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country at the end of the year, the affiliate is deemed to be so resident throughout the year.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(31), will add subsec. 5907(1.02), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): New subsection 5907(1.02) applies for the purposes of paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt earnings" and paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt loss" in subsection 5907(1). It allows foreign affiliates that would not otherwise meet the requirement in those paragraphs to be resident in a designated treaty country throughout the year to meet that requirement where they become a foreign affiliate in the year, otherwise than as a result of a non-arm's length transaction, and are resident in a designated treaty country at the end of that year.

History: Subsec. 5907(1.02) added by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(2), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.03)–(1.06)

(1.03) [Artificial foreign tax credit generators] — For the purposes of the description of A in the definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsection (1), income or profits tax paid in respect of the taxable earnings of a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation or in respect of a dividend received by the particular affiliate from another foreign affiliate of the corporation, and amounts by which the underlying foreign tax of the particular affiliate or any other foreign affiliate of the corporation is required by subsection (1.1) or (1.2) to be increased, is not to include any income or profits tax paid, or amounts by which the underlying foreign tax is otherwise so required to be increased, as the case may be, in respect of income of the particular affiliate for a taxation year of the affiliate if, at any time in the year, a particular person or partnership that is, at any time in the year, a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation is considered, under the income tax laws (referred to in subsections (1.04) and (1.05) as the "relevant foreign tax law") of any country other than Canada under the laws of which any income of the particular affiliate is subject to income taxation.

(a) to own less than all of the shares of the capital stock of a corporation that is, at any time in the year, a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation that are considered to be owned by the particular person or partnership for the purposes of the Act, or

(b) to have a lesser direct or indirect share of the income of a partnership that is, at any time in the year, a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation than the particular person or partnership is considered to have for the purposes of the Act.

Related Provisions: ITA 91(4.1), 126(4.11) — Parallel rules; Reg. 5907(1.04) — Exception — hybrid entities; Reg. 5907(1.05) — Exception — partnerships; Reg. 5907(1.06) — "Pertinent person or partnership".

(1.04) [Exception — hybrid entities] — For the purposes of paragraph (1.03)(a), a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation is not to be considered to own less than all of the shares of the capital stock of a corporation under the relevant foreign tax law that are considered to be owned for the purposes of the Act solely because the pertinent person or partnership or the corporation is not treated as a corporation under the relevant foreign tax law.

Related Provisions: ITA 91(4.2) — Parallel rule; Reg. 5907(1.06) — "Pertinent person or partnership".

(1.05) [Exception — partnerships] — For the purposes of paragraph (1.03)(b), a member of a partnership is not to be considered to have a lesser direct or indirect share of the income of the partnership under the relevant foreign tax law than for the purposes of the Act solely because of one or more of the following:

(a) a difference between the relevant foreign tax law and the Act in the manner of

(i) computing the income of the partnership, or

(ii) allocating the income of the partnership because of the admission to, or withdrawal from, the partnership of any of its members;

(b) the treatment of the partnership as a corporation under the relevant foreign tax law; or

(c) the fact that the member is not treated as a corporation under the relevant foreign tax law.

Related Provisions: ITA 91(4.3), 126(4.12) — Parallel rules; Reg. 5907(1.06) — "Pertinent person or partnership".

(1.06) [Pertinent person or partnership] — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (1.03) and (1.04), a "pertinent person or partnership" in respect of a corporation at any time means a person or a partnership that is, at that time,

(a) the corporation;

(b) a person (other than a partnership) that is resident in Canada and does not, at that time, deal at arm's length with the corporation;

(c) a foreign affiliate of

(i) the corporation,

(ii) a person that is at that time a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation under this subsection because of paragraph (b), or

(iii) a partnership that is at that time a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation under this subsection because of paragraph (d); or

(d) a partnership a member of which is at that time a pertinent person or partnership in respect of the corporation under this subsection.

Related Provisions: ITA 91(4.5) — Parallel rule.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 3 — other amendments), subsec. 30(2), will add subsecs. 5907(1.03) to (1.06), applicable to income or profits tax paid, and amounts referred to in subsecs. 5907(1.1) and (1.2), in respect of the income of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end in taxation years of the corporation that end after March 4, 2010, except that, for taxation years of the corporation that end before August 28, 2010,

(a) subsecs. 5907(1.03) and (1.04) are to be read as follows:

(1.03) For the purposes of the description of A in the definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsection (1), income or profits tax paid in respect of the taxable earnings of a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation or in respect of a dividend received by the particular affiliate from another foreign affiliate of the corporation, and amounts by which the underlying foreign tax of the particular affiliate, or any other foreign affiliate of the corporation, is required by subsection (1.1) or (1.2) to be increased, shall not include any income or profits tax paid, or amounts by which the underlying foreign tax is otherwise so required to be increased, as the case may be, in respect of income of the particular affiliate that is earned during a period in which

(a) the corporation is considered, under the income tax laws (referred to in subsection (1.04) as the "relevant foreign tax law") of any country, other than Canada, under the laws of which the income of the particular affiliate is subject to income taxation, to own less than all of the shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate, of another foreign affiliate of the corporation in which the particular affiliate has an equity percentage, or of another foreign affiliate of the corporation that has an equity percentage in the particular affiliate, that are considered to be owned by the corporation for the purposes of the Act, or

(b) the corporation's share of the income of a partnership that owns, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate is, under the income tax laws (referred to in subsection (1.05) as the "relevant foreign tax law") of any country, other than Canada, under the laws of which the income of the partnership is subject to income taxation, less than its share of the income for the purposes of the Act.

(1.04) For the purposes of paragraph (1.03)(a), a corporation is not to be considered to own less than all of the shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation under the relevant foreign tax law that are considered to be owned for the purposes of the Act solely because the corporation or the foreign affiliate is not treated as a corporation under the relevant foreign tax law.

(b) the opening words of subsec. 5907(1.05) are to be read as follows:

(1.05) For the purposes of paragraph (1.03)(b), a member of a partnership is not to be considered to have a lesser share of the income of the partnership under the relevant foreign tax law than for the purposes of the Act solely because of one or more of the following:

(c) s. 5907 is to be read without reference to its subsec. (1.06).

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The amendment to the definition "underlying foreign tax" ("UFT") in subsection 5907(1) and the introduction of new subsections 5907(1.03) to (1.06) are analogous to the amendment to the definition "foreign accrual tax" in subsection 95(1) of the Act and the introduction of new subsections 91(4.1) to (4.5). Please refer to the commentary to those provisions for further details. The only notable distinction between the two sets of rules is the absence, in the UFT rules, of an equivalent to paragraph 91(4.1)(b) of the Act. This is because the UFT rules are relevant only for the computation of deductions in computing the taxable income of a taxpayer under section 113 of the Act and, as such, the rules in subsection 96(1) of the Act that deem a partnership to be a person resident in Canada are not applicable. In other words, a partnership cannot be a "taxpayer" for the purposes of the UFT rules.

The amendment to the definition "underlying foreign tax" in subsection 5907(1) and the introduction of new subsections 5907(1.03) to (1.06) apply to income or profits tax paid, and amounts referred to in subsections 5907(1.1) and (1.2), in respect of the income of a foreign affiliate of a corporation for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end in taxation years of the corporation that end after March 4, 2010. However, there are transitional rules for taxation years of the corporation that end on or before August 27, 2010.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 4, 2010: See under ITA 126(4.11).

(1.1) [Where FA is member of consolidated group] — For the purposes of this Part, where, pursuant to the income tax law of a country other than Canada, a group of two or more foreign affiliates (in this subsection referred to as the "consolidated group") of a corporation resident in Canada that are resident in that country determine their liabilities for income or profits tax payable to the government of that country for a taxation year on a consolidated or combined basis and one of the affiliates (in this subsection referred to as the "primary affiliate") is responsible for paying, or claiming a refund of, such tax on behalf of itself and the other members of the consolidated group (hereinafter referred to as the "secondary affiliates"), the following rules apply:

(a) in respect of the primary affiliate,

(i) any such income or profits tax paid by the primary affiliate for the year shall be deemed not to have been paid and any refund to the primary affiliate of income or profits tax otherwise payable by it for the year shall be deemed not to have been made,

(ii) any such income or profits tax that would have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year if the primary affiliate had no other taxation year and had not been a member of the consolidated group shall be deemed to have been paid for the year,

(iii) to the extent that

(A) the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year on behalf of the consolidated group is reduced by virtue of any loss of the primary affiliate for the year or any previous taxation year, or

(B) the primary affiliate receives, in respect of a loss of the primary affiliate for the year or a subsequent taxation year, a refund of income or profits tax otherwise payable for the year by the primary affiliate on behalf of the consolidated group,

the amount of such reduction or refund, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have been received by the primary affiliate as a refund for the year of the loss of income or profits tax in respect of the loss,

(iv) any such income or profits tax that would have been payable by a secondary affiliate for the year if the secondary affiliate had no other taxation year and had not been a member of the consolidated group shall at the end of the year,

(A) to the extent that such income or profits tax would otherwise have reduced the net earnings included in the exempt earnings of the secondary affiliate, be deducted from the exempt surplus or added to the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(A.1) to the extent that such income or profits tax would otherwise have reduced the hybrid surplus or increased the hybrid deficit of the secondary affiliate,

(I) be deducted from the hybrid surplus or added to the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(II) be added to the hybrid underlying tax of the primary affiliate, and Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(26), will add cl. 5907(1.1)(a)(iv)(A.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(1.1) contains rules for the computation of the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate where the affiliate is a member of a group of foreign affiliates that files a consolidated or combined return in a foreign country, such as the United States, and one of the affiliates in the group is responsible for paying the tax of all members of the group.

Subsection 5907(1.1) is being amended to add corresponding rules for the computation of the hybrid surplus, hybrid deficit and hybrid underlying tax of a foreign affiliate where the affiliate is a member of a consolidated group.

(B) to the extent that such income or profits tax would otherwise have reduced the net earnings included in the taxable earnings of the secondary affiliate,

(I) be deducted from the taxable surplus or added to the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(II) be added to the underlying foreign tax of the primary affiliate,

(v) to the extent that

(A) the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year on behalf of the consolidated group is reduced by virtue of a loss of a secondary affiliate for the year or a previous taxation year, or

(B) the primary affiliate receives, in respect of a loss of a secondary affiliate for the year or a subsequent taxation year, a refund of income or profits tax otherwise payable for the year by the primary affiliate on behalf of the consolidated group, the amount of such reduction or refund, as the case may be, shall at the end of the year of the loss,

(C) where such loss reduces the exempt surplus or increases the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate, be added to the exempt surplus or deducted from the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.1)(a)(v)(C.1)

(C.1) where such loss reduces the hybrid surplus or increases the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate,

(I) be added to the hybrid surplus or deducted from the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(II) be deducted from the hybrid underlying tax of the primary affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(27), will add cl. 5907(1.1)(a)(v)(C.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.1)(a)(iv)(A.1).

(D) where such loss reduces the taxable surplus or increases the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate,

(I) be added to the taxable surplus or deducted from the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(II) be deducted from the underlying foreign tax of the primary affiliate; and

(b) where by virtue of the primary affiliate being responsible for paying, or claiming a refund of, income or profits tax for the year on behalf of the consolidated group,

(i) an amount is paid to the primary affiliate by a secondary affiliate in respect of the income or profits tax that would have been payable by the secondary affiliate for the year had it not been a member of the group,

(A) in respect of the secondary affiliate, the amount so paid shall be deemed to be a payment of such income or profits tax for the year, and

(B) in respect of the primary affiliate,

(I) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount included in the exempt surplus or deducted from the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall at the end of the year be added to the exempt surplus or deducted from the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.1)(b)(i)(B)(I.1)

(I.1) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount included in the hybrid surplus or deducted from the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate is, at the end of the year, to be added to the hybrid surplus or deducted from the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate and deducted from the hybrid underlying tax of the primary affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(28), will add subcl. 5907(1.1)(b)(i)(B)(I.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.1)(a)(iv)(A.1).

(II) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount included in the taxable surplus or deducted from the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall at the end of the year be added to the taxable surplus or deducted from the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate and be deducted from the underlying foreign tax of the primary affiliate, or

(ii) an amount is paid by the primary affiliate to a secondary affiliate in respect of a reduction or refund by virtue of a loss of the secondary affiliate for a taxation year of the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year on behalf of the consolidated group,

(A) in respect of the primary affiliate,

(I) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the exempt surplus or included in the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall at the end of the year of the loss be deducted from the exempt surplus or added to the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.1)(b)(ii)(A)(I.1)

(I.1) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the hybrid surplus or included in the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate is, at the end of the year of the loss, to be deducted from the hybrid surplus or added to the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate and added to the hybrid underlying tax of the primary affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(29), will add subcl. 5907(1.1)(b)(ii)(A)(I.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.1)(a)(iv)(A.1).

(II) such portion of the amount so paid as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the taxable surplus or included in the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall at the end of the year of the loss be deducted from the taxable surplus or added to the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate and be added to the underlying foreign tax of the primary affiliate, and

(B) in respect of the secondary affiliate, the amount shall be deemed to be a refund to the secondary affiliate for the year of the loss of income or profits tax in respect of the loss,

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1.1)(b)(ii)

(ii) an amount is paid by the primary affiliate to a secondary affiliate in respect of a reduction or refund, because of a loss or a tax credit of the secondary affiliate for a taxation year, of the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year on behalf of the consolidated group

(A) in respect of the primary affiliate,

(I) the portion of the amount so paid that can reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the exempt surplus or included in the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall, at the end of the year to which the loss or the tax credit relates, be deducted from the exempt surplus or added to the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate, and

(II) the portion of the amount so paid that can reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the taxable surplus or included in the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the secondary affiliate shall, at the end of the year to which the loss or the tax credit relates, be deducted from the taxable surplus or added to the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the primary affiliate and be added to the underlying foreign tax of the primary affiliate, and

(B) in respect of the secondary affiliate, the amount is deemed to be a refund to the secondary affiliate, for the year to which the loss or the tax credit relates, of income or profits tax in respect of the loss or the tax credit,

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(32), will amend subpara. 5907(1.1)(b)(ii) to read as above, applicable to payments made after December 20, 2002.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5907(1.1) contains rules for the calculation of the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate where the affiliate is a member of a group (the "consolidated group") of foreign affiliates that files a consolidated or combined return in a foreign country, such as the United States, and one of the affiliates (the "primary affiliate") in the group is responsible, on behalf of the group, for paying, or claiming a refund of, the tax of the primary affiliate and the other members of the group (those other members being referred to as the "secondary affiliates").

Subparagraph 5907(1.1)(b)(ii) applies where a secondary affiliate has a loss and the primary affiliate pays an amount to the secondary affiliate in respect of a reduction or refund of the tax that would, but for the loss, otherwise have been payable by the primary affiliate on behalf of the consolidated group. In general terms, that subparagraph results in a reduction of the primary affiliate's surplus balances, and an increase of the secondary affiliate's surplus balances, by the amount of the payment.

Subparagraph 5907(1.1)(b)(ii) is being amended to extend the treatment afforded to losses of the secondary affiliate to tax credits of the secondary affiliate. In other words, the adjustments under subparagraph 5907(1.1)(b)(ii) will now be required to be made in cases where a secondary affiliate has a tax credit and the primary affiliate pays an amount to the secondary affiliate in respect of a reduction or refund of the tax that would, but for the tax credit, have been payable by the primary affiliate for the year on behalf of the consolidated group.

and, for the purposes of this paragraph, any amount paid by a particular secondary affiliate to another secondary affiliate in respect of any income or profits tax that would have been payable by the particular secondary affiliate for the year had it not been a member of the consolidated group shall be deemed to have been paid in respect of such tax by the particular secondary affiliate to the primary affiliate and to have been paid in respect of such tax by the primary affiliate to the other secondary affiliate.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 9, 2006:

Mr. Allan R. Lanthier, FCA, Ernst & Young LLP, Montreal, QC

Dear Mr. Lanthier:

I am writing in response to your letter concerning subsection 5907(1.1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations").

Subsection 5907(1.1) of the Regulations contains rules for the calculation of surpluses and deficits and underlying foreign tax ("UFT") of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada where the foreign affiliate is a member of a group (the "consolidated group") of foreign affiliates of the corporation resident in Canada that are resident in a foreign country and file a consolidated or combined return in that foreign country and one of the foreign affiliates (the "primary affiliate") is responsible, on behalf of the consolidated group, for paying, or claiming a refund of, the tax payable in that foreign country by the consolidated group. In general terms, the subsection operates to adjust the surplus and deficit accounts and UFT balances of the members of the consolidated group, arriving at a position where all taxes paid, or all tax refunds received, affect the surplus and deficit balances and UFT account of only the primary affiliate, unless tax sharing payments are made. If tax sharing payments are made between the primary and secondary affiliates, the subsection results in those payments being treated as income or profits tax payments that result in adjustments to the surpluses (or deficits) and UFT balances of the primary and secondary affiliates.

In your letter, you expressed two concerns with respect to subsection 5907(1.1).

Your first concern is with the requirement in the preamble of subsection 5907(1.1) that the primary affiliate and the secondary affiliates be resident in the foreign country described by the preamble. Under the example provided in your letter, you note that U.S. Holdco and U.S. Opco have their central management and control in Canada and thus are not resident in the United States for the purposes of the subsection. Therefore, you note that, although U.S. Holdco and U.S. Opco would be taxable in the United States on their worldwide income, the subsection would not apply to Canco 1 and Canco 2. As regards Canco 1 and Canco 2, this would result in U.S. Opco not having UFT for the U.S. tax even though U.S. Opco made the tax sharing payment to U.S. Holdco.

Your second concern is that subsection 5907(1.1) does not apply to a foreign affiliate, in respect of a corporation resident in Canada, unless the primary and secondary affiliates are foreign affiliates of the corporation. Under the example provided in your letter, Canco 1 and Canco 2 are related to each other; U.S. Holdco and U.S. Opco are both foreign affiliates of Canco 1; and U.S. Opco (but not U.S. Holdco) is a foreign affiliate of Canco 2. Therefore, you note that (even if the residency requirement in the preamble of the subsection were removed) the subsection still would not apply to Canco 2 because U.S. Holdco is not a foreign affiliate of Canco 2. As regards Canco 2, this would result in U.S. Opco not having UFT for the U.S. tax even though U.S. Opco made the tax sharing payment to U.S. Holdco.

From a tax policy viewpoint, we agree that the tax results described above are not appropriate. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend that

- the preamble of subsection 5907(1.1) of the Regulations be amended to remove the requirement that the primary and secondary affiliates described in the preamble be resident in the foreign country described in the preamble, and
- the Income Tax Act or the Regulations (as appropriate) be amended to provide that, in applying subsection 5907(1.1) of the Regulations, a non-resident corporation is deemed to be, at any time, a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada if, at that time, the non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of another corporation resident in Canada and that other corporation resident in Canada is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) of the Income Tax Act) to the particular corporation.

Should our recommendations be acted upon, it is contemplated that the amendments be made effective for the 2004 and subsequent taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers resident in Canada.

I trust that this letter addresses your concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(1.2) [Where FA deducts loss of loss affiliate] — For the purposes of this Part, where, pursuant to the income tax law of a country other than Canada, a corporation resident in that country that is a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpaying affiliate") deducts, in computing its income or profits tax payable for a taxation year to a government of that country, a loss of another corporation resident in that country that is a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "loss affiliate"), the following rules apply:

(a) any such income or profits tax paid by the taxpaying affiliate for the year shall be deemed not to have been paid;

(b) any such income or profits tax that would have been payable by the taxpaying affiliate for the year if the taxpaying affiliate had not been allowed to deduct such loss shall be deemed to have been paid for the year;

(c) to the extent that the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the taxpaying affiliate for the year is reduced by virtue of such loss, the amount of such reduction shall at the end of the year,

(i) where such loss reduces the exempt surplus or increases the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the loss affiliate, be added to the exempt surplus or deducted from the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the taxpaying affiliate, and

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.2)(c)(i.1)

(i.1) where such loss reduces the hybrid surplus or increases the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the loss affiliate,

(A) be added to the hybrid surplus or deducted from the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the taxpaying affiliate, and

(B) be deducted from the hybrid underlying tax of the taxpaying affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(30), will add subpara. 5907(1.2)(c)(i.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(1.2) contains rules for the computation of the surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate where the affiliate is entitled under foreign tax law to deduct losses of another foreign affiliate.

Subsection 5907(1.2) is being amended to add corresponding rules for the computation of the hybrid surplus, hybrid deficit and hybrid underlying tax of a foreign affiliate.

(ii) where such loss reduces the taxable surplus or increases the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the loss affiliate,

(A) be added to the taxable surplus or deducted from the taxable deficit, as the case may be, of the taxpaying affiliate, and

(B) be deducted from the underlying foreign tax of the taxpaying affiliate; and

(d) where an amount is paid by the taxpaying affiliate to the loss affiliate in respect of the reduction, by virtue of such loss, of the income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the taxpaying affiliate for the year,

(i) in respect of the taxpaying affiliate,

(A) such portion of the amount as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the exempt surplus or included in the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the loss affiliate shall at the end of the year be deducted from the exempt surplus or added to the exempt deficit, as the case may be, of the taxpaying affiliate, and

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.2)(d)(i)(A.1)

(A.1) such portion of the amount as may reasonably be regarded as relating to an amount deducted from the hybrid surplus or included in the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the loss affiliate is, at the end of the year, to be deducted from the hybrid surplus or added to the hybrid deficit, as the case may be, of the taxpaying affiliate and added to the hybrid underlying tax of the taxpaying affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(31), will add cl. 5907(1.2)(d)(i)(A.1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1.3) opening words

(1.3) [Prescribed foreign accrual tax] — For the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "foreign accrual tax" in subsection 95(1) of the Act and subject to subsection (1.4),

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(32), will amend the opening words of subsec. 5907(1.3) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 91(4) of the Act provides for a deduction in the computation of a taxpayer's income in respect of the foreign accrual tax that is attributable to an amount of FAPI that is included in the computation of the taxpayer's income. Subsection 95(1) of the Act defines "foreign accrual tax" to include amounts prescribed to be foreign accrual tax.

In circumstances where the loss of another corporation in a particular group of foreign affiliates is relevant in the computation of the tax liability of the group to a foreign government, paragraphs 5907(1.3)(a) and (b) provide that an amount will be considered foreign accrual tax if the amount is paid by the particular corporation to the other corporation in the group in respect of the use of a loss of any other corporation in the computation of the group's tax liability to the foreign government. These provisions apply where the loss of the other corporation is an active business loss or a capital loss resulting from the disposition of excluded property as well as where the loss is one that is determined under the current version of paragraph 5903(1)(a). (Paragraph 5907(1.3)(a) can also apply where there are no group losses and a particular affiliate is simply reimbursing another foreign affiliate for the taxes the particular affiliate would have paid had it not been a member of the group.)

Subsection 5907(1.3) is amended, as a consequence of the introduction of new subsection 5907(1.4), to provide that it is subject to subsection 5907(1.4).

New subsection 5907(1.4) ensures that an amount paid by a particular affiliate to another corporation, as contemplated by subsection 5907(1.3), that is in respect of a loss of another corporation will only be foreign accrual tax to the extent that the amount paid can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a FAPL of a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of the relevant taxation year, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning of new subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer. This is consistent with the fact that, under subsection 5903(3), active business losses and capital losses resulting from the disposition of excluded property of a foreign affiliate are not included in the computation of a FAPL.

New subsections 5907(1.5) and (1.6) allow foreign accrual tax that is initially denied under subsection 5907(1.4) to be reinstated in the year in which the loss that caused the denial, and all other losses of group members for that same taxation year, would otherwise have been used against non-FAPI of the consolidated group, provided those losses are used up within 5 years of the year in which the FAPI is realized.

Amended subsection 5907(1.3) and new subsections 5907(1.4) to (1.6) apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after November 1999. Note, however, that subsection 5907(1.4) is also being amended for foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011, as discussed below.

Example

Assumptions

1. Canco is a corporation resident in Canada that owns all the shares of a corporation resident in the U.S. (FA1).

2. FA1 owns all the shares of two other U.S. resident corporations (FA2 and FA3).

3. FA1, FA2 and FA3 form a consolidated group for U.S. income tax purposes.

4. FA1 has no income or loss for its 2004 taxation year.

5. FA2 has FAPI of $400, and no other income or loss, in its 2004 taxation year.

6. FA3 has active business losses of $300, and no other income or loss, in its 2004 taxation year.

7. The FA1/FA2/FA3 group pays U.S. tax of $35 for the 2004 taxation year.

8. FA2 pays $140 to FA1 for the U.S. tax that FA2 would have paid for its 2004 taxation year had it not been a member of the consolidated group.

9. FA1 pays $105 to FA3 as compensation for the use of FA3's 2004 tax loss.

10. None of FA1, FA2 or FA3 has any income or loss from any source for their 2005 taxation year.

11. In their 2006 taxation years, FA1 and FA2 have no income or loss from any source, and FA3 has only active business income of $200.

12. In their 2007 taxation years, FA1 and FA2 have no income or loss from any source, and FA3 has only active business income of $150.

Analysis

Of the $140 paid by FA2 to FA1 for its 2004 taxation year that is otherwise prescribed under paragraph 5907(1.3)(a) to be foreign accrual tax, $105 can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the $300 loss of FA3, and since this $300 loss is a non-foreign accrual property loss of FA3, subsection 5907(1.4) will reduce the amount otherwise prescribed under subsection 5907(1.3) by $105 — the amount prescribed by subsection 5907(1.3) for 2004 will be $35. In 2006 some of FA3's 2004 loss is used up against active business income, but the $105 is not reinstated because not all losses of the group for the 2004 taxation year have yet been fully deducted against non-FAPI income. In 2007, the $105 will be prescribed under subsection 5907(1.5) to be a foreign accrual tax to the taxpayer because in that year (the "designated taxation year") the $300 active business loss of FA3 in 2004 would have been fully deducted against FA3's aggregate active business income in 2006 and 2007.

However, if the group realized an overall loss in 2008 of, say, $180 and assuming that U.S. tax law allows for loss carrybacks, then pursuant to paragraph 5907(1.6)(b) the reinstatement would be deferred until a future year when an additional $130 of non-FAPI income is earned by the group. If this does not occur until 2010, reinstatement will be permanently lost because 2010 is outside of the 5 year window provided for in paragraph 5907(1.6)(c).

(a) where, pursuant to the income tax law of the country in which a particular foreign affiliate is resident, the particular affiliate and one or more other corporations, each of which is resident in that country, determine their liabilities for income or profits tax payable to the government of that country for a taxation year on a consolidated or combined basis, any amount paid by the particular affiliate to any of the other corporations to the extent that it may reasonably be regarded as being in respect of income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the particular affiliate in respect of a particular amount included in computing the taxpayer's income by virtue of subsection 91(1) of the Act for a taxation year in respect of the particular affiliate, had the tax liability of the particular affiliate and the other corporations not been determined on a consolidated or combined basis, is hereby prescribed to be foreign accrual tax applicable to the particular amount; and

(b) where, pursuant to the income tax law of the country in which a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is resident, the particular affiliate, in computing its income or profits subject to tax in that country for a taxation year, deducts an amount in respect of a loss of another corporation resident in that country, any amount paid by the particular affiliate to the other corporation to the extent that it may reasonably be regarded as being in respect of income or profits tax that would otherwise have been payable by the particular affiliate in respect of a particular amount included in computing the taxpayer's income by virtue of subsection 91(1) of the Act for a taxation year in respect of the particular affiliate, had the tax liability of the particular affiliate been determined without deducting the loss of the other corporation, is hereby prescribed to be foreign accrual tax applicable to the particular amount.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 15, 2010: See under Reg. 5907(1.4).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5903(4) — Effect of payment on foreign accrual property loss; Reg. 5903.1(4) — Effect of payment on foreign accrual capital loss; Reg. 5907(1.4) — Where amount prescribed is in respect of loss of other corporation; Reg. 5907(1.7) — Where amount prescribed is in respect of capital loss of other corporation.

History: Subsec. 5907(1.3) amended by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(3), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. as amended applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

Subsec. 5907(1.3) added by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(23), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable to the 1982 and subsequent taxation years of foreign affiliates.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.4) [to be further amended, below]

(1.4) [Prescribed foreign accrual tax] — If the amount, or any portion of it, prescribed by paragraph (1.3)(a) or (b) can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a loss of another corporation that is a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of a taxation year of the other corporation, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning of subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer, then the amount so prescribed shall be reduced to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the portion of that loss, for that taxation year, that would not be a foreign accrual property loss (within the meaning of subsection 5903(3)) of that other corporation if section 5903 were read without reference to subsection 5903(4).

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(34), will add subsec. 5907(1.4), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): New subsection 5907(1.4) ensures that an amount paid by a particular affiliate to another corporation, as contemplated by subsection 5907(1.3), that is in respect of a loss of another corporation will only be foreign accrual tax to the extent that the amount paid can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a FAPL of a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of the relevant taxation year, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning of new subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer. This is consistent with the fact that, under section 5903 active business losses and capital losses resulting from the disposition of excluded property of a foreign affiliate are not included in the computation of a FAPL.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5907(1.5) — Effect of subsec. (1.4); Reg. 5907(1.7) — Parallel rule for capital losses.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1.4)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 15, 2010:

Ms. Heather Kerr, Ernst & Young LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Ms. Kerr:

I am writing in response to your letters [xxx], concerning the foreign accrual property income ("FAPI") rules in the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

As you know, the FAPI rules include certain income of a controlled foreign affiliate of a Canadian taxpayer in the income of the taxpayer on an accrual basis, subject to relief for tax incurred by the affiliate in respect of that income. Such tax is referred to in the Act as foreign accrual tax ("FAT"). In order for tax of the affiliate to qualify as FAT, it must generally be paid by the affiliate in the year of the FAPI inclusion to which it relates or one of the following five years. Accommodation is also made for foreign tax consolidation regimes such that certain compensatory payments made by the affiliate to another foreign tax group member will be allowed as FAT. Under draft subsection 5907(1.4) of Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations"), however; it is proposed to limit this consolidated group rule such that FAT would not arise where compensatory payments are made for losses that are not foreign accrual property losses.

You have expressed concerns with two aspects of the FAT rules. First, the requirement that the affiliate be the payer of the taxes does not accommodate the prevalent use of foreign fiscally transparent entities ("FTEs") that are considered to be corporations under Canadian tax principles. Your particular concern is with U.S. limited liability companies. You submit that FAT should be allowed to the extent a corporate member of a FTE is under the relevant foreign law liable for, and pays, income tax in respect of the FAPI of the FTE.

Your second concern is with the proposed amendment to the consolidated group rule. You submit that a multi-period perspective should be adopted in applying the new limitation rule. You suggest that FAT should not be denied where FAPI of one foreign affiliate of a Canadian corporation for a year is offset by an active business loss of a second foreign affiliate of that Canadian corporation in the same year if that active business loss would otherwise have been used in a subsequent year to shelter active business income of that second affiliate or any other foreign affiliate of the Canadian corporation that is a member of the foreign tax consolidated group.

We agree on both points. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act and Regulations be amended in the following ways:

- to allow foreign taxes paid by a corporate member of a FTE in respect of FAPI of the FTE to qualify as FAT of the FTE, where the member is directly liable under foreign law to pay those taxes and the number of such members does not exceed three, and
- to allow FAT that is initially denied under proposed subsection 5907(1.4) of the Regulations to be allowed as a deduction in the year in which the active business losses that caused the denial are fully utilized against active business income of the group if
  - — that year is one of the five years following the year in which the FAPI arises, and
  - — the taxpayer demonstrates that no other losses of any member of the group for any year could reasonably have been applied against that active business income.

We will further recommend that the FTE amendment apply to taxation years of foreign affiliates that end after 2010, and that the amendment concerning subsection 5907(1.4) of the Regulations apply at the same time as that draft subsection applies, i.e. for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after November 1999.

While I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(1.4) [temporary]

(1.4) If the amount prescribed under paragraph (1.3)(a) or (b), or any portion of the amount, can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a loss of another corporation for a taxation year of the other corporation, then the amount so prescribed is to be reduced to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the portion of that loss that would, if section 5903 were read without reference to its subsection (4), not be a foreign accrual property loss (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5903(3)) of a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of that taxation year, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(33), will amend subsec. 5907(1.4) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation: see Proposed Addition above), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(1.4) ensures that an amount paid by a particular affiliate to another corporation, as contemplated by subsection 5907(1.3), that is in respect of a loss of another corporation will only be foreign accrual tax to the extent that the amount paid can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a FAPL of a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of the relevant taxation year, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning of new subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer.

Subsection 5907(1.4) is being amended to make appropriate references to the new FACL concept. For more details, refer to the above commentary for new section 5903.1.

[See also under Reg. 5907(1.3) opening words — ed.]

(1.4) If the amount prescribed under paragraph (1.3)(a) or (b), or any portion of the amount, can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a particular loss (other than a capital loss) or a capital loss of another corporation for a taxation year of the other corporation, then the amount so prescribed is to be reduced to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the portion of the particular loss or capital loss, as the case may be, that would, if sections 5903 and 5903.1 were read without reference to their subsection (4), not be a foreign accrual property loss (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5903(3)), or a foreign accrual capital loss (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5903.1(3)), as the case may be, of a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership that is, at the end of that taxation year, a relevant person or partnership (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5903(6)) in respect of the taxpayer.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(34), will amend subsec. 5907(1.4) (see Proposed Addition above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.3) opening words.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(1.5), (1.6)

(1.5) If subsection (1.4) applied to reduce an amount that would, in the absence of subsection (1.4), be prescribed by paragraph (1.3)(a) to be foreign accrual tax applicable to an amount (referred to in this subsection as the "FAPI amount") included in the taxpayer's income under subsection 91(1) of the Act for a taxation year (referred to in subsection (1.6) as the "FAPI year") of the taxpayer, an amount equal to that reduction is, for the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "foreign accrual tax" in subsection 95(1) of the Act, prescribed to be foreign accrual tax applicable to the FAPI amount in the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the last day of the designated taxation year, if any, of the particular affiliate referred to in paragraph (1.3)(a).

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.3) opening words.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5907(1.6) — Designated taxation year.

(1.6) For the purposes of subsection (1.5), the designated taxation year of the particular affiliate is a particular taxation year of the particular affiliate if

(a) in the particular year, or in the particular affiliate's taxation year (referred to in this paragraph as the "PATY") ending in the FAPI year and one or more taxation years of the particular affiliate each of which follows the PATY and the latest of which is the particular year, all losses of the particular affiliate and the other corporations referred to in paragraph (1.3)(a) for their taxation years ending in the FAPI year would, on the assumption that the particular affiliate and each of those other corporations had no foreign accrual property income for any taxation year, reasonably be considered to have been fully deducted (under the tax law referred to in paragraph (1.3)(a)) against income (as determined under that tax law) of the particular affiliate or those other corporations;

(b) the taxpayer demonstrates that no other losses of the particular affiliate or those other corporations for any taxation year were, or could reasonably have been, deducted under that tax law against that income; and

(c) the last day of the particular year occurs in one of the five taxation years of the taxpayer that immediately follow the FAPI year.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(1.3) opening words.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5907(1.5) — Meaning of "FAPI year".

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(33), will add subsecs. 5907(1.5) and (1.6), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999.

(1.7) If the amount prescribed under paragraph (1.3)(a) or (b), or any portion of the amount, can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a capital loss of another corporation for a taxation year of the other corporation, then the amount so prescribed, as reduced by subsection (1.4), if applicable, shall be reduced to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the portion of that capital loss that would not be deductible by the particular affiliate in computing its foreign accrual property income for the year if the capital loss had been incurred by the particular affiliate.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(35), will add subsec. 5907(1.7), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(1.7) denies "deemed foreign accrual tax" otherwise available under subsection 5907(1.3) where the amounts paid are in respect of FACLs of another corporation that would not be deductible by the payer affiliate if those FACLs had been incurred by the payer affiliate. (FACLs are discussed in the commentary to new section 5903.1 above.) This rule is meant to put the payer affiliate in the same position as the loss affiliate in terms of limiting a capital loss claim to the amount of capital gains included under variable B of the FAPI definition in subsection 95(1) of the Act.

(2) [FA carrying on active business] — In computing the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year of the affiliate from an active business carried on by it in a country, there shall be added to the amount thereof determined under subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1) (in this subsection referred to as the "earnings amount") such portion of the following amounts as was deducted or was not included, as the case may be, in computing the earnings amount,

(a) any income or profits tax paid to the government of a country by the affiliate so deducted,

(b) if established by the taxpayer, the amount by which any amount so deducted in respect of an expenditure made by the affiliate exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of the expenditure

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of all other deductions in respect of that expenditure made by the affiliate in computing the earnings amounts for preceding taxation years,

(c) any loss of the affiliate referred to in the description of D in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act so deducted,

(d) any capital loss of the affiliate in respect of the disposition of capital property so deducted (for greater certainty, capital property of the affiliate for the purposes of this paragraph includes all the property of the affiliate other than property referred to in subparagraph 39(1)(b)(i) or (ii) of the Act on the assumption for this purpose that the affiliate is a corporation resident in Canada),

(e) any loss of the affiliate for a preceding or a subsequent taxation year so deducted,

(f) any revenue, income or profit (other than an amount referred to in paragraph (f.1), (h) or (i)) of the affiliate derived in the year from such business carried on in that country to the extent that such revenue, income or profit

(i) is not otherwise required to be included in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate for any taxation year by the income tax law that is relevant in computing that amount, and

(ii) does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies) by the affiliate of property to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, to which a tax deferral, rollover or similar tax postponement provision of the income tax law that is relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(2)(f)(ii)

(ii) subject to subsection (2.01), does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies), of property by the affiliate,

(A) to a person or partnership that was, at the time of the disposition, a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer, and

(B) to which a tax deferral, rollover or similar tax postponement provision of the income tax laws that are relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(36), will amend subpara. 5907(2)(f)(ii) to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of property by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 30(56) of the draft legislation (see Application annotation to addition of subsec. 5907(2.01)),

(a) subpara. 5907(2)(f)(ii) is applicable in respect of dispositions of property by all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002;

(b) subpara. 5907(2)(f)(ii) is, in respect of all such dispositions that occur before August 20, 2011, to be read as follows:

(ii) subject to subsection (2.01), does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies) by the affiliate of property to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, to which a tax deferral, rollover or similar tax postponement provision of the income tax law that is relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(2) provides a number of rules that adjust amounts otherwise determined under subparagraphs (a)(i) and (ii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1).

Paragraph 5907(2)(f) provides for additions to "earnings" of certain items of revenue, income or profit that are not otherwise included in "earnings" under the relevant foreign tax law. Subparagraph (ii) provides an exception to this addition in certain circumstances in which a foreign tax rollover rule applies on a disposition to another foreign affiliate or a non-arm's length person.

Paragraph 5907(2)(j) is the "flip side" of paragraph 5907(2)(f) in that it provides for certain reductions to "earnings". It also contains, in subparagraph (iii), an exception for certain foreign tax rollovers.

Paragraph 5907(2)(l) is a companion rule to paragraph 5907(2)(f) to prevent the double counting of the same amounts in two foreign affiliates of a taxpayer or of a non-arm's length Canadian group.

Subparagraphs 5907(2)(f)(ii) and (j)(iii) are being amended to make them subject to new subsection 5907(2.01), which sets out a situation in which the foreign tax rollover exception is to be ignored.

Subparagraphs 5907(2)(f)(ii) and (j)(iii) and paragraph (l) are being amended to change the references to relevant transferees and transferors to a person or partnership that is a "designated person or partnership" (as newly defined in subsection 5907(1)) in respect of the taxpayer.

These amendments apply to dispositions of property that occur after August 19, 2011. However, transitional readings of subparagraphs 5907(2)(f)(ii) and (j)(iii) apply where the taxpayer elects retroactive application of new subsection 5907(2.01).

(f.1) any assistance from a government, municipality or other public authority (other than any such assistance that reduced the amount of an expenditure for purposes of computing the earnings amount for any taxation year) that the affiliate received or became entitled to receive in the year in connection with such business carried on in that country that is not otherwise required to be included in computing the earnings amount for the year or for any other taxation year, and there shall be deducted such portion of the following amounts as were included or were not deducted, as the case may be, in computing the earnings amount,

(g) any income or profits tax refunded by the government of a country to the affiliate so included;

(h) any capital gain of the affiliate in respect of the disposition of capital property so included (for greater certainty, capital property of the affiliate for the purposes of this paragraph includes all the property of the affiliate other than property referred to in any of subparagraphs 39(1)(a)(i) to (iv) of the Act on the assumption for this purpose that the affiliate is a corporation resident in Canada);

(i) any amount that is included in the foreign accrual property income of the affiliate so included;

(j) any loss, outlay or expense made or incurred in the year by the affiliate for the purpose of gaining or producing such earnings amount to the extent that

(i) such loss, outlay or expense is not otherwise permitted to be deducted in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate for any taxation year by the income tax law that is relevant in computing that amount, or

(ii) such outlay or expense can reasonably be regarded as applicable to any revenue added to the earnings amount of the affiliate under paragraph (f),

where such loss, outlay or expense

(iii) does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies) by the affiliate of property to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, to which a loss deferral or similar loss postponement provision of the income tax law that is relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(2)(j)(iii)

(iii) subject to subsection (2.01), does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies), of property by the affiliate,

(A) to person or partnership that was, at the time of the disposition, a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer, and

(B) to which a loss deferral or similar loss postponement provision of the income tax laws that are relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(37), will amend subpara. 5907(2)(j)(iii) to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of property by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 30(56) of the draft legislation (see Application annotation to addition of subsec. 5907(2.01)),

(a) subpara. 5907(2)(j)(iii) is applicable in respect of dispositions of property by all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002;

(b) subpara. 5907(2)(j)(iii) is, in respect of all such dispositions that occur before August 20, 2011, to be read as follows:

(iii) subject to subsection (2.01), does not arise with respect to a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies) by the affiliate of property to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, to which a loss deferral or similar loss postponement provision of the income tax law that is relevant in computing the earnings amount of the affiliate applied, and

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(2)(f)(ii).

(iv) is not

(A) a loss referred to in paragraph (c) or (d),

(B) a capital expenditure other than interest, or

(C) income or profits tax paid to the government of a country;

(k) any outlay made in the year in repayment of an amount referred to in paragraph (f.1); and

(l) where any property of the affiliate acquired from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or from any foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length has been disposed of, such amount in respect of that property as may reasonably be considered as having been included by virtue of paragraph (f) in computing the earnings amount of any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length.

(l) if any property of the affiliate that was acquired from a person or partnership that was, at the time of the acquisition, a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer has been disposed of, the amount in respect of that property that may reasonably be considered as having been included under paragraph (f) in computing the earnings amount of any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person or partnership that was, at the time of the disposition, a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(38), will amend para. 5907(2)(l) to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of property by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(2)(f)(ii).

History: Subsec. 5907(2) amended by P.C. 1997-1670, subsecs. 8(4), (5), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

Para. 5907(2)(h) substituted by P.C. 1989-321, subsec. 3(9), March 2, 1989, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 15, 1989, applicable in respect of taxation years commencing after 1984.

Paras. 5907(2)(f) and (j) substituted, para. 5907(2)(l) added by P.C. 1985-467, subsecs. 4(24)–(26), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable to 1976 et seq.

Paras. 5907(2)(f.1), (k) added, 5907(2)(f), (j) substituted by P.C. 1980-503, subsecs. 5(4), (5), February 8, 1980, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 27, 1980, effective in respect of 1976 et seq.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(2.01)-(2.03)

(2.01) [Packaging of assets for sale] — Subparagraphs (2)(f)(ii) and (j)(iii) do not apply to a particular disposition of property (referred to in this subsection as the "affiliate property") by a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer if

(a) the only consideration received in respect of the particular disposition is shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer;

(b) all of the shares of the capital stock of the other affiliate that are, immediately after the particular disposition, owned by the particular affiliate are disposed of, at a particular time that is within 90 days of the day that includes the time of the particular disposition, to a person or partnership that at the particular time is not a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer; and

(c) the affiliate property is not disposed of by the other affiliate as part of a series of transactions or events that includes the particular disposition.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(2.01) is being added to override the tax rollover exceptions in subparagraphs 5907(2)(f)(ii) and (j)(iii), in certain specified circumstances. Essentially these circumstances involve the "packaging" of certain assets that are to be disposed of to an arm's length purchaser by first transferring the assets to a new company and then selling that new company. This new subsection ensures that any unrealized value in the transferred assets will be eligible for surplus recognition provided, among other things, the shares of the new company are sold within 90 days of the asset transfer.

This new rule is intended to apply to transactions that would otherwise be structured as direct asset sales but that are instead, for foreign commercial reasons, structured as share sales. Where such transactions are so structured primarily for Canadian tax reasons, they could be subject to the new anti-avoidance rule in subsection 5907(2.02), as discussed below.

This new subsection applies to dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011, but taxpayers may elect to have it apply to dispositions that occur after December 20, 2002.

(2.02) [Avoidance transaction] — If an amount or a portion of an amount would, in the absence of this subsection, be included in computing the exempt earnings, or deducted in computing the exempt loss, of a foreign affiliate of a corporation in respect of the corporation for a taxation year of the affiliate and the amount or portion arises from a transaction (within the meaning of subsection 245(1) of the Act) that is, or would be (if the amount or portion were a tax benefit for the purposes of section 245 of the Act), an avoidance transaction (within the meaning of subsection 245(3) of the Act), the following rules apply:

(a) the amount or portion is instead to be included in the affiliate's taxable earnings for the year in respect of the corporation; and

(b) any income or profits tax relating to the transaction that would otherwise be deducted in computing the exempt earnings, or included in computing the exempt loss, of the affiliate for the year in respect of the corporation, is instead to be deducted from the affiliate's taxable earnings for the year in respect of the corporation.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(2.02) is an anti-avoidance rule aimed at tax-motivated transactions that are designed to increase a foreign affiliate's exempt earnings. Where this rule applies, amounts that would otherwise be included in "exempt earnings" are reclassified as "taxable earnings".

This new rule directly incorporates the standards of the "general anti-avoidance rule" in section 245 rather than creating its own set of avoidance standards. Essentially, any "avoidance transaction" that results in an increase in "exempt earnings" will be considered abusive and will be reclassified to "taxable earnings".

This new rule applies to transactions entered into after August 19, 2011.

Related Provisions: ITA 245(2) — General anti-avoidance rule.

(2.03) [FA's earnings calculated on basis of maximum deductions] — The determination — under subparagraph (a)(iii) and paragraph (b) of the definition "earnings", and paragraph (b) of the definition "loss", in subsection (1) — of the earnings or loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a particular taxation year from an active business is to be made as if the affiliate

(a) had, in computing its income or loss from the business for each taxation year (referred to in this paragraph as an "earnings or loss year") that is the particular year or is any preceding taxation year that begins after August 19, 2011,

(i) claimed all deductions that it could have claimed under the Act, up to the maximum amount deductible in computing the income or loss from the business for that earnings or loss year, and

(ii) made all claims and elections and taken all steps under applicable provisions of the Act, or of enactments implementing amendments to the Act or its regulations, to maximize the amount of any deduction referred to subparagraph (i); and

(b) had, in computing its income or loss from the business for any preceding taxation year that began on or before August 19, 2011, claimed all deductions, if any, that it actually claimed under the Act, up to the maximum amount deductible, and made all claims and elections, if any, and taken all steps, if any, under applicable provisions of the Act, or of enactments implementing amendments to the Act or its regulations, that it actually made.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(2.03) deals with the computation of a foreign affiliate's "earnings" under subparagraph (a)(iii) and paragraph (b) of the definition of "earnings", and its "loss" under paragraph (b) of the definition "loss", in subsection 5907(1). Where that subparagraph or one of those paragraphs applies, a foreign affiliate must generally compute its earnings using Canadian tax rules. New subsection 5907(2.03) assumes, in that regard, that the maximum amount of all permissable deductions have been claimed and all elections under the Act and any enabling legislation have been made in order to maximize deductions. This is meant to prevent taxpayers from purposely inflating surplus.

This rule is similar to the one in current subsection 5910(3) which applies in the context of deemed foreign taxes paid in respect of foreign oil and gas levies.

This new subsection applies to foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011.

The special rules in current subsection 5910(3) are no longer necessary and are being repealed, effective at the same time as new subsection 5907(2.03) comes into force. Readers are referred to the commentary under subsection 5910(3) for more information.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(39), will add subsecs. 5907(2.01) to (2.03),

(a) subsec. (2.01) applicable to dispositions by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer elects in writing under this subsection [subsec. 30(56) of the draft legislation] in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, subsec. 5907(2.01) applies to dispositions by all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002;

(b) subsec. (2.02) applicable in respect of transactions (within the meaning of subsec. 245(1) of the Act) that are entered into after August 19, 2011; and

(c) subsec. (2.03) applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

(2.1) [FA carrying on active business in Canada or treaty country] — In computing the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada for a taxation year of the affiliate from an active business carried on by it in Canada or in a designated treaty country, where the affiliate is resident in a designated treaty country and the corporation, together with all other corporations resident in Canada with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length and in respect of which the affiliate is a foreign affiliate, have so elected in respect of the business for the taxation year or any preceding taxation year of the affiliate, the following rules apply:

(a) there shall be added to the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1) after adjustment in accordance with the provisions of subsection (2) (in this subsection and in subsection (2.2) referred to as the "adjusted earnings amount") the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that can reasonably be regarded as having been deducted in respect of the cost of a capital property or foreign resource property of the affiliate in computing the adjusted earnings amount

exceeds

(ii) the amount that may reasonably be regarded as having been deducted in respect of the cost of that capital property or foreign resource property in computing income or profit of the affiliate for the year from that business in its financial statements prepared in accordance with the laws of the country in which the affiliate is resident;

(b) there shall be deducted from the adjusted earnings amount the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii) in respect of that capital property or foreign resource property

exceeds

(ii) the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) in respect of that capital property or foreign resource property;

(c) where any capital property or foreign resource property of the affiliate has been disposed of in the taxation year,

(i) there shall be added to the adjusted earnings amount the aggregate of the amounts deducted pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (2.2)(b) for preceding taxation years of the affiliate in respect of that capital property or foreign resource property, and

(ii) there shall be deducted from the adjusted earnings amount the aggregate of the amounts added pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (2.2)(a) for the preceding taxation years of the affiliate in respect of that capital property or foreign resource property; and

(d) for the purposes of paragraph (c), where the affiliate has merged with one or more corporations to form a new corporation, any capital property or foreign resource property of the affiliate that becomes a property of the new corporation shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the affiliate in its last taxation year before the merger.

(2.2) [Where election made under Reg. 5907(2.1)] — Where the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada for which the particular corporation has made an election under subsection (2.1) in respect of an active business carried on by the affiliate is not the first taxation year of the affiliate in which it carried on the business and in which it was a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation or of another corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation was not dealing at arm's length at any time (hereinafter referred to as the "non-arm's length corporation"), in computing the earnings of the affiliate from the business for the taxation year for which the election is made, the following rules, in addition to those set out in subsection (2.1), apply:

(a) there shall be added to the adjusted earnings amount the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount that would have been determined under paragraph (2.1)(a) or subparagraph (2.1)(c)(i)

(i) for any preceding taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation if the particular corporation had made an election under subsection (2.1) for the first taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation and carried on the business, and

(ii) for any preceding taxation year of the affiliate (other than a taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i)) in which it was a foreign affiliate of the non-arm's length corporation if the non-arm's length corporation had made an election under subsection (2.1) for the first taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the non-arm's length corporation and carried on the business; and

(b) there shall be deducted from the adjusted earnings amount the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount that would have been determined under paragraph (2.1)(b) or subparagraph (2.1)(c)(ii)

(i) for any preceding taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation if the particular corporation had made an election under subsection (2.1) for the first taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation and carried on the business, and

(ii) for any preceding taxation year of the affiliate (other than a taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i)) in which it was a foreign affiliate of the non-arm's length corporation if the non-arm's length corporation had made an election under subsection (2.1) for the first taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the non-arm's length corporation and carried on the business.

History: Subsec. 5907(2.2) substituted by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(28), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable in respect of elections made after November 4, 1982.

Subsec. 5907(2.2) added by P.C. 1978-3599, s. 2, November 30, 1978, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 13, 1978, effective for 1978 et seq.

(2.3) [Where election made under Reg. 5907(2.1)] — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (2.1) and (2.2), where an election under subsection (2.1) has been made by a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection and in subsection (2.4) referred to as the "electing corporation") in respect of an active business of a foreign affiliate of the electing corporation and the affiliate subsequently becomes a foreign affiliate of another corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection and in subsection (2.4) referred to as the "subsequent corporation") that does not deal at arm's length with the electing corporation, in computing the earnings of the affiliate from such business in respect of the subsequent corporation for any taxation year of the affiliate ending after the affiliate so became a foreign affiliate of the subsequent corporation, the subsequent corporation shall be deemed to have made an election under subsection (2.1) in respect of the business of the affiliate for the first such taxation year and for the purposes of paragraph (2.1)(d), the earnings of the affiliate for all of the preceding taxation years shall be deemed to have been adjusted in accordance with subsections (2.1) and (2.2) in the same manner as if the subsequent corporation had been the electing corporation.

History: Subsec. 5907(2.3) amended by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(10), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(2.4) ["Subsequent corporation" for Reg. 5907(2.3)] — For the purposes of subsection (2.3)

(a) a corporation formed as a result of a merger, to which section 87 of the Act applies, of the electing corporation and one or more other corporations, or

(b) a corporation that has acquired shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate, in respect of which an election under subsection (2.1) has been made, from the electing corporation in a transaction in respect of which an election under section 85 of the Act was made shall be deemed to be a subsequent corporation that does not deal at arm's length with the electing corporation.

(2.5) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 5907(2.5) repealed by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(11), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the repeal applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(2.6) [Corporations deemed to have elected under Reg. 5907(2.1)] — A corporation resident in Canada, and all other corporations resident in Canada with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length, shall each be considered to have elected under subsection (2.1) in respect of an active business carried on by a non-resident corporation that is a foreign affiliate of each such corporation for a taxation year if there is filed with the Minister on or before the day that is the later of

(a) June 30, 1986, and

(b) the earliest of the days on or before which any one of the said corporations is required to file a return of income pursuant to section 150 of the Act for its taxation year following the taxation year in which the taxation year of the affiliate in respect of which the election is made ends, the following information:

(c) a description of the active business sufficient to identify the business, and

(d) a statement on behalf of each such corporation, signed by an authorized official of the corporation on behalf of which the statement is made, that the corporation is electing under subsection (2.1) in respect of the business.

History: Subsec. 5907(2.6) substituted by P.C. 1989-321, subsec. 3(10), applicable in respect of elections made under subsec. 5907(2.1) for 1982 et seq.

(2.7) [Where ITA 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) applies] — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, where

(a) an amount is included in computing the income or loss from an active business of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) of the Act, and

(b) the amount included is in respect of an amount paid or payable (other than an amount paid or payable that is described in clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act) by another non-resident corporation described in subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) of the Act or by a partnership of which such a corporation is a member,

the amount (in respect of which an amount was included in the income or loss from an active business of the particular affiliate for the particular year) paid or payable by the non-resident corporation or the partnership shall, except where it has been deducted under paragraph (2)(j) in computing the non-resident corporation's earnings or loss from an active business, be deducted in computing the earnings or loss of the non-resident corporation or the partnership, as the case may be, from the active business for its earliest taxation year in which the amount was paid or paybable and shall not be deducted in computing its earnings or loss from the active business for any other taxation year.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(2.7)

(2.7) [Where ITA 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) applies] — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, if an amount (referred to in this subsection as the "inclusion amount") is included in computing the income or loss from an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer for a taxation year under subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) of the Act and the inclusion amount is in respect of a particular amount paid or payable,

(a) in the case where clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act is applicable, by the second affiliate referred to in that clause,

(i) the particular amount is to be deducted in computing the second affiliate's income or loss from an active business carried on by it in the country in which it is resident for its earliest taxation year in which that amount was paid or payable,

(ii) the second affiliate is deemed to have carried on an active business in that country for that earliest taxation year, and

(iii) in computing the second affiliate's income or loss for a taxation year from any source, no amount is to be deducted in respect of the particular amount except as required under subparagraph (i); and

(b) in any other case, by the other foreign affiliate referred to in subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, or by a partnership of which the other foreign affiliate is a member, the particular amount is, except where it has been deducted under paragraph (2)(j) in computing the other foreign affiliate's earnings or loss from an active business,

(i) to be deducted in computing the earnings or loss of the other foreign affiliate or the partnership, as the case may be, from the active business for its earliest taxation year in which the particular amount was paid or payable, and

(ii) not to be deducted in computing its earnings or loss from the active business for any other taxation year.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(35), will amend subsec. 5907(2.7) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 2008.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): In general terms, subsection 5907(2.7) provides that, where amounts are included by subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) or (ii) of the Act in computing the income or loss from an active business of a particular foreign affiliate and these amounts are in respect of amounts paid or payable (other than an amount paid or payable described in clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act) to the particular affiliate by a payer that is another non-resident corporation or a partnership in the group, the amounts paid or payable to the particular affiliate by the payer are required to be deducted in computing the payer's earnings or loss from an active business (unless they have already been deducted under paragraph 5907(2)(j)) for the earliest taxation year in which the amounts were paid or payable.

Subsection 5907(2.8) is analogous to subsection 5907(2.7) but applies more specifically to interest payments governed by clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act.

Subsections 5907(2.7) and (2.8) are being combined and are being amended, consequential to the Budget 2007 Act changes to paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act, to replace the references to "non-resident corporation" with references to foreign affiliates. The rules of current subsection 5907(2.8) will now be found in paragraph 5907(2.7)(a) while paragraph (b) will contain the rules of current subsection 5907(2.7).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(9) — Tiered partnerships — look-through rule.

History: Subsec. 5907(2.7) added by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(12), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(2.8) [Where ITA 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) applies] — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, where

(a) an amount is included in computing the income from an active business of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer for a particular taxation year under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(D) of the Act, and

(b) the amount included is in respect of an amount of interest paid or payable by another non-resident corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "second affiliate") to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related

the following rules apply:

(c) that amount of interest shall be deducted in computing the second affiliate's income or loss, from an active business carried on by it in a country in which it is resident and subject to income taxation, for its earliest taxation year in which the amount was paid or payable,

(d) the second affiliate is deemed to have carried on an active business in a country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation for each taxation year referred to in paragraph (c)

in which such an active business was not otherwise carried on by it, and

(e) in computing the second affiliate's income for a taxation year from any source, no amount shall be deducted in respect of an amount paid or payable by it that is referred to in paragraph (c) except as is required under that paragraph.

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 5907(2.8)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(35), will repeal subsec. 5907(2.8), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 2008.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Reg. 5907(2.7).

History: Subsec. 5907(2.8) added by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(12), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(2.9) [Where fresh start rules apply] — In computing the earnings from an active business of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada for the affiliate's taxation year immediately before the particular taxation year of the affiliate referred to in paragraph 95(2)(k) of the Act,

(a) there shall be added to the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1) after adjustment in accordance with subsections (2), (2.1) and (2.2) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the total determined in respect of the affiliate in clause (b)(i)(B) for the year exceeds the total determined in respect of the affiliate in clause (b)(i)(A) for the year,

(ii) where, at the end of the year, the affiliate was deemed because of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and 138(11.91)(e) of the Act to have disposed of property owned by it that was used or held by it in the course of a carrying on the active business in the year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(A) the lesser of the fair market value and the cost to the affiliate at the end of the year of a capital property (referred to in this subparagraph and subparagraph (b)(ii) as a particular "depreciable asset") owned by it that

(I) was used or held by it in the course of carrying on the active business in the year,

(II) was deemed because of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and 138(11.91)(e) of the Act to have been disposed of at the end of the year, and

(III) was property in respect of the cost of which amounts were, at any time, deductible in computing the earnings from the active business under subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1)

exceeds

(B) the amount, if any, by which the cost to the affiliate of the particular depreciable asset exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that can reasonably be regarded as having been deducted in respect of the cost of the particular depreciable asset in computing the earnings (as would be defined in subsection (1) if that definition were read as if the reference in that definition to this subsection did not exist) of the affiliate from the active business in the year or in any preceding taxation year of the affiliate in which it was a foreign affiliate of the corporation or of another corporation resident in Canada which the corporation was not dealing with at arm's length at any time, and

(iii) where, at the end of the year, the affiliate was deemed because of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and 138(11.91)(e) of the Act to have disposed of property (other than capital property) owned by it that was used or held by it in the course of carrying on the active business in the year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount, if any, by which the fair market value of such a property exceeds the cost to the affiliate of the property at the time that is immediately before the end of the year; and

(b) there shall be deducted from the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1) after adjustment in accordance with subsections (2), (2.1) and (2.2) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is a maximum amount deemed because of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and 138(11.91)(d) of the Act to have been claimed under subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) and paragraphs 20(1)(l) and (l.1) and 20(7)(c) of the Act (each of which provisions is referred to in this subparagraph as a "reserve provision") in the year

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount actually claimed by the affiliate as a reserve in the year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of amounts in respect of which a reserve could have been claimed under a reserve provision on the assumption that the affiliate could have claimed amounts in respect of the reserve provisions in the year,

(ii) the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under clause (a)(ii)(B) in respect of a particular depreciable asset described in clause (a)(ii)(A) exceeds the fair market value of the particular depreciable asset at the end of the year, and

(iii) where, at the end of the year, the affiliate was deemed because of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and 138(11.91)(e) of the Act to have disposed of propety (other than capital property) owned by it that was used or held by it in the course of carrying on the active business in the year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount, if any, by which the cost to the affiliate of such a property at the time that is immediately before the end of the year exceeds the fair market value of the property at the end of the year.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(2.9)

(2.9) [Where fresh start rules apply] — If paragraph 95(2)(k.1) of the Act applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this subsection as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to in this subsection as the "specified taxation year") a member of which is, at the end of the period, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer,

(a) in computing the affiliate's earnings or loss from the foreign business referred to in that paragraph for the affiliate's taxation year (referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) as the "preceding taxation year") that includes the day that is immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year,

(i) there is to be added to the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "earnings" in subsection (1), after adjustment in accordance with subsections (2) to (2.2),

(A) where the operator is the affiliate, the total of

(I) the amount, if any, by which the total determined under sub-subclause (ii)(A)(I)2 in respect of the operator for the preceding taxation year exceeds the total determined under sub-subclause (ii)(A)(I)1 in respect of the operator for that year, and

(II) if the operator was deemed under paragraph 95(2)(k.1) of the Act to have, at the end of the preceding taxation year, disposed of property owned by it that was used or held by it in the course of carrying on the foreign business in that year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is determined by the formula

where

A is the fair market value, immediately before the end of that year, of a property deemed because of that paragraph to have been disposed of,

B is the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "relevant cost base" in subsection 95(4) of the Act in respect of the property, in respect of the taxpayer, immediately before the time of the disposition, and

C is the amount, if any, of the capital gain determined in respect of the disposition of the property at that time, and

(B) where the operator is the partnership, the amount determined under subsection 5908(13); and

(ii) there is to be added to the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "loss" in subsection (1),

(A) where the operator is the affiliate, the total of

(I) the amount, if any, by which

1. the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed under paragraph 95(2)(k.1) of the Act to have been claimed under any of paragraphs 20(1)(i), (l.1) and (7)(c), and subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv), of the Act (each of which provisions is referred to in this subparagraph as a "reserve provision") in computing the income from the foreign business for the preceding taxation year

2. the total of all amounts each of which is an amount actually claimed by the operator as a reserve in computing its income from the foreign business for that year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of amounts in respect of which a reserve could have been claimed under a reserve provision on the assumption that the operator could have claimed amounts in respect of the reserve provisions for that year, and

(II) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of B in the formula in subclause (ii)(A)(II) in respect of a property described in that subclause exceeds the amount determined under the description of A in the formula in that clause in respect of the property, and

(B) where the operator is the partnership, the amount determined under subsection 5908(13), and

(b) any property of the operator that is, under that paragraph, deemed to have been disposed of and reacquired by the operator is, for the purposes of this section, deemed to have been disposed of and reacquired by the operator in the same manner and for the same amounts as if that paragraph applied for the purposes of this section.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(10), will amend subsec. 5907(2.9) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 30, 2002; however, if the taxpayer has elected under para. 30(20)(b) of the draft legislation [see Application annotation re proposed ITA 93(1) "taxable Canadian business"], the amendment applies in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1984.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re external reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(2.9) applies where the fresh start rules in paragraph 95(2)(k) of the Act apply to a foreign affiliate in respect of a "foreign business". Subsection 5907(2.9) adjusts the "earnings" from an active business of the affiliate for the year that precedes the fresh start year so that the surplus accounts of the affiliate are also subject to a form of fresh start.

Subsection 5907(2.9) is being amended as a consequence of the amendments to paragraph 95(2)(k) and the addition of new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) of the Act. For details of those amendments, refer to the above commentary for those paragraphs.

The following amendments are being made to subsection 5907(2.9):

- First, subsection 5907(2.9) is being amended to reflect the splitting of paragraph 95(2)(k) of the Act into paragraphs (k) and (k.1).
- Second, the amendments to subsection 5907(2.9) modify the manner in which any necessary reductions are made to the affiliate's relevant surplus accounts. Current subsection 5907(2.9) provides for the reductions to surplus to be made by way of reductions to "earnings". Amended subsection 5907(2.9) provides instead for these amounts to be included in the "loss" (as defined in subsection 5907(1)) of the affiliate.
- Third, consistent with paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) of the Act, the amendments to subsection 5907(2.9) ensure that the fresh start rules will apply where the foreign business is carried on by a partnership of which a foreign affiliate is a member. These amendments to subsection 5907(2.9) ensure, in the case of partnerships, that the fresh start rules will work on the basis of fiscal periods of the partnership and that these rules will therefore be relevant in the computation of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income for the affiliate's taxation year that includes the end of a fiscal period to which the fresh start rules apply.
- Fourth, amended subsection 5907(2.9) broadens the scope of the properties for which deemed fair market value dispositions are to be taken into account in adjusting surplus balances and changes the mechanics for computing those adjustments. These adjustments will now occur for all properties, whether they be the types of properties contemplated by the Canadian tax concepts of depreciable capital, foreign resource or non-capital property, and will be based on the foreign tax "basis" of the property as determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "relevant cost base" in amended subsection 95(4) of the Act. Thus, the adjustment is based on the difference between fair market value and the foreign tax basis of each such property. In the context of property for which tax deductions are claimable under foreign tax law in respect of the cost of the property, such basis is intended to represent the undeducted cost of the property for foreign tax purposes. However, in order to prevent the duplication of amounts in respect of capital gains, which are dealt with, along with capital losses, under subsection 5907(5), such gains are backed out. Note that there is no need to similarly deal with capital losses as none should arise by virtue of their deemed disposition.
- Fifth, amended subsection 5907(2.9) provides, by reference to new subsection 5908(13), rules for allocating the "earnings" and "loss" adjustments to an affiliate that is a member of a partnership. This allocation is based on the affiliate's direct or indirect share of the income or loss of the partnership. (The reference to "indirect" is meant to address tiered partnerships.) For the purpose of this allocation, new subsection 5908(14) provides that, where both the income and the loss of the partnership for the relevant year are nil, the partnership is assumed to have an income of $1 million for that year.
- Sixth, amended subsection 5907(2.9) ensures that the dispositions and reacquisitions of property that are, under paragraph 95(2)(k.1) (by reference to paragraph 138(11.94)(d) of the Act), deemed to occur are taken into account in the computation of the affiliate's surplus balances.

It should be noted that any exempt earnings that are otherwise earned by these rules are subject to the new anti-avoidance rule in subsection 5907(1.03). Thus, the conversion of a foreign affiliate's business from active to passive is intended to be treated as a transaction that is subject to review under the standards imposed by subsection 5907(2.02). Where that subsection applies, exempt earnings otherwise created under subsection 5907(2.9) will be reclassified as taxable earnings. For further details, refer to the above commentary for new subsection 5907(2.02).

Amended subsection 5907(2.9) applies in respect of foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20. 2002. However, if the taxpayer elects retroactive application of the amendments to paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) to (k.2) of the Act, discussed above, amended subsection 5907(2.9) applies in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 5907(2.91) — Property deemed to have been disposed of and reacquired.

History: Subsec. 5907(2.9) added by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(12), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

(3) [Pre-1972 foreign affiliate] — For the purposes of this Part, any corporation that was, on January 1, 1972, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall be deemed to have become a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer on that day.

(4) ["Government of a country"] — For the purposes of this Part, "government of a country" includes the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country.

(5) [Capital gains and losses] — For the purposes of this section, each capital gain and each capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the disposition of property shall be computed in accordance with the rules set out in subsection 95(2) of the Act and, for the purposes of subsection (6), where any such gain or loss is required to be computed in Canadian currency, the amount of such gain or loss shall be converted from Canadian currency into the currency referred to in subsection (6) at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date of disposition of the property.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(5) [to be further amended, below]

(5) [Capital gains and losses] — For the purposes of this section, each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the disposition of property shall be computed in accordance with the rules set out in subsection 95(2) of the Act and, for the purposes of subsection (6), if any such gain or loss is required to be computed in Canadian currency, the amount of such gain or loss shall be converted from Canadian currency into the currency referred to in subsection (6) at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date of disposition of the property.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(36), will amend subsec. 5907(5) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30. 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5907(5) provides that the rules in subsection 95(2) of the Act are to be used to compute the amounts of capital gains and losses to be included in the surplus accounts of a foreign affiliate. It also provides a conversion rule where such gains and losses are computed in Canadian dollars.

Consequential to the amendments made to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act as part of the Budget 2007 Act changes, subsection 5907(5) is amended to ensure it refers to capital gains, capital losses, taxable capital gains, and allowable capital losses.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(5)

(5) [Capital gains and losses] — For the purposes of this section, each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the disposition of property is to be computed in accordance with the rules set out in subsection 95(2) of the Act.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(41), will amend subsec. 5907(5) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Amendment above) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(5) requires the rules of subsection 95(2) of the Act to be used in computing the capital gains and losses of a foreign affiliate for the purposes of section 5907. It also sets out how to convert those amounts from Canadian currency, if applicable, to the currency referred to in subsection 5907(6), for surplus accounting purposes.

Subsection 5907(5) is being amended to move its currency conversion rule to new subsection 5907(5.01). This is being done to facilitate the application of the currency conversion rule to subparagraph (iii) of the description of B in the definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection 5907(1). For more details, refer to the above commentary for the amendments to paragraph 95(2)(e) of the Act.

New subsection 5907(5.01) is also adding an exception for cases where the currency referred to in subsection 5907(6) is Canadian currency as, in such a case, no conversion is necessary.

Related Provisions: ITA 261 — Functional currency election; Reg. 5907(5.01) — Rate of exchange for currency conversion.

History: Subsec. 5907(5) substituted by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(29), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable in respect of dispositions made after November 12, 1981.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(5.01)

(5.01) [Rate of exchange for currency conversion] — For the purposes of subsection (6), if any capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss referred to in subsection (5), or any capital loss referred to in subparagraph (iii) of the description of B in the definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection (1), of a foreign affiliate of a corporation is required to be computed in Canadian currency and the currency referred to in subsection (6) is not Canadian currency, the amount of the gain or loss is to be converted from Canadian currency into the currency referred to in subsection (6) at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date of disposition of the property.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(41), will add subsec. 5907(5.01), applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5907(5).

(5.1) [Where no gain or loss recognized by other country] — Notwithstanding subsection (5) and except as provided in subsection (9), where, under the income tax law of a country other than Canada that is relevant in computing the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada from an active business carried on by it in a country, no gain or loss is recognized in respect of a disposition by the affiliate of a capital property used or held principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business to a person (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or that is a foreign affiliate of another person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, for the purposes of this section,

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(5.1) opening words

(5.1) [Where no gain or loss recognized by other country] — Notwithstanding subsection (5), if, under the income tax laws of a country other than Canada that are relevant in computing the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada from an active business carried on by it in a country, no gain or loss is recognized in respect of a disposition (other than a disposition to which subsection (9) applies) by the affiliate of a capital property used or held principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business to a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that was, at the time of the disposition, a designated person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer, for the purposes of this section,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(42), will amend the opening words of subsec. 5907(5.1) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(5.1) suppresses surplus that would otherwise arise on a disposition by a foreign affiliate of certain capital property to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, or of a non-arm's length person, where foreign tax law provides rollover treatment.

Subsection 5907(5.1) is being amended to refer to the new definition of "designated person or partnership" to identify relevant transferees.

(a) the affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the aggregate of the adjusted cost base to the affiliate of the property immediately before the disposition and any outlays and expenses to the extent they were made or incurred by the affiliate for the purpose of making the disposition;

(b) the cost to the transferee of the property acquired from the affiliate shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the affiliate's proceeds of disposition, as determined under paragraph (a); and

(c) the transferee shall be deemed to have acquired the property on the date that it was acquired by the affiliate.

History: Subsec. 5907(5.1) substituted by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(30), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable to 1976 et seq.

Subsec. 5907(5.1) added by P.C. 1980-503, subsec. 5(6), February 8, 1980, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 27, 1980, effective in respect of 1976 et seq.

(6) [Selection of currency] — All amounts referred to in subsections (1) and (2) shall be maintained on a consistent basis from year to year in the currency of the country in which the foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada is itself resident or such currency, other than Canadian currency, as is reasonable in the circumstances.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(6)

(6) [Selection of currency] — All amounts referred to in subsections (1) and (2) shall be maintained on a consistent basis from year to year in the currency of the country in which the foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada is resident or any currency that the corporation resident in Canada demonstrates to be reasonable in the circumstances.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(37), will amend subsec. 5907(6) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5907(6) is a rule that applies primarily for the purpose of computing a foreign affiliate's surplus balances. It requires that any amounts referred to in subsections 5907(1) and (2) be maintained on a consistent basis from year to year in the currency of the country in which the foreign affiliate is resident or such other currency, other than Canadian currency, as is reasonable in the circumstances.

The amendments to subsection 5907(6) are consequential to the amendments made to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act as part of the Budget 2007 Act changes. In particular, the language of subsection 5907(6) is being made consistent with the language in the definition "calculating currency" in subsection 95(1) of the Act. Among other things, this amendment removes the restriction relating to Canadian currency.

Related Provisions: ITA 261 — Functional currency election; Reg. 5907(5.01) — Rate of exchange for currency conversion; Reg. 5907(5.1) — Exception.

(7) [Stock dividend] — For the purposes of this Part, the amount of any stock dividend paid by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada on a share of a class of its capital stock shall be deemed to be nil.

(7.1) [Dividend giving rise to credit in other country] — Where, at any time in a taxation year of a corporation resident in Canada, a foreign affiliate of the corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "payor affiliate") pays a dividend on the shares of any class of its capital stock to the corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "particular dividend") and as a result of the payment the corporation is entitled to a tax credit from the government of the country in which the payor affiliate is resident,

(a) if the particular dividend was paid on or after the day on which this subsection comes into force, or

(b) if the particular dividend was paid before the day on which this subsection comes into force and in a taxation year commencing after 1978 and the corporation elects in respect of the tax credit in its return of income for the 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988 or 1989 taxation year required to be filed pursuant to subsection 150(1) of the Act,

for the purpose of this Part, the following rules apply:

(c) the tax credit shall be deemed to be a dividend paid at that time by the payor affiliate on the shares of that class of its capital stock to the corporation,

(d) immediately before that time there shall be added to the exempt surplus of the payor affiliate an amount equal to the proportion of the tax credit that

(i) the portion of the particular dividend that would, were the corporation not entitled to the tax credit, be deemed by subsection 5900(1) to have been paid out of the payor affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation

(ii) the particular dividend,

(e) immediately before that time, there shall be added to the taxable surplus of the payor affiliate an amount equal to the proportion of the tax credit that

(i) the portion of the particular dividend that would, were the corporation not entitled to the tax credit, be deemed by subsection 5900(1) to have been paid out of the payor affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation

(ii) the particular dividend, and

(f) the foreign tax applicable to the aggregate of

(i) the portion of the particular dividend determined under subparagraph (e)(i), and

(ii) the portion of any amount deemed to be a dividend by virtue of paragraph (c) that is deemed by subsection 5900(1) to have been paid out of the payor affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation shall, notwithstanding paragraph 5900(1)(d), be equal to the amount determined under paragraph 5900(1)(d) in respect of the amount referred to in subparagraph (i), less the amount determined under paragraph (e).

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 5907(7.1)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(43), will repeal subsec. 5907(7.1), applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(7.1) ensures that the exempt and taxable surplus of a foreign affiliate of a Canadian corporation is maintained at an appropriate amount where the Canadian corporation in receipt of a dividend from the affiliate also receives a tax credit from the government of the country in which the affiliate resides. Without this amendment the surplus balances of the affiliate would be inappropriately reduced upon the receipt of this tax credit. This rule was designed to deal with the so-called "advance corporation tax" ("ACT") that applied in the U.K.

This subsection is being repealed as of August 19, 2011. This provision is no longer relevant as the U.K. ACT was abolished in 1999.

History: Subsec. 5907(7.1) added by P.C. 1989-321, subsec. 3(11), March 2, 1989, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 15, 1989, applicable for purposes of making computations under Part LIX after March 15, 1989 and, where the taxpayer so elects in accordance with para. 5907(7.1)(b), with respect to computations under Part LIX at any time commencing after the time immediately prior to the receipt of the tax credit specified in the election.

(8) [Deemed new taxation year on merger] — For the purposes of computing the various amounts referred to in this section, the first taxation year of a foreign affiliate formed as a result of a merger in the manner described in subsection 5905(3) shall be deemed to have commenced at the time of the merger, and a taxation year of a predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5905(3)) that would otherwise have ended after the merger shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the merger.

(8) [Deemed new taxation year on merger] — For the purposes of computing the various amounts referred to in this section, the first taxation year of a foreign affiliate, of a corporation resident in Canada, that is formed as a result of a foreign merger (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(8.1) of the Act) is deemed to have commenced at the time of the merger, and a taxation year of a predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 5905(3)) that would otherwise have ended after that time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(44), will amend subsec. 5907(8) to read as above, applicable in respect of mergers or combinations in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(8) is a rule that applies for the purposes of computing the surplus balances of foreign affiliates that are formed on certain mergers. Subsection 5907(8) creates a deemed year end immediately before the merger for each predecessor of the new corporation and a new taxation year at the time of the merger for the new corporation.

Subsection 5907(8) is being amended to modernize and clarify its language as well as to make its language consistent with other provisions in the Regulations that deal with mergers.

Related Provisions: ITA 95(4.2) — Absorptive mergers.

(9) [Where FA dissolved] — Where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada has been dissolved and paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act does not apply, for the purpose of computing the various amounts referred to in this section, the following rules apply:

(a) where, at a particular time in the course of the dissolution, all or substantially all of the property owned by the affiliate immediately before that time was distributed to the shareholders of the affiliate, the taxation year of the affiliate that otherwise would have included the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the particular time;

(b) except as provided in paragraph 88(3)(a) and subparagraph 95(2)(e)(i) of the Act,

(i) each property of the affiliate that was distributed to the shareholders in the course of the dissolution shall be deemed to have been disposed of immediately before the end of the affiliate's taxation year deemed to have ended by paragraph (a) for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value thereof immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) each property of the affiliate that was otherwise disposed of in the course of the dissolution shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the affiliate for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value thereof at the time of disposition; and

(c) except as provided in subparagraph 95(2)(e)(i) of the Act, each property of the dissolved affiliate that was disposed of or distributed in the course of the dissolution to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada shall be deemed to have been acquired by that other foreign affiliate at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of that property to the dissolved affiliate, as determined in paragraph (b).

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(9)

(9) [Where FA dissolved] — If a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has been liquidated and dissolved (otherwise than as a result of a foreign merger within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(8.1) of the Act), for the purposes of computing the various amounts referred to in this section, the following rules apply:

(a) where, at a particular time, property having a fair market value equal to or greater than 90 percent of the fair market value of all of the property that was owned by the affiliate immediately before the commencement of the liquidation and dissolution has been disposed of by the affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution, the taxation year of the affiliate that otherwise would have included the particular time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time; and

(b) each property of the affiliate that was disposed of by the affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution is deemed to have been

(i) disposed of by the affiliate, at the time that is the earlier of the time it was actually disposed of and the time that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, for proceeds of disposition equal to

(A) if the liquidation and dissolution is one to which subsection 88(3) of the Act applies in respect of the disposition, the amount that would, in the absence of subsection 88(3.3) of the Act, be determined under paragraph 88(3)(a) or (b) of the Act, as the case may be,

(B) if the liquidation and dissolution is one to which paragraph 95(2)(e) of the Act applies in respect of the disposition, the amount determined under subparagraph 95(2)(e)(i) or (ii) of the Act, as the case may be, and

(C) in any other case, the fair market value of the property at the time it was actually disposed of, and

(ii) acquired by the person or partnership to which the affiliate disposed of the property, at the time it was actually acquired, at a cost equal to the affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(45), will amend subsec. 5907(9) to read as above, applicable in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002 except that,

(a) if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation [see Application annotation to proposed ITA 95(1)"designated liquidation and dissolution"], para. 5907(9)(b) is, in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin on or before February 27, 2004, to be read as follows:

(b) each property of the affiliate that was disposed of by the affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution is, subject to subsection 88(3) of the Act, deemed to have been

(i) disposed of by the affiliate, at the time that is the earlier of the time it was actually disposed of and the time that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, for proceeds of disposition equal to

(A) if the liquidation and dissolution is one to which paragraph 95(2)(e) of the Act applies in respect of the disposition, the amount determined under subparagraph 95(2)(e)(i) or (ii) of the Act, and

(B) in any other case, the fair market value of the property at the time it was actually disposed of, and

(ii) acquired by the person or partnership to which the affiliate disposed of the property, at the time it was actually acquired, at a cost equal to the affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property.

(b) if the taxpayer has not elected under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation, para. 5907(9)(b) is, in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that

(i) begin on or before February 27, 2004, to be read as follows:

(b) each property of the affiliate that was disposed of by the affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution is, subject to subsection 88(3) and paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1) of the Act, deemed to have been

(i) disposed of by the affiliate, at the time that is the earlier of the time it was actually disposed of and the time that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at the time it was actually disposed of, and

(ii) acquired by the person or partnership to which the affiliate disposed of the property, at the time it was actually acquired, at a cost equal to the affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property.

(ii) begin after February 27, 2004 and before August 20, 2011, to be read as follows:

(b) each property of the affiliate that was disposed of by the affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution is, subject to paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1) of the Act, deemed to have been

(i) disposed of by the affiliate, at the time that is the earlier of the time it was actually disposed of and the time that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, for proceeds of disposition equal to

(A) if the liquidation and dissolution is one to which subsection 88(3) of the Act applies in respect of the disposition, the amount that would (in the absence of subsection 88(3.3) of the Act) be determined under paragraph 88(3)(a) or (b) of the Act, as the case may be, and

(B) in any other case, the fair market value of the property at the time it was actually disposed of, and

(ii) acquired by the person or partnership to which the affiliate disposed of the property, at the time it was actually acquired, at a cost equal to the affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(9) provides special surplus rules that apply where a foreign affiliate undergoes a taxable liquidation, i.e. one to which paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act does not apply. Subsection 5907(9) consists of four general parts: the conditions for its application, a deemed year-end rule, a dispositions rule and an acquisitions rule.

Subsection 5907(9) is being amended in the following ways.

First, the conditions for its application are being amended to ensure it does not apply to any foreign mergers and the reference to 95(2)(e.1) of the Act is being removed. The latter change is consequential to the restructuring of paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1) of the Act, as discussed above.

Second, the deemed year-end rule is amended to clarify the time at which the fair market value of the relevant property is determined and to replace the "all or substantially all of the property" reference with a simpler "90 percent of the fair market value of the property" reference.

Third, the dispositions rule is amended to clarify the time of the dispositions and to make a more direct link to the special rollover provisions of amended subsection 88(3) and amended paragraph 95(2)(e) of the Act. Note that clause 5907(9)(b)(i)(A)'s special reading in respect of subsection 88(3.3) is discussed in the commentary above in respect of that subsection.

Fourth, the acquisitions rule is moved from paragraph (c) to subparagraph (b)(ii).

These amendments generally apply to liquidations and dissolutions that begin after December 20, 2002. However, a number of transitional readings of paragraph 5907(9)(b) apply to take into account the different comings-into-force of the amendments to subsection 88(3) and paragraph 95(2)(e), including elections in respect thereof.

History: Subsec. 5907(9) substituted by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(31), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable to 1976 et seq.

Subsec. 5907(9) substituted by P.C. 1980-503, subsec. 5(7), February 8, 1980, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 27, 1980, effective in respect of 1976 et seq.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(9.1)

(9.1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, in determining the earnings or loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, for a taxation year of the affiliate from an active business carried on by it in a country,

(a) from a disposition of property to which paragraph 95(2)(d.1) of the Act applies, those earnings or that loss are to be determined using the rules in that paragraph; and

(b) from a disposition of property acquired in a transaction to which paragraph 95(2)(d.1) of the Act applies, the cost to the affiliate of the property is to be determined using the rules in that paragraph.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(45), will add subsec. 5907(9.1), applicable to mergers or combinations in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 16(31) of the draft legislation, subsec. 5907(9.1) applies to mergers or combinations in respect of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(9.1) is added to ensure that the "earnings" of a foreign affiliate that derive from dispositions of property to which the foreign merger provisions in amended paragraph 95(2)(d.1) apply, or have previously applied, take into account the rollover rules in that paragraph.

This new subsection applies to mergers or combinations that occur after August 19, 2011. However, if a taxpayer elects retroactive application of the amendments to paragraph 95(2)(d.1) of the Act, this new subsection applies to mergers or combinations that occur after December 20, 2002.

(10) [Tax sparing] — Where

(a) the net earnings or net loss for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada from an active business carried on in a country other than Canada would otherwise be included in the affiliate's taxable earnings or taxable loss, as the case may be, for the year,

(b) the rate of the income or profits tax to which any earnings of that active business of the affiliate are subjected by the government of that country is, by virtue of a special exemption from or reduction of tax (other than an export incentive) that is provided under a law of such country to promote investments or projects in pursuance of a program of economic development, less than the rate of such tax that would, but for such exemption or reduction, be paid by the affiliate, and

(c) the affiliate qualified for such exemption from or reduction of tax in respect of an investment made by it in that country before January 1, 1976 or in respect of an investment made by it or a project undertaken by it in that country pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before January 1, 1976, for the purposes of this Part, such net earnings or net loss shall be included in the affiliate's exempt earnings or exempt loss, as the case may be, for the year and not in the affiliate's taxable earnings or taxable loss, as the case may be, for the year.

(11) ["Designated treaty country"] — For the purposes of this Part, a sovereign state or other jurisdiction is a "designated treaty country" for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a corporation if Canada has entered into a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income, or a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement, in respect of that sovereign state or jurisdiction, that has entered into force and has effect for that taxation year, but any territory, possession, department, dependency or area of that sovereign state or jurisdiction to which that agreement or convention does not apply is not considered to be part of that sovereign state or jurisdiction for the purpose of determining whether it is a designated treaty country.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5907(1.02) — New FA deemed resident in designated treaty country throughout year; Reg. 5907(11.1) — Effective date of treaty; Reg. 5907(11.11) — When tax information exchange agreement in force; Reg. 5907(11.2) — Whether FA resident in treaty country.

(11.1) [Effective date of treaty for Reg. 5907(11)] — For the purpose of subsection (11), where a comprehensive agreement or convention between Canada and another country for the elimination of double taxation on income has entered into force, that convention or agreement is deemed to have entered into force and have effect in respect of a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a corporation any day of which is in the period that begins on the day on which the agreement or convention was signed and that ends on the last day of the last taxation year of the affiliate for which the agreement or convention is effective.

(11.11) [When TIEA deemed in force] — For the purpose of applying subsection (11) in respect of a foreign affiliate of a corporation, where a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement enters into force on a particular day, the agreement is deemed to enter into force and to come into effect on the first day of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the particular day.

(11.2) [Whether FA resident in treaty country] — For the purposes of this Part, a foreign affiliate of a corporation is, at any time, deemed not to be resident in a country with which Canada has entered into a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income unless

(a) the affiliate is, at that time, a resident of that country for the purpose of the agreement or convention;

(b) the affiliate would, at that time, be a resident of that country for the purpose of the agreement or convention if the affiliate were treated, for the purpose of income taxation in that country, as a body corporate;

(c) where the agreement or convention entered into force before 1995, the affiliate would, at that time, be a resident of that country for the purpose of the agreement or convention but for a provision in the agreement or convention that has not been amended after 1994 and that provides that the agreement or convention does not apply to the affiliate; or

(d) the affiliate would, at that time, be a resident of that country, as provided by paragraph (a), (b) or (c) if the agreement or convention had entered into force.

History [Reg. 5907(11)–(11.2)]: Subsec. 5907(11) amended, subsec. 5907(11.11) added, by 2009, c. 2, s. 112, applicable after 2007.

Subsec. 5907(11) amended, subsecs. (11.1) and (11.2) added, by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(13), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a corporation that begin after 1995, except that, where the corporation notifies the Minister of National Revenue in its return of income for its first taxation year that begins after 1994 or for a taxation year in which a dividend was paid by the foreign affiliate of its election to have subsections 5907(11) (as amended), (11.1) and (11.2) apply to a taxation year of the foreign affiliate of the corporation that begins before 1996,

(a) the amendment applies to that taxation year and each subsequent taxation year of the foreign affiliate of the corporation; and

(b) any reference in s. 5907 to "country listed in subsection (11)" shall be read as "designated treaty country" and any reference to "country not listed in subsection (11)" shall be read as "country that is not a designated treaty country" for that taxation year and those subsequent taxation years of the foreign affiliate of the corporation.

Subsec. 5907(11) substituted by P.C. 1989-321, subsec. 3(12), March 2, 1989, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 15, 1989, applicable to 1982 et seq., except as otherwise noted in the above list. Those exceptions comprise additions and deletions made by subsecs. 3(13) to (18) of the said P.C. 1989-321.

Subsec. 5907(11) amended by P.C. 1980-503, subsecs. 5(8)–(10), February 8, 1980, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 27, 1980, effective as to paras. (a.1) and (d.1), in respect of 1978 et seq., and as to paras. (v) and (w), in respect of 1980 et seq.

Subsec. 5907(11) amended by P.C. 1978-589, March 2, 1978, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 22, 1978, applicable, as to paras. (a), (b.1), (b.2), (c.1), (e.1), (f.1), (h), (s.1), (aa.1), (aa.2), (aa.3) and (ee.1), to 1976 et seq., and as to paras. (u) and (kk), to taxation years commencing on or after January 1, 1978.

I.T. Technical News: 16 (U.S. S-Corps and LLCs).

(12) [ACB of partnership interest] — For the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(j) of the Act, the adjusted cost base to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of an interest in a partnership at any time is prescribed to be the cost thereof otherwise determined at that time except that

(a) there shall be added to that cost such of the following amounts as are applicable, namely,

(i) any amount included in the earnings of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to profits of the partnership,

(ii) the affiliate's incomes as described by the description of "A" in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that can reasonably be considered to relate to profits of the partnership,

(iii) any amount included in computing the exempt earnings or taxable earnings, as the case may be, of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital gain of the partnership,

(iv) where the affiliate has, at any time before that time and in a taxation year ending after 1971, made a contribution of capital to the partnership otherwise than by way of a loan, such part of the amount of the contribution as cannot reasonably be regarded as a gift made to or for the benefit of any other member of the partnership who was related to the affiliate, and

(v) such portion of any income or profits tax refunded before that time by the government of a country to the partnership as may reasonably be regarded as tax refunded in respect of an amount described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii), and

(b) there shall be deducted from that cost such of the following amounts as are applicable, namely,

(i) any amount included in the loss of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 that may reasonably be considered to relate to a loss of the partnership,

(ii) the affiliate's losses as described by the description of D in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that can reasonably be considered to relate to the losses of the partnership,

(iii) any amount included in computing the exempt loss or taxable loss, as the case may be, of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital loss of the partnership,

(iv) any amount received by the affiliate before that time and in a taxation year ending after 1971 as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, a distribution of his share of the partnership profits or partnership capital, and

(v) such portion of any income or profits tax paid before that time to the government of a country by the partnership as may reasonably be regarded as tax paid in respect of an amount described in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (iii), and, for greater certainty, where any interest of a foreign affiliate in a partnership was reacquired by the affiliate after having been previously disposed of, no adjustment that was required to be made under this subsection before such reacquisition shall be made under this subsection to the cost to the affiliate of the interest as reacquired property of the affiliate.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 46(38), will repeal subsec. 5907(12), applicable after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5907(12) prescribes a foreign affiliate's adjusted cost base of a partnership interest, for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(j) of the Act.

As part of an initiative to consolidate the partnership provisions of Part LIX into section 5908, this subsection is being renumbered as subsection 5908(10).

History: Subparas. 5907(12)(a)(ii), (b)(ii) amended by P.C. 1997-1670, subsecs. 8(14), (16), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) the subsec. applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

The opening words of subpara. (b) amended by P.C. 1997-1670, subsec. 8(15), November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable after November 12, 1981.

Subsec. 5907(12) added by P.C. 1985-467, subsec. 4(32), February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, effective commencing November 13, 1981.

(13) [Immigration of FA to Canada] — For the purpose of subparagraph 128.1(1)(d)(ii) of the Act, the amount prescribed to be included in the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the taxable surplus of the affiliate in respect of the taxpayer at the end of the year other than the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times (C - 1)$$

where

A is the total of the underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the taxpayer at the end of the year and the amount, to the extent that it is not otherwise included in that underlying foreign tax, that would have been added to that underlying foreign tax if each disposition deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act had been an actual disposition,

B is the part of the value of A that can reasonably be considered to relate to the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income, and

C is the relevant tax factor, as defined in subsection 95(1) of the Act, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(a) of the Act to be added at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the taxpayer at the end of the year

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(b) of the Act to be deducted at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the taxpayer at the end of the year.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5907(13)

(13) For the purposes of subparagraph (ii) of paragraph 128.1(1)(d) of the Act, the prescribed amount is the amount determined by the formula

$$X + Y$$

where

X is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$A - B - (C - D) + (E - F)$$

where

A is the taxable surplus of the foreign affiliate of the other taxpayer referred to in that paragraph, in respect of the other taxpayer, at the end of the year referred to in that subparagraph,

B is the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income for the year to the extent those net earnings have been included in the amount referred to in the description of A,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have increased because of the gain or income of the affiliate that would have arisen if a disposition, deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act, of a property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount otherwise added in computing the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year in respect of income or profits taxes paid to the government of a country in respect of all or a portion of a gain or an income of the affiliate referred to in the description of C,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have decreased because of the loss of the affiliate that would have arisen if a disposition, deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act, of a property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate, and

F is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount otherwise deducted in computing the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year in respect of income or profits taxes refunded by the government of a country in respect of all or a portion of a loss of the affiliate referred to in the description of E;

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$[(G - H) \times (J - 1)] + K$$

where

G is the amount determined by the formula

$$L + M - N$$

where

L is the underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year,

M is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of C in paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under the description of D in that paragraph, and

N is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of E in paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under the description of F in that paragraph, and

H is the portion of the value of L that can reasonably be considered to relate to the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income,

J is the other taxpayer's relevant tax factor (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1) of the Act) for its taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before the particular time, and

K is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(a) of the Act to be added at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the other taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the other taxpayer at the end of the year

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(b) of the Act to be deducted at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the other taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the other taxpayer at the end of the year, and

Y is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$P - (Q - R) + (S - T)$$

where

P is the affiliate's hybrid surplus in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year,

Q is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the affiliate's hybrid underlying tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have increased because of the capital gain of the affiliate that would have arisen if a disposition, deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act, of a property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate,

R is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount otherwise added in computing the affiliate's hybrid underlying tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year in respect of income or profits taxes paid to the government of a country in respect of all or a portion of a capital gain of the affiliate referred to in the description of Q,

S is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the affiliate's hybrid underlying tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have decreased because of the capital loss of the affiliate that would have arisen if a disposition, deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act, of a property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate, and

T is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount otherwise deducted in computing the affiliate's hybrid underlying tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year in respect of income or profits taxes refunded by the government of a country in respect of all or a portion of a capital loss of the affiliate referred to in the description of S;

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$[U \times (V - 0.5)] + (W \times 0.5)$$

where

U is the amount determined by the formula

$$U.1 + U.2 - U.3$$

where

U.1 is the hybrid underlying tax of the affiliate in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year,

U.2 is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of Q in paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under the description of R in that paragraph, and

U.3 is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of S in paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under the description of T in that paragraph,

V is the other taxpayer's relevant tax factor (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1) of the Act) for its taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before the particular time, and

W is the amount determined under paragraph (a).

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(46), will amend subsec. 5907(13) to read as above, applicable after 1992 in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer; however,

(a) if the foreign affiliate elected in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of S.C. 1994, c. 21 , the amendment is applicable to the foreign affiliate from the foreign affiliate's time of continuation (within the meaning assigned by that paragraph);

(b) in its application in respect of dispositions that occur on or before August 19, 2011, subject to para. (c), subsec. 5907(13) is to be read as follows:

(13) For the purposes of subparagraph (ii) of paragraph 128.1(1)(d) of the Act, the prescribed amount is the amount determined by the formula

$$X - Z$$

where

X is the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - (C - D)$$

where

A is the taxable surplus of the foreign affiliate of the other taxpayer referred to in that paragraph, in respect of the other taxpayer, at the end of the year referred to in that subparagraph,

B is the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income for the year to the extent those net earnings have been included in the amount referred to in the description of A,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have increased because of the gain or income of the affiliate that would have arisen if a disposition, deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act, of a property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount otherwise added in computing the affiliate's underlying foreign tax in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year in respect of income or profits taxes paid to the government of a country in respect of all or a portion of a gain or an income of the affiliate referred to in the description of C, and

Z is the amount determined by the formula

$$[(G - H) \times (J - 1)] + K$$

where

G is the amount determined by the formula

$$L + M$$

where

L is the underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year, and

M is the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under the description of C exceeds the amount determined under the description of D, and

H is the portion of the value of L that can reasonably be considered to relate to the affiliate's net earnings for the year in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income,

J is the other taxpayer's relevant tax factor (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1) of the Act) for its taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before the particular time, and

K is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(a) of the Act to be added at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the other taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the other taxpayer at the end of the year

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(b) of the Act to be deducted at any time in a preceding taxation year in computing the adjusted cost base to the other taxpayer of the shares of the affiliate owned by the other taxpayer at the end of the year.

(c) in its application in respect of dispositions that occur before February 28, 2008, the description of M in subsec. 5907(13), as required to be read by para. (b) above, is instead to be read as follows:

M is the amount that would be determined to be the amount by which the amount determined under the description of L exceeds the amount determined under the description of D if this section were read without reference to subsection 114(4), and

Technical Notes: Subsection 5907(13) prescribes the amount to be added to the foreign accrual property income ("FAPI") of a foreign affiliate that immigrates to Canada for the purposes of paragraph 128.1(1)(d) of the Act. Essentially this rule forces the recognition of the affiliate's taxable surplus immediately before the immigration.

The FAPI inclusion is generally measured as the excess of the affiliate's taxable surplus balance over the grossed-up amount of its underlying foreign tax ("UFT"). However, any taxable surplus and UFT relating to FAPI of the affiliate is backed out from the inclusion formula.

One of the additions to UFT in the inclusion formula (in the description of A in paragraph 5907(13)(b)) is a notional amount representing the foreign tax that would have been paid if the dispositions deemed under paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act had been actual dispositions (less any amounts that have already been included in UFT).

A number of amendments are being made to subsection 5907(13).

First, it is being restructured in order to make it more user-friendly. New variable X now contains all of the rules that are in current paragraphs (a) to (c).

Second, as a consequence of the introduction of the "hybrid surplus" concept, analogous rules are being added to account for "hybrid surplus" and "hybrid underlying tax". These rules are found in new variable Y.

Third, to correct an error in the current law, taxable surplus (and hybrid surplus) is now to be reduced by the UFT addition for notional taxes paid in respect of deemed dispositions, as noted above. This is dealt with in new variables C and D (and Q and R for hybrid surplus).

Fourth, the possibility of losses and notional tax refunds in respect of deemed dispositions is now being contemplated by new variables E, F, S and T.

Although these amendments are stated to apply after 1992 (subject to whether the taxpayer elected under a 1994 enactment), the effect of the transitional reading of these amendments is that the amendments in respect of hybrid surplus and those dealing with losses from deemed dispositions apply only after August 19, 2011.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(14)

(14) For the purposes of the description of C in paragraph (a) of the description of X in subsection (13) and the description of Q in paragraph (a) of the description of Y in subsection (13), the amount by which the underlying foreign tax or the hybrid underlying tax, as the case may be, of the affiliate in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have increased if a disposition (referred to in this subsection as the "notional actual disposition") deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act of any property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount (determined on the assumption that the notional actual disposition occurred at the time of the deemed disposition) that can reasonably be considered to be the amount of income or profits tax that the affiliate would, because of the notional actual disposition, have had to pay to the government of a particular country (other than Canada), in addition to any other income or profits tax otherwise payable to that government, in relation to the gain or income of the affiliate from the notional actual disposition

(b) the amount that can reasonably be considered to be the portion of the notional income or profits tax payable by the affiliate to the government of the particular country in relation to the gain or income of the affiliate from the notional actual disposition (determined on the assumptions that the notional actual disposition occurred immediately after the time that is immediately after the time of the deemed disposition and that the notional income or profits tax payable by the affiliate to the government of the particular country in relation to the notional actual disposition is equal to the amount determined under paragraph (a)) that, because of a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income between the government of the particular country and the government of any other country, would not have been payable to the government of the particular country.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 20(6), will add subsec. 5907(14), applicable after 1992 in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, however,

(a) if the foreign affiliate elected in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of S.C. 1994, c. 21, subsec. 5907(14) is applicable to the foreign affiliate from the foreign affiliate's time of continuation (within the meaning assigned by that paragraph);

(b) in their application in respect of dispositions that occur before August 20, 2011, the opening words of subsec. 5907(14) are to be read as follows:

(14) For the purposes of the description of C in the description of X in subsection (13), the amount by which the underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the taxpayer at the end of the year would have increased, if a disposition (referred to in this subsection as the "notional actual disposition") deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act of any property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate, is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

Technical Notes: In some instances, the gains that an immigrating foreign affiliate would realize if it had actually disposed of its property may, as a matter of foreign domestic tax law, be taxable but as a result of an income tax convention either the gain may be exempt or the tax may be refundable. New subsection 5907(14) ensures that in such a case variables C and Q (and, consequentially, variables M and U.2) in new subsection 5907(13) do not recognize the treaty exempt portion of any such notional tax.

New subsection 5907(14) applies after 1992 (subject to whether the taxpayer elected under a 1994 enactment), but the references to "hybrid surplus" and related concepts apply only after August 19, 2011.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5907(15)

(15) For the purposes of the description of E in paragraph (a) of the description of X in subsection (13) and the description of S in paragraph (a) of the description of Y in subsection (13), the amount by which the underlying foreign tax or the hybrid underlying tax, as the case may be, of the affiliate in respect of the other taxpayer at the end of the year would have decreased if a disposition (referred to in this subsection as the "notional actual disposition") deemed by paragraph 128.1(1)(b) of the Act of any property by the affiliate had been an actual disposition of the property by the affiliate is the total of all amounts each of which the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount (determined on the assumption that the notional actual disposition occurred at the time of the deemed disposition) that can reasonably be considered to be the amount of income or profits tax that the affiliate would, because of the notional actual disposition, have had refunded to it by the government of a particular country (other than Canada), in addition to any other income or profits tax otherwise refundable by that government, in relation to the loss or capital loss, as the case may be, of the affiliate from the notional actual disposition

(b) the amount that can reasonably be considered to be the portion of the notional income or profits tax refundable to the affiliate by the government of the particular country in relation to the loss or capital loss, as the case may be, of the affiliate from the notional actual disposition (determined on the assumptions that the notional actual disposition occurred immediately after the time that is immediately after the time of the deemed disposition and that the notional income or profits tax refundable to the affiliate by the government of the particular country in relation to the notional actual disposition is equal to the amount determined by paragraph (a)) that, because of a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income between the government of the particular country and the government of any other country, would not have been refundable by the government of the particular country.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 30(46), will add subsec. 5907(15), applicable in respect of dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011.

Technical Notes: New subsection 5907(15) is simply the "flip-side" of subsection 5907(14) in that it deals with losses.

5908. (1), (2) [Repealed]

History: S. 5908 repealed by P.C. 1997-1670, s. 9, November 20, 1997, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 10, 1997, applicable December 10, 1997.

S. 5908 added by P.C. 1985-467, s. 5, February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5908 [to be further amended, below]

5908. (1) [FA owned by partnership — look-through rule] — For the purposes of this subsection, subsections (2) to (7), paragraph 5902(2)(b), and section 5905, if at any time shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada are, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, owned by a partnership, or are deemed under this subsection to be owned by a partnership, each member of the partnership is deemed to own at that time the number of shares of that class that is determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is the number of shares of that class that are so owned or so deemed owned by the partnership;

B is the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at that time; and

C is the fair market value of all members' interests in the partnership at that time.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): New section 5908 contains a series of provisions relating to partnerships. There are three main aspects of new section 5908. as follows:

- it provides rules (primarily in subsections 5908(1) to (5) and subsection 5908(8)) that are consequential to changes made to the Act in 1999, particularly in respect of the addition of subsection 93(1.2) and section 93.1;
- it contains (in subsections 5908(6) and (7)) the partnership aspects of the new rules found in subsections 5905(5.2) and (5.4); and
- it contains, in subsection 5908(10), the partnership adjusted cost base rules that are prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(j) of the Act. (This rule is currently found in subsection 5907(12).)

Subsection 5908(1) is a rule that is similar to subsection 93.1(1) of the Act. It deems a partnership's shares of a foreign affiliate to be owned by the members of the partnership, based on the members' proportionate interests in the partnership.

These new subsections [5908(1)–(5) — ed.] generally apply for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after November 1999 except that a transitional reading of subsections 5908(1) and (2) is provided to reflect an earlier draft of these rules (which were initially proposed to be numbered as subsections 5905(14) and (15)). This transitional reading applies to certain specified events that either occur or begin on or before December 18, 2009.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(9) — Tiered partnerships — look-through rule.

(2) [Change in FA shares owned through partnership] — For the purposes of subsections (4) and 5905(1), (5) and (7.1), if a person is deemed by subsection (1) to own at a particular time a different number of shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada (which shares so deemed owned are referred to in this subsection as "affiliate shares") than the person was deemed by that subsection to have owned immediately before the particular time, the number of affiliate shares equal to that difference is deemed to be

(a) disposed of, at the particular time, by the person, when that person is deemed to own fewer affiliate shares at the particular time than immediately before it; and

(b) acquired by, at the particular time, the person, when that person is deemed to own more affiliate shares at the particular time than immediately before it.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5908(2) is a rule that deems dispositions and acquisitions of shares to occur whenever a member's interest in the shares of a foreign affiliate, as determined under subsection 5908(1), changes. Subsection 5908(3) ensures that this rule works appropriately when a partnership acquires or disposes of its entire holdings of shares of a foreign affiliate or when a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate acquires or disposes of its entire interest in a partnership that holds shares of a foreign affiliate. The dispositions and acquisitions of shares that are deemed to occur under subsection 5908(2) are primarily relevant for determining surplus adjustments under section 5905.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership; Reg. 5908(3) — Interpretation; Reg. 5908(9) — Tiered partnerships — look-through rule.

(3) [Interpretation for subsec. (2)] — For the purposes of subsection (2),

(a) if a partnership of which a person is a member at any time does not own, and (but for this subsection) is not deemed by subsection (1) to own, any shares of a class of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate at that time, subsection (1) is deemed to have applied in respect of the person and to have deemed the person to own, because of subsection (1) in respect of the partnership, no shares of that class at that time; and

(b) if a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of such a corporation disposes of or acquires its entire interest in a partnership that, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, owns shares of a class of the capital stock of a non-resident corporation, the corporation resident in Canada or the foreign affiliate, as the case may be, is deemed at the time that is immediately after the disposition or immediately before the acquisition, as the case may be, to own, because of subsection (1) in respect of the partnership, no shares of that class.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership.

(4) [Disposition of FA shares by corporation to related corporation] — For the purposes of subsection 5905(5), if at any time a corporation resident in Canada (referred to in this subsection as the "disposing corporation") disposes of shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the disposing corporation and, as a consequence of the same transaction or event (other than one to which neither paragraph (2)(a) nor (2)(b) applies) that caused the disposition, a taxable Canadian corporation with which the disposing corporation is not, at that time, dealing at arm's length acquires shares of that class, the disposing corporation is, at that time, deemed to have disposed of, to the taxable Canadian corporation, the number of the shares of that class that is determined by the formula

where

A is the number of shares of that class disposed of by the disposing corporation; and

B is

(a) where the taxable Canadian corporation acquires, because of paragraph (2)(b), shares of that class, the fraction determined by the formula

$$C/D$$

where

C is the number of shares of that class that is deemed by that paragraph to be acquired by the taxable Canadian corporation as a result of the transaction or event, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the number of shares of that class that is deemed by that paragraph to be acquired by a person as a result of the transaction or event; and

(b) in any other case, 1.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(4) deals with an additional requirement in subsection 5905(5). Although subsection 5908(2) is sufficient for the purposes of most of the provisions of section 5908 in that only a determination of the number of shares acquired or disposed of is required, subsection 5905(5) also requires the matching up of the deemed sales and the deemed acquisitions. Subsection 5908(4) does this by deeming the shares that are deemed sold to be sold proportionately to the members of a partnership that are deemed to acquire the shares.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership; Reg. 5908(2) — Deemed disposition on change in FA shares owned through partnership.

(5) [Amalgamation of corporation owning FA shares through partnership] — For the purpose of subsection 5905(5.1), if a predecessor corporation described in that subsection is, at the time that is immediately before the amalgamation described in that subsection, a member of a particular partnership that, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, owns, at that time, shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the predecessor corporation and the predecessor corporation's interest in the particular partnership, or in another partnership that is a member of the particular partnership, because, upon the amalgamation, property of the new corporation described in that subsection, the shares of the capital stock of the affiliate that are deemed under subsection (1) to be owned by the predecessor corporation at that time are deemed to become property of the new corporation upon the amalgamation.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(5) provides a rule to ensure that shares deemed owned under subsection 5908(1) to a predecessor corporation are deemed to become property of an amalgamated corporation for the purpose of subsection 5905(5.1).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership.

(6) [Surplus adjustment rule — where corporation owns FA shares through partnership] — In applying subsection 5905(5.2), if the corporation is a member of a partnership that, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, owns shares (referred to individually in paragraph (a) as a "relevant share") of the capital stock of the affiliate at the particular time,

(a) for the purposes of the description of B in subsection 5905(5.2), the corporation's cost amount of each relevant share at the particular time is to be determined by the formula

where

P is the partnership's cost amount of that relevant share at the particular time,

Q is the number of shares of the capital stock of the affiliate that are deemed by subsection (1), in respect of the partnership, to be owned by the corporation at the particular time, and

R is the total number of relevant shares at the particular time; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (b) of the description of C in subsection 5905(5.2), the amount determined under this paragraph is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount that would be the corporation's portion of a gain that would be deemed under subsection 92(5) of the Act to be a gain of the member of the partnership from the disposition of a share of the capital stock of the affiliate by the partnership if that share were disposed of immediately before the particular time.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(6) and (7) provide specific partnership rules to support the surplus adjustment rule in new subsection 5905(5.2) and the bump limitation rule in new subsection 5905(5.4), respectively.

There are subsection apply of the case that in new subsections 5905(5.2) and (5.4).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership.

(7) [Bump limitation rule — where corporation owns FA shares through partnership] — For the purposes of paragraph 5905(5.4)(b), the amount determined by this subsection is the amount determined by the following formula for shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the subsidiary that were disposed by subsection (1), in respect of the partnership, to be owned by the subsidiary at the time at which the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary:

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the tax-free surplus balance of the affiliate, in respect of the subsidiary, at that time; and

B is the percentage that would be the subsidiary's surplus entitlement percentage in respect of the affiliate at that time if the only shares of that capital stock that were owned at that time by the subsidiary were the shares of that capital stock that were deemed by subsection (1), in respect of the partnership, to be owned by the subsidiary at the time at which the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(1) — Look-through rule for shares owned by partnership.

(8) [Application of ITA s. 93] — If a particular corporation resident in Canada or a particular foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada is a member of a particular partnership, the particular partnership owns (based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act) shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation and the particular partnership disposes of any of those shares,

(a) any reference in this Part (other than subsections 5902(5) and (6)) to subsection 93(1) of the Act is deemed to include a reference to subsection 93(1.2) of the Act;

(b) an election under subsection 93(1.2) of the Act by the particular corporation is to be made by filing the prescribed form with the Minister on or before

(i) where the particular corporation is the disposing corporation referred to in that subsection, the particular corporation's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the last day of the particular partnership's fiscal period in which the disposition was made, and

(ii) where the particular affiliate is the disposing corporation referred to in that subsection, the particular corporation's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the last day of the particular affiliate's taxation year that includes the last day of the disposing partnership's fiscal period in which the disposition was made; and

(c) [see also elective transitional version below — ed.] the prescribed amount for the purposes of subparagraph 93(1.2)(a)(ii) of the Act is the lesser of

(i) the taxable capital gain, if any, of the particular affiliate otherwise determined in respect of the disposition, and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B \times C/D$$

where

A is the fraction referred to in paragraph 38(a) of the Act that applies to the particular affiliate's taxation year that includes the last day of the particular partnership's fiscal period that includes the time of the disposition,

B is the amount that could reasonably be expected to have been received in respect of all the shares of that class if the second foreign affiliate referred to in subsection 93(1.2) of the Act had, immediately before that time, paid dividends on all shares of its capital stock the total of which was equal to the amount determined under subparagraph 5902(1)(a)(i) to be its net surplus in respect of the particular corporation,

C is the number of shares of that class that is determined under subsection 93(1.3) of the Act, and

D is the total number of issued shares of that class immediately before that time.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5908(8) does three things. First, in paragraph (a), it includes a reference to subsection 93(1.2) of the Act in most cases where subsection 93(1) of the Act is referred to in Part LIX of the Regulations. Second, in paragraph (b), it prescribes the manner in which an election under subsection 93(1.2) of the Act is to be made. Third, in paragraph (c), it prescribes the fraction of the amount of a dividend that is deemed paid, for purposes of subparagraph 93(1.2)(a)(ii) of the Act, where subsection 93(1.3) applies.

This new subsection applies in respect of elections made under subsection 93(1.2) of the Act in respect of dispositions that occur after November 1999.

(9) [Tiered partnerships — look-through rule] — For the purposes of this Part, if a person or partnership is (or is deemed by this subsection to be) a member of a particular partnership that is a member of another partnership, the person or partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5908(9) applies in the context of multi-tiered partnerships to ensure that any member of a higher-tier partnership is also a member of any lower-tier partnerships.

This new subsection applies for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999. However, there is a transitional rule for foreign affiliate taxation years that end on or before August 27, 2010.

Related Provisions: ITA 95(2)(u) — Parallel rule in FAPI legislation.

(10) [Prescribed amount for ITA 95(2)(j)] — For the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(j) of the Act, the adjusted cost base to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of an interest in a partnership at any time is prescribed to be the cost to the affiliate of the interest as otherwise determined at that time, and for those purposes

(a) there shall be added to that cost such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(i) any amount included in the earnings of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to profits of the partnership,

(ii) the affiliate's incomes as described by the description of A in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that can reasonably be considered to relate to profits of the partnership,

(iii) any amount included in computing the exempt earnings or taxable earnings, as the case may be, of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital gain of the partnership,

(iv) where the affiliate has, at any time before that time and in a taxation year ending after 1971, made a contribution of capital to the partnership otherwise than by way of a loan, such part of the amount of the contribution as cannot reasonably be regarded as a gift made to or for the benefit of any other member of the partnership who was related to the affiliate,

(v) such portion of any income or profits tax refunded before that time by the government of a country to the partnership as may reasonably be regarded as tax refunded in respect of an amount described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii), and

(vi) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph (11)(b);

(b) there shall be deducted from that cost such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(i) any amount included in the loss of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 that may reasonably be considered to relate to a loss of the partnership,

(ii) the affiliate's losses as described by the description of D in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that can reasonably be considered to relate to the losses of the partnership,

(iii) any amount included in computing the exempt loss or taxable loss, as the case may be, of the affiliate for a taxation year ending after 1971 and before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital loss of the partnership,

(iv) any amount received by the affiliate before that time and in a taxation year ending after 1971 as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, a distribution of the affiliate's share of the partnership profits or partnership capital, and

(v) such portion of any income or profits tax paid before that time to the government of a country by the partnership as may reasonably be regarded as tax paid in respect of an amount described in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (iii); and

(c) for greater certainty, where any interest of a foreign affiliate in a partnership was reacquired by the affiliate after having been previously disposed of, no adjustment that was required to be made under this subsection before such reacquisition shall be made under this subsection to the cost to the affiliate of the interest as reacquired property of the affiliate.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(10) prescribes the adjusted cost base of a partnership interest to a foreign affiliate for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(j). This rule is currently found in subsection 5907(12) and its content remains largely intact. However, new subparagraph 5908(10)(a)(vi) is added as a consequence of the introduction of the fill-the-hole rule in subsections 5905(7.1) to (7.7) and the need to increase the adjusted cost base of a partnership interest in certain circumstances, as determined under paragraph 5908(11)(b).

This new subsection applies after December 18, 2009.

(11) [FA owning FA shares through partnership] — If a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada is at any time a member of a partnership that, based on the assumptions contained in paragraph 96(1)(c) of the Act, owns a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation and the particular affiliate is at that time a direct holder referred to in subsection 5905(7.6), the following rules apply:

(a) for the purposes of paragraph 92(1.1)(b) of the Act, there shall be added, in computing at or after that time the partnership's adjusted cost base of the share, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined, in respect of an acquired affiliate referred to in that subsection, by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 5905(7.2)(a) in respect of the acquired affiliate, and

B is the percentage that would, if the partnership were a corporation resident in Canada, be the partnership's surplus entitlement percentage in respect of the acquired affiliate, at the adjustment time, if the partnership owned only the share;

(b) for the purposes of subparagraph (10)(a)(vi), the amount determined under this paragraph is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, determined under paragraph (a) in respect of a share of the capital stock of the other affiliate,

B is the fair market value, at the adjustment time, of the particular affiliate's interest in the partnership, and

C is the fair market value, at the adjustment time, of all members' interests in the partnership; and

(c) no amount is to be added under subsection 5905(7.6) to the particular affiliate's adjusted cost base of the share.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(11) provides rules that govern increases to adjusted cost base in the context of partnerships where the new fill-the-hole rule (in subsections 5905(7.1) to (7.7)) applies. This new subsection is discussed in the commentary for that new rule.

This new subsection applies where a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate is acquired by, or otherwise becomes property of, a person after December 18, 2009.

(12) [Amount for Reg. 5905(7.7)(b)] — For the purposes of paragraph 5905(7.7)(b), the amount determined under this subsection is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the adjustment amount; and

B is the percentage that would, if the direct holder were resident in Canada, be the surplus entitlement percentage of the direct holder in respect of the subject affiliate.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010) Subsection 5908(12) determines the amount for purposes of paragraph 5905(7.7)(b) that, in turn, is deemed to be an exempt dividend under subsection 93(3) of the Act. This rule applies where the fill-the-hole rule (in subsections 5905(7.1) to (7.7)) applies to shares of a foreign affiliate that are held by a partnership.

This new subsection applies where a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate is acquired by, or otherwise becomes property of, a person after December 18, 2009.

Related Provisions Reg. 5905(7.5)(b) — Meaning of "direct holder" and "subject affiliate"; Reg. 5905(7.7) — Meaning of "adjustment amount".

Application The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), s. 47, will add s. 5908, applicable as follows:

- subsecs. 5908(1) and (2) applicable for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999, except that those subsecs. are, in their application to acquisitions, dispositions, redemptions, cancellations, foreign mergers, amalgamations and issuances that occur, and windings up that begin, before December 19, 2009, to be read as follows:

(1) In determining,

(a) for the purposes of this Part (other than section 5904), the equity percentage at any time of a person in a corporation,

(b) for the purposes of this section and section 5905, the surplus entitlement at any time of a share owned by a corporation resident in Canada of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation in respect of a particular foreign affiliate of the corporation, and

(c) for the purposes of this Part and of the definition "surplus entitlement percentage" in subsection 95(1) of the Act, the surplus entitlement percentage at any time of a corporation resident in Canada in respect of a particular foreign affiliate of the corporation, if at any time shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation are owned by a partnership or are deemed under this subsection to be owned by a partnership, those shares are deemed to be owned at that time by each member of the partnership in a proportion equal to the proportion of all such shares that

(d) the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at that time

is of

(e) the fair market value of all members' interests in the partnership at that time.

(2) For the purposes of this section and section 5905, if the number of shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada deemed by subsection 93.1(1) of the Act to be owned by a person at a particular time is different from the number so deemed immediately before the particular time

(a) where the number of shares of that class deemed to be owned by the person has decreased, the person is deemed to have disposed of, at the particular time, the number of shares of that class equal to the amount of the decrease,

(b) where the number of shares of that class deemed to be owned by the person has increased, the person is deemed to have acquired, at the particular time, the number of shares of that class equal to the amount of the increase,

(c) a person (referred to in this paragraph as the "seller") that is deemed by paragraph (a) to have disposed of, at a particular time, shares of a class of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate is deemed to have disposed of those shares to the persons (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquirers") deemed in paragraph (b) to have acquired shares of that class at that time and the number of shares of that class deemed to have been acquired at that time by a particular acquirer from the seller shall be determined by the formula

where

A is the number of shares of that class acquired by the particular acquirer at that time,

B is the number of shares of that class disposed of by the seller at that time, and

C is the number of shares of that class acquired by all acquirers at that time; and

(d) persons (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquirers") that are deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired, at a particular time, shares of a class of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate are deemed to have acquired those shares from a person (referred to in this paragraph as the "seller") deemed in paragraph (a) to have disposed of shares of that class at that time and the number of shares of that class deemed to have been disposed of by the seller to a particular acquirer at that time shall be determined by the formula

where

A is the number of shares of that class disposed of by the seller,

B is the number of shares of that class acquired by the particular acquirer at that time, and

C is the number of shares of that class disposed of by all sellers at that time

- subsecs. 5908(3) to (5) applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 18, 2009;
- subsecs. 5908(6) and (7) applicable in respect of acquisitions of control that occur after December 18, 2009, except where the acquisition of control results from an acquisition of shares made under an agreement in writing entered into before December 18, 2009;
- subsec. 5908(8) applicable in respect of elections made under ITA 93(1.2) in respect of dispositions that occur after November 1999;
- subsec. 5908(9) applicable for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999 except that, for taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end before August 28, 2010, it is to be read as follows:

  (9) For the purposes of this section and paragraph 5907(2.7)(b), if any corporation is (or is deemed by this subsection to be) a member of a particular partnership that is a member of another partnership, the corporation is deemed to be a member of the other partnership.

- subsec. 5908(10) applicable after December 18, 2009; and
- subsecs. 5908(11) and (12) applicable where a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation is acquired by, or otherwise becomes property of, a person after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

New Reg. 5908 replaces former proposed Reg. 5905(14)-(15) in the March 16, 2001 draft regulations. Former proposed Reg. 5905(16)-(23) in the Feb. 27, 2004 draft legislation will not be enacted. These were part of the "consolidated surplus" regime, which has been abandoned (see Dec. 18/09 Technical Notes at Reg. 5900(3)).

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The following examples illustrate the application of certain aspects of section 5908 and their interaction with sections 5902 and 5905.

Assumptions:

1. Canco, a corporation resident in Canada, owns all 100 shares of FA1, a foreign affiliate of Canco.

2. Canco transfers 40 shares of FA1 to a partnership (P1) in which Canco's membership interest is 99.99% (based on relative fair market values), and Canco makes a subsection 93(1) election of $40 in respect of the disposition.

3. Immediately prior to the transfer, FA1 has an exempt surplus balance of $100 in respect of Canco, and no other surplus balances.

4. No election is made under subsection 97(2) in respect of the transfer.

Analysis:

Subsection 5902(1)

Paragraph 5902(1)(b) will apply to reduce FA1's exempt surplus in respect of Canco by $40, to $60.

Subsection 5908(1)

For the purposes of section 5905, including the computation of Canco's surplus entitlement percentage in FA1 immediately after the transfer, subsection 5908(1) will deem Canco to own 40 shares of FA1 immediately after the transfer.

Subsection 5905(1)

Since Canco owns, or is deemed to own, a total of 100 shares of FA1 both before and after the transfer, there is no change in Canco's surplus entitlement percentage in FA1 as a result of an acquisition or disposition of shares. As such, subsection 5905(1) does not apply, and FA1's exempt surplus in respect of Canco would be $60 immediately after the transfer of the 40 FA1 shares to P1.

Example 2

Assumptions:

1. Canco, a corporation resident in Canada, owns 100% of the shares of Cansub, a taxable Canadian corporation.

2. Canco is a partner in partnership P1, and the fair market value of Canco's membership interest in P1 is 50% of the fair market value of all member interests in P1.

3. P1 owns 50 shares (50%) of FA1.

4. Canco transfers its interest in P1 to Cansub on a rollover basis under subsection 85(1) of the Act.

5. Immediately prior to the transfer by Canco, FA1's exempt surplus in respect of Canco is $100.

Analysis:

Section 5908

Subsection 5908(1) will, for certain purposes (including the application of subsection 5908(2)), deem Canco to own 25 shares of FA1 prior to the transfer by Canco.

For certain purposes, including the application of subsection 5905(5), paragraph 5908(2)(a) will deem Canco to have disposed of 25 shares of FA1 and paragraph 5908(2)(b) will deem Cansub to have acquired 25 shares of FA1. (These acquisitions and dispositions are made clear by paragraph 5908(3)(b).)

For the purposes of subsection 5905(5), subsection 5908(4) will deem Canco to have disposed of the 25 shares of FA1 to Cansub.

Subsection 5905(5)

Subsection 5905(5) becomes operative when there is, at any time, a disposition by a corporation resident in Canada (Canco) of any shares of a foreign affiliate of Canco to a non-arm's length taxable Canadian corporation (Cansub). Subsection 5905(5) has the effect of "transferring" the relevant surplus balances of the transferred affiliate in respect of the transferor that are applicable to the transferred shares, to the transferee.

As a result of the application of subsections 5908(1) to (4), subsection 5905(5) would apply in respect of the transferred shares, and would deem FA1's opening exempt surplus in respect of Cansub to be $100.

Example 3

Assumptions:

1. Canco, a corporation resident in Canada, owns 100 shares (100%) of FA1 and 100 shares (100%) of FA2.

2. FA2 owns a 60% interest in partnership P1.

3. P1 owns a 50% interest in partnership P2.

4. P2 owns 100 shares (100%) of FA3. FA3 has only one class of shares.

5. FA3 owns 80 shares (80%) of FA4. FA4 has only one class of shares.

6. P2 sells 40 shares (40%) of FA3 to FA1 for proceeds of $1,000 (ACB of $400).

7. Immediately before the disposition of the FA3 shares by P2 to FA1:

- FA2 has no surplus balances;
- FA3 has exempt surplus of $1,000 (and no other surplus balances); and
- FA4 has exempt surplus of $500 (and no other surplus balances).

8. The shares of FA3 are excluded property.

Analysis:

Subsection 93(1.3) and subparagraph 93(1.2)(a)(ii) will apply with respect to FA2's otherwise determined taxable capital gain of $90 (60% × 50% × $600/2). Subsection 93(1.3) will deem Canco to have made a subsection 93(1.2) election, and subsection 93(1.2) will deem FA2 to have received, immediately before the disposition of the FA3 shares by P2, a dividend equal to twice the amount that is determined under paragraph 5908(8)(c).

Subsections 93(1.2), (1.3) and 93.1(1), and paragraph 5908(8)(c)

Under subsection 93.1(1) immediately prior to the disposition of 40 shares of FA3 by P2,

- P1 is deemed to own 50 FA3 shares (100 shares × 50%), and
- FA2 is deemed to own 30 FA3 shares (50 shares × 60%).

Under subsection 93.1(1) immediately after the disposition of the FA3 shares by P2,

- P1 is deemed to own 30 FA3 shares (60 shares × 50%), and
- FA2 is deemed to own 18 FA3 shares (30 shares × 60%).

Under subsection 93(1.3) FA2 is deemed to have disposed of 12 shares of FA3, and Canco is deemed to have made an election under subsection 93(1.2) in respect of these disposed shares.

Paragraph 5908(8)(c) deems the subparagraph 93(1.2)(a)(ii) prescribed amount to be the lesser of (i) FA2's otherwise determined taxable capital gain ($90), and (ii) the amount determined by the formula A × B × C/D.

In the example, the subparagraph 5908(8)(c)(ii) amount is $84, since

- A is 50%, being the fraction referred to in paragraph 38(a);
- B is $1,400, being FA3's net surplus in respect of Canco under subparagraph 5902(1)(a)(i);
- C is 12, being the number of shares determined under subsection 93(1.3); and
- D is 100, being the total number of shares issued by FA3.

Thus, under paragraph 5908(8)(c) the prescribed amount is $84 (meaning that FA2's taxable capital gain is reduced from $90 to $6), and under paragraph 93(1.2)(a) the deemed dividend is twice that amount, i.e. $168.

Section 5902

By virtue of subparagraph 5902(1)(a)(ii) and subsections 5901(1) and 5900(1), the deemed subsection 93(1.2) elected dividend of $168 is prescribed to be paid out of FA3's exempt surplus.

Under paragraph 5902(2)(b), the "specified adjustment factor" in respect of the disposition of the FA3 shares is, in the example, 3.333, being the amount determined by the formula A/B, where

- A is Canco's surplus entitlement percentage (100%) in respect of FA2 immediately before the dividend time; and
- B is Canco's surplus entitlement percentage (30%) in respect of FA3 immediately before the dividend time.

Under subparagraph 5902(1)(b)(i), FA3's exempt surplus in respect of Canco is reduced by $560 ($168 × 3.333) at the "dividend time" to $440. There is no change to FA4's exempt surplus in respect of Canco.

Subsection 5905(1) and section 5908

Subsection 5905(1) would apply to reset FA3 and FA4's exempt surplus balances ("opening exempt surplus") in respect of Canco at the time of the acquisition since:

- FA1 acquires 40 FA3 shares from P2;
- immediately before the acquisition, Canco's surplus entitlement percentage in FA3 was 30% (100% × 60% × 50% × 100%) and Canco's surplus entitlement percentage in FA4 was 24% (30% × 80%); and
- immediately after the acquisition, Canco's surplus entitlement percentage in FA3 is 58% (40% through FA1 and 18% through FA2) and its surplus entitlement percentage in FA4 is 46.4% (58% × 80%).

Therefore, under subsection 5905(1), FA3's exempt surplus in respect of Canco is reset, at the time of the acquisition, to $228 ($440 × 30%/58%), and FA4's exempt surplus in respect of Canco is reset at $259 ($500 × 24%/46.4%).

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5908(8)(c) [transitional]

Application The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), s. 51, reads as follows:

51. Subject to section 52, if a corporation resident in Canada elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the corporation's filing-due date for the corporation's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this Act is assented to, the following rules apply, namely

(a) [see Proposed Amendment – Reg. 5902(1) [transitional] — ed.]

(b), (c) [see Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5905(1) [transitional] – ed.]

(d) if there is a designated section 93 election [defined in para. (a) above, reproduced under Proposed Amendment – Reg. 5902(1) [transitional] – ed.],

(i) [see Proposed Addition — Reg. 5905.1 [transitional] — ed.];

(ii) [see Proposed Amendment – Reg. 5907(1)"whole dividend"(b) [transitional] — ed.] and

(iii) paragraph 5908(8)(c) of the Regulations, as enacted by subsection 47(1), is, in respect of the designated section 93 election, to be read as follows:

(c) the prescribed amount for the purposes of subparagraph 93(1.2)(a)(ii) of the Act is the lesser of

(i) the taxable capital gain, if any, of the particular affiliate otherwise determined in respect of the disposition, and

(ii) the amount that is one-half of the amount referred to in paragraph 5902(6)(b).

See also s. 52 of the draft legislation, reproduced under Reg. 5902(1) [transitional].

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Reg. 5902(1) [transitional].

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5908(10)(a)(iii.1)

(iii.1) any amount included in computing the hybrid surplus or hybrid deficit of the affiliate before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital gain of the partnership,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 31(1), will add subpara. 5908(10)(a)(iii.1) (to the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Addition above), applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5908(10) prescribes the adjusted cost base ("ACB") of a partnership interest to a foreign affiliate for the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act.

Subsection 5908(10) is amended consequential to the introduction of the "hybrid surplus" concept to allow for ACB adjustments for capital gains and losses realized by a partnership that are included in "hybrid surplus" and "hybrid deficit" of a foreign affiliate.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5908(10)(b)(iii.1)

(iii.1) any amount included in computing the hybrid surplus or hybrid deficit of the affiliate before that time that may reasonably be considered to relate to a capital loss of the partnership,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 31(2), will add subpara. 5908(10)(b)(iii.1) (to the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Addition above), applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5908(10)(a)(iii.1).

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5908(13), (14)

(13) [Amount for 5907(2.9)(a)(i)(B), (ii)(B)] — For the purposes of clauses 5907(2.9)(a)(i)(B) and (ii)(B), the amount determined under this subsection is, subject to subsection (14), the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is

(a) if clause 5907(2.9)(a)(i)(B) applies, the amount determined under clause 5907(2.9)(a)(i)(A), and

(b) if clause 5907(2.9)(a)(ii)(B) applies, the amount determined under clause 5907(2.9)(a)(ii)(A),

B is the affiliate's direct or indirect share of the partnership's income or loss for the preceding taxation year, and

C is the partnership's income or loss for the preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(14) – Where both income and loss of partnership are nil.

(14) [Interpretation of subsec. (13)] — For the purposes of subsection (13), if both the income and loss of the partnership for the preceding taxation year are nil, the descriptions of B and C in the formula in that subsection are to be applied as if the partnership had income for that year in the amount of $1,000,000.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 31(3), will add subsecs. 5908(13) and (14), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002, however, if the taxpayer has elected under para. 16(29)(b) of the draft legislation [see Application annotation to proposed ITA 95(1)"taxable Canadian business"], subsecs. (13) and (14) are applicable in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: New subsections 5908(13) and (14) provide rules to allocate partnership income for the purposes of the adjustments to "earnings" and "loss" of a foreign affiliate under subsection 5907(2.9). For details, refer to the commentary for amended subsection 5907(2.9).

These amendments apply on the same basis as the amendments to subsection 5907(2.9), as discussed above.

5909. Prescribed circumstances — For the purposes of subparagraph 94(1)(b)(i) of the Act, property shall be considered to have been acquired in prescribed circumstances where it is acquired by virtue of the repayment of a loan.

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 5909

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — NRTs), s. 28, will repeal s. 5909, applicable to trust taxation years that end after 2006, and to an earlier taxation year of a trust if subsec. 94(3) of the Act, as amended, applies to that earlier taxation year.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Section 5909 defines property acquired in prescribed circumstances for the purposes of existing section 94 of the Act. That section 94 of the Act had application where a trust acquired property in certain circumstances, otherwise than those prescribed. Section 5909 prescribes circumstances for this purpose. With the repeal and replacement of existing section 94, the prescribing power to use section 5909 for the above purposes no longer exists. As a result, the section is repealed.

This amendment generally applies to returns in respect of trust taxation years that end after 2006. It also applies to returns in respect of an earlier taxation year of a trust if new subsection 94(3) of the Act applies (because of a valid election by the trust under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94 of the Act) to that earlier taxation year.

History: S. 5909 added by P.C. 1989-321, s. 4, March 2, 1989, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 15, 1989, applicable after October 29, 1985.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5910 [to be further amended, below]

5910. [Foreign oil and gas business of FA — foreign tax deemed paid] — (1) If a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada carries on in a particular taxation year an active business that is a foreign oil and gas business in a taxing country, the affiliate is deemed for the purposes of this Part to have paid for the particular year, as an income or profits tax to the government of the taxing country in respect of its earnings from the business for the particular year, an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$(A \times B) - C$$

where

A is the percentage determined under subsection (2) for the particular year,

B is the amount determined under subsection (3) in respect of the business for the particular year, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would, but for this subsection, be an income or profits tax paid to the government of the taxing country by the affiliate for the particular year in respect of its earnings from the business for the particular year; and

(b) the affiliate's production tax amount for the business in the taxing country for the particular year.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): New section 5910 deems, for the purposes of Part LIX of the Regulations, certain foreign oil and gas levies incurred by a foreign affiliate to be income or profits taxes paid in respect of the earnings of the affiliate from certain active businesses. These rules are similar to rules enacted in 2001 in respect of foreign tax credits in section 126 of the Act.

Subsection 5910(1) is the main operative rule in new section 5910. It provides that, where a foreign affiliate carries on a "foreign oil and gas business" in a "taxing country" in a taxation year, the affiliate is deemed to have paid for the year as an income or profits tax the lesser of two amounts. The first amount is a notional tax amount determined based on current Canadian corporate tax rates and the second is the affiliate's "production tax amount" for the business for the year.

More specifically, the notional tax amount is determined by multiplying a percentage representing a tax rate, as specified in subsection 5910(2), by an earnings amount specified in subsection 5910(3). This product is then reduced by the amount of actual income or profits taxes paid for the year.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 5910(4) — Meaning of "foreign oil and gas business", "production tax amount" and "taxing country".

(2) [Percentage for A] — The percentage determined under this subsection for the particular year is the percentage determined by the formula

$$P - Q$$

where

P is the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a) of the Act for the corporation's taxation year that includes the last day of the particular year; and

Q is the corporation's general rate reduction percentage (within the meaning assigned by definition in subsection 123.4(1) of the Act) for that taxation year of the corporation.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5910(2) provides that the corporation's tax rate for the purposes of the notional tax amount in subsection 5910(1) is equal to the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a) of the Act (currently 38%) minus the corporation's general rate reduction percentage, as defined in section 123.4 of the Act (currently scheduled to be as high as 13% after 2011).

Related Provisions: Reg. 5910(1)A — Application of percentage.

(3) [Amount for B] — The amount determined under this subsection in respect of the business for the particular year is

(a) where the affiliate's earnings from the business for the particular year are required to be determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1), the amount that would be determined to be the affiliate's earnings for the particular year from the business if the affiliate

(i) had, in computing its income from the business for each taxation year (referred to in this subparagraph as an "earnings year") that is the particular year or is any preceding taxation year that begins after December 18, 2009,

(A) claimed all deductions that it could have claimed under the Act, up to the maximum amount deductible in computing the income from the business for that earnings year, and

(B) made all claims and elections and taken all steps under applicable provisions of the Act, or of enactments implementing amendments to the Act or regulations in respect of the Act, to maximize the amount of any deduction referred to clause (A), and

(ii) had, in computing its income from the business for any preceding taxation year that began before December 19, 2009, claimed all deductions, if any, that it actually claimed under the Act, up to the maximum amount deductible, and made all claims and elections, if any, and taken all steps, if any, under applicable provisions of the Act, or of enactments implementing amendments to the Act or regulations in respect of the Act, that it actually made; and

(b) in any other case, the affiliate's earnings from the business for the particular year.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5910(3) provides that the affiliate's earnings for the purposes of the notional tax amount are its earnings as determined under the definition of "earnings" in subsection 5907(1). However, where those earnings are required to be determined under subparagraph (a)(iii) of that definition, they are deemed to be the amount that would be determined to be its earnings on the assumption that it had claimed all deductions that it could have claimed under the Act, up to the maximum amount deductible, and made all claims and elections and taken all steps under applicable provisions of the Act, or of enactments implementing amendments to the Act or regulations in respect of the Act, to maximize the amount of any such deduction.

A transitional measure is included in subsection 5910(3) to ensure that undeducted amounts from prior years for capital cost allowance and other similar items are properly taken into account in post-transition years.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5910(1)B — Application of amount.

(4) [Definitions] — In this section, "foreign oil and gas business", "production tax amount" and "taxing country" have the meanings assigned by subsection 126(7) of the Act.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 5910(4) simply imports the definitions "foreign oil and gas business," "production tax amount" and "taxing country" in subsection 126(7) of the Act into section 5910.

The rules in new section 5910 generally apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 31, 2002. However the taxpayer may designate an earlier date as far back as December 31, 1994. Also, transitional readings in respect of subsections 5910(2) and (3) apply for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin on or before December 18, 2009.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), s. 48, will add s. 5910, applicable in respect of production tax amounts that become receivable by the government of a taxing country in taxation years of a taxpayer's foreign affiliate that begin after the date (the "application date") that is the earlier of December 31, 2002 and the designated date. The designated date is the later of

(a) December 31, 1994; and

(b) any date that the taxpayer designates in writing for the purpose of this subsection, if the designation is filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to.

However, in their application to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that begin after the application date and before December 19, 2009, subsecs. 5910(2) and (3) are to be read as follows:

(2) The percentage determined under this subsection for the particular year is 40 per cent

(3) The amount determined under this subsection in respect of the business for the particular year is the amount that would, if the definition "earnings" in subsection 5907(1) were read without reference to its subparagraphs (a)(i) and (ii), be the foreign affiliate's earnings from the business in the taxing country for the particular year.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 23, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of August 15, 2001 to Lawrence Purdy of this Division and subsequent telephone conversations, regarding the recently enacted Income Tax Act provisions relating to foreign oil and gas production sharing contracts.

I understand that your client anticipates acquiring a non-resident corporation that will pay, under one or more such contracts, amounts that the new provisions would treat as foreign taxes if they were paid by a resident of Canada. You have asked whether it would be appropriate to recognize these amounts as foreign tax for purposes of the rules relating to foreign affiliates as well.

I can confirm that, as a policy matter, we consider that such recognition would be appropriate. We are therefore prepared in principle to recommend an amendment, the effect of which would be to import into the foreign affiliate context, with appropriate modifications, the rules that deem certain payments under production sharing contracts to be foreign income or profits taxes for foreign tax credit purposes.

Having said that, I should make clear that the timing of such a recommendation — both in terms of the release of any draft legislation and in terms of its effective date — remains to be determined. While I would not rule out the possibility of including such a measure in the next package of draft technical amendments to the Act, I am not currently in a position to confirm that that will be possible.

Despite these uncertainties, I trust that this expression of our policy views is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Emewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 5910(1)(a)B

B is the affiliate's earnings from the business for the particular year, and Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 32(1), will amend the description of B in para. 5910(1)(a) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Addition above) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 5910(3) provides a so-called "forced deductions" rule for the computation (under subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition of "earnings" in subsection 5907(1)) of a foreign affiliate's earnings for the purposes of the notional tax amount that is relevant in the determination of deemed income or profits taxes in respect of certain foreign oil and gas businesses.

Section 5910 is being amended consequential to the introduction of new subsection 5907(2.03) which provides a similar "forced deductions" rule for all purposes of the determination of the earnings of a foreign affiliate under subparagraph (a)(iii) and paragraph (b) of that definition of "earnings" and the determination of its loss under paragraph (b) of the definition "loss" in subsection 5907(1). The special rules in current subsection 5910(3) are no longer necessary and are being repealed, effective at the same time as new subsection 5907(2.03) comes into force. Consequentially, the description of B in paragraph 5910(1)(a) is being amended to refer directly to the "earnings" definition in subsection 5907(1).

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 32(2), will repeal subsec. 5910(3) (the version in the August 27, 2010 draft legislation; see Proposed Addition above), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under ITA s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under Reg. 5910(1)(a)B.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 5911

5911. (1) [How listed election to be made] — A listed election is to be made by the taxpayer and, if applicable, the disposing affiliate by so notifying the Minister in writing on or before

(a) if the taxpayer is a partnership, the earliest of the filing-due dates of any member of the partnership for the member's taxation year that includes the last day of the partnership's fiscal period that includes the last day of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the time of distribution of a distributed property; and

(b) in any other case, the taxpayer's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the last day of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the time of distribution of a distributed property.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5911(2) — Listed elections.

(2) [Meaning of "listed election"] — For the purposes of subsection (1), a listed election is any of the following:

(a) an election by the taxpayer under subsection 88(3.1) of the Act in respect of a liquidation and dissolution of a disposing affiliate;

(b) an election by the taxpayer under subsection 88(3.3) of the Act in respect of a distribution of distributed property; and

(c) a joint election by the taxpayer and a disposing affiliate under subsection 88(3.5) of the Act in respect of a distribution of distributed property.

(3) [How election for relevant cost base to be made] — An election under the definition "relevant cost base" in subsection 95(4) of the Act in respect of a property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, in respect of the taxpayer, is to be made by the taxpayer by so notifying the Minister in writing on or before

(a) if the taxpayer is a partnership, the earliest of the filing-due dates of any member of the partnership for the member's taxation year that includes the last day of the partnership's fiscal period that includes the last day of the foreign affiliate's taxation year in which the determination of the relevant cost base of the property, in respect of the taxpayer, is relevant; and

(b) in any other case, the taxpayer's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the last day of the foreign affiliate's taxation year in which the determination of the relevant cost base of the property, in respect of the taxpayer, is relevant.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), s. 33, will add s. 5911,

(a) subsecs. 5911(1) and (2) applicable in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after February 27, 2004; however, any listed election referred to in subsec. 5911(1) that would otherwise be required to be filed with the Minister of National Revenue before the day that is 120 days after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to is deemed to have been filed with the Minister on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister within 365 days after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to;

(b) subsec. 5911(3) applicable in respect of determinations in respect of which subsec. 16(21) of this draft legislation applies; however, any election referred to in subsec. 5911(3) that would otherwise be required to be filed with the Minister of National Revenue before the day that is 120 days after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to is deemed to have been filed with the Minister on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister within 365 days after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes: New section 5911 prescribes the manner in which various elections are to be made. Subsections 5911(1) and (2) deal with elections in respect of amended subsection 88(3) of the Act and subsection 5911(3) deals with elections in respect of the amended definition of "relevant cost base" in subsection 95(4) of the Act.

New subsections 5911(1) and (2) apply to foreign affiliate liquidations and dissolutions that begin after February 27, 2004. New subsection 5911(3) applies whenever the amended definition of "relevant cost base" applies (see notes above for details). However, there are transitional provisions for all the elections contemplated by new section 5911 that effectively ensure that taxpayers will have a minimum of 120 days after Royal Assent in order to file any such election.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-479R: Transactions in securities.

6201. Prescribed shares — (1) [Term preferred share] — For the purposes of paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share last acquired before June 29, 1982 and of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada is a prescribed share unless more than 10 per cent of the issued and outstanding shares of that class are owned by

(a) the owner of that share; or

(b) the owner of that share and persons related to him.

(2) [Term preferred share] — For the purposes of paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share acquired after June 28, 1982 and of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada is a prescribed share at any particular time with respect to another corporation that receives a dividend at the particular time in respect of the share unless

(a) where the other corporation is a restricted financial institution,

(i) the share is not a taxable preferred share,

(ii) dividends (other than dividends received on shares prescribed under subsection (5)) are received at the particular time by the other corporation or by the other corporation and restricted financial institutions with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length, in respect of more than 5 per cent of the issued and outstanding shares of that class, and

(iii) a dividend is received at the particular time by the other corporation or a restricted financial institution with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length, in respect of a share (other than a share prescribed under subsection (5)) of that class acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time;

(b) where the other corporation is a restricted financial institution, the share

(i) is not a taxable preferred share,

(ii) was acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time, and

(iii) was, by reason of subparagraph (h)(i), (ii), (iii) or (v) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, deemed to have been issued after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time; or

(c) in any case, dividends (other than dividends received on shares prescribed under subsection (5)) are received at the particular time by the other corporation or by the other corporation and persons with whom the other corporation does not deal at arm's length in respect of more than 10 per cent of the issued and outstanding shares of that class.

(3) [Term preferred share] — For the purposes of paragraph 112(2.2)(g) of the Act and paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share of any of the following series of preferred shares of the capital stock of Massey-Ferguson Limited issued after July 15, 1981 and before March 23, 1982 is a prescribed share:

(a) $25 Cumulative Redeemable Retractable Convertible Preferred Shares, Series C;

(b) $25 Cumulative Redeemable Retractable Preferred Shares, Series D; or

(c) $25 Cumulative Redeemable Retractable Convertible Preferred Shares, Series E.

(4) [Taxable RFI share] — For the purposes of the definition "taxable RFI share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada is a prescribed share at any particular time with respect to another corporation that is a restricted financial institution that receives a dividend at the particular time in respect of the share unless dividends (other than dividends received on shares prescribed under subsection (5.1)) are received at that time by the other corporation, or by the other corporation and restricted financial institutions with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length, in respect of more than

(a) 10 per cent of the shares of that class that were issued and outstanding at the last time, before the particular time, at which the other corporation or a restricted financial institution with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length acquired a share of that class, where no dividend is received at the particular time by any such corporation in respect of a share (other than a share prescribed under subsection (5.1)) of that class acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time; or

(b) 5 per cent of the shares of that class that were issued and outstanding at the last time, before the particular time, at which the other corporation or a restricted financial institution with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length acquired a share of that class, where a dividend is received at the particular time by any such corporation in respect of a share (other than a share prescribed under subsection (5.1)) of that class acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time.

(5) [Term preferred share] — For the purpose of paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada is a prescribed share at any particular time with respect to another corporation that is registered or licensed under the laws of a province to trade in securities and that holds the share for the purpose of sale in the course of the business ordinarily carried on by it unless

(a) it may reasonably be considered that the share was acquired as part of a series of transactions or events one of the main purposes of which was to avoid or limit the application of subsection 112(2.1) of the Act; or

(b) the share was not acquired by the other corporation in the course of an underwriting of shares of that class to be distributed to the public and

(i) dividends are received at the particular time by the other corporation or by the other corporation and corporations controlled by the other corporation in respect of more than 10 per cent of the issued and outstanding shares of that class,

(ii) the other corporation is a restricted financial institution and

(A) the share is not a taxable preferred share,

(B) dividends are received at the particular time by the other corporation or by the other corporation and corporations controlled by the other corporation in respect of more than 5 per cent of the issued and outstanding shares of that class, and

(C) a dividend is received at the particular time by the other corporation or a corporation controlled by the other corporation in respect of a share of that class acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time, or

(iii) the other corporation is a restricted financial institution and the share

(A) is not a taxable preferred share,

(B) was acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time, and

(C) was, by reason of subparagraph (h)(i), (ii), (iii) or (v) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, deemed to have been issued after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions; ITA 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

(5.1) [Taxable RFI share — prescribed share] — For the purpose of the definition "taxable RFI share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada is a prescribed share at any particular time with respect to another corporation that is registered or licensed under the laws of a province to trade in securities and that holds the share for the purpose of sale in the course of the business ordinarily carried on by it unless

(a) it may reasonably be considered that the share was acquired as part of a series of transactions or events one of the main purposes of which was to avoid or limit the application of section 187.3 of the Act; or

(b) the share was not acquired by the other corporation in the course of an underwriting of shares of that class to be distributed to the public and

(i) dividends are received at the particular time by the other corporation, or by the other corporation and corporations controlled by the other corporation, in respect of more than 10 per cent of the shares of that class issued and outstanding at the last time before the particular time at which any such corporation acquired a share of that class,

(ii) the other corporation is a restricted financial institution and

(A) dividends are received at the particular time by the other corporation, or by the other corporation and corporations controlled by the other corporation, in respect of more than 5 per cent of the shares of that class issued and outstanding at the last time before the particular time at which any such corporation acquired a share of that class, and

(B) a dividend is received at the particular time by the other corporation, or a corporation controlled by the other corporation, in respect of a share of that class acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time, or

(iii) the other corporation is a restricted financial institution and the share

(A) was acquired after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time, and

(B) was, because of subparagraph (h)(i), (ii), (iii) or (v) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, deemed to have been issued after December 15, 1987 and before the particular time.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions; ITA 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

(6) [Term preferred share — prescribed share] — For the purposes of paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a share of the capital stock of a corporation that is a member institution of a deposit insurance corporation, within the meaning assigned by section 137.1 of the Act, is a prescribed share with respect to the deposit insurance corporation and any subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the deposit insurance corporation deemed by subsection 137.1(5.1) of the Act to be a deposit insurance corporation.

(7) [Taxable preferred share — prescribed share] — For the purposes of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, the following shares are prescribed shares at any particular time:

(a) the 8.5 per cent Cumulative Redeemable Convertible Class A Preferred Shares of St. Marys Paper Inc. issued on July 7, 1987, where such shares are not deemed, by reason of paragraph (e) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, to have been issued after that date and before the particular time; and

(b) the Cumulative Redeemable Preferred Shares of CanUtilities Holdings Ltd. issued before July 1, 1991, unless the amount of the consideration for which all such shares were issued exceeds $300,000,000 or the particular time is after July 1, 2001.

(8) [Canada Cement Lafarge] — For the purposes of paragraph 112(2.2)(d) of the Act, paragraph (i) of the definition "short-term preferred share", the definition "taxable preferred share" and paragraph (f) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, the Exchangeable Preference Shares of Canada Cement Lafarge Ltd. (in this subsection referred to as the "subject shares"), the Exchangeable Preference Shares of Lafarge Canada Inc. and the shares of any corporation formed as a result of an amalgamation or merger of Lafarge Canada Inc. with one or more other corporations are prescribed shares at any particular time where the terms and conditions of such shares at the particular time are the same as, or substantially the same as, the terms and conditions of the subject shares as of June 18, 1987 and, for the purposes of this subsection, the amalgamation or merger of one or more corporations with another corporation formed as a result of an amalgamation or merger of Lafarge Canada Inc. with one or more other corporations shall be deemed to be an amalgamation of Lafarge Canada Inc. with another corporation.

(9) [Time when share acquired] — For the purposes of determining under subsections (2), (4), (5) and (5.1) the time at which a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation was acquired by a taxpayer, shares of that class acquired by the taxpayer at any particular time before a disposition by the taxpayer of shares of that class shall be deemed to have been disposed of before shares of that class acquired by the taxpayer before that particular time.

(10) [Trusts and partnerships] — For the purposes of subsections (2), (4), (5) and (5.1) and this subsection,

(a) where a taxpayer is a beneficiary of a trust and an amount in respect of the beneficiary has been designated by the trust in a taxation year pursuant to subsection 104(19) of the Act, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have received the amount so designated at the time it was received by the trust; and

(b) where a taxpayer is a member of a partnership and a dividend has been received by the partnership, the taxpayer's share of the dividend shall be deemed to have been received by the taxpayer at the time the dividend was received by the partnership.

(11) [Grandfathering] — For the purposes of subsections (2), (4), (5) and (5.1),

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation acquired by a person after December 15, 1987 pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before December 16, 1987 shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before December 16, 1987;

(b) a share of the capital stock of a corporation acquired by a person after December 15, 1987 and before July, 1988 as part of a distribution to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice filed before December 16, 1987 with a public authority pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of the jurisdiction in which the shares were distributed shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before December 16, 1987;

(c) where a share that was owned by a particular restricted financial institution on December 15, 1987 has, by one or more transactions between related restricted financial institutions, been transferred to another restricted financial institution, the share shall be deemed to have been acquired by the other restricted financial institution before that date and after June 28, 1982 unless at any particular time after December 15, 1987 and before the share was transferred to the other restricted financial institution the share was owned by a shareholder who, at that particular time, was a person other than a restricted financial institution related to the other restricted financial institution; and

(d) where at any particular time there has been an amalgamation (within the meaning assigned by section 87 of the Act) and

(i) each of the predecessor corporations (within the meaning assigned by section 87 of the Act) was a restricted financial institution throughout the period beginning December 16, 1987 and ending at the particular time and the predecessor corporations were related to each other throughout that period, or

(ii) each of the predecessor corporations and the new corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 87 of the Act) is a corporation described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1) of the Act,

a share acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation on the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation at the time it was acquired by the predecessor corporation.

6202. [Resource expenditures — prescribed share] — (1) For the purposes of paragraph 66(15)(d.1) [66(15)"flow-through share"] and subparagraphs 66.1(6)(a)(v) [66.1(6)"Canadian exploration expense"(i)], 66.2(5)(a)(v) [66.2(5)"Canadian development expense"(g)] and 66.4(5)(a)(iii) [66.4(5)"Canadian oil and gas property expense"(c)] of the Act, a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation (in this section referred to as the "issuing corporation") is a prescribed share if it was issued after December 31, 1982 and

(a) the issuing corporation, any person related to the issuing corporation or of whom the issuing corporation has effective management or control or any partnership or trust of which the issuing corporation or a person related thereto is a member or beneficiary (each of which is referred to in this section as a "member of the related issuing group") is or may be required to redeem, acquire or cancel, in whole or in part, the share or to reduce its paid-up capital at any time within five years from the date of its issue,

(b) a member of the related issuing group provides or may be required to provide any form of guarantee, security or similar indemnity with respect to the share (other than a guarantee, security or similar indemnity with respect to any amount of assistance or benefit from a government, municipality or other public authority in Canada or with respect to eligibility for such assistance or benefit) that could take effect within five years from the date of its issue,

(c) the share (referred to in this section as the "convertible share") is convertible under its terms or conditions at any time within five years from the date of its issue directly or indirectly into debt, or into a share (referred to in this section as the "acquired share") that is, or if issued would be, a prescribed share,

(d) immediately after the share was issued, the person to whom the share was issued or a person related to the person to whom the share was issued (either alone or together with a related person, a related group of persons of which he is a member or a partnership or trust of which he is a member or beneficiary) controls directly or indirectly, or has an absolute or contingent right to control directly or indirectly or to acquire direct or indirect control of, the issuing corporation and the issuing corporation has the right under the terms and conditions in respect of which the share was issued to redeem, purchase or otherwise acquire the share within five years from the date of its issue,

(e) at the time the share was issued, the existence of the issuing corporation was, or there was an arrangement (other than an amalgamation within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1) of the Act) under which the existence of the issuing corporation could be, limited to a period that ends within five years from the date of its issue, or

(f) the terms or conditions of the share (referred to in this paragraph as the "first share") or of an agreement in existence at the time of its issue provide that a share (referred to in this section as the "substituted share") that is, or if issued would be, a prescribed share may be substituted or exchanged for the first share within five years from the date of issue of the first share,

but does not include a share of the capital stock of a corporation

(g) that was issued after December 31, 1982 pursuant to an agreement or offering in writing made on or before December 31, 1982 or in accordance with a prospectus, registration statement or similar document that was filed with and, where required by law, accepted for filing by, a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the laws of Canada or of any province on or before December 31, 1982,

(h) that would be a prescribed share solely by virtue of one or more of the terms or conditions of an agreement if such terms or conditions are not effective or exercisable until the death, disability or bankruptcy of the person to whom the share is issued,

(i) that is

(i) convertible under its terms into one or more shares of a class of the capital stock of the corporation for no consideration other than the share or shares,

(ii) described in paragraph (a) solely because

(A) it is to be cancelled on the conversion within five years from the date of its issue,

(B) its paid-up capital is to be reduced on the conversion within five years from the date of its issue, or

(C) both clauses (A) and (B) apply, and

(iii) not described in paragraph (c), or

(j) that

(i) may have a share substituted or exchanged for it pursuant to its terms or the terms or conditions of an agreement in existence at the time of its issue and no consideration is to be received or receivable for it in respect of the substitution or exchange other than the share substituted or exchanged for it,

(ii) is described in paragraph (a) solely because it is to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled on the substitution or exchange within five years from the date of its issue, and

(iii) is not a share to which paragraph (f) applies,

and for the purposes of this section,

(k) where a person has an interest in a trust, whether directly or indirectly, through an interest in any other trust or in any other manner whatever, the person shall be deemed to be a beneficiary of the trust;

(l) in determining whether an acquired share would be a prescribed share if issued,

(i) the references in paragraphs (a), (b), (d) and (e) to "date of its issue" shall be read as "date of the issue of the convertible share",

(ii) the reference in paragraph (f) to "issue of the first share" shall be read as "issue of the convertible share", and

(iii) this section shall be read without reference to paragraph (g) and to the words "after December 31, 1982";

(m) in determining whether a substituted share would be a prescribed share if issued,

(i) the references in paragraphs (a) to (e) to "date of its issue" shall be read as "date of the issue of the first share", and

(ii) this section shall be read without reference to paragraph (g) and to the words "after December 31, 1982";

(m.1) an excluded obligation in relation to a share of a class of the capital stock of the issuing corporation and an obligation that would be an excluded obligation in relation to the share if the share had been issued after June 17, 1987, shall be deemed not to be a guarantee, security or similar indemnity with respect to the share for the purposes of paragraph (b);

(n) a guarantee, security or similar indemnity referred to in paragraph (b) shall, for greater certainty, not be considered to take effect within five years from the date of issue of a share if the effect of the guarantee, security or indemnity is to provide that a member of the related issuing group will be able to redeem, acquire or cancel the share at a time that is not within five years from the date of issue of the share; and

(o) where an expense is incurred partly in consideration for shares (referred to in this section as "first corporation shares") of the capital stock of one corporation and partly in consideration for an interest in, or right to, shares (referred to in this paragraph as "second corporation shares") of the capital stock of another corporation, in determining whether the second corporation shares are prescribed shares, the references in paragraphs (a), (d) and (e) to "date of its issue" shall be read as "date of the issue of the first corporation shares".

(2) For the purposes of paragraph 66(15)(d.1) [66(15)"flow-through share"] of the Act, subsection (1) does not apply in respect of a share of the capital stock of an issuing corporation that is a new share.

History: That portion of subsec. 6202(1) preceding para. (a) amended by P.C. 1990-51, subsec. 1(1), January 18, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 31, 1990, applicable in respect of shares issued after February 1986.

Para. 6202(1)(m.1) added by subsec. 1(2) of the said P.C. 1990-51, applicable in respect of shares issued after December 31, 1982.

Subsec. 6202(2) added by subsec. 1(3) of the said P.C. 1990-51, applicable in respect of shares issued after June 17, 1987.

S. 6202 added by P.C. 1985-465, s. 16, February 14, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 6, 1985, applicable with respect to shares issued after December 31, 1982.

6202.1 (1) [Flow-through shares — prescribed share] — For the purposes of the definition "flow-through share" in subsection 66(15) of the Act, a new share of the capital stock of a corporation is a prescribed share if, at the time it is issued,

(a) under the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement in respect of the share or its issue,

(i) the amount of the dividends that may be declared or paid on the share (in this section referred to as the "dividend entitlement") may reasonably be considered to be, by way of a formula or otherwise,

(A) fixed,

(B) limited to a maximum, or

(C) established to be not less than a minimum (including any amount determined on a cumulative basis), where with respect to the dividends that may be declared or paid on the share there is a preference over any other dividends that may be declared or paid on any other share of the capital stock of the corporation,

(ii) the amount that the holder of the share is entitled to receive in respect of the share on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation, on a reduction of the paid-up capital of the share or on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share by the corporation or by specified persons in relation to the corporation (in this section referred to as the "liquidation entitlement") may reasonably be considered to be, by way of a formula or otherwise, fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum,

(iii) the share is convertible or exchangeable into another security issued by the corporation unless

(A) it is convertible or exchangeable only into

(I) another share of the corporation that, if issued, would not be a prescribed share,

(II) a right, including a right conferred by a warrant that, if exercised, would allow the person exercising it to acquire only a share of the corporation that, if issued, would not be a prescribed share, or

(III) both a share described in subclause (I) and a right or warrant described in subclause (II), and

(B) all the consideration receivable by the holder on the conversion or exchange of the share is the share described in subclause (A)(I) or the right or warrant described in subclause (A)(II), or both, as the case may be, or

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 6202.1(1)(a)(iii)(A), (B)

(A) it is convertible or exchangeable only into

(I) another share of the corporation that, if issued, would not be a prescribed share,

(II) a right (including a right conferred by a warrant) that

1. if it were issued, would not be a prescribed right, and

2. if it were exercised, would allow the person exercising it to acquire only a share of the corporation that, if the share were issued, would not be a prescribed share, or

(III) both a share described in subclause (I) and a right described in subclause (II), and

(B) all the consideration receivable by the holder on the conversion or exchange of the share is the share described in subclause (A)(I) or the right described in subclause (A)(II), or both, as the case may be, or

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(2), will amend cls. 6202.1(1)(a)(iii)(A) and (B) to read as above, applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Generally speaking, a share is a prescribed share if the share has fixed or limited rights to dividends or an obligation exists to reduce the paid-up capital of the share or to confer a benefit or guarantee in respect of the share.

Paragraph 6202.1(1)(a) is amended in three respects:

- the preamble to subparagraph (a)(i) in the French version of the Regulations is amended by adding the phrase "l'un des faits énoncés ci-après se vérifie."
- subclause (1)(a)(iii)(A)(I) is amended to add a reference to a prescribed right and is restructured into subsubclauses 1 and 2, and
- subclause (1)(a)(iii)(A)(II) is amended to remove a reference to the word "warrant" in that subclause, because it is not necessary.

(iv) the corporation has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to reduce, or any person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to cause the corporation to reduce, the paid-up capital in respect of the share (other than pursuant to a conversion or exchange of the share, where the right to so convert or exchange does not cause the share to be a prescribed share under subparagraph (iii));

(b) any person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the share)

(i) to provide assistance,

(ii) to make a loan or payment,

(iii) to transfer property, or

(iv) otherwise to confer a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend, either immediately or in the future, that may reasonably be considered to be, directly or indirectly, a repayment or return by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation of all or part of the consideration for which the share was issued or for which a partnership interest was issued in a partnership that acquires the share;

(c) any person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the share) to effect any undertaking, either immediately or in the future, with respect to the share or the agreement under which the share is issued (including any guarantee, security, indemnity, covenant or agreement and including the lending of funds to or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the holder of the share or, where the holder is a partnership, the members thereof or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be) that may reasonably be considered to have been given to ensure, directly or indirectly, that

(i) any loss that the holder of the share and, where the holder is a partnership, the members thereof or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be, may sustain by reason of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share or any other property is limited in any respect, or

(ii) the holder of the share and, where the holder is a partnership, the members thereof or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be, will derive earnings, by reason of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share or any other property;

(d) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation may reasonably be expected

(i) to acquire or cancel the share in whole or in part otherwise than on a conversion or exchange of the share that meets the conditions set out in clauses (a)(iii)(A) and (B),

(ii) to reduce the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of the share otherwise than on a conversion or exchange of the share that meets the conditions set out in clauses (a)(iii)(A) and (B), or

(iii) to make a payment, transfer or other provision (otherwise than pursuant to an excluded obligation in relation to the share), directly or indirectly, by way of a dividend, loan, purchase of shares, financial assistance to any purchaser of the share or, where the purchaser is a partnership, the members thereof or in any other manner whatever, that may reasonably be considered to be a repayment or return of all or part of the consideration for which the share was issued or for which a partnership interest was issued in a partnership that acquires the share, within 5 years after the date the share is issued, otherwise than as a consequence of an amalgamation of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation, a winding-up of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies or the payment of a dividend by a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation to its parent;

(e) any person or partnership can reasonably be expected to effect, within 5 years after the date the share is issued, any undertaking which, if it were in effect at the time the share was issued, would result in the share being a prescribed share by reason of paragraph (c); or

(f) it may reasonably be expected that, within 5 years after the date the share is issued,

(i) any of the terms or conditions of the share or any existing agreement relating to the share or its issue will thereafter be modified, or

(ii) any new agreement relating to the share or its issue will be entered into,

in such a manner that the share would be a prescribed share if it had been issued at the time of the modification or at the time when the new agreement is entered into.

(1.1) [Flow-through shares — prescribed right] — For the purpose of the definition "flow-through share" in subsection 66(15) of the Act, a new right to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation is a prescribed right if, at the time the right is issued,

(a) the amount that the holder of the right is entitled to receive in respect of the right on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation or on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the right by the corporation or by specified persons in relation to the corporation (referred to in this section as the "liquidation entitlement" of the right) can reasonably be considered to be, by way of a formula or otherwise, fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum;

(b) the right is convertible or exchangeable into another security issued by the corporation unless

(i) the right is convertible or exchangeable only into

(A) a share of the corporation that, if issued, would not be a prescribed share,

(B) another right (including a right conferred by a warrant) that

(I) if it were issued, would not be a prescribed right, and

(II) if it were exercised, would allow the person exercising it to acquire only a share of the corporation that, if the share were issued, would not be a prescribed share, or

(C) both a share described in clause (A) and a right described in clause (B), and

(ii) all the consideration receivable by the holder on the conversion or exchange of the right is the share described in clause (A) or the right described in clause (B), or both, as the case may be;

(c) any person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the right)

(i) to provide assistance,

(ii) to make a loan or payment,

(iii) to transfer property, or

(iv) to otherwise confer a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend, either immediately or in the future, that can reasonably be considered to be, directly or indirectly, a repayment or return by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation of all or part of the consideration for which the right was issued or for which a partnership interest was issued in a partnership that acquires the right;

(d) any person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the right) to effect any undertaking, either immediately or in the future, with respect to the right or the agreement under which the right is issued (including any guarantee, security, indemnity, covenant or agreement and including the lending of funds to or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the holder of the right or where the holder is a partnership, the members of the partnership or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be) that can reasonably be considered to have been given to ensure, directly or indirectly, that

(i) any loss that the holder of the right and, where the holder is a partnership, the members of the partnership or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be, may sustain because of the holding, ownership or disposition of the right or any other property is limited in any respect, or

(ii) the holder of the right and, where the holder is a partnership, the members of the partnership or specified persons in relation to the holder or the members of the partnership, as the case may be, will derive earnings, because of the holding, ownership or disposition of the right or any other property;

(e) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation can reasonably be expected

(i) to acquire or cancel the right in whole or in part otherwise than on a conversion or exchange of the right that meets the conditions set out in subparagraphs (b)(i) and (ii), or

(ii) to make a payment, transfer or other provision (otherwise than pursuant to an excluded obligation in relation to the right), directly or indirectly, by way of a dividend, loan, purchase of rights, financial assistance to any purchaser of the right or, where the purchaser is a partnership, the members of the partnership or in any other manner whatever, that can reasonably be considered to be a repayment or return of all or part of the consideration for which the right was issued or for which a partnership interest was issued in a partnership that acquires the right, within five years after the date the right is issued, otherwise than as a consequence of an amalgamation of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation, a winding-up of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies or the payment of a dividend by a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation to its parent;

(f) any person or partnership can reasonably be expected to effect, within five years after the day the right is issued, any undertaking which, if it were in effect at the time the right was issued, would result in the right being a prescribed right because of paragraph (d);

(g) it can reasonably be expected that, within five years after the date the right is issued,

(i) any of the terms or conditions of the right or any existing agreement relating to the right or its issue will be modified in such a manner that the right would be a prescribed right if it had been issued at the time of the modification, or

(ii) any new agreement relating to the right or its issue will be entered into in such a manner that the right would be a prescribed right if it had been issued at the time the new agreement is entered into; or

(h) it can reasonably be expected that the right, if exercised, would allow the person exercising the right to acquire a share in a corporation that, if that share were issued, would be a prescribed share within five years after the day the right was issued.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(3), will add subsec. 6202.1(1.1), applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsections 6202.1(1) and (2) list the conditions under which a share of a corporation can be considered a prescribed share. New subsection 6202.1(1.1) provides for similar rules that apply in respect of a right and lists the conditions under which a right can be considered a prescribed right. These amendments are consequential to the amendments to the definition of "flow-through share" that ensure that a prescribed right is not to be treated as a flow-through share.

Related Provisions: Reg. 6202.1(3) — Dividend entitlement and liquidation entitlement; Reg. 6202.1(4) — Agreement deemed not to be undertaking.

(2) [Flow-through shares — prescribed share] — For the purposes of the definition "flow-through share" in subsection 66(15) of the Act, a new share of the capital stock of a corporation is a prescribed share if

(a) the consideration for which the share is to be issued is to be determined more than 60 days after entering into the agreement pursuant to which the share is to be issued;

(b) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation, directly or indirectly,

(i) provided assistance,

(ii) made or arranged for a loan or payment,

(iii) transferred property, or

(iv) otherwise conferred a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend, for the purpose of assisting any person or partnership in acquiring the share or any person or partnership in acquiring an interest in a partnership acquiring the share (otherwise than by reason of an excluded obligation in relation to the share); or

(c) the holder of the share or, where the holder is a partnership, a member thereof, has a right under any agreement or arrangement entered into under circumstances where it is reasonable to consider that the agreement or arrangement was contemplated at or before the time when the agreement to issue the share was entered into,

(i) to dispose of the share, and

(ii) through a transaction or event or a series of transactions or events contemplated by the agreement or arrangement, to acquire a share (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquired share") of the capital stock of another corporation that would be a prescribed share under subsection (1) if the acquired share were issued at the time the share was issued, other than a share that would not be a prescribed share if subsection (1) were read without reference to subparagraphs (a)(iv) and (d)(i) and (ii) thereof where the acquired share is a share

(A) of a mutual fund corporation, or

(B) of a corporation that becomes a mutual fund corporation within 90 days after the acquisition of the acquired share.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 6202.1(2.1)

(a) the consideration for which the new right is to be issued is to be determined more than 60 days after entering into the agreement pursuant to which the new right is to be issued;

(b) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting any person or partnership to acquire the new right or any person or partnership to acquire an interest in a partnership acquiring the new right (otherwise than because of an excluded obligation in relation to the new right),

(i) provided assistance,

(ii) made or arranged for a loan or payment,

(iii) transferred property, or

(iv) otherwise conferred a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend; or

(c) the holder of the new right or, where the holder is a partnership, a member of the partnership, has a right under any agreement or arrangement entered into under circumstances where it is reasonable to consider that the agreement or arrangement was contemplated at or before the time the agreement to issue the new right was entered into,

(i) to dispose of the new right, and

(ii) through a transaction or event or a series of transactions or events contemplated by the agreement or arrangement, to acquire

(A) a share (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquired share") of the capital stock of another corporation that would be a prescribed share under subsection (1) if the acquired share were issued at the time the new right was issued, other than a share that would not be a prescribed share if subsection (1) were read without reference to subparagraphs (1)(a)(iv) and (1)(d)(i) and (ii) where the acquired share is a share

(I) of a mutual fund corporation, or

(II) of a corporation that becomes a mutual fund corporation within 90 days after the acquisition of the acquired share, or

(B) a right (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquired right") to acquire a share of the capital stock of another corporation that would, if it were issued at the time the new right was issued, be a prescribed right, other than a right that would not be a prescribed right if subsection (1.1) were read without reference to subparagraph (1.1)(e)(i) where the acquired right is a right to acquire a share of the capital stock

(I) of a mutual fund corporation, or

(II) of a corporation that becomes a mutual fund corporation within 90 days after the acquisition of the acquired right.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(4), will add subsec. 6202.1(2.1), applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 6202.1(2) lists the conditions under which a new share of a corporation can be considered a prescribed share. New subsection 6202.1(2.1) provides for similar rules that apply in respect of a new right and lists the conditions under which a new right can be considered a prescribed right. These amendments are consequential to the amendments to the definition of "flow-through share" that ensure that a prescribed right is not treated as a flow-through share.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(3) [Dividend entitlement and liquidation entitlement] — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum where all dividends on the share are determined solely by reference to a multiple or fraction of the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation, or of another corporation that controls the corporation, where the dividend entitlement of that other share is not described in subparagraph (1)(a)(i); and

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum where all the liquidation entitlement is determinable solely by reference to the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation, or of another corporation that controls the corporation, where the liquidation entitlement of that other share is not described in subparagraph (1)(a)(ii).

(3) [Dividend entitlement and liquidation entitlement] — For the purposes of subsections (1) and (1.1),

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation is deemed not to be fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum where all dividends on the share are determined solely by reference to a multiple or fraction of the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation, or of another corporation that controls the corporation, where the dividend entitlement of that other share is not described in subparagraph (1)(a)(i); and

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation, or of a right to acquire a share of the capital stock of the corporation, as the case may be, is deemed not to be fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum where

(i) all the liquidation entitlement is determinable solely by reference to

(A) the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation (or a share of the capital stock of another corporation that controls the corporation), or

(B) the liquidation entitlement of a right to acquire the capital stock of the corporation (or another corporation that controls the corporation),

(ii) the liquidation entitlement described in clause (i)(A), if any, is not described in subparagraph (1)(a)(ii), and

(iii) the liquidation entitlement described in clause (i)(B), if any, is not described in paragraph (1.1)(a).

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(4), will amend subsec. 6202.1(3) to read as above, applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 6202.1(3) sets out the circumstances under which certain dividend entitlements referred to in subparagraph (1)(a)(i), and liquidation entitlements referred to in subparagraph (1)(a)(ii), could be considered to not be fixed, limited to a maximum or established to be not less than a minimum. Subsection 6202.1(3) is amend[ed] in three respects:

- a reference to new subsection 6202.1(1.1) is added,
- the references to the phrase "shall be deemed" are replaced with references to "is deemed," and
- paragraph (b) is restructured for clarity and references to rights to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation and to new subparagraph (1.1)(a)(i) are added.

(4) [Agreement deemed not to be undertaking] — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c) and (e), an agreement entered into between the first holder of a share and another person or partnership for the sale of the share to that other person or partnership for its fair market value at the time the share is acquired by the other person or partnership (determined without regard to the agreement) shall be deemed not to be an undertaking with respect to the share.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 6202.1(4)

(4) [Agreement deemed not to be undertaking] — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c) and (e) and (1.1)(d) and (f), an agreement entered into between the first holder of a share or right and another person or partnership for the sale of the share or right to that other person or partnership for its fair market value at the time the share or right is acquired by the other person or partnership (determined without regard to the agreement) is deemed not to be an undertaking with respect to the share or right, as the case may be.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(4), will amend subsec. 6202.1(4) to read as above, applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 6202.1(4) provides that for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c) and (e), an agreement to acquire a share by a person from the first holder of the share at fair market value is deemed not to be an undertaking with respect to the share. Subsection 6202.1(4) is amended, in the following three respects, to ensure that similar rules apply in respect of an agreement to acquire a right from a first holder of the right:

- references to right are added,
- references to "shall be deemed" are replaced with references to "is deemed," and
- references to paragraphs (1.1)(d) and (f) are added consequential to the introduction of new subsection (1.1).

(5) [Definitions] — For the purposes of section 6202 and this section,

"excluded obligation", in relation to a share issued by a corporation, means

(a) an obligation of the corporation

(i) with respect to eligibility for, or the amount of, any assistance under the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program Act, the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program Act, the Ontario Mineral Exploration Program Act, 1989, Statutes of Ontario 1989, c. 40, or the Mineral Exploration Incentive Program Act (Manitoba), Statutes of Manitoba 1990-91, c. 45, or

(ii) with respect to the making of an election respecting such assistance and the flowing out of such assistance to the holder of the share in accordance with any of those Acts,

(a.1) an obligation of the corporation, in respect of the share, to distribute an amount that represents a payment out of assistance to which the corporation is entitled

(i) under section 25.1 of the Income Tax Act, Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1996, c. 215, and

(ii) as a consequence of the corporation making expenditures funded by consideration received for shares issued by the corporation in respect of which the corporation purports to renounce an amount under subsection 66(12.6) of the Act, and

(b) an obligation of any person or partnership to effect an undertaking to indemnify a holder of the share or, where the holder is a partnership, a member thereof, for an amount not exceeding the amount of any tax payable under the Act or the laws of a province by the holder or the member of the partnership, as the case may be, as a consequence of

(i) the failure of the corporation to renounce an amount to the holder in respect of the share, or

(ii) a reduction, under subsection 66(12.73) of the Act, of an amount purported to be renounced to the holder in respect of the share;

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 6202.1(5)"excluded obligation"

"excluded obligation" in relation to a share or new right issued by a corporation, means

(a) an obligation of the corporation

(i) with respect to eligibility for, or the amount of, any assistance under the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program Act, the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program Act, the Ontario Mineral Exploration Program Act, R.S.O., c. O.27, or The Mineral Exploration Incentive Program Act, S.M. 1991-92, c. 45, or

(ii) with respect to the making of an election respecting such assistance and the flowing out of such assistance to the holder of the share or the new right in accordance with any of those Acts,

(b) an obligation of the corporation, in respect of the share or the new right, to distribute an amount that represents a payment out of assistance to which the corporation is entitled

(i) as a consequence of the corporation making expenditures funded by consideration received for shares or new rights issued by the corporation in respect of which the corporation purports to renounce an amount under subsection 66(12.6) of the Act, and

(ii) under section 25.1 of the Income Tax Act, R.S.B.C., 1996, c. 215, or

(c) an obligation of any person or partnership to effect an undertaking to indemnify a holder of the share or the new right or, where the holder is a partnership, a member of the partnership, for an amount not exceeding the amount of any tax payable under the Act or the laws of a province by the holder or the member of the partnership, as the case may be, as a consequence of

(i) the failure of the corporation to renounce an amount to the holder in respect of the share or the new right, or

(ii) a reduction, under subsection 66(12.73) of the Act, of an amount purported to be renounced to the holder in respect of the share or the new right;

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(5), will amend the definition "excluded obligation" in subsec. 6202.1(5) to read as above, applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): For the purposes of sections 6202 and 6202.1, subsection 6202.1(5) defines the terms "excluded obligation", "new share" and "specified person". These definitions are important in determining whether a share of a capital stock of a corporation can qualify as a flow-through share or is a prescribed share.

The definition "new right" is added in subsection 6202.1(5) and the existing definition "excluded obligation" is amended consequential to the introduction of the new definition.

Subsection 6202.1(2) lists the conditions under which a new share of a corporation can be considered a prescribed share. Certain obligations, other than excluded obligations, in respect of a share can result in a share of a corporation being a prescribed share, thus ineligible for treatment as a flow-through share. The definition "excluded obligation" lists certain obligations the existence of which does not affect a share from being treated as a flow-through share.

The definition "excluded obligation" is amended to add references to a right issued by a corporation, consequential to the introduction of the definition "new right."

Proposed Addition — Reg. 6202.1(5)"new right"

"new right" means a right that is issued after December 20, 2002 to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation, other than a right that is issued at a particular time before 2003

(a) pursuant to an agreement in writing made on or before December 20, 2002,

(b) as part of a distribution of rights to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice, required by law to be filed before distribution of the rights

begins, filed on or before December 20, 2002 with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of the province in which the rights are distributed, or

(c) to a partnership interests in which were issued as part of a distribution to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice, required by law to be filed before distribution of the interests begins, filed on or before December 20, 2002 with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of the province in which the interests are distributed, where all interests in the partnership issued at or before the particular time were issued

(i) as part of the distribution, or

(ii) before the beginning of the distribution;

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 175(6), will add the definition "new right" to subsec. 6202.1(5), applicable to shares and rights issued under an agreement made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): A "new right" is a right generally issued after December 20, 2002, unless it is issued before 2003 pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before December 20, 2002.

"new share" means a share of the capital stock of a corporation issued after June 17, 1987, other than a share issued at a particular time before 1989

(a) pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before June 18, 1987,

(b) as part of a distribution of shares to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice, required by law to be filed before distribution of the shares begins, filed before June 18, 1987 with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of the province in which the shares were distributed, or

(c) to a partnership in which interests were issued as part of a distribution to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice, required by law to be filed before distribution of the interests begins, filed before June 18, 1987 with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of the province in which the interests were distributed, where all interests in the partnership issued at or before the particular time were issued as part of the distribution or prior to the beginning of the distribution;

"specified person", in relation to any particular person, means another person with whom the particular person does not deal at arm's length or any partnership or trust of which the particular person or the other person is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

6203. (1) [Share-purchase tax credit] — For the purposes of subsection 192(6) of the Act, a prescribed share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation is a share (other than a share acquired by a taxpayer under circumstances referred to in section 66.3 of the Act, a share acquired as consideration for a disposition of property in respect of which an election was made under subsection 85(1) or (2) of the Act and a share that can be considered to have been issued, directly or indirectly, for consideration that includes other shares of the capital stock of the corporation) where, at the time it is issued,

(a) under the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement in respect of the share or its issue,

(i) the amount of the dividends (in this section referred to as the "dividend entitlement") that the corporation may declare or pay on the share is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount at that time or any time thereafter by way of a formula or otherwise,

(ii) the amount (in this section referred to as the "liquidation entitlement") that the holder of the share is entitled to receive on the share on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount by way of a formula or otherwise,

(iii) the share cannot be converted into any other security, other than into another security of the corporation that would, if it were issued for consideration that does not include other shares of the capital stock of the corporation, be a prescribed share,

(iv) the holder of the share cannot at that time or at any time thereafter cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation or any specified person in relation to the corporation, except where the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by subparagraph (iii),

(v) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to reduce, or to cause the corporation to reduce, at that time or at any time thereafter, the paid-up capital in respect of the share, except where the reduction is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by subparagraph (iii),

(vi) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation at that time or at any time thereafter to

(A) provide assistance to acquire the share,

(B) make a loan or payment,

(C) transfer property, or

(D) otherwise confer a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend, that may reasonably be considered to be, directly or indirectly, a repayment or return by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation of all or part of the consideration for which the share was issued,

(vii) neither the corporation nor any specified person in relation to the corporation has, either absolutely or contingently, the right or obligation to redeem, acquire or cancel, at that time or at any time thereafter, the share in whole or in part other than for an amount that approximates the fair market value of the share (determined without reference to any such right or obligation), and

(viii) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to provide, at that time or at any time thereafter, any form of undertaking with respect to the share (including any guarantee, security, indemnity, covenant or agreement and including the lending of funds to or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the holder of the share or any specified person in relation to holder) that may reasonably be considered to have been given to ensure that

(A) any loss that the holder of the share may sustain by virtue of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share is limited in any respect, or

(B) the holder of the share will derive earnings by virtue of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share;

(b) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation cannot reasonably be expected to, within two years after the time the share is issued,

(i) acquire or cancel the share in whole or in part,

(ii) reduce the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of the share, or

(iii) make a payment, transfer or other provision, directly or indirectly, by way of a dividend, loan, purchase of shares, financial assistance to any purchaser of the share or in any other manner whatever, that may reasonably be considered to be a repayment or return of all or part of the consideration for which the share was issued otherwise than as a consequence of the payment of a dividend paid by a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation to its parent, of an amalgamation of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation or of a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies;

(c) no person or partnership can reasonably be expected to provide, within two years after the time the share is issued, any form of undertaking with respect to the share (including any guarantee, security, indemnity, covenant or agreement and including the lending of funds to, or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the holder of the share or any specified person in relation to the holder); and

(d) it cannot reasonably be expected that any of the terms or conditions of the share or any existing agreement in respect of the share or its issue will thereafter be modified or amended, or that any new agreement in respect of the share or its issue will be entered into, within two years after the time the share is issued, in such a manner that the share would not be a prescribed share if it had been issued at the time of such modification or amendment or at the time the new agreement is entered into.

(2) [Interpretation] — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the dividend entitlement is determinable by reference to the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(i);

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the liquidation entitlement is determinable by reference to the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(ii);

(c) where a corporation has merged or amalgamated with one or more other corporations, the corporation formed as a result of the merger or amalgamation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each of its predecessor corporations and a share issued on the merger or amalgamation as consideration for another share shall be deemed to be the same share as the share for which it was issued but this paragraph does not apply if the share issued on the merger or amalgamation is not a prescribed share at the time of its issue; and

(d) an agreement entered into between the first purchaser of a share and another person or partnership, other than a specified person in relation to the corporation issuing the share, for the sale of the share to that other person or partnership shall be deemed not to be an undertaking with respect to the share.

(3) ["Specified person"] — For the purposes of subsections (1) and (2), "specified person", in relation to a corporation or a holder of a share, as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer"), means any person or partnership with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length or any partnership or trust of which the taxpayer (or a person or partnership with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length) is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

6204. (1) [Employee stock option deduction — prescribed share] — For the purposes of subparagraph 110(1)(d)(i) of the Act, a share is a prescribed share of the capital stock of a corporation at the time of its sale or issue, as the case may be, if, at that time,

(a) under the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement in respect of the share or its issue,

(i) the amount of the dividends (in this section referred to as the "dividend entitlement") that the corporation may declare or pay on the share is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount at that time or at any time thereafter by way of a formula or otherwise,

(ii) the amount (in this section referred to as the "liquidation entitlement") that the holder of the share is entitled to receive on the share on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount by way of a formula or otherwise,

(iii) the share cannot be converted into any other security, other than into another security of the corporation or of another corporation with which it does not deal at arm's length that is, or would be at the date of conversion, a prescribed share,

(iv) the holder of the share cannot at that time or at any time thereafter cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation or any specified person in relation to the corporation, except where the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by subparagraph (iii),

(v) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to reduce, or to cause the corporation to reduce, at that time or at any time thereafter, the paid-up capital in respect of the share, except where the reduction is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by subparagraph (iii), and

(vi) neither the corporation nor any specified person in relation to the corporation has, either absolutely or contingently, the right or obligation to redeem, acquire or cancel, at that time or any later time, the share in whole or in part other than for an amount that approximates the fair market value of the share (determined without reference to any such right or obligation) or a lesser amount;

(b) the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation cannot reasonably be expected to, within two years after the time the share is sold or issued, as the case may be, redeem, acquire or cancel the share in whole or in part, or reduce the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of the share, otherwise than as a consequence of

(i) an amalgamation of a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation,

(ii) a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies, or

(iii) a distribution or appropriation to which subsection 84(2) of the Act applies; and

(c) it cannot reasonably be expected that any of the terms or conditions of the share or any existing agreement in respect of the share or its sale or issue will be modified or amended, or that any new agreement in respect of the share, its sale or issue will be entered into, within two years after the time the share is sold or issued, in such a manner that the share would not be a prescribed share if it had been sold or issued at the time of such modification or amendment or at the time the new agreement is entered into.

Related Provisions: Reg. 6204(2) — Rules.

(2) [Rules] — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the dividend entitlement is determinable by reference to the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(i);

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the liquidation entitlement is determinable by reference to the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(ii); and

(c) the determination of whether a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation is a prescribed share shall be made without reference to a right or obligation to redeem, acquire or cancel the share, or to cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled, where

(i) the person (in this paragraph referred to as the "holder") to whom the share is sold or issued is, at the time the share is sold or issued, dealing at arm's length with the particular corporation and with each corporation with which the particular corporation is not dealing at arm's length,

(ii) the right or obligation is provided for in the terms or conditions of the share or in an agreement in respect of the share or its issue and, having regard to all the circumstances, it can reasonably be considered that

(A) the principal purpose of providing for the right or obligation is to protect the holder against any loss in respect of the share, and the amount payable on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation (in this subparagraph and in subparagraph (iii) referred to as the "acquisition") of the share will not exceed the adjusted cost base of the share to the holder immediately before the acquisition, or

(B) the principal purpose of providing for the right or obligation is to provide the holder with a market for the share, and the amount payable on the acquisition of the share will not exceed the fair market value of the share immediately before the acquisition, and

(iii) having regard to all the circumstances, it can reasonably be considered that no portion of the amount payable on the acquisition of the share is directly determinable by reference to the profits of the particular corporation, or of another corporation with which the particular corporation does not deal at arm's length, for all or any part of the period during which the holder owns the share or has a right to acquire the share, unless the reference to the profits of the particular corporation or the other corporation is only for the purpose of determining the fair market value of the share pursuant to a formula set out in the terms or conditions of the share or the agreement in respect of the share or its issue, as the case may be.

(3) ["Specified person"] — For the purposes of subsection (1), "specified person", in relation to a corporation, means

(a) any person or partnership with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) of the Act that arises as a result of an offer by the person or partnership to acquire all or substantially all of the shares of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(b) any partnership or trust of which the corporation (or a person or partnership with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length) is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

6205. (1) [Capital gains deduction — prescribed share] — For the purposes of subsections 110.6(8) and (9) of the Act and subject to subsection (3), a prescribed share is a share of the capital stock of a corporation where

(a) under the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement in respect of the share or its issue,

(i) at the time the share is issued,

(A) the amount of the dividends (in this section referred to as the "dividend entitlement") that the corporation may declare or pay on the share is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount at that time or at any time thereafter by way of a formula or otherwise,

(B) the amount (in this section referred to as the "liquidation entitlement") that the holder of the share is entitled to receive on the share on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount by way of a formula or otherwise,

(C) the share cannot be converted into any other security, other than into another security of the corporation that is, or would be at the date of conversion, a prescribed share,

(D) the holder of the share does not, at that time or at any time thereafter, have the right or obligation to cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation, except where the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by clause (C),

(E) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to reduce, or to cause the corporation to reduce, at that time or at any time thereafter, the paid-up capital in respect of the share, otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share that is not prohibited by this section,

(F) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the share, as defined in subsection 6202.1(5)) at that time or any time thereafter to

(I) provide assistance to acquire the share,

(II) make a loan or payment,

(III) transfer property, or

(IV) otherwise confer a benefit by any means whatever, including the payment of a dividend,

that may reasonably be considered to be, directly or indirectly, a repayment or return by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation of all or part of the consideration for which the share was issued, and

(G) neither the corporation nor any specified person in relation to the corporation has, either absolutely or contingently, the right or obligation to redeem, acquire or cancel, at that time or at any time thereafter, the share in whole or in part, except where the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by clause (C),

(ii) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation (other than an excluded obligation in relation to the share, as defined in subsection 6202.1(5)) to provide, at any time, any form of undertaking with respect to the share (including any guarantee, security, indemnity, covenant or agreement and including the lending of funds to or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the holder of the share or any specified person in relation to that holder) that may reasonably be considered to have been given to ensure that

(A) any loss that the holder of the share may sustain by virtue of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share is limited in any respect, or

(B) the holder of the share will derive earnings by virtue of the holding, ownership or disposition of the share; and

(b) at the time the share is issued, it cannot reasonably be expected, having regard to all the circumstances, that any of the terms or conditions of the share or any existing agreement in respect of the share or its issue will thereafter be modified or amended or that any new agreement in respect of the share or its issue will be entered into, in such a manner that the share would not be a prescribed share if it had been issued at the time of such modification or amendment or at the time the new agreement is entered into.

Related Provisions: Reg. 6205(4) — Interpretation.

(2) [Capital gains deduction — prescribed share] — For the purposes of subsections 110.6(8) and (9) of the Act and subject to subsection (3), a prescribed share is a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation where

(a) it is a particular share that is owned by a person and that was issued by the particular corporation as part of an arrangement to that person, to a spouse, common-law partner or parent of that person or, if the person is a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) of the Act, to the person who created the trust or by whose will the trust was created or, if the person is a corporation, to another person owning all of the issued and out-standing shares of the capital stock of the corporation or to a spouse, common-law partner or parent of that other person, and

(i) the main purpose of the arrangement was to permit any increase in the value of the property of the particular corporation to accrue to other shares that would, at the time of their issue, be prescribed shares if this section were read without reference to this subsection, and

(ii) at the time of the issue of the particular share or at the end of the arrangement,

(A) the other shares were owned by

(I) the person to whom the particular share was issued (in this paragraph referred to as the "original holder"),

(II) a person who did not deal at arm's length with the original holder,

(III) a trust none of the beneficiaries of which were persons other than the original holder or a person who did not deal at arm's length with the original holder, or

(IV) any combination of persons described in subclause (I), (II) or (III),

(B) the other shares were owned by employees of the particular corporation or of a corporation controlled by the particular corporation, or

(C) the other shares were owned by any combination of persons each of whom is described in clause (A) or (B); or

(b) it is a share that was issued by a mutual fund corporation.

Related Provisions: ITA 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled"; Reg. 6205(4) — Interpretation.

(3) [Capital gains deduction — prescribed share] — For the purposes of subsections 110.6(8) and (9) of the Act, a prescribed share does not include a share of the capital stock issued by a mutual fund corporation (other than an investment corporation) the value of which can reasonably be considered to be, directly or indirectly, derived primarily from investments made by the mutual fund corporation in one or more corporations (in this subsection referred to as an "investee corporation") connected with it (within the meaning of subsection 186(4) of the Act on the assumption that the references in that subsection to "payer corporation" and "particular corporation" were read as references to "investee corporation" and "mutual fund corporation", respectively).

Related Provisions: ITA 186(7) — Interpretation of "connected".

(4) [Rules] — For the purposes of this section,

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that

(i) all or substantially all of the dividend entitlement is determinable by reference to the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of clause (1)(a)(i)(A), or

(ii) the dividend entitlement cannot be such as to impair the ability of the corporation to redeem another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of paragraph (2)(a);

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the liquidation entitlement is determinable by reference to the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of clause (1)(a)(i)(B);

(c) where two or more corporations (each of which is referred to in this paragraph as a "predecessor corporation") have merged or amalgamated, the corporation formed as a result of the merger or amalgamation (in this paragraph referred to as the "new corporation") shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each of the predecessor corporations and a share of the capital stock of the new corporation issued on the merger or amalgamation as consideration for a share of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be the same share as the share of the predecessor corporation for which it was issued, but this paragraph does not apply if the share issued on the merger or amalgamation is not a prescribed share at the time of its issue and either

(i) the terms and conditions of that share are not identical to those of the share of the predecessor corporation for which it was issued, or

(ii) at the time of its issue the fair market value of that share is not the same as that of the share of the predecessor corporation for which it was issued;

(d) a reference in clauses (1)(a)(i)(D) and (G) and subparagraph (1)(a)(ii) to a right or obligation of the corporation or a person or partnership does not include a right or obligation provided in a written agreement among shareholders of a private corporation owning more than 50% of its issued and outstanding share capital having full voting rights under all circumstances to which the corporation, person or partnership is a party unless it may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, including the terms of the agreement and the number and relationship of the shareholders, that one of the main reasons for the existence of the agreement is to avoid or limit the application of subsection 110.6(8) or (9) of the Act;

(e) where at any particular time after November 21, 1985, the terms or conditions of a share are changed or any existing agreement in respect thereof is changed or a new agreement in respect of the share is entered into, the share shall, for the purpose of determining whether it is a prescribed share, be deemed to have been issued at that particular time; and

(f) the determination of whether a share of the capital stock of a corporation is a prescribed share for the purposes of subsection (1) shall be made without reference to a right or obligation to redeem, acquire or cancel the share or to cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled where

(i) the share was issued pursuant to an employee share purchase agreement (in this paragraph referred to as "the agreement") to an employee (in this paragraph referred to as "the holder") of the corporation or of a corporation with which it did not deal at arm's length,

(ii) the holder was dealing at arm's length with each corporation referred to in subparagraph (i) at the time the share was issued, and

(iii) having regard to all the circumstances including the terms of the agreement, it may reasonably be considered that

(A) the amount payable on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation (in this clause and in clause (B) referred to as the "acquisition") of the share will not exceed

(I) the adjusted cost base of the share to the holder immediately before the acquisition, where the acquisition was provided for in the agreement and the principal purpose for its provision was to protect the holder against any loss in respect of the share, or

(II) the fair market value of the share immediately before the acquisition, where the acquisition was provided for in the agreement and the principal purpose for its provision was to provide the holder with a market for the share, and

(B) no portion of the amount payable on the acquisition of the share is directly determinable by reference to the profits of the corporation, or of another corporation with which it does not deal at arm's length, for all or any part of the period during which the holder owned the share or had a right to acquire the share, unless the reference to the profits of the corporation or the other corporation is only for the purpose of determining the fair market value of the share pursuant to a formula set out in the agreement.

(5) ["Specified person"] — For the purposes of this section, "specified person", in relation to a corporation or a holder of a share, as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer"), means any person or partnership with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length or any partnership or trust of which the taxpayer (or a person or partnership with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length) is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

6206. [Prescribed share for ITA 84(8)] — The Class I Special Shares of Reed Stenhouse Companies Limited, issued before January 1, 1986, are prescribed for the purposes of subsection 84(8) of the Act.

History: S. 6206 added by P.C. 1986-2770, s. 8, December 11, 1986, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 24, 1986, effective from May 23, 1985.

6207. (1) For the purposes of paragraph 183.1(4)(c) of the Act (as it read in its application to transactions entered into before September 13, 1988), a share is a prescribed share of the capital stock of an acquiring corporation where, at the time the share is issued

(a) under the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement in respect of the share or its issue,

(i) the amount of the dividends (in this section referred to as the "dividend entitlement") that the corporation may declare or pay on the share is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount at that time or at any time thereafter by way of a formula or otherwise,

(ii) the amount (in this section referred to as the "liquidation entitlement") that the holder of the share is entitled to receive on the share on the dissolution, liquidation or winding-up of the corporation is not limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount by way of a formula or otherwise,

(iii) the share cannot be converted into any other security, other than into another security of the corporation or of another corporation with which it does not deal at arm's length that is, or would be at the date of conversion, a prescribed share,

(iv) the holder of the share does not, at that time or at any time thereafter, have the right or obligation to cause the share to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation or any specified person in relation to the corporation, except where the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is required pursuant to a conversion that is not prohibited by subparagraph (iii),

(v) no person or partnership has, either absolutely or contingently, an obligation to reduce, or to cause the corporation to reduce, at that time or at any time thereafter, the paid-up capital in respect of the share, otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share that is not prohibited by this section, and

(b) it cannot reasonably be expected, having regard to all the circumstances, that any of the terms or conditions of the share or any existing agreement in respect of the share or its issue will be modified or amended, or that any new agreement in respect of the share or its issue will be entered into, in such a manner that the share would not be a prescribed share if it had been issued at the time of such modification or amendment or at the time the new agreement is entered into.

(2) For the purposes of this section,

(a) the dividend entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all the dividend entitlement is determinable by reference to the dividend entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(i);

(b) the liquidation entitlement of a share of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed not to be limited to a maximum amount or fixed at a minimum amount where it may reasonably be considered that all or substantially all of the liquidation entitlement is determinable by reference to the liquidation entitlement of another share of the capital stock of the corporation that meets the requirements of subparagraph (1)(a)(ii);

(c) where at any particular time after June 3, 1987, the terms or conditions of a share are changed or any existing agreement in respect of the share is changed or a new agreement in respect of the share is entered into, the share shall, for the purpose of determining whether it is a prescribed share, be deemed to have been issued at that particular time;

(d) the determination of whether a share of the capital stock of a corporation owned by an employee of the corporation or another corporation with which it does not deal at arms' length is a prescribed share shall be made without reference to a right or obligation with respect to an acquisition of the share, the consideration for which is described in subparagraph 183.1(4)(c)(i) or (ii) of the Act (as those subparagraphs read in their application to transactions entered into before September 13, 1988) where no portion of the amount payable on the acquisition of the share is directly determinable by reference to the profits of the corporation or the other corporation for all or any part of the period during which the employee owned the share or had a right to acquire the share, unless the reference to the profits of the corporation or the other corporation is only for the purpose of determining the fair market value of the share pursuant to a formula set out in the employee share purchase agreement under which the employee acquired the share; and

(e) a reference in subparagraphs (1)(a)(iv) and (vi) to a right or obligation of the corporation or a person or partnership does not include a right or obligation provided in a written agreement among shareholders of a private corporation owning more than 50% of its issued and outstanding share capital having full voting rights under all circumstances to which the corporation, person or partnership is a party unless it may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances including the terms of the agreement and the number and relationship of the shareholders, that one of the main reasons for the existence of the agreement is to avoid or limit the application of subsection 183.1(1) of the Act.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1), "specified person" in relation to a corporation means any person or partnership with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length or any partnership or trust of which the corporation (or a person or partnership with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length) is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

History: That portion of s. 6207 preceding para. (a) amended by P.C. 1992-2335, Sch. II, s. 14, November 19, 1992, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 2, 1992, applicable after November 27, 1986.

S. 6207 added by P.C. 1990-1838, s. 2, August 28, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 12, 1990, applicable after November 27, 1986, except that it does not apply with respect to transactions entered into on or after September 13, 1988, other than transactions that are part of a series of transactions, determined without reference to subsection 248(10) of the Income Tax Act, commencing before September 13, 1988 and completed before 1989.

6208. (1) [Non-resident withholding tax — prescribed security] — For the purposes of [pre-2008 — ed.] clause 212(1)(b)(vii)(E) of the Act, a prescribed security with respect to an obligation of a corporation is

(a) a share of the capital stock of the corporation unless

(i) under the terms and conditions of the share, any agreement relating to the share or any modification of such terms, conditions or agreement, the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation is or may, at any time within 5 years after the date of the issue of the obligation, be required to redeem, acquire or cancel, in whole or in part, the share (unless the share is or may be required to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by reason only of a right to convert the share into, or exchange the share for, another share of the corporation that, if issued, would be a prescribed security) or to reduce its paid-up capital,

(ii) as a result of the modification or establishment of the terms or conditions of the share or the changing or entering into of any agreement in respect of the share, the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation may, within 5 years after the date of the issue of the obligation, reasonably be expected to redeem, acquire or cancel, in whole or in part, the share (unless the share is or may be required to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by reason only of a right to convert the share into, or exchange the share for, another share of the corporation that, if issued, would be a prescribed security) or to reduce its paid-up capital, or

(iii) as a result of the terms or conditions of the share or any agreement entered into by the corporation or a specified person in relation to the corporation or any modification of such terms, conditions or agreement, any person is required, either absolutely or contingently, within 5 years after the date of the issue of the obligation, to effect any undertaking, including any guarantee, covenant or agreement to purchase or repurchase the share, and including a loan of funds to or the placing of amounts on deposit with, or on behalf of, the shareholder or a specified person in relation to the shareholder given

(A) to ensure that any loss that the shareholder or a specified person in relation to the shareholder may sustain, by reason of the ownership, holding or disposition of the share or any other property, is limited in any respect, and

(B) as part of a transaction or event or series of transactions or events that included the issuance or acquisition of the obligation, and for the purposes of this subparagraph, where such an undertaking in respect of a share is given at any particular time after the date of the issue of the obligation, the obligation shall be deemed to have been issued at the particular time and the undertaking shall be deemed to have been given as part of a series of transactions that included the issuance or acquisition of the obligation, and

(b) a right or warrant to acquire a share of the capital stock of the corporation that would, if issued, be a prescribed security with respect to the obligation, where all the consideration receivable upon a conversion or exchange of the obligation or the prescribed security, as the case may be, is a share of the capital stock of the corporation described in paragraph (a) or a right or warrant described in paragraph (b), or both, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions; Reg. 6208(2) — Consideration for fractional share.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-361R3: Exemption from Part XIII tax on interest payments to non-residents.

(2) [Consideration for fraction of a share] — For the purposes of this section, where a taxpayer may become entitled upon the conversion or exchange of an obligation or a prescribed security to receive consideration in lieu of a fraction of a share, that consideration shall be deemed not to be consideration unless it may reasonably be considered to be receivable as part of a series of transactions or events one of the main purposes of which is to avoid or limit the application of Part XIII of the Act.

Related Provisions: ITA 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(3) ["Specified person"] — In this section, "specified person", in relation to a corporation or a shareholder, means any person with whom the corporation or the shareholder, as the case may be, does not deal at arm's length or any partnership or trust of which the corporation or the shareholder, as the case may be, or the person is a member or beneficiary, respectively.

History: S. 6208 added by P.C. 1990-854, s. 1, May 10, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 23, 1990, applicable after December 19, 1986.

6209. [Lending assets — prescribed shares and property] — For the purposes of the definition "lending asset" in subsection 248(1) of the Act,

(a) a share owned by a bank is a prescribed share for a taxation year where it is a preferred share of the capital stock of a corporation that is dealing at arm's length with the bank that may reasonably be considered to be, and is reported as, a substitute or alternative for a loan to the corporation, or another corporation with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length, in the bank's annual report for the year to the relevant authority or, where the bank was throughout the year subject to the supervision of the relevant authority but was not required to file an annual report for the year with the relevant authority, in its financial statements for the year; and

(b) a property is a prescribed property for a taxation year where

(i) the security is a mark-to-market property (as defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act) for the year of a financial institution (as defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act),

(ii) the security is at any time in the year a property described in an inventory of a taxpayer, or

(iii) the property is a direct financing lease, or is any other financing arrangement, of a taxpayer that is reported as a loan in the taxpayer's financial statement for the year prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and an amount is deductible under paragraph 20(1)(a) of the Act in respect of the property that is the subject of the lease or arrangement in computing the taxpayer's income for the year.

History: Subparas. 6209(b)(i) and (ii) amended to move "or" from the end of subpara. (i) to the end of subpara. (ii) by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 5(3), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to a taxpayer's taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer has made an election under para. 81(11)(b) of S.C. 1998, c. 19 (Royal Assent June 18, 1998), the Income Tax Amendments Act, 1997.

Subparas. 6209(b)(i) and (ii) previously amended by the said P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 5(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

The opening words of para. 6209(b) amended and subpara. (iii) added by P.C. 1999-195, s. 1, February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 20(1)(l) of the Act, as amended, apply to the year and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

S. 6209 added by P.C. 1990-2779, s. 3, December 20, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 16, 1991, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods commencing after June 17, 1987 that end after 1987.

6210. [Prescribed debt obligation — donation of listed shares] — For the purposes of paragraph 38(a.1) of the Act, a prescribed debt obligation is a bond, debenture, note, mortgage or similar obligation

(a) of or guaranteed by the Government of Canada; or

(b) of the government of a province or an agent of that government.

History: S. 6210 added by P.C. 2001-954, s. 6, May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable after February 18, 1997.

PART LXIII — CHILD TAX BENEFITS

History: Part LXIII (ss. 6300–6302) enacted by P.C. 1992-2714, December 29, 1992, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 13, 1993, applicable after 1992.

6300. Interpretation — In this Part, "qualified dependant" has the meaning assigned by section 122.6 of the Act.

6301. Non-application of presumption — (1) For the purposes of paragraph (g) of the definition "eligible individual" in section 122.6 of the Act, the presumption referred to in paragraph (f) of that definition does not apply in the circumstances where

(a) the female parent of the qualified dependant declares in writing to the Minister that the male parent, with whom she resides, is the parent of the qualified dependant who primarily fulfils the responsibility for the care and upbringing of each of the qualified dependants who reside with both parents;

(b) the female parent is a qualified dependant of an eligible individual and each of them files a notice with the Minister under subsection 122.62 (1) of the Act in respect of the same qualified dependant;

(c) there is more than one female parent of the qualified dependant who resides with the qualified dependant and each female parent files a notice with the Minister under subsection 122.62 (1) of the Act in respect of the qualified dependant; or

(d) more than one notice is filed with the Minister under subsection 122.62 (1) of the Act in respect of the same qualified dependant who resides with each of the persons filing the notices if such persons live at different locations.

History: Paras. 6301(1)(a) to (d) amended by 1998-2270, subsec. 9(1), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after August 27, 1995.

Subsec. 6301(1) amended by 1996, c. 11, s. 96, to substitute "Minister of Human Resources Development" for "Minister of National Health and Welfare", in force July 12, 1996.

(2) For greater certainty, a person who files a notice referred to in paragraph (1)(b), (c) or (d) includes a person who is not required under subsection 122.62(3) of the Act to file such a notice.

History: Subsec. 6301(2) amended by 1998-2270, subsec. 9(2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after August 27, 1995.

Subsec. 6301(2) amended by 1996, c. 11, s. 96, to substitute "Minister of Human Resources Development" for "Minister of National Health and Welfare", in force July 12, 1996.

Definitions [Reg. 6301]: "individual", "Minister" — ITA 248(1); "parent" — ITA 252(2)(a); "person" — ITA 248(1); "qualified dependant" — Reg. 6300; "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

6302. Factors — For the purposes of paragraph (h) of the definition "eligible individual" in section 122.6 of the Act, the following factors are to be considered in determining what constitutes care and upbringing of a qualified dependant:

(a) the supervision of the daily activities and needs of the qualified dependant;

(b) the maintenance of a secure environment in which the qualified dependant resides;

(c) the arrangement of, and transportation to, medical care at regular intervals and as required for the qualified dependant;

(d) the arrangement of, participation in, and transportation to, educational, recreational, athletic or similar activities in respect of the qualified dependant;

(e) the attendance to the needs of the qualified dependant when the qualified dependant is ill or otherwise in need of the attendance of another person;

(f) the attendance to the hygienic needs of the qualified dependant on a regular basis;

(g) the provision, generally, of guidance and companionship to the qualified dependant; and

(h) the existence of a court order in respect of the qualified dependant that is valid in the jurisdiction in which the qualified dependant resides.

Definitions [Reg. 6302]: "person" — ITA 248(1); "qualified dependant" — Reg. 6300.

History: S. 6707 added by P.C. 1999-249, s. 7, February 18, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable after May 7, 1997.

PART LXVIII — PRESCRIBED PLANS, ARRANGEMENTS AND CONTRIBUTIONS

History: The heading to Part LXVIII amended by P.C. 1996-911, s. 1, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable after October 8, 1986. The heading formerly read: Prescribed Funds or Plans.

Part LXVIII (s. 6800) added by P.C. 1981-1789, July 2, 1981, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 22, 1981, effective from January 1, 1980.

6800. [Prescribed arrangement — employee benefit plan] — For the purpose of paragraph (e) of the definition "employee benefit plan" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, each of the following is a prescribed arrangement:

(a) the Major League Baseball Players Benefit Plan;

(b) an arrangement under which all contributions are made pursuant to a law of Canada or a province, where one of the main purposes of the law is to enforce minimum standards with respect to wages, vacation entitlement or severance pay; and

(c) an arrangement under which all contributions are made in connection with a dispute regarding the entitlement of one or more persons to benefits to be received or enjoyed by the person or persons.

History: S. 6800 amended by P.C. 1996-911, s. 2, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable after 1979.

6801. [Prescribed plan or arrangement — salary deferral arrangement] — For the purposes of paragraph (l) of the definition "salary deferral arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a prescribed plan or arrangement is an arrangement in writing

(a) between an employer and an employee that is established on or after July 28, 1986 where

(i) it is reasonable to conclude, having regard to all the circumstances, including the terms and conditions of the arrangement and any agreement relating thereto, that the arrangement is not established to provide benefits to the employee on or after retirement but is established for the main purpose of permitting the employee to fund, through salary or wage deferrals, a leave of absence from the employee's employment of not less than

(A) where the leave of absence is to be taken by the employee for the purpose of permitting the full-time attendance of the employee at a designated educational institution (within the meaning assigned by subsection 118.6(1) of the Act, three consecutive months, or

(B) in any other case, six consecutive months

that is to commence immediately after a period (in this section referred to as the "deferral period") not exceeding six years after the date on which the deferrals for the leave of absence commence,

(ii) the amount of salary or wages deferred by the employee under all such arrangements for the services rendered by the employee to the employer in a taxation year does not exceed 33⅓ per cent of the amount of the salary or wages that the employee would, but for the arrangements, reasonably be expected to have received in the year in respect of the services,

(iii) the arrangement provides that throughout the period of the leave of absence the employee does not receive any salary or wages from the employer, or from any other person or partnership with whom the employer does not deal at arm's length, other than

(A) the amount by which the employee's salary or wages under the arrangement was deferred or is to be reduced or, amounts that are based on a percentage of the salary or wage scale of employees of the employer, which percentage is fixed in respect of the employee for the deferral period and the leave of absence, and

(B) the reasonable fringe benefits that the employer usually pays to or on behalf of employees,

(iv) the arrangement provides that the amounts deferred in respect of the employee under the arrangement

(A) are held by or for the account of a trust governed by a plan or arrangement that is an employee benefit plan within the meaning of the definition thereof in subsection 248(1) of the Act, and provides that the amount that may reasonably be considered to be the income of the trust for a taxation year that has been earned by it for the benefit of the employee shall be paid in the year to the employee, or

(B) are held by or for the account of any person other than a trust referred to in clause (A), and provides that the amount in respect of interest or other additional amounts that may reasonably be considered to have accrued to or for the benefit of the employee to the end of a taxation year shall be paid in the year to the employee,

(v) the arrangement provides that the employee is to return to his regular employment with the employer or an employer that participates in the same or a similar arrangement after the leave of absence for a period that is not less than the period of the leave of absence, and

(vi) subject to subparagraph (iv), the arrangement provides that all amounts held for the employee's benefit under the arrangement shall be paid to the employee out of or under the arrangement no later than the end of the first taxation year that commences after the end of the deferral period;

Proposed Amendment — Recontribution of income from employees' leave of absence plan

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 30, 2000: See under ITA 81(1)(s).

(b) between an employer and an employee that is established before July 28, 1986 where it is reasonable to conclude, having regard to all the circumstances, including the terms and conditions of the arrangement and any agreement relating thereto, that the arrangement is not established to provide benefits on or after retirement but is established for the main purpose of permitting the employee to fund, through salary or wage deferrals, a leave of absence from the employment and under which the deferrals in respect of the leave of absence commenced before 1987;

(c) that is established for the purpose of deferring the salary or wages of a professional on-ice official for his services as such with the National Hockey League if, in the case of an official resident in Canada, the trust or other person who has custody and control of any funds, investments or other property under the arrangement is resident in Canada; or

(d) between a corporation and an employee of the corporation or a corporation related thereto under which the employee (or, after the employee's death, a dependant or relation of the employee or the legal representative of the employee) may or shall receive an amount that may reasonably be attributable to duties of an office or employment performed by the employee on behalf of the corporation or a corporation related thereto where

(i) all amounts that may be received under the arrangement shall be received after the time of the employee's death or retirement from, or loss of, the office or employment and no later than the end of the first calendar year commencing thereafter, and

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts each of which may be received under the arrangement depends on the fair market value of shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a corporation related thereto at a time within the period that commences one year before the time of the employee's death or retirement from, or loss of, the office or employment and ends at the time the amount is received, unless, by reason of the arrangement or a series of transactions that includes the arrangement, the employee or a person with whom the employee does not deal at arm's length is entitled, either immediately or in the future, either absolutely or contingently, to receive or obtain any amount or benefit granted or to be granted for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any reduction in the fair market value of the shares of the corporation or a corporation related thereto.

6802. [Prescribed plan or arrangement — retirement compensation arrangement] — For the purposes of paragraph (n) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a prescribed plan or arrangement is

(a) the plan instituted by the Canada Pension Plan;

(b) a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of the Canada Pension Plan;

(c) a plan instituted by the Unemployment Insurance Act;

(d) a plan pursuant to an agreement in writing that is established for the purpose of deferring the salary or wages of a professional on-ice official for the official's services as such with the National Hockey League if, in the case of an official resident in Canada, the trust or other person who has custody and control of any funds, investments or other property under the plan is resident in Canada;

(e) an arrangement under which all contributions are made pursuant to a law of Canada or a province, where one of the main purposes of the law is to enforce minimum standards with respect to wages, vacation entitlement or severance pay;

(f) an arrangement under which all contributions are made in connection with a dispute regarding the entitlement of one or more persons to benefits to be received or enjoyed by the person or persons; or

(g) a plan or arrangement instituted by the social security legislation of a country other than Canada or of a state, province or other political subdivision of such a country.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 6802(h)

(h) a trust established to hold shares of Air Canada, pursuant to the June 2009 memorandum of understanding between Air Canada and certain trade unions who represent employees of Air Canada, where:

(i) the shares are held by the trust for the benefit of the trade unions; and

(ii) each of the trade unions may direct the trustee to contribute, from time to time, amounts received or receivable by the trust in respect of the shares, whether as dividends, proceeds of disposition or otherwise, to one or more registered pension plans under which Air Canada is a participating employer.

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), s. 40, will add para. 6802(h), applicable after 2008.

Technical Notes: A retirement compensation arrangement (RCA) is defined in subsection 248(1) of the Act as a plan or arrangement under which an employer makes payments to another person, called a custodian, in order that benefits may be paid to an employee or any other person after the employee retires or otherwise ceases employment with the employer. RCAs are subject to a special tax regime under section 207.5 of the Act which generally removes the tax deferral advantages that were associated with the plans before the introduction of the RCA rules. The RCA definition is subject to a number of exclusions including, at paragraph (n) of the definition, a "prescribed plan or arrangement". For this purpose, the list of prescribed plans or arrangements is contained in section 6802.

Regulation 6802 is amended to add a new trust that was established in 2009 by Air Canada in relation to pension funding. On June 14, 2009, Air Canada signed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) with the five unions that represent its workers to address pension funding requirements. Pursuant to this MOU, the unions agreed that certain payments required to fully fund Air Canada's pensions could be deferred. Regulatory changes to the Pension Benefits Standards Regulations, 1985 were made to accommodate this arrangement, which was determined to be important to the financial viability of Air Canada.

As part of this MOU, the parties agreed to establish a trust. Shares of Air Canada would be issued to the trust, which would hold the shares on behalf of the unions. The unions could then direct that the shares be sold at a later time. Under the MOU and the terms of the trust, the proceeds would then be contributed to the Air Canada pension plans in accordance with a formula agreed to by the parties.

Applying the RCA rules to a trust of this nature would not be consistent with the objectives of the RCA rules, which are in general terms to prevent tax deferral in relation to employee retirement savings beyond the registered pension plan and registered retirement savings plan limits.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 23, 2009:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of October 15, 2009 in which you outline a proposed transaction and identify certain technical issues with the income tax rules which would apply to the transaction.

In your letter, you advise that your client (the "employer") has entered into a memorandum of understanding (MOU) with the collective bargaining agents of its employees. Under the MOU, the employer will contribute shares of itself to a trust established in relation to a pension underfunding issue faced by the employer and its employees. All of the beneficiaries of the trust will be organizations described in paragraph 149(1)(k) of the Income Tax Act; that is, they will be the collective bargaining agents of the employees. Pursuant to the MOU, the trust will be directed, by and at such time as is determined by each beneficiary, to sell all or a portion of that beneficiary's portion of the shares, at which time the trust will be required to contribute the proceeds of the sale to the related pension plan for the beneficiary's members.

I understand that the MOU was entered into in order to reduce the employer's annual pension payments to a level that would facilitate its ongoing operations in the near-term. [xxx]

In this context, you have requested that we recommend amendments to the Income Tax Regulations which would have the effect of permitting the contributions to the pension plans as contemplated in the MOU without jeopardizing the registration of those plans, and of ensuring that the trust is not considered to be a retirement compensation arrangement as defined in the Income Tax Act. You have also clarified that the requested amendments do not include a request to permit the contemplated contributions to be deductible by either the employer or the trust.

Viewed in this context, we agree that the proposed transaction does not raise income tax policy concerns. In particular, it is our understanding that the transaction will not result in any amounts being available for contribution to the pension plans that would, if contributed, exceed the pension limits applicable to those plans. We are therefore prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance amendments to the Income Tax Regulations to:

(a) consider the contributions to be made by the trust to the pension plans to be "permissible contributions" under paragraph 8502(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, provided that the contributions

- are made with the consent of the plan sponsor, and
- would, if they were made by the employer and not the trust at the time that they are made by the trust, be "eligible contributions" under subsection 147.2(2) of the Income Tax Act; and

(b) add the trust arrangement to the list of prescribed plans or arrangements in section 6802 of the Income Tax Regulations that are excluded from the definition "retirement compensation arrangement", and hence also from the retirement compensation arrangement rules.

We would also recommend that these proposed amendments apply in respect of a trust established, and pension contributions made, after 2008.

While I cannot offer any assurance that the Minister or the Governor General in Council will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intention is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, General Director — Legislation, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — Pension underfunding trust

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 23, 2010:

[xxx], Ottawa, Ontario

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of May 19, 2010, addressed to the Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, in which you outline a proposed transaction and identify certain technical issues with the income tax rules which would apply to the transaction.

In your letter, you advise that [xxx] has filed for protection from creditors pursuant to the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (the "CCAA"). The [xxx] Superintendent of Pensions has ordered the wind-up of your client's [xxx] and [xxx]. In this regard, we understand that [xxx] is the settlor of two trust agreements. One trust is for the benefit of the pension fund of the [xxx] and the other trust is [f]or the benefit of the [xxx]. Under each trust agreement, the trustees will hold shares of a company that has purchased a significant portion of the assets of the insolvent company. These shares are not traded on a designated stock exchange. The wind-up periods for the pension plans have been extended for several years to allow the trustees of the trusts to sell the shares and contribute the cash proceeds to the respective funds.

I understand that the purpose of these court-approved arrangements is to provide additional funding to the severely underfunded pension plans. With these trust arrangements and the related pension funding relief provided through amendments to [xxx] Pension Benefits Act, it is expected that the pension plans will wind up in a few years with a much higher funded ratio (and a lower reduction of benefits to members) than would be the case if the pension plans were wound up immediately.

In this context, you have requested that we recommend amendments to the Income Tax Regulations which would permit the pension plans to have a beneficial interest in the trusts' shareholdings and permit the contributions to the pension plans, without jeopardizing the registration of those plans, and ensure that the trusts are not considered to be "retirement compensation arrangements" as defined in the Income Tax Act. You have also clarified that you are not seeking amendments to permit the contemplated contributions to be deductible by any employer or by the trusts.

Viewed in this context, we agree that the proposed transaction does not raise income tax policy concerns. In particular, it is our understanding that the transaction will not result in any amounts being available for contribution to the pension plans that would, if contributed, exceed the pension limits applicable to those plans. We are therefore prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance amendments to the Income Tax Regulations to:

(a) consider the contributions to be made by the trusts to the pension plans to be "permissible contributions" under paragraph 8502(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, provided that the contributions would, if they were made by the employer and not the trust at the time that they are made by the trust, be "eligible contributions" under subsection 147.2(2) of the Income Tax Act; and

(b) add the trust arrangement to the list of prescribed plans or arrangements in section 6802 of the Income Tax Regulations that are excluded from the definition "retirement compensation arrangement", and hence also from the retirement compensation arrangement rules.

We would also recommend that these proposed amendments apply in respect of a trust established, and pension contributions made, after March 2010.

While I cannot offer any assurance that the Minister or the Governor in Council will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intention is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

6804. Contributions to foreign plans — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"foreign non-profit organization" means,

(a) at any time before 1995, an organization

(i) that at that time meets the conditions in subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii), or

(ii) that at that time is not operated for the purpose of profit, and whose assets are situated primarily outside Canada throughout the calendar year that includes that time, and

(b) at any time after 1994, an organization that at that time

(i) is not operated for the purpose of profit,

(ii) has its main place of management outside Canada, and

(iii) carries on its activities primarily outside Canada.

"foreign plan" means a plan or arrangement (determined without regard to subsection 207.6(5) of the Act) that would, but for paragraph (l) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, be a retirement compensation arrangement.

"qualifying entity" means a non-resident entity that holds all or part of the assets of a foreign plan where the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) the entity is resident in a country under the laws of which an income tax is imposed, and

(b) where those laws provide an exemption from tax, a reduced rate of tax or other favourable tax treatment for entities that hold assets of pension or other retirement plans, the entity qualifies for the favourable treatment.

(2) Electing employer — For the purposes of this section, an employer is an electing employer for a calendar year with respect to a foreign plan where

(a) the employer has sent or delivered to the Minister a letter stating that the employer elects to have this section apply with respect to contributions to the foreign plan, and

(b) the letter was sent or delivered on or before

(i) the last day of February in the year following the first calendar year after 1991 in which a contribution that is or would be if subsection 207.6(5.1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraph (a) of that subsection, a resident's contribution (as defined in that subsection) was made under the foreign plan in respect of services rendered by an individual to the employer, or

(ii) any later date that is acceptable to the Minister,

except that an employer is not an electing employer for a year with respect to a foreign plan if the Minister has granted written permission for the employer to revoke, for the year or a preceding calendar year, the election made under paragraph (a) in respect of the foreign plan.

(3) Election by union — Except as otherwise permitted in writing by the Minister, an election made by a trade union for the purpose of subsection (2) is valid only if it is made by the highest-level structural unit of the union.

(4) Contributions made before 1992 — For the purpose of paragraph 207.6(5.1)(a) of the Act, a contribution made under a foreign plan by a person or body of persons in a calendar year before 1992 is a prescribed contribution where

(a) the contribution is paid to a qualifying entity;

(b) each employer (in this subsection referred to as a "contributor") that makes a contribution under the foreign plan in the year is

(i) a non-resident corporation throughout the year,

(ii) a partnership that makes contributions under the foreign plan primarily in respect of services rendered outside Canada to the partnership by non-resident employees, or

(iii) a foreign non-profit organization throughout the year;

(c) if a corporation or partnership (other than a corporation or partnership that is a foreign non-profit organization throughout the year) is a contributor, no individual who is entitled (either absolutely or contingently) to benefits under the foreign plan is a member of a registered pension plan, or a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan, to which a contributor, or a person or body of persons not dealing at arm's length with a contributor, makes, or is required to make, contributions in relation to the year;

(d) contributions made in the year under the foreign plan for the benefit of individuals resident in Canada are reasonable in relation to contributions made under the plan for the benefit of non-resident individuals; and

(e) the foreign plan is not a pension plan the registration of which under the Act has been revoked.

(5) Contributions made in 1992, 1993 or 1994 — For the purpose of paragraph 207.6(5.1)(a) of the Act, a contribution made under a foreign plan by a person or body of persons at any time in 1992, 1993 or 1994 in respect of services rendered by an individual to an employer is a prescribed contribution where

(a) the contribution is paid to a qualifying entity;

(b) the employer is an electing employer for the year with respect to the foreign plan;

(c) if the employer is not at that time a foreign non-profit organization, the individual is not a member of a registered pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan, as defined in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act), or a deferred profit sharing plan, in which the employer, or a person or body of persons that does not deal at arm's length with the employer, participates; and

(d) either

(i) the employer is

(A) a corporation that is not resident in Canada at that time,

(B) a partnership that makes contributions under the foreign plan primarily in respect of services rendered outside Canada to the partnership by non-resident employees, or

(C) a foreign non-profit organization at that time, or

(ii) the individual was non-resident at any time before the contribution is made and became a member of the foreign plan before the end of the month after the month in which the individual became resident in Canada.

(6) Contributions made after 1994 — For the purposes of paragraph 207.6(5.1)(a) of the Act, a contribution made under a foreign plan by a person or body of persons at any time in a calendar year after 1994 in respect of services rendered by an individual to an employer is a prescribed contribution where

(a) the contribution is paid to a qualifying entity;

(b) the employer is an electing employer for the year with respect to the foreign plan;

(c) if the employer is at that time a foreign non-profit organization,

(i) the amount that, if subsection 8301(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that subsection, would be the individual's pension adjustment for the year in respect of the employer is nil, or

(ii) the amount that would be the individual's pension adjustment for the year in respect of the employer if

(A) all contributions made under the foreign plan in the year in respect of the individual were prescribed by this subsection,

(B) where the year is 1996, section 8308.1 were read without reference to subsection (4.1), and

(C) where the year is 1997, subparagraph 8308.1(2)(b)(v) were read as:

"(v) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the year exceeds $1,000, and"

does not exceed the lesser of

(D) the money purchase limit for the year, and

(E) 18% of the individual's compensation (as defined in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act) for the year from the employer;

(d) if

(i) the employer is at that time a foreign non-profit organization, and

(ii) a period in the year throughout which the individual rendered services to the employer would be, under paragraph 8507(3)(a), a qualifying period of the individual with respect to another employer if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (iv) of that paragraph, subsection 8308(7) applies with respect to the determination of the individual's pension adjustment for the year with respect to each employer; and

(e) if the employer is not at that time a foreign non-profit organization,

(i) the individual was non-resident at any time before the contribution is made,

(ii) the individual became a member of the foreign plan before the end of the month after the month in which the individual became resident in Canada, and

(iii) the individual is not a member of a registered pension plan, or a deferred profit sharing plan, in which the employer, or a person or body of persons that does not deal at arm's length with the employer, participates.

(7) Replacement plan — For the purposes of subparagraphs (5)(d)(ii) and (6)(e)(ii), where benefits provided to an individual under a particular plan or arrangement are replaced by benefits under another plan or arrangement, the other plan or arrangement is deemed, in respect of the individual, to be the same plan or arrangement as the particular plan or arrangement.

PART LXX — ACCRUED INTEREST ON DEBT OBLIGATIONS

History: Part LXX (s. 7000) added by P.C. 1983-3529, November 17, 1983, Canada Gazette, Part II, November 24, 1983, effective for taxation years commencing after 1981.

7000. (1) Prescribed debt obligations — For the purpose of subsection 12(9) of the Act, each of the following debt obligations (other than a debt obligation that is an indexed debt obligation) in respect of which a taxpayer has at any time acquired an interest is a prescribed debt obligation:

(a) a particular debt obligation in respect of which no interest is stipulated to be payable in respect of its principal amount;

(b) a particular debt obligation in respect of which the proportion of the payments of principal to which the taxpayer is entitled is not equal to the proportion of the payments of interest to which he is entitled;

(c) a particular debt obligation, other than one described in paragraph (a) or (b), in respect of which it can be determined, at the time the taxpayer acquired the interest therein, that the maximum amount of interest payable thereon in a year ending after that time is less than the maximum amount of interest payable thereon in a subsequent year; and

(d) a particular debt obligation, other than one described in paragraph (a), (b) or (c), in respect of which the amount of interest to be paid in respect of any taxation year is, under the terms and conditions of the obligation, dependent on a contingency existing after the year, and, for the purposes of this subsection, a debt obligation includes, for greater certainty, all of the issuer's obligations to pay principal and interest under that obligation.

Related Provisions: ITA 18.1(14) — Right to receive production deemed to be debt obligation.

History: The opening words of subsec. 7000(1) amended by P.C. 1996-1419, subsec. 3(1), September 11, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 2, 1996, applicable to debt obligations issued after October 16, 1991.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-61: Interest accrual rules.

(2) [Deemed interest on prescribed debt obligation] — For the purposes of subsection 12(9) of the Act, the amount determined in prescribed manner that is deemed to accrue to a taxpayer as interest on a prescribed debt obligation in each taxation year during which he holds an interest in the obligation is,

(a) in the case of a prescribed debt obligation described in paragraph (1)(a), the amount of interest that would be determined in respect thereof if interest thereon for that year were computed on a compound interest basis using the maximum of all rates each of which is a rate computed

(i) in respect of each possible circumstance under which an interest of the taxpayer in the obligation could mature or be surrendered or retracted, and

(ii) using assumptions concerning the interest rate and compounding period that will result in a present value, at the date of purchase of the interest, of all the maximum payments thereunder, equal to the cost thereof to the taxpayer;

(b) in the case of a prescribed debt obligation described in paragraph (1)(b), the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of interest that would be determined in respect of his interest in a payment under the obligation if interest thereon for that year were computed on a compound interest basis using the specified cost of his interest therein and the specified interest rate in respect of his total interest in the obligation, and for the purposes of this paragraph,

(i) the "specified cost" of his interest in a payment under the obligation is its present value at the date of purchase computed using the specified interest rate, and

(ii) the "specified interest rate" is the maximum of all rates each of which is a rate computed

(A) in respect of each possible circumstance under which an interest of the taxpayer in the obligation could mature or be surrendered or retracted, and

(B) using assumptions concerning the interest rate and compounding period that will result in a present value, at the date of purchase of the interest, of all the maximum payments to the taxpayer in respect of his total interest in the obligation, equal to the cost of that interest to the taxpayer;

(c) in the case of a prescribed debt obligation described in paragraph (1)(c), other than an obligation in respect of which paragraph (c.1) applies, the greater of

(i) the maximum amount of interest thereon in respect of the year, and

(ii) the maximum amount of interest that would be determined in respect thereof if interest thereon for that year were computed on a compound interest basis using the maximum of all rates each of which is a rate computed

(A) in respect of each possible circumstance under which an interest of the taxpayer in the obligation could mature or be surrendered or retracted, and

(B) using assumptions concerning the interest rate and compounding period that will result in a present value, at the date of issue of the obligation, of all the maximum payments thereunder, equal to its principal amount;

(c.1) in the case of a prescribed debt obligation described in paragraph (1)(c) for which

(i) the rate of interest stipulated to be payable in respect of each period throughout which the obligation is outstanding is fixed at the date of issue of the obligation, and

(ii) the stipulated rate of interest applicable at each time is not less than each stipulated rate of interest applicable before that time, the amount of interest that would be determined in respect of the year if interest on the obligation for that year were computed on a compound interest basis using the maximum of all rates each of which is the compound interest rate that, for a particular assumption with respect to when the taxpayer's interest in the obligation will mature or be surrendered or retracted, results in a present value (at the date the taxpayer acquires the interest in the obligation) of all payments under the obligation after the acquisition by the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest in the obligation equal to the principal amount of the obligation at the date of acquisition; and

(d) in the case of a prescribed debt obligation described in paragraph (1)(d), the maximum amount of interest thereon that could be payable thereunder in respect of that year.

Related Provisions: ITA 18.1(14) — Right to receive production deemed to be debt obligation.

History: Para. 7000(2)(c) amended, para. (c.1) added, by P.C. 1996-570, subsecs. 1(1), (2), April 23, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 1, 1996, applicable to 1993 et seq.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-61: Interest accrual rules.

(3) [Bonus or premium] — For the purpose of this section, any bonus or premium payable under a debt obligation is considered to be an amount of interest payable under the obligation.

History: Subsec. 7000(3) amended by P.C. 1996-1419, subsec. 3(2), September 11, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 2, 1996, applicable to debt obligations issued after October 16, 1991.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-61: Interest accrual rules.

(4) [Conversion privilege or option to extend] — For the purposes of this section, where

(a) a taxpayer has an interest in a debt obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "first interest") under which there is a conversion privilege or an option to extend its term upon maturity, and

(b) at the time the obligation was issued (or, if later, at the time the conversion privilege or option was added or modified), circumstances could reasonably be foreseen under which the holder of the obligation would, by exercising the conversion privilege or option, acquire an interest in a debt obligation with a principal amount less than its fair market value at the time of acquisition, the subsequent interest in any debt obligation acquired by the taxpayer by exercising the conversion privilege or option shall be considered to be a continuation of the first interest.

History: Subsec. 7000(4) amended by P.C. 1996-570, subsec. 1(3), April 23, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 1, 1996, applicable with respect to debt obligations acquired by reason of the exercise after August 11, 1993 of a conversion privilege or an option to extend the term of another debt obligation.

(5) [Interest computations] — For the purposes of making the computations referred to in paragraphs (2)(a), (b), (c) and (c.1), the compounding period shall not exceed one year and any interest rate used shall be constant from the date of acquisition or issue, as the case may be, until the time of maturity, surrender or retraction.

History: Subsec. 7000(5) amended by P.C. 1996-570, subsec. 1(4), April 23, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 1, 1996, applicable to 1993 et seq.

(6) [Prescribed contract] — For the purpose of the definition "investment contract" in subsection 12(11) of the Act, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund, other than a plan or fund to which a trust is a party, is a prescribed contract throughout a calendar year where an annuitant (as defined in subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1) of the Act, as the case may be) under the plan or fund is alive at any time in the year or was alive at any time in the preceding calendar year.

Related Provisions: ITA 142.3(1)(c) — No income accrual from specified debt obligation.

History: Subsec. 7000(6) amended by P.C. 1996-568, s. 1, April 23, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 1, 1996, applicable to 1993 et seq.

Subsec. 7000(6) added by P.C. 1985-2277, s. 19, July 24, 1985, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 7, 1985, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1981.

Definitions [Reg. 7000]: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "calendar year" — Interpretation Act 37(1)(a); "debt obligation" — Reg. 7000(1); "first interest" — Reg. 7000(4)(a); "indexed debt obligation", "prescribed", "principal amount" — ITA 248(1); "registered retirement income fund" — ITA 146.3(1), 248(1); "registered retirement savings plan" — ITA 146(1), 248(1); "specified cost" — Reg. 7000(2)(b)(i); "specified interest rate" — Reg. 7000(2)(b)(ii); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "trust" — ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3).

7001. Indexed debt obligations — (1) For the purpose of subparagraph 16(6)(a)(i) of the Act, where at any time in a taxation year a taxpayer holds an interest in an indexed debt obligation, there is prescribed as interest receivable and received by the taxpayer in the year in respect of the obligation the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the amount payable in respect of the taxpayer's interest in an indexed payment under the obligation (other than a payment that is an excluded payment with respect to the taxpayer for the year) has, because of a change in the purchasing power of money, increased over an inflation adjustment period of the obligation that ends in the year

(ii) that portion of the total, if any, determined under subparagraph (i) that is required, otherwise than by subsection 16(6) of the Act, to be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the amount payable in respect of the taxpayer's interest in an indexed payment under the obligation (other than a payment that is an excluded payment with respect to the taxpayer for the year) has, by reason of a change in the purchasing power of money, decreased over an inflation adjustment period of the obligation that ends in the year, and

(b) where the non-indexed debt obligation associated with the indexed debt obligation is an obligation that is described in any of paragraphs 7000(1)(a) to (d), the amount of interest that would be determined under subsection 7000(2) to accrue to the taxpayer in respect of the non-indexed debt obligation in the particular period that

(i) begins at the beginning of the first inflation adjustment period of the indexed debt obligation in respect of the taxpayer that ends in the year, and if the particular period were a taxation year of the taxpayer and the taxpayer's interest in the indexed debt obligation were an interest in the non-indexed debt obligation.

(ii) ends at the end of the last inflation adjustment period of the indexed debt obligation in respect of the taxpayer that ends in the year

(2) For the purposes of subparagraph 16(6)(a)(ii) of the Act, where at any time in a taxation year a taxpayer holds an interest in an indexed debt obligation, there is prescribed as interest payable and paid by the taxpayer in the year in respect of the obligation the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the amounts, if any, determined under subparagraphs (1)(a)(ii) and (iii) for the year in respect of the taxpayer's interest in the obligation

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, determined under subparagraph (1)(a)(i) for the year in respect of the taxpayer's interest in the obligation.

(3) For the purposes of subparagraph 16(6)(b)(i) of the Act, where at any time in a taxation year an indexed debt obligation is an obligation of a taxpayer, there is prescribed as interest payable in respect of the year by the taxpayer in respect of the obligation the amount, if any, that would be determined under paragraph (1)(a) in respect of the taxpayer for the year if, at each time at which the obligation is an obligation of the taxpayer, the taxpayer were the holder of the obligation and not the debtor under the obligation.

(4) For the purposes of subparagraph 16(6)(b)(ii) of the Act, where at any time in a taxation year an indexed debt obligation is an obligation of a taxpayer, there is prescribed as interest receivable and received by the taxpayer in the year in respect of the obligation the amount, if any, that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year if, at each time at which the obligation is an obligation of the taxpayer, the taxpayer were the holder of the obligation and not the debtor under the obligation.

(5) For the purpose of determining the amount by which an indexed payment under an indexed debt obligation has increased or decreased over a period because of a change in the purchasing power of money, the amount of the indexed payment at any time shall be determined using the method for computing the amount of the payment at the time it is to be made, adjusted in a reasonable manner to take into account the earlier date of computation.

(6) For the purposes of this section, the non-indexed debt obligation associated with an indexed debt obligation is the debt obligation that would result if the indexed debt obligation were amended to eliminate all adjustments determined by reference to changes in the purchasing power of money.

(7) In this section,

"excluded payment" with respect to a taxpayer for a taxation year means an indexed payment under an indexed debt obligation where

(a) the non-indexed debt obligation associated with the indexed debt obligation provides for the payment, at least annually, of interest at a single fixed rate, and

(b) the indexed payment corresponds to one of the interest payments referred to in paragraph (a),

but does not include payments under an indexed debt obligation where, at any time in the year, the taxpayer's proportionate interest in a payment to be made under the obligation after that time differs from the taxpayer's proportionate interest in any other payment to be made under the obligation after that time;

"indexed payment" means, in relation to an indexed debt obligation, an amount payable under the obligation that is determined by reference to the purchasing power of money;

"inflation adjustment period" of an indexed debt obligation means, in relation to a taxpayer,

(a) where the taxpayer acquires and disposes of the taxpayer's interest in the obligation in the same regular adjustment period of the obligation, the period that begins when the taxpayer acquires the interest in the obligation and ends when the taxpayer disposes of the interest, and

(b) in any other case, each of the following consecutive periods:

(i) the period that begins when the taxpayer acquires the taxpayer's interest in the obligation and ends at the end of the regular adjustment period of the obligation in which the taxpayer acquires the interest in the obligation,

(ii) each succeeding regular adjustment period of the obligation throughout which the taxpayer holds the interest in the obligation, and

(iii) where the taxpayer does not dispose of the interest in the obligation at the end of a regular adjustment period of the obligation, the period that begins immediately after the last period referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) and that ends when the taxpayer disposes of the interest in the obligation;

"regular adjustment period" of an indexed debt obligation means

(a) where the terms or conditions of the obligation provide that, while the obligation is outstanding, indexed payments are to be made at regular intervals not exceeding 12 months in length, each of the following periods:

(i) the period that begins when the obligation is issued and ends when the first indexed payment is required to be made, and

(ii) each succeeding period beginning when an indexed payment is required to be made and ending when the next indexed payment is required to be made,

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the obligation is outstanding for less than 12 months, the period that begins when the obligation is issued and ends when the obligation ceases to be outstanding, and

(c) in any other case, each of the following periods:

(i) the 12-month period that begins when the obligation is issued,

(ii) each succeeding 12-month period throughout which the obligation is outstanding, and

(iii) where the obligation ceases to be outstanding at a time other than the end of a 12-month period referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii), the period that commences immediately after the last period referred to in those subparagraphs and that ends when the obligation ceases to be outstanding.

PART LXXIII — PRESCRIBED AMOUNTS AND AREAS [AND PENALTIES]

History: Heading to Part LXXIII substituted by P.C. 1988-1105, s. 2, June 6, 1988, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 22, 1988, applicable to 1987 et seq.

Part LXXIII (s. 7300) added by P.C. 1986-2770, s. 12, December 11, 1986, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 24, 1986, effective commencing May 23, 1985.

7300. [Prescribed amounts] — For the purposes of paragraph 12(1)(x) of the Act, "prescribed amount" means

(a) any amount paid to a corporation by the Native Economic Development Board created under Order in Council P.C. 1983-3394 of October 31, 1983 pursuant to the Native Economic Development Program or paid to a corporation under the Aboriginal Capital Corporation Program of the Canadian Aboriginal Economic Development Strategy, where all of the shares of the capital stock of the corporation are

(i) owned by aboriginal individuals,

(ii) held in trust for the exclusive benefit of aboriginal individuals,

(iii) owned by a corporation, all the shares of which are owned by aboriginal individuals, or

(iv) owned or held in a combination of ownership structures described in subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii) and the purpose of the corporation is to provide loans, loan guarantees, bridge financing, venture capital, lease financing, surety bonding or other similar financing services to aboriginal enterprises; or

(b) prescribed assistance within the meaning assigned by section 6702.

Proposed Addition — Reg. 7300(c)

(c) an amount that is the portion of a student loan forgiven under section 9.2 of the Canada Student Financial Assistance Act or under section 11.1 of the Canada Student Loans Act.

Application: S.C. 2011, c. 24 (Bill C-13, Royal Assent December 15, 2011), s. 88, added para. 7300(c), in force when S.C. 2011, c. 24, s. 153 is proclaimed in force.

Technical Notes: Section 7300 prescribes amounts for the purposes of paragraph 12(1)(x) of the Act. An inducement, reimbursement or other form of benefit that is prescribed is not included in computing the income of a business or property under paragraph 12(1)(x).

Section 7300 is amended to prescribe amounts that are the forgiven portions of certain student loans to medical doctors, nurse practitioners and nurses who practise in rural or remote regions. As a result, these forgiven amounts will not be included in computing income from a business or property under paragraph 12(1)(x).

This amendment comes into force at the same time as the provisions of the Canada Student Financial Assistance Act and the Canada Student Loans Act providing for the forgiveness of such student loans.

Related Provisions: ITA 80(1)"excluded obligation"(a)(i) — Debt forgiveness rules do not apply to prescribed amount.

History: Para. 7300(a) amended by P.C. 1991-729, April 18, 1991, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 8, 1991, to substitute subparas. (i) to (iv) for "owned by aboriginal individuals".

S. 7300 amended by P.C. 1990-213, February 8, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 28, 1990, to add para. (a), applicable to amounts received after May 22, 1985.

7304. (1) In this section,

"member of the taxpayer's household" includes the taxpayer;

"designated city" means St. John's, Halifax, Moncton, Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, North Bay, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

(2) [Trip cost] — For the purposes of this section, the trip cost to a taxpayer in respect of a trip made by an individual who, at the time the trip was made, was a member of the taxpayer's household is the least of

(a) the aggregate of

(i) the value of travel assistance, if any, provided by the taxpayer's employer in respect of travelling expenses for the trip, and

(ii) the amount, if any, received by the taxpayer from his employer in respect of travelling expenses for the trip,

(b) the aggregate of

(i) the value of travel assistance, if any, provided by the taxpayer's employer in respect of travelling expenses for the trip, and

(ii) travelling expenses incurred by the taxpayer for the trip, and

(c) the lowest return airfare ordinarily available, at the time the trip was made, to the individual for flights between the place in which the individual resided immediately before the trip, or the airport nearest thereto, and the designated city that is nearest to that place.

(3) [Period travel cost] — For the purposes of subsection (4), the "period travel cost" to a taxpayer for a period in a taxation year, in respect of an individual who was a member of the taxpayer's household at any time during the period, is the total of the trip costs to the taxpayer in respect of all trips that were made by the individual at a time when the individual was a member of the taxpayer's household where the trips may reasonably be considered to relate to the period.

(4) [Travel assistance — prescribed amount] — For the purposes of clause 110.7(1)(a)(i)(A) of the Act, the prescribed amount in respect of a taxpayer for a period in a taxation year is the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the value of travel assistance, if any, provided in the period by the taxpayer's employer in respect of travelling expenses for trips, each of which was made by an individual who, at the time the trip was made, was a member of the taxpayer's household, where the trips may reasonably be considered to relate to the period, and

(ii) the amount, if any, received in the period by the taxpayer from the taxpayer's employer in respect of travelling expenses for trips, each of which was made by an individual who, at the time the trip was made, was a member of the taxpayer's household, where the trips may reasonably be considered to relate to the period; and

(b) the total of all the period travel costs to the taxpayer for the period in respect of all individuals who were members of the taxpayer's household at any time in the period.

Proposed Addition — Additions for B.C. for 2010

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Oct. 20, 2010: Government of Canada Supports BC Livestock Producers Affected by Drought

British Columbia food producers suffering from drought conditions are getting help from the Government of Canada's tax deferral program.

"Our Government is committed to addressing the challenges that our farmers are facing," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "This tax deferral program will help BC farmers struggling due to the dry, cold conditions they've had this year by increasing the money available to replenish their breeding stock for the following year."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of reacquiring breeding animals. In the case of consecutive years of designation, producers may defer sales income to the first year in which the area is no longer designated.

To defer income, the breeding herd must have been reduced by at least 15%. Thirty per cent of income from net sales can be deferred if the breeding herd has been reduced by at least 15%. In cases where the herd has been reduced by more than 30%, 90% of income from net sales can be deferred.

Eligible producers will be able to request this deferral when filing their 2010 income tax returns. Livestock producers are advised to contact their local Canada Revenue Agency Tax Services Office for details on the income tax provisions.

Preliminary designation has been established based on spring moisture and summer rainfall, supplemented with estimates of forage yield. Final decisions and any needed adjustments will be made when all forage yield information is available, usually in December. Early designation of eligible areas will help producers make informed decisions about their fall and winter livestock management decisions.

Northern British Columbia experienced very dry conditions, well below normal temperature and low precipitation, resulting in very poor soil moisture conditions and pasture and forage development.

Assessment of the drought situation will continue throughout the fall and, as more data about forage yields are known, tax deferral areas could be expanded.

For more information on the extent of the drought or programs to assist farmers, see the AAFC Drought Watch site at www.agr.gc.ca/drought.

Proposed Addition — Additions for Alberta for 2010

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Oct. 20, 2010: Government of Canada Supports Alberta Livestock Producers Affected by Drought

The Government of Canada is helping livestock producers struggling as a result of drought conditions by offering tax deferrals to an expanded list of municipalities.

"Our Government is putting farmers first by helping producers in Alberta who are suffering due to the dry, cool season they've had this year," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "These tax deferrals will help farmers by increasing the money available to replenish their breeding stock for the following year."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of reacquiring breeding animals. Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Nov. 5, 2010: Government of Canada Helps North-Eastern Saskatchewan Livestock Producers Affected by Excess Moisture

The Government of Canada is helping livestock producers in North-Eastern parts of Saskatchewan who are struggling as a result of excess moisture by offering tax deferrals to a number of municipalities.

"Our Government is putting farmers first by helping livestock producers in Northern parts of Saskatchewan who have been affected by extremely wet conditions during the spring and summer seasons," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "These tax deferrals will help them by increasing the money available to replenish their breeding stock for the following year."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of reacquiring breeding animals. In the case of consecutive years of designation, producers may defer sales income to the first year in which the area is no longer designated.

To defer income, the breeding herd must have been reduced by at least 15%. If this is the case, 30% of income from net sales can then be deferred. In cases where the herd has been reduced by more than 30%, 90% of income from net sales can be deferred.

Eligible producers will be able to request this deferral when filing their 2010 income tax returns. Livestock producers are advised to contact their local Canada Revenue Agency Tax Services Office for details on the income tax provisions.

This preliminary designation has been established based on soil moisture and summer rainfall, supplemented with estimates of forage yield, and feed availability. Final decisions and any needed adjustments will be made when all the impacts of the excess moisture are known and when forage yield information is available. Early designation of eligible areas will help producers make informed decisions about their fall and winter livestock management decisions.

Northeast Saskatchewan producers experienced excessive moisture and received higher than normal precipitations throughout the spring, summer and fall seasons. This disrupted or prevented seeding of annual crops, delayed early forage growth and resulted in producers being unable to cut available forage crops. Some were forced to sell part of their breeding herd to readjust the size of the herd to match the availability of feed supplies. Assessment of the excess moisture situation will continue throughout the fall and as more data about forage yields are known, tax deferral areas could be expanded.

In addition to tax deferrals, existing federal-provincial Business Risk Management programs, such as AgriInsurance (crop insurance), AgriStability and AgriInvest, will significantly help producers manage the impact of this natural disaster as the first lines of defence to address income shortfalls.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Nov. 5, 2010: Government of Canada Helps Livestock Producers in Northern Parts of Manitoba Affected by Excess Moisture

The Government of Canada is helping livestock producers in Northern Manitoba and the Interlake and Westlake regions who are struggling as a result of excess moisture by offering tax deferrals to a number of municipalities.

"Our Government is committed to addressing the challenges faced by our Canadian farmers due to the extreme weather conditions they've had this year," said Agriculture Minister Ritz. "This tax deferral program will help farmers in Northern, Central and Western parts of Manitoba who are struggling due to the wet and cold conditions we had in the spring and summer seasons by increasing the money available to replenish their breeding stock for the following year."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Feb. 9, 2011 Government of Canada Helps Livestock Producers in Saskatchewan and Manitoba Affected by Excess Moisture

The Government of Canada is again helping livestock producers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan who have been struggling as a result of excess moisture, by expanding the list of designated areas eligible for tax deferrals.

"The spring and summer of 2010 were very challenging seasons for our farmers in the Prairies due to the extreme weather conditions they faced," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "By adding these regions to the list of eligible municipalities for the tax deferral program, we are helping more farmers who are struggling with the results of the wet and cold conditions."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year, to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of reacquiring breeding animals. In the case of consecutive years of designation, producers may defer sales income to the first year in which the area is no longer designated.

To defer income, the breeding herd must have been reduced by at least 15%. If this is the case, 30% of income from net sales can then be deferred. In cases where the herd has been reduced by more than 30%, 90% of income from net sales can be deferred.

Following the November 5, 2010 announcement, assessment of the excess moisture situation continued as more data about forage yields were known. With the additional information on the impacts of high rainfall, flooding and saturated soils on forage production and feed supplies made available, tax deferral areas were expanded.

Eight municipalities in south-west Manitoba and one municipality in north west Manitoba have been added due to excess moisture conditions resulting in poor yields and feed shortages.

One additional municipality in central Saskatchewan was added due to the large amounts of pasture land under water or inaccessible.

Eligible producers will be able to request this deferral when filing their 2010 income tax returns. Livestock producers are advised to contact the Canada Revenue Agency at http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/cntct/phn-eng.html for details on the income tax provisions.

In addition to tax deferrals, existing federal-provincial Business Risk Management programs, such as AgriInsurance (crop insurance), AgriStability and AgriInvest, will significantly help producers manage the impact of this natural disaster as the first lines of defence to address income shortfalls.

Proposed Additions — Reg. 7305.02 — Manitoba and Saskatchewan (2011)

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, July 11, 2011 Government of Canada Offers Tax Deferrals for Manitoba Livestock Producers Affected by Excess Moisture

The Government of Canada today announced it will offer tax deferrals to livestock producers in designated areas of Manitoba who are struggling as a result of excess moisture. This support comes while governments continue working closely to assess the impact of excess moisture to determine what additional assistance is required.

"The spring of 2011 was very difficult for our farmers due to the destructive flooding on both Lake Manitoba and Shoal Lake," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "The tax relief offered by the program will allow livestock owners to use savings to restock their herds in the spring."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year, to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of reacquiring breeding animals. In the case of consecutive years of designation, producers may defer sales income to the first year in which the area is no longer designated.

To defer income, the breeding herd must have been reduced by at least 15%. If this is the case, 30% of income from net sales can then be deferred. In cases where the herd has been reduced by more than 30%, 90% of income from net sales can be deferred.

Eligible producers will be able to request this deferral when filing their 2011 income tax returns. Livestock producers are advised to contact the Canada Revenue Agency at http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/cntct/phn-eng.html for details on the income tax provisions.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada news release, Aug. 2, 2011: Government of Canada Provides Tax Deferrals to More Livestock Producers

More livestock producers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan will have financial breathing room to help cope with excess moisture and flooding. Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz announced today that the list of designated areas eligible for tax deferrals has been expanded.

"This spring was very difficult for our farmers in the Prairies, as they faced extreme weather conditions and unprecedented flooding," said Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz. "By adding these regions to the list of those eligible for the tax deferral program, producers will be better positioned to cope with the results of the wet and cold conditions."

The tax deferral allows eligible producers in designated areas to defer income tax on the sale of breeding livestock for one year, to help replenish breeding stock in the following year. Proceeds from deferred sales are included as income in the next tax year, when they may be at least partially offset by the cost of re-acquiring breeding animals. In the case of consecutive years of designation, producers may defer sales income to the first year in which the area is no longer designated.

To defer income, the breeding herd must have been reduced by at least 15%. If this is the case, 30% of income from net sales can then be deferred. In cases where the herd has been reduced by more than 30%, 90% of income from net sales can be deferred.

Eligible producers will be able to request this deferral when filing their 2011 income tax returns. Livestock producers are advised to contact the Canada Revenue Agency at http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/cntct/phn-eng.html for details on the income tax provisions.

In addition to tax deferrals, existing federal-provincial Business Risk Management programs, such as AgriInsurance (crop insurance), AgriStability and AgriInvest, are in place to help farmers when situations such as flooding occur. AgriRecovery assessments are nearing completion.

S. 7305.02 added by 2009, c. 31, s. 17, deemed to have come into force on January 1, 2008.

7305.1 [Automobile operating expenses] — For the purpose of subparagraph (v) of the description of A in paragraph 6(1)(k) of the Act, the amount prescribed for a taxation year is

(a) if a taxpayer is employed in a taxation year by a particular person principally in selling or leasing automobiles and an automobile is made available in the year to the taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer by the particular person or a person related to the particular person, 21 cents; and

(b) in any other case, 24 cents.

Department of Finance news release 2008-114, Dec. 30, 2008: Automobile Deduction Limits and Expense Benefit Rates for Business

The general prescribed rate used to determine the taxable benefit relating to the personal portion of automobile operating expenses paid by employers for 2009 will remain at 24 cents per kilometre. For taxpayers employed principally in selling or leasing automobiles, the prescribed rate will remain at 21 cents per kilometre. The additional benefit of having an employer-provided vehicle available for personal use (i.e., the automobile standby charge) is calculated separately and is also included in the employee's income.

The general prescribed rate used to determine the taxable benefit relating to the personal portion of automobile operating expenses paid by employers for 2010 will remain at 24 cents per kilometre. For taxpayers employed principally in selling or leasing automobiles, the prescribed rate will remain at 21 cents per kilometre. The additional benefit of having an employer-provided vehicle available for personal use (i.e., the automobile standby charge) is calculated separately and is also included in the employee's income.

Department of Finance news release 2010-134, Dec. 29, 2010: Government Announces 2011 Automobile Deduction Limits and Expense Benefit Rates for Business

The general prescribed rate used to determine the taxable benefit relating to the personal portion of automobile operating expenses paid by employers for 2011 will remain at 24 cents per kilometre. For taxpayers employed principally in selling or leasing automobiles, the prescribed rate will remain at 21 cents per kilometre. The additional benefit of having an employer-provided vehicle available for personal use (i.e., the automobile standby charge) is calculated separately and is also included in the employee's income.

Department of Finance news release 2011-146, Dec. 29, 2011: Government Announces 2012 Automobile Deduction Limits and Expense Benefit Rates for Business

The general prescribed rate used to determine the taxable benefit relating to the personal portion of automobile operating expenses paid by employers for 2012 will increase by 2 cents to 26 cents per kilometre. For taxpayers employed principally in selling or leasing automobiles, the prescribed rate will increase by 2 cents to 23 cents per kilometre. The amount of the benefit reflects the costs of operating an automobile. The additional benefit of having an employer-provided vehicle available for personal use (i.e., the automobile standby charge, which is not affected by this announcement) is calculated separately and is also included in the employee's income.

The limit on the deduction of tax-exempt allowances paid by employers to employees using their personal vehicle for business purposes for 2011 will remain at 52 cents per kilometre for the first 5,000 kilometres driven and 46 cents for each additional kilometre. For Yukon, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut, the tax-exempt allowance will remain at 56 cents for the first 5,000 kilometres driven and 50 cents for each additional kilometre.

Department of Finance news release 2011-146, Dec. 29, 2011: Government Announces 2012 Automobile Deduction Limits and Expense Benefit Rates for Business

...

The limit on the deduction of tax-exempt allowances paid by employers to employees using their personal vehicle for business purposes for 2012 will be increased by 1 cent to 53 cents per kilometre for the first 5,000 kilometres driven and to 47 cents for each additional kilometre. For Yukon, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut, the tax-exempt allowance is set 4 cents higher, and will also increase by 1 cent to 57 cents for the first 5,000 kilometres driven and to 51 cents for each additional kilometre. The allowance amounts reflect the key cost components of owning and operating an automobile, such as depreciation, financing, insurance, maintenance and fuel costs.

(b) the product of 6 cents multiplied by the lesser of 5,000 and the number of those kilometres; and

(c) the product of 4 cents multiplied by the number of those kilometres driven in the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories or Nunavut.

B is the sum that would have been payable in respect of federal and provincial sales taxes on the acquisition of the automobile if it had been acquired, at a cost equal to A before the application of the federal and provincial sales taxes, if the automobile

(i) was acquired, at the time of the acquisition, or

(ii) was leased, at the time the lease was entered into.

Proposed Non-Amendment — Reg. 7307(1)

Department of Finance news release 2008-114, Dec. 30, 2008: Automobile Deduction Limits and Expense Benefit Rates for Business

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, announced today that the automobile expense deduction limits and prescribed rates for the automobile operating expense benefit that applied in 2008 will apply in 2009. Specifically:

- The ceiling on the capital cost of passenger vehicles for capital cost allowance (CCA) purposes will remain at $30,000 (plus applicable federal and provincial sales taxes) for purchases after 2008. This ceiling restricts the cost of a vehicle on which CCA may be claimed for business purposes.

[other portions of news release reproduced under Reg. 7305.1, 7306, 7307(2), 7307(3) — ed.]

The Government reviews these rates and limits annually, and announces any planned changes prior to the end of the calendar year. This practice ensures that businesses are aware of the new rates before the beginning of the year in which they apply.

PART LXXIV — PRESCRIBED FOREST MANAGEMENT PLANS FOR WOODLOTS

History: Part LXXIV (s. 7400) added by P.C. 2007-205, s. 1, February 22, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 7, 2007, applicable in respect of dispositions of property after December 10, 2001, except that for dispositions of property before 2008, it is to be read as follows:

> 7400. For the purposes of subsections 70(9), (9.3) and (10) and 73(3) of the Act, a prescribed forest management plan in respect of a woodlot is a written plan for the management and development of the woodlot that provides for the necessary attention to growth, health, quality and composition of the woodlot.

Part LXXIV repealed by P.C. 2001-1378, s. 7, August 1, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 15, 2001, effective August 15, 2001.

Part LXXIV (s. 7400) added by P.C. 1988-1473, s. 5, July 21, 1988, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 3, 1988, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1984.

7400. (1) For the purposes of subsections 70(9), (9.3) and (10) and 73(3) of the Act, a prescribed forest management plan in respect of a woodlot of a taxpayer is a written plan for the management and development of the woodlot that

(a) describes the composition of the woodlot, provides for the attention necessary for the growth, health and quality of the trees on the woodlot and is approved in accordance with the requirements of a provincial program established for the sustainable management and conservation of forests; or

(b) has been certified in writing by a recognized forestry professional to be a plan that describes the composition of the woodlot, provides for the attention necessary for the growth, health and quality of the trees on the woodlot and includes

(i) a description of, or a map indicating, the location of the woodlot,

(ii) a description of the characteristics of the woodlot, including a map of the woodlot site that shows those characteristics,

(iii) a description of the development of the woodlot, including the activities carried out on the woodlot, since the taxpayer acquired it,

(iv) information acceptable to the recognized forestry professional estimating

(A) the ages and heights of the trees on the woodlot, and their species,

(B) the quantity of wood on the woodlot,

(C) the quality and composition of the soil underlying the woodlot, and

(D) the quantity of wood that the woodlot could yield as a result of the implementation of the plan,

(v) a description of, and the timing for, the activities proposed to be carried out on the woodlot under the plan, including any of those activities that deal with

(A) harvesting,

(B) renewal and regeneration,

(C) the application of silviculture techniques, and

(D) responsible stewardship and the protection of the environment, and

PART LXXX — PRESCRIBED RESERVE AMOUNT AND RECOVERY RATE

History: Part LXXX (ss. 8000–8005) added by P.C. 1990-2779, s. 4, December 20, 1990, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 16, 1991, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods commencing after June 17, 1987 that end after 1987.

8000. [Prescribed reserve amount] — For the purpose of clause 20(1)(l)(ii)(C) of the Act, the prescribed reserve amount for a taxation year means the aggregate of

(a) where the taxpayer is a bank, an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount of the reserve reported in its annual report for the year that is filed with and accepted by the relevant authority or, where the taxpayer was throughout the year subject to the supervision of the relevant authority but was not required to file an annual report for the year with the relevant authority, in its financial statements for the year, as general provisions or as specific provisions, in respect of exposures to designated countries in respect of loans or lending assets of the taxpayer made or acquired by it in the ordinary course of its business, and

(ii) an amount in respect of the loans or lending assets of the taxpayer at the end of the year that were made or acquired by the taxpayer in the ordinary course of its business and reported for the year by the taxpayer to the relevant authority, in accordance with the guidelines established by the relevant authority, as part of the taxpayer's total exposure to designated countries for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's general provisions or specific provisions referred to in subparagraph (i) or that were acquired by the taxpayer after August 16, 1990 and reported for the year by the taxpayer to the relevant authority, in accordance with the guidelines established by the relevant authority, as an exposure to a designated country (in this subparagraph referred to as the "loans") equal to the positive or negative amount, as the case may be, determined by the formula

$$45\% (A + B) - (B + C)$$

where

A is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount that would be the amortized cost of a loan to the taxpayer at the end of the year if the definition "amortized cost" in section 248 of the Act were read without reference to paragraphs (e) and (i) thereof,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the principal amount of a loan outstanding at the time it was acquired by the taxpayer exceeds the amortized cost of the loan to the taxpayer immediately after the time it was acquired by the taxpayer, and

C is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(A) an amount deducted in respect of a loan under clause 20(1)(l)(ii)(B) of the Act in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, or

(B) an amount in respect of a loan determined as the amount, if any, by which

(I) the aggregate of all amounts in respect of the loan deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) of the Act in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds

(II) the aggregate of all amounts in respect of the loan included under paragraph 12(1)(i) of the Act in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(a.1) where the taxpayer is a bank, the positive or negative amount that would be determined under the formula in subparagraph (a)(ii) in respect of the specified loans owned by the taxpayer at the end of the year if that subparagraph applied to those loans.

(b) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

History: The opening words of s. 8000 amended and para. (b) repealed by P.C. 1999-195, subsecs. 2(1) and (3), February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 20(1)(l) of the Act, as amended, apply to the year and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

Para. 8000(a.1) added by P.C. 1999-195, subsec. 2(2), February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to 1997 et seq.; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1991 and before 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 8000(a.1) apply to those years and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before July 1999.

8001. [Repealed]

History: S. 8001 repealed by P.C. 1999-195, s. 3, February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 20(1)(l) of the Act, as amended, to apply to the year and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

8002. [Principal amount, amortized cost] — For the purposes of paragraph 8000(a),

(a) the principal amount outstanding at any time of a lending asset of a taxpayer that is a share of the capital stock of a corporation is the part of the consideration received by the corporation for the issue of the share that is outstanding at that time;

(b) where

(i) a taxpayer realizes a loss from the disposition of a loan or lending asset described in subparagraph 8000(a)(ii) or a specified loan described in paragraph 8000(a.1) (in this paragraph referred to as the "former loan") for consideration that included another loan or lending asset that was a loan or lending asset described in subparagraph 8000(a)(ii) or paragraph 8000(a.1) (in this paragraph referred to as the "new loan"), and

(ii) in the case of a former loan that is not a specified loan, the loss is included in computing the taxpayer's provisionable assets as reported for the year to the relevant authority, in accordance with the guidelines established by the relevant authority, for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's general provisions or specific provisions in respect of exposures to designated countries, the principal amount of the new loan outstanding at the time it was acquired by the taxpayer is deemed to be equal to the principal amount of the former loan outstanding immediately before that time; and

(c) where at the end of a particular taxation year a taxpayer owns a specified loan that, at the end of the preceding taxation year, was described in an inventory of the taxpayer, the amortized cost of the specified loan to the taxpayer at the end of the particular year is its value determined under section 10 of the Act at the end of the preceding year for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the preceding year.

History: Para. 8002(b) amended and para. (c) added by P.C. 1999-195, s. 4, February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to 1997 et seq.; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1991 and before 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 8000(a.1) apply to those years and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before July 1999.

8003. [Election] — Where a taxpayer elects to have this section apply by notifying the Minister in writing within 90 days after the day on which this section is published in the Canada Gazette, the loans or lending assets of the taxpayer that are described in subparagraph 8000(a)(ii) shall not include any loan or lending asset acquired by the taxpayer before November 1988 from a person with whom the taxpayer was dealing at arm's length.

Definitions [Reg. 8003]: "arm's length" — ITA 251(1); "Canada" — ITA 255, Interpretation Act 35(1); "lending asset", "Minister", "person", "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

8004. [Repealed]

History: S. 8004 repealed by P.C. 1999-195, s. 5, February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 20(1)(l) of the Act, as amended, to apply to the year and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

8005. [Rules — loans and lending assets] — For the purposes of subparagraph 8000(a)(ii), where a loan or lending asset of a person (in this section referred to as the "holder") related to a taxpayer

(a) was reported for the year by the taxpayer to the relevant authority, in accordance with the guidelines established by the relevant authority, as an exposure to a designated country,

(b) was acquired by the holder or another person related to the taxpayer after August 16, 1990 as part of a series of transactions or events in which the taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer disposed of a loan or lending asset that

(i) for the taxation year immediately preceding the particular year in which it was disposed of, was a loan or lending asset that was reported by the taxpayer to the relevant authority, in accordance with the guidelines established by the relevant authority, as an exposure to a designated country, and

(ii) was a loan or lending asset a loss arising on the disposition of which would be a loss in respect of which a deduction is permitted under Part I of the Act to the taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer, and

(c) had an amortized cost to the holder, immediately after the time it was acquired by the holder, that was less than 55 per cent of its principal amount,

the following rules apply:

(d) the loan or lending asset shall be deemed

(i) to be a loan or lending asset of the taxpayer at the end of the year,

(ii) to be a loan or lending asset of the taxpayer that was acquired by the taxpayer at the time it was acquired by the holder, and

(iii) to have an amortized cost to the taxpayer, at any time, that is equal to its amortized cost to the holder at that time, and

(e) any amount in respect of the loan or lending asset deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) of the Act or included under paragraph 12(1)(i) of the Act in computing the holder's income for a particular year shall be deemed to have been so deducted or included, as the case may be, in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year in which the particular year ends.

8100. Transition deduction in respect of unpaid claims reserve —

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 8100–8105

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, s. 69, will repeal Part LXXXI (ss. 8100–8105), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Sections 8100 and 8101 provide transitional rules in connection with the requirement that unpaid claims reserves for non-life insurance policies be determined on a fully-discounted basis. Sections 8102 to 8104 consist of rules supporting the transitional rules for the mark-to-market regime under section 142.5 of the Act.

This Part is now obsolete and is repealed for taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011. For further information, see the commentary on section 12.3, and subsections 20(26) and 142.5(4) to (7) of the Act.

For the purpose of subsection 20(26) of the Act, an insurer's unpaid claims reserve adjustment for its taxation year that includes February 23, 1994 is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the maximum amount that, because of paragraph 1400(e), was deductible under paragraph 20(7)(c) of the Act in respect of an insurance policy in computing the insurer's income for its last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994

(b) where the insurer elects, by notifying the Minister in writing, to have this paragraph apply, the total of all amounts each of which is the maximum amount that would, because of paragraph 1400(e), have been deductible under paragraph 20(7)(c) of the Act in respect of an insurance policy in computing the insurer's income for its last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 if the amount "1/2" in the formula in subparagraph 1400(e)(ii), as it read for that year, were replaced by the amount "1", and

(c) in any other case, the total of all amounts each of which is the maximum amount that would, because of paragraph 1400(e) or (e.1), have been deductible under paragraph 20(7)(c) of the Act in respect of an insurance policy in computing the insurer's income for its last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 if paragraph 1400(e.1) had applied to that year and paragraphs 1400(e) and (e.1) were read in their application to that year as they read in their application to the insurer's taxation year that includes February 23, 1994.

History: Ss. 8100 and 8101 substituted for ss. 8100 to 8105 by P.C. 1996-1452, s. 3, September 17, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 2, 1996, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 8100]: "amount", "insurance policy", "insurer", "Minister" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

8101. Inclusion of transition amount in respect of unpaid claims reserve — (1) In this section, "transition deduction" of an insurer means the amount deducted under subsection 20(26) of the Act in computing the insurer's income for its taxation year that includes February 23, 1994.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), there is prescribed for the purpose of section 12.3 of the Act in respect of an insurer for a taxation year that ends after February 22, 1994 the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(a) the number of days in the taxation year that are in 1994 or 1995, and

(b) where the taxation year includes February 23, 1994, the number of days in 1994 that are before the first day of the taxation year,

B is the number of days in the taxation year (other than February 29) that are in any of 1996 to 2001,

C is the number of days in the taxation year that are in 2002 or 2003, and

D is the insurer's transition deduction minus the amount, if any, required by subsection (4) or paragraph (5)(b) to be subtracted.

(3) Where subsection 88(1) of the Act has applied to the winding-up of an insurer (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary"),

(a) the values of A, B, and C in subsection (2) shall be determined in respect of the subsidiary without including any days that are after the day on which the subsidiary's assets were distributed to its parent on the winding-up; and

(b) there is prescribed for the purpose of section 12.3 of the Act in respect of the parent for its taxation year that includes the day referred to in paragraph (a) the total of

(i) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the parent for the year if the parent's transition deduction did not include the subsidiary's transition deduction, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the parent for the year if

(A) the values of A, B, and C in that subsection were determined without including the day referred to in paragraph (a) and any days before that day, and

(B) the value of D in that subsection were equal to the subsidiary's transition deduction.

(4) Where subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act has applied to the transfer of an insurance business by an insurer, there shall be subtracted, in determining the value of D in subsection (2) in respect of the insurer for a taxation year ending after the insurer ceased to carry on all or substantially all of the business, the part of the insurer's transition deduction that can reasonably be attributed to the business.

(5) Where an insurer ceases to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business, otherwise than as a result of a merger to which subsection 87(2) of the Act applies, a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies or a transfer of the business to which subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act applies,

(a) there is prescribed for the purpose of section 12.3 of the Act in respect of the insurer for its taxation year in which the cessation of business occurs, in addition to the amount prescribed by subsection (2), the amount, if any, by which

(i) the part of the insurer's transition deduction that can reasonably be attributed to the business

exceeds

(ii) that part of the total of the amounts included under section 12.3 of the Act in computing the income of the insurer for preceding taxation years that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i); and

(b) there shall be subtracted, in determining the value of D in subsection (2) in respect of the insurer for the year or a subsequent taxation year, the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i).

History: Ss. 8100 and 8101 substituted for ss. 8100 to 8105 by P.C. 1996-1452, s. 3, September 17, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 2, 1996, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 8101]: "amount", "business", "insurer", "prescribed" — ITA 248(1); "subsidiary" — Reg. 8101(3); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "transition deduction" — Reg. 8101(1).

8102. Mark-to-market — transition deduction — (1) In this section, "excluded property", of a taxpayer, means a mark-to-market property used in a business of the taxpayer in its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 where it is reasonable to expect that the property would have been valued at its fair market value for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income from the business for the year if

(a) the Act were read without reference to subsection 142.5(2); and

(b) the property were held at the end of the year.

(2) For the purpose of subsection 142.5(4) of the Act, the prescribed amount for a taxpayer's taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's profit from the disposition in the year, because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act, of a property other than a capital property or an excluded property

exceeds the total of

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition in the year, because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act, of a property other than a capital property or an excluded property, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition in the year of a mark-to-market property (other than a capital property, an excluded property or a property disposed of because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act)

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's profit from the disposition in the year of a mark-to-market property (other than a capital property, an excluded property or a property disposed of because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act).

History: S. 8102 added by P.C. 2009-1212, s. 6, July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable to taxation years that end after October 30, 1994.

Former s. 8102 repealed by P.C. 1996-1452, s. 3, September 17, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 2, 1996, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Former s. 8102 amended by P.C. 1992-2335, Sched. II, s. 17, November 19, 1992, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 2, 1992, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987.

Definitions [Reg. 8102]: "amount", "business" — ITA 248(1); "capital property" — ITA 54, 248(1); "disposed" — ITA 248(1)"disposition"; "disposition" — ITA 248(1); "excluded property" — Reg. 8102(1); "mark-to-market property" — ITA 142.2(1); "prescribed", "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

8103. Mark-to-market — transition inclusion — (1) In this section, "transition deduction", of a taxpayer, means the amount deducted under subsection 142.5(4) of the Act in computing the taxpayer's income for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994.

(2) Subject to subsections (3), (5) and (7), there is prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of a taxpayer for a taxation year that ends after October 30, 1994 the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A \times B}{1825}$$

where

A is the number of days (other than February 29) in the year that are before the day that is five years after the first day of the taxation year of the taxpayer that includes October 31, 1994; and

B is the taxpayer's transition deduction minus the amount, if any, required by subsection (4) or paragraph (6)(b) to be subtracted.

(3) If subsection 88(1) of the Act has applied to the winding-up of a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary"),

(a) the value of A in subsection (2) shall be determined in respect of the subsidiary without including any days that are after the day on which the subsidiary's assets were distributed to its parent on the winding-up; and

(b) there is prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of the parent for its taxation year that includes the day referred to in paragraph (a) the total of

(i) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the parent for the year if the parent's transition deduction did not include the subsidiary's transition deduction, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the parent for the year if

(A) the value of A in that subsection were determined without including the day referred to in paragraph (a) and any days before that day, and

(B) the value of B in that subsection were equal to the subsidiary's transition deduction.

(4) If subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act has applied to the transfer of an insurance business by an insurer, there shall be subtracted, in determining the value of B in subsection (2) in respect of the insurer for a taxation year that ends after the insurer ceased to carry on all or substantially all of the business, the part of the insurer's transition deduction that is included, because of paragraph 138(11.5)(k) of the Act, in the transition deduction of the person to whom the business was transferred.

(5) If subsection 98(6) of the Act deems a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "new partnership") to be a continuation of another partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "predecessor partnership"),

(a) the value of A in subsection (2) shall be determined in respect of the predecessor partnership without including any days that are after the day on which the predecessor partnership's property was transferred to the new partnership; and

(b) there is prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of the new partnership for its taxation year that includes the day referred to in paragraph (a) the total of

(i) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the new partnership for the year if its transition deduction did not include the predecessor partnership's transition deduction, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the new partnership for the year if

(A) the value of A in that subsection were determined without including the day referred to in paragraph (a) and any days before that day, and

(B) the value of B in that subsection were equal to the predecessor partnership's transition deduction.

(6) If a taxpayer ceases to carry on all or substantially all of a business, otherwise than as a result of a merger to which subsection 87(2) of the Act applies, a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies or a transfer of the business to which subsection 98(6) or 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act applies,

(a) there is prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of the taxpayer for its taxation year in which the cessation of business occurs, in addition to the amount prescribed by subsection (2), the amount, if any, by which

(i) the part of the taxpayer's transition deduction that can reasonably be attributed to the business

exceeds

(ii) that part of the total of the amounts included under subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in computing the income of the taxpayer for preceding taxation years that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i); and

(b) there shall be subtracted, in determining the value of B in subsection (2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year or a subsequent taxation year, the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i).

(7) If a taxpayer ceases at any time to be a financial institution otherwise than because it ceases to carry on a business,

(a) there is prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of the taxpayer for its taxation year that ended immediately before that time, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the taxpayer's transition deduction

exceeds

(ii) the total of the amounts included under subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in computing the taxpayer's income for preceding taxation years; and

(b) the amount prescribed for the purpose of subsection 142.5(5) of the Act in respect of the taxpayer for taxation years after the taxation year referred to in paragraph (a) is nil.

8104. Mark-to-market — transition capital loss — (1) In this section, "excluded property", of a taxpayer, means a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 if

(a) the taxpayer had a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss for the year from the disposition of the property to which section 142 of the Act applied; or

(b) in the case of a taxpayer that was non-resident in the year, the property was a capital property other than a taxable Canadian property.

(2) For the purpose of subsection 142.5(6) of the Act, the prescribed amount for a taxpayer's taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition, because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act, of a property other than an excluded property

exceeds the total of

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the allowable capital loss of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition, because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act, of a property other than an excluded property, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the allowable capital loss of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition of a mark-to-market property (other than an excluded property or a property disposed of because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act)

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition of a mark-to-market property (other than an excluded property or a property disposed of because of subsection 142.5(2) of the Act).

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), s. 49, will amend the opening words of s. 8201 to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after December 18, 2009.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to that would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Section 8201 provides a definition of the term "permanent establishment" for various purposes of the Act. This section is being amended to remove the reference to the definition "excluded income and excluded revenue" in subsection 95(2.5) of the Act since that definition will now be covered by the new definition of "permanent establishment" in subsection 95(1) of the Act and new subsections 5906(2) and (3).

8201.1 [Repealed]

History: S. 8201.1 repealed by P.C. 2000-183, subsec. 5(2), February 17, 2000, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 1, 2000, applicable to 1995 et seq. For the period from December 5, 1985 through the 1994 taxation year, read:

8201.1 For the purpose of subsection 206(1.3) of the Act, "permanent establishment" of a corporation means a fixed place of business of the corporation, including an office, a branch, a mine, an oil well, a farm, a timberland, a factory, a workshop or a warehouse and, where the corporation does not have any fixed place of business, the principal place at which the corporation's business is conducted, and

(a) where the corporation carries on business through an employee or agent, established in a particular place, who has general authority to contract for the corporation or who has a stock of merchandise owned by the corporation from which the employee or agent regularly fills orders, the corporation shall be deemed to have a permanent establishment at that place,

(b) where the corporation is an insurance corporation, the corporation is deemed to have a permanent establishment in each country in which the corporation is registered or licensed to do business,

(c) where the corporation uses substantial machinery or equipment at a particular place at any time in a taxation year, the corporation shall be deemed to have a permanent establishment at that place,

(d) the fact that the corporation has business dealings through a commission agent, broker or other independent agent or maintains an office solely for the purchase of merchandise shall not of itself be held to mean that the corporation has a permanent establishment, and

(e) the fact that the corporation has a subsidiary controlled corporation at a place or a subsidiary controlled corporation engaged in trade or business at a place shall not of itself be held to mean that the corporation is operating a permanent establishment at that place, except that, where the corporation is resident in a country with which the Government of Canada has concluded an agreement or convention for the avoidance of double taxation that has the force of law in Canada and in which the expression "permanent establishment" is given a particular meaning, that meaning shall apply.

S. 8201.1 added by P.C. 2000-183, subsec. 5(1), February 17, 2000, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 1, 2000, applicable after December 4, 1985.

(a) in its application in respect of amounts paid to pension plans before 1991, the definition "excluded contribution" in subsec. 8300(1) shall be read as follows:

"excluded contribution" to a registered pension plan means an amount paid to the plan that is

(a) transferred to the plan in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 147(19) and 147.3(1) to (7) of the Act, or

(b) deductible, as a consequence of the payment, under paragraph 60(j) or (j.1) of the Act in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year;

(b) before 1991, subsecs. 8301(2) and (3) shall be read without reference to the expression "and subsection 147(5.1) of the Act";

(c) subsec. 8307(6) is applicable after 1990; and

(d) subsec. 8307(7) is applicable to 1991 et seq.

8300. Interpretation — (1) In this Part,

"certifiable past service event", with respect to an individual means a past service event that is required, by reason of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act, to be disregarded, in whole or in part, in determining the benefits to be paid under a registered pension plan with respect to the individual until a certification of the Minister in respect of the event has been obtained;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.10 (certifiable past service event).

"complete period of reduced services" of an individual means a period of reduced services of the individual that is not part of a longer period of reduced services of the individual;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.13 (complete period of reduced services).

"designated savings arrangement" of an individual means a RRIF or RRSP under which the individual is the annuitant, or the individual's account under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan;

History: Definition "designated savings arrangement" added by 2011, c. 24, subsec. 90(1), deemed to have come into force on March 23, 2011.

"excluded contribution" to a registered pension plan means an amount that is transferred to the plan in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 146.3(14.1), 147(19), 147.3(1) to (4) and 147.3(5) to (7) of the Act;

History: Definition "excluded contribution" amended to add reference to ITA subsec. 146.3(14.1), by P.C. 2005-1508, s. 16, August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2003.

"Excluded contribution" amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 1(1), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to transfers occurring after 1990.

Definition "excluded contribution" added by P.C. 1991-2540, s. 7, December 16, 1991, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 15, 1992, applicable after 1989, except that in its application in respect of amounts paid to pension plans before 1991, read the definition to include amounts deductible under ITA 60(j) or (j.1).

"flat benefit provision" of a pension plan means a defined benefit provision of the plan under which the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to each member is based on the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the product of a fixed rate and either the duration of service of the member or the number of units of output of the member, and, for the purposes of this definition, where

(a) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision to each member is subject to a limit based on the remuneration received by the member, and

(b) the limit may reasonably be considered to be included to ensure that the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to each member does not exceed the maximum amount of such benefits that may be provided by a registered pension plan, the limit shall be disregarded for the purpose of determining whether the provision is a flat benefit provision;

"individual pension plan", in respect of a calendar year, means a registered pension plan that contains a defined benefit provision if, at any time in the year or a preceding year, the plan

(a) has fewer than four members and at least one of them is related to a participating employer in the plan, or

(b) is a designated plan and it is reasonable to conclude that the rights of one or more members to receive benefits under the plan exist primarily to avoid the application of paragraph (a);

"member", in relation to a deferred profit sharing plan or a benefit provision of a registered pension plan, means an individual who has a right (either immediate or in the future and either absolute or contingent) to receive benefits under the plan or the provision, as the case may be, other than an individual who has such a right only because of the participation of another individual in the plan or under the provision, as the case may be;

History: The definition "member" added to subsec. 8300(1) by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(1), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.25 (member).

"PA offset" for a calendar year means

(a) for years before 1997, $1,000, and

(b) for years after 1996, $600;

History: The definition "PA offset" added to subsec. 8300(1) by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(1), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

"past service event" means any transaction, event or circumstance that occurs after 1989 and as a consequence of which

(a) retirement benefits become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan in respect of a period before the time that the transaction, event or circumstance occurs,

(b) there is a change to the way in which retirement benefits provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan in respect of a period before the time that the transaction, event or circumstance occurs are determined, including a change that is applicable only in specified circumstances, or

(c) there is a change in the value of an indexing or other automatic adjustment that enters into the determination of the amount of an individual's retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan in respect of a period before the time that the value of the adjustment changes;

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(2) — Definition applies to ITA 147.1(1).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.30 (past service event).

"period of reduced services" of an individual means, in connection with a benefit provision of a registered pension plan, a period that consists of one or more periods each of which is

(a) an eligible period of reduced pay or temporary absence of the individual with respect to an employer who participates under the provision, or

(b) a period of disability of the individual;

History: The opening words of the definition "period of reduced services" in subsec. 8300(1) amended by P.C. 2007-849, subsec. 11(1), May 31, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 13, 2007, in force June 13, 2007.

"refund benefit" means

(a) with respect to an individual and a benefit provision of a pension plan, a return of contributions made by the individual under the provision, and

(b) with respect to an individual and a deferred profit sharing plan, a return of contributions made by the individual to the plan, and includes any interest (computed at a rate not exceeding a reasonable rate) payable in respect of those contributions;

History: Para. (a) of the definition "refund benefit" in subsec. 8300(1) amended by P.C. 2007-849, subsec. 11(2), May 31, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 13, 2007, in force June 13, 2007.

"resident compensation" of an individual from an employer for a calendar year means the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraphs (b) and (c) of that definition.

History: The definition "resident compensation" added to subsec. 8300(1) by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(1), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

(1.1) The Minister may waive in writing the application of the definition "individual pension plan" in subsection (1) if is just and equitable to do so having regard to all the circumstances.

History: Subsec. 8300(1.1) added by 2011, c. 24, subsec. 90(2), deemed to have come into force on March 23, 2011.

(2) The definition "past service event" in subsection (1) is applicable for the purposes of subsection 147.1(1) of the Act.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.30 (past service event).

(3) All words and expressions used in this Part that are defined in sections 147 or 147.1 of the Act or in Part LXXXV have the meanings assigned in those provisions unless a definition in this Part is applicable.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8500(2) — Mirror image rule causing terms in Reg. 8300(1) to be defined for purposes of Part 85.

(4) For the purposes of this Part, an officer who receives remuneration for holding an office shall, for any period that the officer holds the office, be deemed to render services to, and to be in the service of, the person from whom the officer receives the remuneration.

(5) For the purposes of this Part (other than the definition "member" in subsection (1)), where an individual has received an interest in an annuity contract in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan, any rights of the individual under the contract are deemed to be rights under the defined benefit provision.

History: Subsec. 8300(5) amended by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

(6) For the purposes of this Part and subsection 147.1(10) of the Act, and subject to subsection 8308(1), the following rules apply in respect of the determination of the benefits that are provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan at a particular time:

(a) where a term of the defined benefit provision, or an amendment to a term of the provision, is not applicable with respect to the individual before a specified date, the term shall be considered to have been added to the provision, or the amendment shall be considered to have been made to the term, on the specified date;

(b) where an alteration to the benefits provided to the individual is conditional on the requirements of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act being met, those requirements shall be assumed to have been met;

(c) benefits that will be reinstated if the individual returns to employment with an employer who participates in the plan shall be considered not to be provided until the individual returns to employment; and

(d) where benefits under the provision depend on the individual's job category or other circumstances, the only benefits provided to the individual are the benefits that are relevant to the individual's circumstances at the particular time.

(7) For the purposes of subsections 8301(3) and (8), paragraph 8302(3)(c), subsections 8302(5) and 8304(5) and (5.1), paragraphs 8304.1(10)(c) and (11)(c), subparagraph 8306(4)(a)(ii) and subsection 8308(3), the benefits to which an individual is entitled at any time under a deferred profit sharing plan or pension plan include benefits to which the individual has only a contingent right because a condition for the vesting of the benefits has not been satisfied.

History: Subsec. 8300(7) amended by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(3), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

Subsec. 8300(8) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 1(2), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to amounts allocated after April 5, 1994.

(9) For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXV, where property held in connection with a particular benefit provision of a pension plan is made available at any time to pay benefits under another benefit provision of the plan, the property is deemed to be transferred at that time from the particular benefit provision to the other benefit provision.

History: Subsec. 8300(9) added by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(4), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

(10) For the purposes of this Part and Parts LXXXIV and LXXXV, and subject to subsection (11), an individual is considered to have terminated from a deferred profit sharing plan or a benefit provision of a registered pension plan when the individual has ceased to be a member in relation to the plan or the provision, as the case may be.

History: Subsec. 8300(10) added by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(4), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

(11) Where the benefits provided with respect to an individual under a particular defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan depend on benefits provided with respect to the individual under one or more other defined benefit provisions of registered pension plans (each of the particular provision and the other provisions being referred to in this subsection as a "related provision"), for the purposes of this Part and Parts LXXXIV and LXXXV,

(a) if the individual ceases, at any particular time after 1996, to be a member in relation to a specific related provision and is, at the particular time, a member in relation to another related provision, the individual is deemed

(i) not to terminate from the specific provision at the particular time, and

(ii) to terminate from the specific provision at the earliest subsequent time when the individual is no longer a member in relation to any of the related provisions;

(b) if the conditions in subsection 8304.1(14) (read without reference to the words "after 1996 and") are not satisfied with respect to the individual's termination from a related provision, the conditions in that subsection are deemed not to be satisfied with respect to the individual's termination from each of the other related provisions; and

(c) a specified distribution (as defined in subsection 8304.1(8)) made at any particular time in respect of the individual and a related provision is deemed, for the purpose of subsection 8304.1(5), also to be a specified distribution made at the particular time in respect of the individual and each of the other related provisions, except to the extent that the Minister has waived the application of this paragraph with respect to the distribution.

History: Subsec. 8300(11) added by P.C.1998-2256, subsec. 4(4), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1989.

(12) For the purposes of this Part, where

(a) all or any part of the amounts payable to an individual under a deferred profit sharing plan are paid by a trustee under the plan to a licensed annuities provider to purchase for the individual an annuity described in subparagraph 147(2)(k)(vi) of the Act, or

(b) an individual has acquired, in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than benefits to which the individual was entitled only because of the participation of another individual under the provision), an interest in an annuity contract (other than as a consequence of a transfer of property from the provision to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant), the individual is deemed to continue, from the time of the payment or acquisition, as the case may be, until the individual's death, to be a member in relation to the plan or provision, as the case may be.

8301. Pension adjustment — (1) Pension adjustment with respect to employer — For the purpose of subsection 248(1) of the Act, "pension adjustment" of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer means, subject to paragraphs 8308(4)(d) and (5)(c), the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to the employer under a deferred profit sharing plan or under a benefit provision of a registered pension plan;

(b) the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to the employer under a foreign plan, determined under section 8308.1; or

(c) the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to the employer under a specified retirement arrangement, determined under section 8308.3.

(2) Pension credit — deferred profit sharing plan — For the purposes of subsection (1) and Part LXXXV and subsection 147(5.1) of the Act, and subject to subsection 8304(2), an individual's pension credit for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a deferred profit sharing plan is the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a contribution made to the plan in the year by the employer with respect to the individual, or

(b) the portion of an amount allocated in the year to the individual that is attributable to forfeited amounts under the plan or to earnings of the plan in respect of forfeited amounts, except to the extent that the portion

(i) is included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan, or

(ii) is paid to the individual in the year; and

B is nil, unless the conditions in subsection (2.1) are satisfied, in which case it is the total referred to in paragraph (2.1)(b).

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 8311 — Pension credit rounded to nearest dollar.

(2.1) Conditions re — description of B in subsec. (2) — The following are conditions for the purpose of the description of B in subsection (2):

(a) the total of all amounts, each of which would be the individual's pension credit for the calendar year with respect to the employer under a deferred profit sharing plan if the description of B in subsection (2) were read as "is nil.", is

(i) equal to, or less than, 50% of the money purchase limit for the year,

(ii) greater than 18% of the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition, and

(iii) equal to, or less than, 18% of the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the preceding year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition; and

(b) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount that is paid from the plan to the individual or the employer in the calendar year or in the first two months of the following year that can reasonably be considered to derive from an amount included in the value of A in subsection (2) with respect to the individual and the employer for the year, is greater than nil.

(3) Non-vested termination from DPSP — For the purposes of subsection (1) and Part LXXXV and subsection 147(5.1) of the Act, where

(a) an individual ceased in a calendar year after 1989 and before 1997 to be employed by an employer who participated in a deferred profit sharing plan for the benefit of the individual,

(b) as a consequence of the termination of employment, the individual ceased in the year to have any rights to benefits (other than a right to a refund benefit) under the plan,

(c) the individual was not entitled to benefits under the plan at the end of the year, or was entitled only to a refund benefit, and

(d) no benefit has been paid under the plan with respect to the individual, other than a refund benefit, the individual's pension credit under the plan for the year with respect to the employer is nil.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(7) — Benefits include contingent benefits.

(4) Pension credit — money purchase provision — For the purposes of subsection (1) and Part LXXXV and subsection 147.1(9) of the Act, and subject to subsections (4.1) and (8) and 8304(2), an individual's pension credit for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution made by the individual in 1990, an excluded contribution or a contribution described in paragraph 8308(6)(e) or (g)) made under the provision in the year by

(i) the individual, except to the extent that the contribution was not made in connection with the individual's employment with the employer and is included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan, or

(ii) the employer with respect to the individual, or

(b) such portion of an amount allocated in the year to the individual as is attributable to

(i) forfeited amounts under the provision or earnings of the plan in respect thereof,

(ii) a surplus under the provision,

(ii.1) property transferred to the provision in respect of the actuarial surplus under a defined benefit provision of the plan or another registered pension plan, or

(ii.2) property transferred to the provision in respect of the surplus under another money purchase provision of the plan or under a money purchase provision of another registered pension plan, except to the extent that that portion is

(iii) included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan,

(iv) paid to the individual in the year, or

(v) where the year is 1990, attributable to amounts forfeited before 1990 or earnings of the plan in respect thereof, except that the individual's pension credit is nil where the year is before 1990, and, for the purposes of this subsection, the plan administrator shall determine the portion of a contribution made by an individual or an amount allocated to the individual that is to be included in determining the individual's pension credit with respect to each employer.

(4.1) Money purchase pension credits based on amounts allocated — Where,

(a) under the terms of a money purchase provision of a pension plan, the method for allocating contributions is such that contributions made by an employer with respect to a particular individual may be allocated to another individual, and

(b) the Minister has, on the written application of the administrator of the plan, approved in writing a method for determining pension credits under the provision that, for each individual, takes into account amounts allocated to the individual, each pension credit under the provision is the amount determined in accordance with the method approved by the Minister.

History: Subsec. 8301(4.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 2(3), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to the determination of pension credits for 1993 et seq.

(5) Pension credit — defined benefit provision of a specified multi-employer plan — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXV and subsection 147.1(9) of the Act, an individual's pension credit for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan is the aggregate of

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an excluded contribution) made under the provision by the individual

(i) in the year, in respect of

(A) the year, or

(B) a plan year ending in the year (other than in respect of such portion of a plan year as is before 1990), or

(ii) in January of the year (other than in January 1990) in respect of the immediately preceding calendar year, except to the extent that the contribution was not made in connection with the individual's employment with the employer and is included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan,

(b) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a contribution made in the year by the employer in respect of the provision, to the extent that the contribution may reasonably be considered to be determined by reference to the number of hours worked by the individual or some other measure that is specific to the individual, and

(c) the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B} \times (C - B)$$

where

A is the amount determined under paragraph (b) for the purpose of computing the individual's pension credit,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount determined under paragraph (b) for the purpose of computing the pension credit of an individual for the year with respect to the employer under the provision, and

C is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a contribution made in the year by the employer in respect of the provision, except that, where the year is before 1990, the individual's pension credit is nil.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 8311 — Pension credit rounded to nearest dollar.

(6) Pension credit — defined benefit provision — Subject to subsections (7), (8) and (10) and sections 8304 and 8308, for the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXV and subsection 147.1(9) of the Act, an individual's pension credit for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a defined benefit provision of a particular registered pension plan (other than a plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan) is

(a) if the year is after 1989, the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is 9 times the individual's benefit entitlement under the provision with respect to the employer and the year, and

B is the amount, if any, by which the PA offset for the year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the value of B determined under this paragraph for the purpose of computing the individual's pension credit for the year

(i) with respect to the employer under any other defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan,

(ii) with respect to any other employer who at any time in the year does not deal at arm's length with the employer, under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, or

(iii) with respect to any other employer under a defined benefit provision of the particular plan; and

(b) if the year is before 1990, nil.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 8302(1) — Benefit entitlement is portion attributable to employer; Reg. 8311 — Pension credit rounded to nearest dollar.

(7) Pension credit — defined benefit provision of a multi-employer plan — Where a registered pension plan is a multi-employer plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan) in a calendar year, the following rules apply, except to the extent that the Minister has waived in writing their application in respect of the plan, for the purpose of determining the pension credit of an individual for the year under a defined benefit provision of the plan:

(a) where the individual is employed in the year by more than one participating employer, the pension credit of the individual for the year under the provision with respect to a particular employer shall be determined as if the individual were not employed by any other participating employer;

(b) the description of B in paragraph (6)(a) shall be read as

"B is the amount determined by the formula

$$(C \times D) - E$$

where

C is the PA offset for the year,

(i) where the member rendered services on a full-time basis throughout the year to the employer, one, and

(ii) in any other case, the fraction (not greater than one) that measures the services that, for the purpose of determining the member's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision, the member is treated as having rendered in the year to the employer, expressed as a proportion of the services that would have been rendered by the member in the year to the employer if the member had rendered services to the employer on a full-time basis throughout the year, and

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the value of B determined under this paragraph for the purpose of computing the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to the employer under any other defined benefit provision of the plan; and";

(c) where a period in the year is a period of reduced services of the individual, the pension credit of the individual for the year under the provision with respect to each participating employer shall be determined as the aggregate of

(i) the pension credit that would be determined if no benefits (other than benefits attributable to services rendered by the individual) had accrued to the individual in respect of periods of reduced services, and

(ii) the pension credit that would be determined if the only benefits that had accrued to the individual were benefits in respect of periods of reduced services, other than benefits attributable to services rendered by the individual during such periods; and

(d) subsection (10) shall not apply.

(8) Non-vested termination from RPP — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXV and subsection 147.1(9) of the Act, and subject to subsection (9), where

(a) an individual ceased in a calendar year after 1989 and before 1997 to be employed by an employer who participated in a registered pension plan for the benefit of the individual,

(b) as a consequence of the termination of employment, the individual ceased in the year to have any rights to benefits (other than a right to a refund benefit) under a benefit provision of the plan,

(c) the individual was not entitled to benefits under the provision at the end of the year, or was entitled only to a refund benefit, and

(d) no benefit has been paid under the provision with respect to the individual, other than a refund benefit, the individual's pension credit under the provision for the year with respect to the employer is

(e) where the provision is a money purchase provision, the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution made by the individual in 1990, an excluded contribution or a contribution described in paragraph 8308(6)(e)) made under the provision in the year by the individual, except to the extent that the contribution was not made in connection with the individual's employment with the employer and is included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan, and

(f) where the provision is a defined benefit provision, the lesser of

(i) the pension credit that would be determined if this subsection were not applicable, and

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an excluded contribution) made under the provision by the individual in, and in respect of, the year, except to the extent that the contribution was not made in connection with the individual's employment with the employer and is included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan.

(9) Multi-employer plans — Subsection (8) is not applicable in respect of a registered pension plan that is a multi-employer plan in a calendar year except, where

(a) the plan is not a specified multi-employer plan in the year;

(b) if the plan contains a defined benefit provision, the Minister has waived in writing the application of paragraph (7)(b) in respect of the plan for the year; and

(c) the Minister has approved in writing the application of subsection (8) in respect of the plan for the year.

(10) Transition rule — money purchase offsets — Where,

(a) throughout the period beginning on January 1, 1981 and ending on December 31 of a particular calendar year after 1989 and before 2000, there has been subtracted, in determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan), the amount of lifetime retirement benefits under a money purchase provision of the plan or of another registered pension plan,

(b) lifetime retirement benefits under the defined benefit provision are determined, at the end of the particular year, in substantially the same manner as they were determined at the end of 1989, and

(c) for each individual and each calendar year before 1990, the amount of employer contributions made under the money purchase provision for the year with respect to the individual did not exceed $3,500, the pension credit of an individual for the particular year with respect to an employer under the defined benefit provision is equal to the amount, if any, by which

(d) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be the individual's pension credit

exceeds

(e) the lesser of

(i) $2,500, and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{1}{10} \times [\, A - (B \times C) \,]$$

where

A is the balance in the individual's account under the money purchase provision at the end of 1989,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period ending before 1990 that is pensionable service of the individual under the defined benefit provision and that is not part of a longer period ending before 1990 that is pensionable service of the individual under the provision, and

C is the amount that would be the individual's pension credit for 1989 with respect to the employer under the defined benefit provision if subsection (6) were read without reference to the words "if the year is after 1989" in paragraph (6)(a) and without reference to paragraph (6)(b).

(11) Timing of contributions — Subject to paragraph (12)(b), for the purposes of this Part, a contribution made by an employer in the first two months of a calendar year to a deferred profit sharing plan, in respect of a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan, or in respect of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that was, in the immediately preceding calendar year, a specified multi-employer plan, shall be deemed to have been made by the employer at the end of the immediately preceding calendar year and not to have been made in the year, to the extent that the contribution can reasonably be considered to relate to a preceding calendar year.

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for RPPs, para. 25.

(12) Indirect contributions — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXIV, where a trade union or association of employers (in this subsection and subsections (13) and (14) referred to as the "contributing entity") makes contributions to a registered pension plan,

(a) such portion of a payment made to the contributing entity by an employer or an individual as may reasonably be considered to relate to the plan (determined in accordance with subsection (13), where that subsection is applicable) shall be deemed to be a contribution made to the plan by the employer or individual, as the case may be, at the time the payment was made to the contributing entity; and

(b) subsection (11) shall not apply in respect of a contribution deemed by paragraph (a) to have been made to the plan.

(13) Apportionment of payments — For the purposes of subsection (12), where employers or individuals make payments in a calendar year to a contributing entity to enable the contributing entity to make contributions to a registered pension plan and the payments are not made solely for the purpose of being contributed to the plan, the contributing entity shall

(a) determine, in a manner that is reasonable in the circumstances, the portion of each payment that relates to the plan;

(b) make the determination in such a manner that all contributions made by the contributing entity to the plan, other than contributions made by the contributing entity as an employer or former employer of members of the plan, are considered to be funded by payments made to the contributing entity by employers or individuals;

(c) in the case of payments remitted to the contributing entity by an employer, notify the employer in writing, by January 31 of the immediately following calendar year, of the portion, or of the method for determining the portion, of each such payment that relates to the plan; and

(d) in the case of payments remitted to the contributing entity by an individual, notify the administrator of the plan in writing, by January 31 of the immediately following calendar year, of the total amount of payments made in the year by the individual that relate to the plan.

(14) Non-compliance by contributing entity — Where a contributing entity does not comply with the requirements of subsection (13) as they apply in respect of payments made to the contributing entity in a calendar year to enable the contributing entity to make contributions to a registered pension plan,

(a) the plan becomes, on February 1 of the immediately following calendar year, a revocable plan; and

(b) the Minister may make any determinations referred to in subsection (13) that the contributing entity failed to make, or failed to make in accordance with that subsection.

8302. Benefit entitlement — (1) For the purposes of subsection 8301(6), the benefit entitlement of an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a calendar year and an employer is the portion of the individual's benefit accrual under the provision in respect of the year that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the individual's employment with the employer.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8302(2) — Meaning of benefit accrual.

(2) Benefit accrual for year — For the purposes of subsection (1), and subject to subsections (6), (8) and (9), the benefit accrual of an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a calendar year is the amount computed in accordance with the following rules:

(a) determine the portion of the individual's normalized pension under the provision at the end of the year that can reasonably be considered to have accrued in respect of the year;

(b) where the year is after 1989 and before 1995, determine the lesser of the amount determined under paragraph (a) and

(i) for 1990, $1,277.78,

(ii) for 1991 and 1992, $1,388.89,

(iii) for 1993, $1,500.00, and

(iv) for 1994, $1,611.11; and

(c) where, in determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable to the individual under the provision, there is deducted from the amount of those benefits that would otherwise be payable the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable to the individual under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or the amount of a lifetime annuity payable to the individual under a deferred profit sharing plan, reduce the amount that would otherwise be determined under this subsection by 1/9 of the total of all amounts each of which is the pension credit of the individual for the year under such a money purchase provision or deferred profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8302(3) — Meaning of normalized pension.

History: Paras. 8302(2)(b) and (c) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 3(1), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1991.

(3) Normalized pensions — For the purposes of paragraph (2)(a), and subject to subsection (11), the normalized pension of an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan at the end of a particular calendar year is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that would be payable under the provision to the individual immediately after the end of the particular year if

(a) where lifetime retirement benefits have not commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual before the end of the particular year, they commenced to be paid immediately after the end of the year;

(b) where the individual had not attained 65 years of age before the time at which lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid (or are assumed by reason of paragraph (a) to have commenced to be paid) to the individual, the individual attained that age at that time;

(c) all benefits to which the individual is entitled under the provision were fully vested;

Selected Cases [Reg. 8302(3)(c)]: Osborn v. R., [1995] 2 C.T.C. 2215 (TCC) (Non-vested pension amounts treated as if vested for purposes of RRSP contribution limit).

(d) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits would otherwise be determined with a reduction computed by reference to the individual's age, duration of service or both, or with any other similar reduction, no such reduction were applied;

(d.1) no reduction in the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits were applied in respect of benefits described in any of clauses 8503(2)(a)(vi)(A) to (C);

(d.2) no adjustment that is permissible under subparagraph 8503(2)(a)(ix) were made to the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits;

(e) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the remuneration received by the individual in a calendar year (in this paragraph referred to as the "other year") other than the particular year, the remuneration received by the individual in the other year were determined in accordance with the following rules:

(i) where the individual was remunerated for both the particular year and the other year as a person who rendered services on a full-time basis throughout each of the years, the remuneration received by the individual in the other year is identical to the remuneration received by the individual in the particular year,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) is not applicable and the individual rendered services in the particular year, the remuneration received by the individual in the other year is the remuneration that the individual would have received in the other year (or a reasonable estimate thereof determined by a method acceptable to the Minister) had the individual's rate of remuneration in the other year been the same as the individual's rate of remuneration in the particular year, and

(iii) where subparagraph (i) is not applicable and the individual did not render services in the particular year, the remuneration received by the individual in the other year is the remuneration that the individual would have received in the other year (or a reasonable estimate thereof determined by a method acceptable to the Minister) had the individual's rate of remuneration in the other year been the amount that it is reasonable to consider would have been the individual's rate of remuneration in the particular year had the individual rendered services in the particular year;

(f) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the individual's remuneration and all or a portion of the remuneration received by the individual in the particular year is treated under the provision as if it were remuneration received in a calendar year preceding the particular year for services rendered in that preceding year, that remuneration were remuneration for services rendered in the particular year;

(g) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the individual's remuneration and the particular year is after 1989 and before 1995, benefits, to the extent that they can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the following range of annual remuneration, were excluded:

(i) where the particular year is 1990, the range from $63,889 to $86,111,

(ii) where the particular year is 1991 or 1992, the range from $69,444 to $86,111,

(iii) where the particular year is 1993, the range from $75,000 to $86,111, and

(iv) where the particular year is 1994, the range from $80,556 to $86,111;

(h) where

(i) the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the individual's remuneration,

(ii) the formula for determining the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits includes an adjustment to the individual's remuneration for one or more calendar years,

(iii) the adjustment to the individual's remuneration for a year (in this paragraph referred to as the "specified year") consists of multiplying the individual's remuneration for the specified year by a factor that does not exceed the ratio of the average wage for the year in which the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits is required to be determined to the average wage for the specified year (or a substantially similar measure of the change in the wage measure), and

(iv) the adjustment may reasonably be considered to be made to increase the individual's remuneration for the specified year to reflect, in whole or in part, increases in average wages and salaries from that year to the year in which the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits is required to be determined, the formula did not include the adjustment to the individual's remuneration for the specified year;

(i) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for calendar years other than the particular year, the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for each such year were equal to the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the particular year;

(j) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the actual amount of pension (in this paragraph referred to as the "statutory pension") payable to the individual under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial plan (as defined in section 3 of that Act), the amount of statutory pension (expressed on an annualized basis) were equal to

(i) 25 per cent of the lesser of the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the particular year and,

(A) in the case of an individual who renders services throughout the particular year on a full-time basis to employers who participate in the plan, the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the individual's remuneration for the particular year from such an employer, and

(B) in any other case, the amount that it is reasonable to consider would be determined under clause (A) if the individual had rendered services throughout the particular year on a full-time basis to employers who participate in the plan, or

(ii) at the option of the plan administrator, any other amount determined in accordance with a method for estimating the statutory pension that can be expected to result in amounts substantially similar to amounts determined under subparagraph (i);

(k) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on a pension (in this paragraph referred to as the "statutory pension") payable to the individual under Part I of the Old Age Security Act, the amount of statutory pension payable for each calendar year were equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the the full monthly pension payable under Part I of the Old Age Security Act for a month in the particular year;

(l) except as otherwise expressly permitted in writing by the Minister, where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the amount of benefits (other than public pension benefits or similar benefits of a country other than Canada) payable under another benefit provision of a pension plan or under a deferred profit sharing plan, the amounts of the other benefits were such as to maximize the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits;

(m) where the individual's lifetime retirement benefits would otherwise include benefits that the plan is required to provide by reason of a designated provision of the law of Canada or a province (within the meaning assigned by section 8513), or that the plan would be required to provide if each such provision were applicable to the plan with respect to all its members, such benefits were not included;

(n) where

(i) the individual attained 65 years of age before lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid (or are to be assumed by reason of paragraph (a) to have commenced to be paid) to the individual, and

(ii) an adjustment is made in determining the amount of those benefits for the purpose of offsetting, in whole or in part, the decrease in the value of lifetime retirement benefits that would otherwise result by reason of the deferral of those benefits after the individual attained 65 years of age,

that adjustment were not made, except to the extent that the adjustment exceeds the adjustment that would be made on an actuarially equivalent basis;

(o) except as otherwise provided by subsection (4), where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on

(i) the form of benefits provided with respect to the individual under the provision (whether or not at the option of the individual), including

(A) the benefits to be provided after the death of the individual,

(B) the amount of retirement benefits, other than lifetime retirement benefits, provided to the individual, or

(C) the extent to which the lifetime retirement benefits will be adjusted to reflect changes in the cost of living, or

(ii) circumstances that are relevant in determining the form of benefits,

the form of benefits and the circumstances were such as to maximize the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits on commencement of payment;

(p) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on whether the individual is totally and permanently disabled at the time at which retirement benefits commence to be paid to the individual, the individual were not so disabled at that time; and

(q) where lifetime retirement benefits have commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual before the end of the particular year, benefits payable as a consequence of cost-of-living adjustments described in paragraph 8303(5)(k) were disregarded.

(4) Optional forms — Where the terms of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan permit a member to elect to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits in lieu of benefits that would, in the absence of the election, be payable after the death of the member if the member dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member, paragraph (3)(o) applies as if the following elections were not available to the member:

(a) an election to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits, not exceeding additional benefits determined on an actuarially equivalent basis, in lieu of all or any portion of a guarantee that retirement benefits will be paid for a minimum period of 10 years or less, and

(b) an election to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits in lieu of retirement benefits that would otherwise be payable to an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending with the death of the individual, where

(i) the election may be made only if the life expectancy of the individual is significantly shorter than normal and has been so certified in writing by a medical doctor licensed to practise under the laws of a province or of the place where the individual resides, and

(ii) the additional benefits do not exceed additional benefits determined on an actuarially equivalent basis and on the assumption that the individual has a normal life expectancy.

History: Para. 8302(4)(b) amended by P.C. 2001-957, s. 6, May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable to 2001 et seq., except that if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act (S.C. 2000, c. 12), in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year et seq.

(5) Termination of entitlement to benefits — For the purposes of subsection (3), where an individual ceased in a calendar year to be entitled to all or part of the lifetime retirement benefits provided to the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, the normalized pension of the individual under the provision at the end of the year shall be determined on the assumption that the individual continued to be entitled to those benefits immediately after the end of the year.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(7) — Benefits include contingent benefits.

(6) Defined benefit offset — Where the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a particular defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan to a member of the plan depends on the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to the member under one or more other defined benefit provisions of registered pension plans, the benefit accrual of the member under the particular provision in respect of a calendar year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be the benefit accrual of the member under the particular provision in respect of the year if the benefits provided under the other provisions were provided under the particular provision

(b) the amount that would be the benefit accrual of the member under the other provisions in respect of the year if the other provisions were a single provision.

(7) Offset of specified multi-employer plan benefits — Where the amount of an individual's lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "supplemental provision") of a registered pension plan depends on the amount of benefits payable under a defined benefit provision of a specified multi-employer plan, the defined benefit provision of the specified multi-employer plan shall be deemed to be a money purchase provision for the purpose of determining the benefit accruals of the individual under the supplemental provision.

(8) Transition rule — career average benefits — Where

(a) on March 27, 1988 lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan were determined as the greater of benefits computed on a career average basis and benefits computed on a final or best average earnings basis,

(b) the method for determining lifetime retirement benefits under the provision has not been amended after March 27, 1988 and before the end of a particular calendar year, and

(c) it was reasonable to expect, on January 1, 1990, that the lifetime retirement benefits to be paid under the provision to at least 75 per cent of the members of the plan on that date (other than members to whom benefits do not accrue under the provision after that date) will be determined on a final or best average earnings basis, at the option of the plan administrator, benefit accruals under the provision in respect of the particular year may, where the particular year is before 1992, be determined without regard to the career average formula.

(9) Transition rule — benefit rate greater than 2 per cent — Subject to subsection (6), where

(a) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan to a member of the plan is determined, in part, by multiplying the member's remuneration (or a function of the member's remuneration) by one or more benefit accrual rates, and

(b) the largest benefit accrual rate that may be applicable is greater than 2 per cent, the member's benefit accrual under the provision in respect of 1990 or 1991 is the lesser of

(c) the member's benefit accrual otherwise determined, and

(d) 2 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount that would, if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to subparagraphs (a)(iii) and (iv) and paragraphs (b) and (c) thereof, be the member's compensation for the year from an employer who participated in the plan in the year for the benefit of the member.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8302(10) — Period of reduced remuneration.

(10) Period of reduced remuneration — For the purposes of paragraph (9)(d), where a member of a registered pension plan is provided with benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of a period in 1990 or 1991

(a) throughout which, by reason of disability, leave of absence, lay-off or other circumstance, the member rendered no services, or rendered a reduced level of services, to employers who participate in the plan, and

(b) throughout which the member received no remuneration, or a reduced rate of remuneration,

the member's compensation shall be determined on the assumption that the member received remuneration for the period equal to the amount of remuneration that it is reasonable to consider the member would have received if the member had rendered services throughout the period on a regular basis (having regard to the services rendered by the member before the period) and the member's rate of remuneration had been commensurate with the member's rate of remuneration when the member did render services on a regular basis.

(11) Anti-avoidance — Where the terms of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan can reasonably be considered to have been established or modified so that a pension credit of an individual for a calendar year under the provision would, but for this subsection, be reduced as a consequence of the application of paragraph (3)(g), that paragraph shall not apply in determining the individual's normalized pension under the provision in respect of the year.

8303. Past service pension adjustment — (1) PSPA with respect to employer — For the purpose of subsection 248(1) of the Act, "past service pension adjustment" of an individual for a calendar year in respect of an employer means the total of

(a) the accumulated past service pension adjustment (in this Part referred to as "accumulated PSPA") of the individual for the year with respect to the employer, determined as of the end of the year,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the foreign plan PSPA (determined under subsection 8308.1(5) or (6)) of the individual with respect to the employer associated with a modification of benefits in the year under a foreign plan (as defined in subsection 8308.1(1)), and

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is the specified retirement arrangement PSPA (determined under subsection 8308.3(4) or (5)) of the individual with respect to the employer associated with a modification of benefits in the year under a specified retirement arrangement (as defined in subsection 8308.3(1)).

History: Subsec. 8303(1) amended by P.C. 1996-911, s. 7, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable with respect to the determination of past service pension adjustments for 1993 et seq.

(2) Accumulated PSPA for year — For the purposes of this Part, the accumulated PSPA of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer, determined as of any time, is the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's provisional past service pension adjustment (in this Part referred to as "provisional PSPA") with respect to the employer that is associated with

(a) a past service event (other than a certifiable past service event with respect to the individual) that occurred in the preceding year, or

(b) a certifiable past service event with respect to the individual where the Minister has, in the year and before that time, issued a certification for the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act in respect of the event and the individual.

(2.1) 1991 past service events and certifications — For the purposes of subsection (2),

(a) a past service event that occurred in 1991 (including, for greater certainty, a past service event that is deemed by paragraph 8304(3)(b) to have occurred immediately after the end of 1990) shall be deemed to have occurred on January 1, 1992 and not to have occurred in 1991; and

(b) a certification issued by the Minister in 1991 shall be deemed to have been issued on January 1, 1992 and not to have been issued in 1991.

History: Subsec. 8303(2.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, s. 4, January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1990.

(3) Provisional PSPA — Subject to subsections (8) and (10) and sections 8304 and 8308, for the purposes of this Part, the provisional PSPA of an individual with respect to an employer that is associated with a past service event that occurs at a particular time in a particular calendar year is the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - C + D$$

where

A is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is, in respect of a calendar year after 1989 and before the particular year, the amount that would have been the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to the employer under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a plan that is, at the particular time, a specified multi-employer plan) had the individual's benefit entitlement under the provision in respect of the year and the employer been equal to the individual's redetermined benefit entitlement (determined as of the particular time) under the provision in respect of the year and the employer,

B is the aggregate that would be determined for A if the reference in the description of A to "determined as of the particular time" were read as a reference to "determined as of the time immediately before the particular time",

C is such portion of the amount of the individual's qualifying transfers made in connection with the past service event as is not deducted in computing the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to any other employer, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an excess money purchase transfer in relation to the individual and the past service event that is not included in determining any other provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event.

(4) Redetermined benefit entitlement — For the purposes of the description of A in subsection (3), an individual's redetermined benefit entitlement under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a calendar year and an employer, determined as of a particular time, is the amount that would be determined under section 8302 to be the individual's benefit entitlement under the provision in respect of the year and the employer if, for the purpose of computing the benefit accrual of the individual in respect of the year under the provision and, where subsection 8302(6) is applicable, under any other defined benefit provision, the amount determined under paragraph 8302(2)(a) in respect of a specific provision were equal to such portion of the individual's normalized pension (computed in accordance with subsection (5)) under the specific provision at the particular time, determined with reference to the year, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued in respect of the year.

(5) Normalized pension — For the purposes of subsection (4), the normalized pension of an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan at a particular time, determined with reference to a calendar year (in this subsection referred to as the "pension credit year"), is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits, other than excluded benefits, that would be payable to the individual under the provision immediately after the particular time if

(a) where lifetime retirement benefits have not commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual before the particular time, they commenced to be paid immediately after the particular time,

(b) where the individual had not attained 65 years of age before the time at which lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid (or are assumed by reason of paragraph (a) to have commenced to be paid) to the individual, the individual attained that age at that time,

(c) the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits were determined with regard to all past service events occurring at or before the particular time and without regard to past service events occurring after the particular time,

(d) paragraphs 8302(3)(c) to (p) (other than paragraph 8302(3)(g), where subsection 8302(11) was applicable in respect of the pension credit year and the provision or would have been applicable had all benefits provided as a consequence of past service events become provided in the pension credit year) were applied for the purpose of determining the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits and, for the purpose of those paragraphs, the pension credit year were the particular year referred to in those paragraphs, and

(e) where

(i) the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision depends on the individual's remuneration, and

(ii) all or any part of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits in respect of the pension credit year became provided as a consequence of a past service event, pursuant to terms of the provision that enable benefits to be provided to members of the plan in respect of periods of employment with employers who have not participated under the provision, the remuneration received by the individual from each such employer in respect of a period of employment in respect of which the individual is provided with benefits under the provision were remuneration received from an employer who has participated under the provision for the benefit of the individual, and, for the purposes of this subsection, the following benefits are excluded benefits:

(f) where the formula for determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable under the provision to the individual requires the calculation of an amount that is the product of a fixed rate and the duration of all or part of the individual's pensionable service, benefits payable as a direct consequence of an increase in the value of the fixed rate at any time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of increase") after the pension credit year, other than benefits

(i) provided as a consequence of a second or subsequent increase in the value of the fixed rate after the time that retirement benefits under the provision commenced to be paid to the individual, or

(ii) that would not have become provided had the value of the fixed rate been increased to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the value of the fixed rate immediately before the time of the increase,

B is the average wage for the calendar year that includes the time of the increase, and

C is

(A) if the value of the fixed rate was last increased or established in the calendar year that includes the time of the increase, the average wage for that year, or

(B) otherwise, the average wage for the year immediately preceding the calendar year that includes the time of increase,

(f.1) where the formula for determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable under the provision to the individual includes a limit that is the product of the duration of the individual's pensionable service and the lesser of a percentage of the individual's remuneration and a fixed rate, and the value of the fixed rate is increased after the pension credit year to an amount equal to the defined benefit limit for the earlier of the year in which the increase occurs and the year in which retirement benefits under the provision commenced to be paid to the individual, the portion of the benefits payable as a direct consequence of the increase that would not have become provided had the value of the fixed rate been set at the defined benefit limit for the pension credit year, if

(i) the value of the fixed rate was, immediately before the increase, equal to the defined benefit limit for the year in which the value of the fixed rate was last established, and

(ii) where the year in which the value of the fixed rate was last established precedes the year immediately preceding the year in which the increase occurs,

(A) the Minister has approved in writing the application of this paragraph in respect of the past service event,

(B) there are more than nine active members (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 8306(4)(a)) under the provision, and

(C) the plan is not a designated plan,

(f.2) where the formula for determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable under the provision to the individual includes a limit that is the product of the duration of the individual's pensionable service and the lesser of a percentage of the individual's remuneration and a fixed rate the value of which can reasonably be considered to be fixed each year as a portion of the defined benefit limit for that year, benefits payable as a direct consequence of an increase, after the pension credit year, in the value of the fixed rate to reflect the defined benefit limit for the year in which the increase occurs, if

(i) except as otherwise expressly permitted by the Minister, it is reasonable to consider that, for years after 1989, the ratio of the fixed rate to the defined benefit limit has been, and will remain, constant,

(ii) the benefits are not provided as a consequence of a second or subsequent increase in the value of the fixed rate after the time that retirement benefits under the provision commenced to be paid to the individual,

(iii) the Minister has approved in writing the application of this paragraph in respect of the past service event, and

(iv) the plan is not a designated plan,

(g) where

(i) the provision is a flat benefit provision,

(ii) at the particular time, the amount (expressed on an annual basis) of lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to each member in respect of pensionable service in each calendar year does not exceed 40 per cent of the defined benefit limit for the year that includes the particular time,

(iii) the conditions in subsection 8306(2) are satisfied in respect of the provision and the past service event in connection with which the normalized pension is being calculated, and

(iv) only one fixed rate is applicable in determining the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits, benefits provided as a direct consequence of an increase in the value of the fixed rate at any time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of increase") after the pension credit year, other than benefits

(v) provided as a consequence of a second or subsequent increase in the value of the fixed rate after the time that retirement benefits under the provision commenced to be paid to the individual, or

(vi) that would not have become provided had the value of the fixed rate been increased to the greater of

(A) the greatest of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is a value of the fixed rate in the period beginning on January 1, 1984 and ending immediately before the time of increase,

B is the average wage for the calendar year that includes the time of increase, and

C is the average wage for the later of 1984 and the calendar year in which the value of the fixed rate used for A was first effective, and

(B) the amount determined by the formula

$$D + (E \times F)$$

where

D is the value of the fixed rate immediately before the time of increase,

E is the amount by which the value of the fixed rate used for D would have to be increased to provide an increase in the individual's annual lifetime retirement benefits equal to $18 for each year of pensionable service, and

F is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of the period beginning on the later of January 1, 1984 and the day on which the value of the fixed rate used for D was first effective and ending on the day that includes the time of increase;

(h) where the provision is a flat benefit provision, benefits provided as a direct consequence of an increase at any time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of increase") after the pension credit year in the value of a fixed rate under the provision where

(i) the value of the fixed rate was increased pursuant to an agreement made before 1992, and

(ii) at the time the agreement was made, it was reasonable to expect that the percentage increase in the value of the fixed rate would approximate or be less than the percentage increase in the average wage from the calendar year in which the value of the fixed rate was last increased before the time of increase (or, if the increase is the first increase, the calendar year in which the initial value of the fixed rate was first applicable) to the calendar year that includes the time of increase,

(i) where the provision is a flat benefit provision under which the amount of each member's retirement benefits depends on the member's job category or rate of pay in such a manner that the ratio of the amount of lifetime retirement benefits to remuneration does not significantly increase as remuneration increases, benefits provided as a direct consequence of a change, after the pension credit year, in the individual's job category or rate of pay,

(j) where

(i) the individual's pensionable service under the provision ends before the particular time,

(ii) the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision have been adjusted by a cost-of-living or similar adjustment in respect of the period (in this paragraph referred to as the "deferral period") beginning at the latest of

(A) the time at which the individual's pensionable service under the provision ends,

(B) if the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the individual's remuneration, the end of the most recent period for which the individual received remuneration that is taken into account in determining the individual's lifetime retirement benefits,

(C) if the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the individual's remuneration and the remuneration is adjusted as described in paragraph 8302(3)(h), the end of the period in respect of which the adjustment is made, and

(D) if the formula for determining the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits requires the calculation of an amount that is the product of a fixed rate and the duration of all or part of the individual's pensionable service (or other measure of services rendered by the individual), the time as of which the value of the fixed rate applicable with respect to the individual was established, and ending at the earlier of the particular time and the time, if any, at which lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual, and

(iii) the adjustment is warranted, having regard to all prior such adjustments, by the increase in the Consumer Price Index or in the wage measure from the commencement of the deferral period to the time the adjustment was made,

benefits payable as a consequence of the adjustment,

(k) benefits payable as a consequence of a cost-of-living adjustment made after the time lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual, where the adjustment

(i) is warranted, having regard to all prior such adjustments, by the increase in the Consumer Price Index from that time to the time at which the adjustment was made, or

(ii) is a periodic adjustment described in subparagraph 8503(2)(a)(ii), and

(l) such portion of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits as

(i) would not otherwise be excluded in determining the individual's normalized pension,

(ii) may reasonably be considered to be attributable to cost-of-living adjustments or to adjustments made by reason of increases in a general measure of salaries and wages (other than increases in such a measure after the time at which lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual), and

(iii) is acceptable to the Minister.

(7.1) Excess money purchase transfer — Where lifetime retirement benefits have, as a consequence of a past service event, become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan) in respect of a period (in this subsection referred to as the "past service period") that

(a) was previously pensionable service of the individual under a particular defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan),

(b) ceased to be pensionable service of the individual under the particular provision as a result of the payment of a single amount, all or part of which was transferred on behalf of the individual from the particular provision to a registered retirement savings plan, a registered retirement income fund, a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that was, at the time of the transfer, a specified multi-employer plan,

(c) has not, at any time after the payment of the single amount and before the past service event, been pensionable service of the individual under any defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan), and

(d) is not, for the purpose of subsection 8304(5), a qualifying past service period in relation to the individual and the past service event, the amount determined by the formula

is, for the purpose of the description of D in subsection (3), an excess money purchase transfer in relation to the individual and the past service event, where

A is the portion of the amount transferred, as described in paragraph (b), that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits in respect of the portion of the past service period that is after 1989, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a pension credit, or the grossed-up amount of a provisional PSPA, of the individual that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits previously provided under the particular provision in respect of the past service period.

(8) Specified multi-employer plan — Where, in a calendar year, an individual makes a contribution (other than an excluded contribution) in respect of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan, and the contribution

(a) is made in respect of a period after 1989 and before the year, and

(b) is not included in determining the individual's pension credit for the year with respect to any employer under the provision, the individual's provisional PSPA with respect to an employer who participates in the plan, associated with the payment of the contribution, is the portion of the contribution that is not included in the individual's provisional PSPA with respect to any other employer who participates in the plan, and, for the purpose of this subsection, the plan administrator shall determine the portion of the contribution to be included in the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to each employer.

Para. 8304(2)(d) is applicable with respect to the determination of pension credits for 1990 et seq. Para. 8304(2)(e) is applicable with respect to the determination of pension credits for 1993 et seq., except that amended para. (e) does not apply with respect to the determination of an individual's pension credits for 1993 under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan, or under a deferred profit sharing plan, where the individual ceased, on or before April 5, 1994, to have any rights to benefits under the provision or the plan, as the case may be, and no amounts were allocated to the individual under the provision or the plan, as the case may be, after April 5, 1994.

(3) Past service benefits in year of past service event — Subject to subsection (4), where, as a consequence of a past service event that occurs at a particular time in a calendar year, benefits (in this subsection and subsection (4) referred to as "past service benefits") become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period in the year and before the particular time that, immediately before the past service event, was not pensionable service of the individual under the provision, the following rules apply, except to the extent that the Minister has waived in writing their application in respect of the plan:

(a) each pension credit of the individual under the provision for the year shall be determined as if the past service benefits had not become provided to the individual;

(b) where the year is 1990, the past service event shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Part, to have occurred immediately after the end of the year;

(c) where the year is after 1990, each provisional PSPA of the individual associated with the past service event as a consequence of which the past service benefits became provided shall be determined as if the past service event had occurred immediately after the end of the year;

(d) where information that is required for the computation of a provisional PSPA referred to in paragraph (c) is not determinable until after the time at which the provisional PSPA is computed, reasonable assumptions shall be made in respect of such information; and

(e) subsection 147.1(10) of the Act shall apply in respect of the past service benefits to the extent that that subsection would apply if the past service event had occurred immediately after the end of the year.

(4) Exceptions — Subsection (3) does not apply where

(a) the past service benefits become provided in circumstances where subsection (1) or (2) is applicable; or

(b) the period in respect of which the past service benefits are provided was not, at any time before the past service event,

(i) pensionable service of the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, or

(ii) a period in respect of which a contribution was made on behalf of, or an amount (other than an amount in respect of earnings of a plan) was allocated to, the individual under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or under a deferred profit sharing plan.

(c) [Repealed]

History: Para. 8304(4)(c) repealed, and para. 8304(4)(b) amended by striking out the reference to "(in this subsection referred to as the "past service period")", by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 7(1), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable with respect to past service events that occur after 1996.

Subpara. 8304(4)(b)(ii) and para. 8304(4)(c) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsecs. 5(3) and (4), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995. Subpara. 8304(4)(b)(ii) is applicable with respect to past service benefits that become provided after April 5, 1994 and para. 8304(4)(c) is applicable with respect to past service benefits that become provided after August 29, 1990.

(5) Modified PSPA calculation — Subject to subsection (10), if

(a) lifetime retirement benefits have, as a consequence of a past service event, become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of one or more qualifying past service periods in relation to the individual and the past service event, and

(b) the benefits are considered to be attributable to employment of the individual with a single employer, the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to the employer that is associated with the past service event is the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B + C - D$$

where

A is the provisional PSPA that would be determined if

(a) this subsection did not apply,

(b) all former benefits in relation to the individual and the past service event had ceased to be provided at the time the past service event occurred,

(c) all former benefits in relation to the individual and the past service event were considered to be attributable to employment of the individual with the employer, and

(d) the value of C in subsection 8303(3) were nil;

B is the total of all amounts each of which is a non-vested PA amount in respect of the individual and the past service event;

C is the total of all amounts each of which is a money purchase transfer in relation to the individual and the past service event; and

D is the amount of the individual's qualifying transfers made in connection with the past service event.

Subsec. 8304(5) amended by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 7(2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable to the determination of provisional PSPAs that are associated with past service events that occur after 1997.

The description of C in subsec. 8304(5) is amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 5(5), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to past service events occurring after August 29, 1990.

(5.1) Definitions for subsection (5) — For the purpose of subsection (5), where

(a) lifetime retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as "past service benefits") have, as a consequence of a past service event occurring at a particular time, become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period that

(i) immediately before the particular time, was not pensionable service of the individual under the provision, and

(ii) is, or was, pensionable service of the individual under another defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "former provision") of a registered pension plan,

(b) either

(i) the individual has not, at any time after 1996 and before the particular time, been a member in relation to the former provision,

(ii) the individual ceased, at the particular time, to be a member in relation to the former provision, or

(iii) the past service event is a certifiable past service event and the individual is to cease being a member in relation to the former provision no later than 90 days after the day on which a certification of the Minister is issued for the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act in respect of the past service benefits, and

(c) lifetime retirement benefits to which the individual is or was entitled under the former provision in respect of the period have not been taken into account under subsection (5) as former benefits in determining a provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with any other past service event,

the following rules apply:

(d) the period is a qualifying past service period in relation to the individual and the past service event,

(e) lifetime retirement benefits to which the individual is or was entitled under the former provision in respect of the period are former benefits in relation to the individual and the past service event,

(f) where subsection 8301(8) has applied in respect of the determination of a pension credit of the individual under the former provision with respect to an employer for a year that includes any part of the period, the amount determined by the formula is a non-vested PA amount in respect of the individual and the past service event, where

A is the amount that would have been the individual's pension credit under the former provision for the year with respect to the employer if subsection 8301(8) had not applied, and

B is the individual's pension credit under the former provision for the year with respect to the employer, and

(g) the amount determined by the formula is a money purchase transfer in relation to the individual and the past service event, where

A – B

A is the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount that was transferred, at or before the particular time, on behalf of the individual from the former provision to a registered retirement savings plan, a registered retirement income fund, a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that was, at the time of the transfer, a specified multi-employer plan, or

(ii) an amount that is to be paid or otherwise made available under the former provision with respect to the individual after the particular time, other than an amount that is to be transferred to fund the past service benefits or paid directly to the individual, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits in respect of the portion of the period that is after 1989, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is, in respect of an employer with respect to which a provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event is determined under subsection (5), the amount, if any, by which

(i) the portion of the value determined for B in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the individual's provisional PSPA with respect to the employer, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits provided in respect of the period

(ii) the portion of the value determined for A in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the individual's provisional PSPA with respect to the employer, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits provided in respect of the period.

History: Subsec. 8304(5.1) added by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 7(2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable to the determination of provisional PSPAs that are associated with past service events that occur after 1997.

(6) Reinstatement of pre-1997 benefits — Where lifetime retirement benefits have, as a consequence of a past service event, become provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period that

(a) was previously pensionable service of the individual under the provision,

(b) ceased to be pensionable service of the individual under the provision as a consequence of the individual ceasing before 1997 to be a member in relation to the provision, and

(c) has not, at any time after 1996 and before the past service event, been pensionable service of the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, each provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event shall be determined as if all benefits provided to the individual under the provision before 1997 in respect of the period had been provided to the individual under another defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in relation to which the individual has not, at any time after 1996, been a member.

History: Subsec. 8304(6) amended by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 7(2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable to the determination of provisional PSPAs that are associated with past service events that occur after 1997.

(7) Two or more employers — Where

(a) lifetime retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as "past service benefits") provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan as a consequence of a past service event are attributable to employment of the individual with two or more employers (each of which is, in this subsection, referred to as a "current employer"), and

(b) subsection (5) would, but for paragraph (5)(b), apply in respect of the determination of each provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event, each such provisional PSPA shall be determined in accordance with the formula set out in subsection (5), except that

(c) in determining the amount A,

(i) the former benefits of the individual shall be considered to be attributable to employment of the individual with the individual's current employers, and

(ii) the portion of the former benefits attributable to employment with each current employer shall be determined by the administrator of the pension plan under which the past service benefits are provided in a manner that is consistent with the association of the past service benefits with each current employer,

(d) the amounts B and C shall be included in computing only one provisional PSPA of the individual, as determined by the administrator of the pension plan under which the past service benefits are provided, and

(e) the amount D that is deducted in computing the individual's provisional PSPA with respect to a particular employer shall equal such portion of the individual's qualifying transfers made in connection with the past service event as is not deducted in computing the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to any other employer.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8303(6) — Meaning of qualifying transfers.

(8) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 8304(8) repealed by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 7(4), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable to the determination of provisional PSPAs that are associated with past service events that occur after 1997.

(9) Specified multi-employer plans — Except in subparagraph (4)(b)(i), a reference in this section to a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan at any time does not, unless expressly provided, include a defined benefit provision of a plan that is, at that time, a specified multi-employer plan.

(10) Individual pension plans — If there is a past service event in relation to a defined benefit provision under an individual pension plan, the provisional PSPA of an individual with respect to an employer that is associated with the past service event is the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the greater of

(a) the provisional PSPA that would be determined if

(i) this subsection did not apply,

(ii) the value of C in subsection 8303(3) were nil, and

(iii) the value of D in subsection 8304(5) were nil, and

(b) the lesser of

(i) the total of

(A) the proportion of the fair market value of all property held in connection with the individual's designated savings arrangements at the time of the past service event, that

(I) the total of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is pensionable service of the individual under the provision

is of

(II) the lesser of 35 and the number of years by which the individual's age in whole years at the time of the past service event exceeds 18, and

(B) the individual's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the year immediately preceding the calendar year that includes the past service event, and

(ii) the actuarial liabilities of the retirement benefits associated with the past service event, determined on the basis of the funding assumptions specified under subsections 8515(6) and (7), at the same effective date as the actuarial valuation that forms the basis for the recommendation referred to in subsection 147.2(2) of the Act that is not earlier than the calendar year of the past service event; and

B is the amount of the individual's qualifying transfers made in connection with the past service event.

Interpretation Bulletins [Reg. 8304]: IT-124R6: Contributions to registered retirement savings plans.

8304.1 Pension adjustment reversal — (1) Total pension adjustment reversal — For the purpose of subsection 248(1) of the Act, an individual's "total pension adjustment reversal" for a calendar year means the total of all amounts each of which is the pension adjustment reversal (in this Part and Part LXXXIV referred to as "PAR") determined in connection with the individual's termination in the year from a deferred profit sharing plan or from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8304.1(2) — Termination during 1997 deemed to be in 1998; Reg. 8311 — PAR rounded to nearest dollar.

Forms: RC4137: Pension adjustment reversal guide; T4104: Past service pension adjustment guide.

(2) Termination in 1997 — For the purpose of subsection (1) and the description of R in paragraph 8307(2)(b), where an individual terminates in 1997 from a deferred profit sharing plan or from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan, the termination is deemed to have occurred in 1998.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8311 — PAR rounded to nearest dollar.

(3) PAR — deferred profit sharing plan — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXIV and subject to subsection (12), an individual's PAR determined in connection with the individual's termination from a deferred profit sharing plan is

(a) if the conditions in subsection (13) are satisfied with respect to the termination, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(i) included in determining a pension credit of the individual under the plan, and

(ii) to which the individual has ceased, at or before the time of the termination, to have any rights,

but does not include any amount to which a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual has acquired rights as a consequence of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership; and

(b) in any other case, nil.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8311 — PAR rounded to nearest dollar.

(4) PAR — money purchase provision — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXIV and subject to subsection (12), an individual's PAR determined in connection with the individual's termination from a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan is

(a) if the conditions in subsection (14) are satisfied with respect to the termination, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(i) included in determining a pension credit of the individual under the provision, and

(ii) to which the individual has ceased, at or before the time of the termination, to have any rights,

but does not include any amount to which a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual has acquired rights as a consequence of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership; and

(b) in any other case, nil.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8500(8)(c) — Non-member benefits ignored in determining pension adjustment; Reg. 8311 — PAR rounded to nearest dollar.

(5) PAR — defined benefit provision — For the purposes of this Part and Part LXXXIV and subject to subsections (6) and (12), an individual's PAR determined in connection with the individual's termination from a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan is

(a) where the conditions in subsection (14) are satisfied with respect to the termination, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is, in respect of a particular year that is the year in which the termination occurs or that is a preceding year, the lesser of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the pension credit of the individual under the provision for the particular year with respect to an employer, and

(ii) the RRSP dollar limit for the year following the particular year,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of the grossed-up amount of a provisional PSPA (other than a provisional PSPA determined in accordance with subsection 8303(8)) of the individual that is associated with a past service event occurring before the time of the termination that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits provided under the provision,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is a specified distribution made in respect of the individual and the provision at or before the time of the termination, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is a PA transfer amount in relation to the individual's termination from the provision; and

(b) in any other case, nil.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 8300(11)(c) — Deemed specified distribution; Reg. 8304.1(6) — Defined benefit pension credits; Reg. 8304.1(7) — Meaning of grossed-up amount of provisional PSPA; Reg. 8304.1(8) — Meaning of specified distribution; Reg. 8304.1(10) — PA transfer amount; Reg. 8304.1(11) — Special 1997 PA transfer amount; Reg. 8304.1(14) — Terminations conditions; Reg. 8500(8)(c) — Non-member benefits ignored in determining pension adjustment.

(6) Defined benefit pension credits — For the purpose of subparagraph (i) of the description of A in paragraph (5)(a), in determining an individual's PAR in connection with the individual's termination from a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan,

(a) the individual's pension credits under the provision for the year in which the termination occurs shall be determined without regard to benefits provided after the time of the termination; and

(b) the individual's pension credits under the provision for each year in which the plan was a specified multi-employer plan are deemed to be nil.

(7) Grossed-up PSPA amount — For the purposes of the descriptions of B in subsection 8303(7.1) and paragraph (5)(a), the grossed-up amount of an individual's provisional PSPA with respect to an employer that is associated with a past service event is the amount that would be the provisional PSPA if

(a) the values of C and D in subsections 8303(3) and 8304(5) were nil; and

(b) the words "at the time the past service event occurred" in paragraph (b) of the description of A in subsection 8304(5) were read as "immediately before the time the past service event occurred".

(8) Specified distribution — For the purpose of the description of C in paragraph (5)(a), an amount paid under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan with respect to an individual is a specified distribution made in respect of the individual and the provision at the time it is paid, except to the extent that

(a) it can reasonably be considered to be a payment of benefits in respect of any period before 1990;

(b) it is transferred to another registered pension plan (other than a plan that is, at the time of the transfer, a specified multi-employer plan) in accordance with subsection 147.3(3) of the Act;

(c) it is transferred to another defined benefit provision of the plan where the transfer would, if the provision and the other provision were in separate registered pension plans, constitute a transfer in accordance with subsection 147.3(3) of the Act;

(d) it is a payment in respect of an actuarial surplus;

(e) it is

(i) a return of contributions made by the individual under the provision, where the contributions are returned pursuant to an amendment to the plan that also reduces the future contributions that would otherwise be required to be made under the provision by members of the plan and that does not reduce benefits provided under the provision, or

(ii) a payment of interest in respect of contributions that are returned as described in subparagraph (i);

(f) it can reasonably be considered to be a payment of benefits provided in respect of a period throughout which the plan was a specified multi-employer plan; or

(g) it can reasonably be considered to be a payment of benefits provided in respect of a period throughout which the individual was employed outside Canada, where the benefits became provided as a consequence of a past service event in respect of which the Minister had consented to the application of subsection 8303(10) for the purpose of determining the individual's provisional PSPAs.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8304.1(9) — Property made available deemed to be paid; Reg. 8304.1(15) — Marriage breakdown — benefits acquired by spouse.

(9) Property made available — Where property held in connection with a particular defined benefit provision of a pension plan is made available at any time to provide benefits with respect to an individual under another benefit provision of a pension plan, subsection (8) applies as if the amount of the property had been paid under the particular provision at that time with respect to the individual.

(10) PA transfer amount — Where

(a) an individual has terminated, at a particular time after 1996, from a defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "former provision") of a registered pension plan,

(b) lifetime retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as the "past service benefits") have, as a consequence of a past service event occurring at or before the particular time, become provided to the individual under another defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period that is or was pensionable service of the individual under the former provision, and

(c) lifetime retirement benefits to which the individual is or was entitled under the former provision in respect of the period have, under subsection 8304(5), been taken into account as former benefits in determining a provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event,

for the purposes of subsection 8406(5) and the description of D in paragraph (5)(a), the lesser of

(d) the portion of the value determined for A in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the provisional PSPA, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the past service benefits, and is a PA transfer amount in relation to the individual's termination from the former provision.

(e) the portion of the value determined for B in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the provisional PSPA, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the former benefits

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(7) — Benefits include contingent benefits; Reg. 8304.1(11) — Special 1997 PA transfer amount.

(11) Special 1997 PA transfer amount — Where

(a) an individual has terminated, at a particular time in 1997, from a particular defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan,

(b) lifetime retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as the "past service benefits") have, as a consequence of a past service event that occurred after the particular time and before 1998, become provided to the individual under the particular provision, or under another defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, in respect of a period that was previously pensionable service of the individual under the particular provision, and

(c) lifetime retirement benefits to which the individual was previously entitled under the particular provision in respect of the period have, under subsection 8304(5), been taken into account as former benefits in determining a provisional PSPA of the individual that is associated with the past service event, for the purposes of subsection 8406(5) and the description of D in paragraph (5)(a), the lesser of

(d) the portion of the value determined for A in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the provisional PSPA, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the past service benefits, and

(e) the portion of the value determined for B in subsection 8303(3), for the purpose of determining the provisional PSPA, that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the former benefits is a PA transfer amount in relation to the individual's termination from the particular provision at the particular time.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(7) — Benefits include contingent benefits.

(12) Subsequent membership — Where an individual has ceased at a particular time to be a member in relation to a deferred profit sharing plan or a benefit provision of a registered pension plan and subsequently becomes a member in relation to the plan or the provision, as the case may be, the following rules apply in determining the individual's PAR in connection with any subsequent termination from the plan or the provision, as the case may be:

(a) in the case of a deferred profit sharing plan or money purchase provision, any amounts included in a pension credit of the individual under the plan or provision because of an allocation to the individual before the particular time shall be disregarded; and

(b) in the case of a defined benefit provision,

(i) the value of A in paragraph (5)(a) shall be determined without regard to any pension credit, or portion of a pension credit, that is attributable to benefits provided under the provision before the particular time,

(ii) the value of B in paragraph (5)(a) shall be determined without regard to any provisional PSPA that is associated with a past service event that occurred before the particular time, and

(iii) the value of C in paragraph (5)(a) shall be determined without regard to any specified distribution (as defined in subsection (8)) made at or before the particular time.

(13) Termination conditions — deferred profit sharing plan — For the purpose of paragraph (3)(a), the conditions with respect to an individual's termination from a deferred profit sharing plan are the following

(a) the termination occurs after 1996 and otherwise than because of death; and

(b) no payments described in subparagraph 147(2)(k)(v) of the Act have been made out of or under the plan with respect to the individual.

(14) Termination conditions — registered pension plan — For the purposes of paragraphs (4)(a) and (5)(a), the conditions with respect to an individual's termination from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan are the following:

(a) the termination occurs after 1996 and otherwise than because of death; and

(b) no retirement benefits have been paid under the provision with respect to the individual (other than retirement benefits paid with respect to the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner as a consequence of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership).

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(11)(b) — Termination conditions deemed not satisfied.

(15) Breakdown of marriage or common-law partnership — Where

(a) before a member terminates from a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, there has been a breakdown of the member's marriage or common-law partnership, and

(b) as a consequence of the breakdown,

(i) the member has ceased to have rights to all or a portion of the benefits provided under the provision with respect to the member, and

(ii) an individual who is the member's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner has acquired rights under the provision in respect of those benefits, for the purpose of subsection (8),

(c) any amount paid under the provision with respect to the rights acquired by the individual (other than a single amount paid under the provision at or before the time of the member's termination in full satisfaction of the rights acquired by the individual) is deemed not to have been paid with respect to the member, and

(d) unless a single amount has been paid under the provision at or before the time of the member's termination in full satisfaction of the rights acquired by the individual, a single amount equal to the present value (at the time the member terminates from the provision) of the benefits to which the member has ceased to have rights as a consequence of the breakdown is deemed to have been paid to the member at that time under the provision in full satisfaction of those benefits.

History: Paras. 8304.1(3)(a), (4)(a), the heading before subsec. (15), and subpara. (15)(b)(ii) amended by P.C. 2001-957, s. 7, May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable to 2001 et seq., except that if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act (S.C. 2000, c. 12), in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year et seq.

8305. Association of benefits with employers — (1) Where, for the purposes of this Part, it is necessary to determine the portion of an amount of benefits provided with respect to a member of a registered pension plan under a defined benefit provision of the plan that is attributable to the member's employment with a particular employer, the following rules apply, subject to subsection 8308(7):

(a) the determination shall be made by the plan administrator;

(b) benefits provided as a consequence of services rendered by the member to an employer who participates in the plan shall be regarded as attributable to employment with that employer, whether the benefits become provided at the time the services are rendered or at a subsequent time; and

(c) the determination shall be made in a manner that

(i) is reasonable in the circumstances,

(ii) is not inconsistent with such determinations made previously, and

(iii) results in the full amount of benefits being attributed to employment with one or more employers who participate in the plan.

(2) Where the administrator of a registered pension plan does not comply with the requirements of subsection (1) in connection with the determination of an amount under this Part at any time,

(a) the plan becomes, at that time, a revocable plan; and

(b) the Minister shall make any determinations referred to in subsection (1) that the administrator fails to make, or fails to make in accordance with that subsection.

8306. Exemption from certification — (1) For the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act as it applies in respect of a past service event and the benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan with respect to a particular member of the plan, a certification of the Minister is not required where

(a) each provisional PSPA of the member that is associated with the past service event is nil;

(b) the conditions in subsection (2) or (3) are satisfied;

(c) the conditions in subsection (2) or (3) are substantially satisfied and the Minister waives in writing the requirement for certification;

(c.1) paragraph 8303(5)(f.1) was applicable in determining the provisional PSPA of the member that is associated with the past service event; or

(d) the past service event is deemed by paragraph 8304(3)(b) to have occurred immediately after the end of 1990.

History: Para. 8306(1)(c.1) added by P.C. 2005-1508, s. 19, August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable in respect of past service events that occur after 2005. It also applies in respect of past service events that occur after 2003 and before 2006 if the value of the fixed rate immediately before the past service event was equal to or greater than $1,715.

(2) The following are conditions for the purposes of paragraphs (1)(b) and (c) and 8303(5)(g):

(a) there are more than 9 active members under the provision,

(b) no more than 25 per cent of the active members under the provision are specified active members under the provision;

(c) for all or substantially all of the active members under the provision, the amount of lifetime retirement benefits accrued under the provision has increased as a consequence of the past service event;

(d) where there is a specified active member under the provision;

(i) the amounts C and D in subparagraph (ii) are greater than nil, and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula A/C does not exceed the amount determined by the formula B/D

where

A is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of lifetime retirement benefits accrued under the provision, immediately after the past service event, to a specified active member under the provision,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of lifetime retirement benefits accrued under the provision, immediately after the past service event, to an active member (other than a specified active member) under the provision,

C is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of lifetime retirement benefits accrued under the provision, immediately before the past service event, to a specified active member under the provision, and

D is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of lifetime retirement benefits accrued under the provision, immediately before the past service event, to an active member (other than a specified active member) under the provision; and

(e) the benefits provided under the provision as a consequence of the past service event to members of the plan who are not active members under the provision are not more advantageous than such benefits provided to active members under the provision.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8306(4) — Meaning of active member and specified active member.

(3) The following are conditions for the purposes of paragraphs (1)(b) and (c):

(a) the past service event consists of the establishment of the provision;

(b) there are more than 9 active members under the provision;

(c) no more than 25 per cent of the active members under the provision are specified active members under the provision;

(d) the member is not a specified active member under the provision;

(e) if the member is not an active member under the provision, for each of the 5 years immediately preceding the calendar year in which the past service event occurs,

(i) the member was not connected at any time in the year with an employer who participates in the plan, and

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the remuneration of the member for the year from an employer who participates in the plan did not exceed 2½ times the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the year; and

(f) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a provisional PSPA of the member associated with the past service event does not exceed ½ of the money purchase limit for the year in which the past service event occurs.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8306(4) — Meaning of active member and specified active member.

(4) For the purposes of this section as it applies in respect of a past service event,

(a) a member of a pension plan is an active member under a defined benefit provision of the plan if

(i) lifetime retirement benefits accrue under the provision to the member in respect of a period that immediately follows the time the past service event occurs, or

(ii) the member is entitled, immediately after the time the past service event occurs, to lifetime retirement benefits under the provision in respect of a period before that time and it is reasonable to expect, at that time, that lifetime retirement benefits will accrue under the provision to the member in respect of a period after that time; and

(b) an active member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan is a specified active member under the provision if

(i) the member is connected, at the time of the past service event, with an employer who participates in the plan, or

(ii) it is reasonable to expect, at the time of the past service event, that the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the remuneration of the member for the calendar year in which the past service event occurs from an employer who participates in the plan will exceed 2½ times the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the year.

8307. Certification in respect of past service events — (1) Application for certification — Application for a certification of the Minister for the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act shall be made in prescribed form by the administrator of the registered pension plan to which the certification relates.

Forms: T1004: Applying for the certification of a provisional PSPA.

(2) Prescribed condition — For the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act in respect of a past service event and benefits with respect to a particular member of a registered pension plan, the prescribed condition is that, at the particular time the Minister issues the certification,

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the member's provisional PSPA with respect to an employer associated with the past service event does not exceed

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$$8{,}000 + A + B + C - D + R$$

where

A is the member's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the year immediately preceding the calendar year (in this paragraph referred to as the "particular year") that includes the particular time,

B is the amount of the member's qualifying withdrawals made for the purposes of the certification, determined as of the particular time,

C is the amount of the member's PSPA withdrawals for the particular year, determined as of the particular time, and

D is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the accumulated PSPA of the member for the particular year with respect to an employer, determined as of the particular time.

R is the total of all amounts each of which is a PAR determined in connection with the individual's termination in the particular year from a deferred profit sharing plan, or from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan, and in respect of which an information return has been filed under section 8402.01 with the Minister before the particular time.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas; Reg. 8304.1(2) — Termination during 1997 deemed to be in 1998; Reg. 8307(3) — Meaning of qualifying withdrawals; Reg. 8307(5) — PSPA withdrawals.

History: The formula amended, and the description of R added, in para. 8307(2)(b) by P.C. 1998-2256, subsecs. 9(1), (2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable to the 1998 and subsequent calendar years.

(3) Qualifying withdrawals — For the purposes of paragraph (5)(a) and the description of B in paragraph (2)(b), the amount of an individual's qualifying withdrawals made for the purposes of a certification in respect of a past service event, determined as of a particular time, is the lesser of

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is such portion of an amount withdrawn by the individual from a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) of the Act) at the time of the withdrawal as

(i) is eligible, pursuant to subsection (4), to be designated for the purposes of the certification, and

(ii) is designated by the individual for the purposes of the certification by filing a prescribed form containing prescribed information with the Minister before the particular time, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to an employer associated with the past service event

exceeds

(ii) the amount, positive or negative, determined by the formula

where A, C, D and R have the same values as they have at the particular time for the purposes of the formula in paragraph (2)(b).

(4) Eligibility of withdrawn amount for designation — An amount withdrawn by an individual from a registered retirement savings plan is eligible to be designated for the purposes of a certification, except to the extent that the following rules provide otherwise:

(a) the amount is not eligible to be designated if the amount was

(i) withdrawn from a registered retirement savings plan in a calendar year other than the year in which the designation would be filed with the Minister or either of the 2 immediately preceding calendar years, or

(ii) withdrawn in circumstances that entitle the individual to a deduction under paragraph 60(l) of the Act; and

(b) the amount is not eligible to be designated to the extent that the amount was

(i) designated by the individual for the purposes of any other certification, or

(ii) deducted under section 60.2 or subsection 146(8.2) or 147.3(13.1) of the Act in computing the individual's income for any taxation year.

(5) PSPA withdrawals — For the purposes of the description of C in paragraph (2)(b) and the description of G in the definition "net past service pension adjustment" in subsection 146(1) of the Act, the amount of an individual's PSPA withdrawals for a calendar year, determined as of a particular time, is

(a) if the Minister has issued, in the year and before the particular time, a certification for the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act with respect to the individual, the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of the individual's qualifying withdrawals made for the purposes of a certification that the Minister has issued in the year and before the particular time; and

(b) in any other case, nil.

(7) Prescribed premium — For the purpose of subsection 146(6.1) of the Act, a premium paid by a taxpayer under a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) of the Act) at the time the premium is paid is a prescribed premium for a particular taxation year of the taxpayer where the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) the taxpayer withdrew an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "withdrawn amount") in the particular year from a registered retirement savings plan for the purposes of a certification in respect of a past service event;

(b) all or part of the withdrawn amount is a prescribed withdrawal pursuant to subsection (6);

(c) it is subsequently determined that

(i) as a consequence of reasonable error, the taxpayer withdrew a greater amount than necessary for the purposes of the certification, or

(ii) as a consequence of the application of paragraph 147.1(3)(b) of the Act, it was not necessary for the taxpayer to withdraw any amount;

(d) the premium is paid by the taxpayer in the 12-month period immediately following the time at which the determination referred to in paragraph (c) is made;

(e) the amount of the premium does not exceed such portion of the withdrawn amount as is a prescribed withdrawal pursuant to subsection (6) and is determined to have been an unnecessary withdrawal;

(f) the taxpayer files with the Minister, on or before the day on or before which the taxpayer is required (or would be required if tax under Part I of the Act were payable by the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer pays the premium) by section 150 of the Act to file a return of income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer pays the premium, a written notice in which the taxpayer designates the premium as a recontribution of all or any portion of the withdrawn amount; and

(g) the taxpayer has not designated, pursuant to paragraph (f), any other premium as a recontribution of all or any portion of the withdrawn amount.

8308. Special rules — (1) Benefits provided before registration — For the purposes of this Part and subsection 147.1(10) of the Act, benefits that became provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan before the day as of which the plan becomes a registered pension plan shall be deemed to have become provided as a consequence of an event occurring on that day and not to have been provided before that day.

(2) Prescribed amount for connected persons — Where

(a) at any particular time in a calendar year after 1990,

(i) an individual becomes a member of a registered pension plan, or

(ii) lifetime retirement benefits commence to accrue to the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan following a period in which lifetime retirement benefits did not accrue to the individual,

(b) the individual is connected at the particular time, or was connected at any time after 1989, with an employer who participates in the plan for the benefit of the individual,

(c) the individual did not have a pension adjustment for 1990 that was greater than nil, and

(d) this subsection did not apply before the particular time to prescribe an amount with respect to the individual, an amount equal to the lesser of $11,500 and 18% of the individual's earned income (as defined in subsection 146(1) of the Act) for 1990 is prescribed with respect to the individual for the calendar year that includes the particular time for the purposes of the descriptions of B in the definitions "RRSP deduction limit" and "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) of the Act and the description of B in paragraph 204.2(1.1)(b) of the Act.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-124R6: Contributions to registered retirement savings plans.

(3) Remuneration for prior years — Where an individual who is entitled to benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan receives remuneration at a particular time in a particular calendar year no part of which is pensionable service of the individual under the provision and the remuneration is treated for the purpose of determining benefits under the provision as if it were remuneration received in one or more calendar years preceding the particular calendar year for services rendered in those preceding years, the following rules apply:

(a) such portion of the remuneration as is treated under the provision as if it were remuneration received in a preceding calendar year for services rendered in that preceding year shall be deemed, for the purpose of determining, as of the particular time and any subsequent time, a redetermined benefit entitlement of the individual under the provision, to have been received in that preceding year for services rendered in that preceding year; and

(b) the pension credit of the individual for the particular year under the provision with respect to an employer is the aggregate of

(i) the amount that would otherwise be the individual's pension credit for the particular year, and

(ii) the amount that would, if the payment of the remuneration were a past service event, be the provisional PSPA (or a reasonable estimate thereof determined in a manner acceptable to the Minister) of the individual with respect to the employer that is associated with the payment of the remuneration.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(7)) — Benefits include contingent benefits.

(4) Period of reduced services — retroactive benefits — Where,

(a) as a consequence of a past service event, retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as "retroactive benefits") become provided under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a plan that is a specified multi-employer plan) to an individual in respect of a period of reduced services of the individual,

(b) the period of reduced services was not, before the past service event, pensionable service of the individual under the provision, and

(c) the past service event occurs on or before April 30 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which ends the complete period of reduced services of the individual that includes the period of reduced services,

the following rules apply:

(d) each pension adjustment of the individual with respect to an employer for a year before the calendar year in which the past service event occurs shall be deemed to be, and to always have been, the aggregate of

(i) the amount that would otherwise be the individual's pension adjustment with respect to the employer for the year, and

(ii) such portion of the provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to the employer that is associated with the past service event as may reasonably be considered to be attributable to the provision of retroactive benefits in respect of the year, and

(e) each provisional PSPA of the individual with respect to an employer that is associated with the past service event shall be deemed (except for the purposes of this subsection) to be such portion of the amount that would otherwise be the individual's provisional PSPA as may reasonably be considered not to be attributable to the provision of retroactive benefits.

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for RPPs, paras. 23–25.

(5) Period of reduced services — retroactive contributions — Where

(a) a contribution (in this subsection referred to as a "retroactive contribution") is made by an individual, or by an employer with respect to the individual, under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period in a particular calendar year that is a period of reduced services of the individual, and

(b) the retroactive contribution is made after the particular year and on or before April 30 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which ends the complete period of reduced services of the individual that includes the period of reduced services,

the following rules apply:

(c) each pension adjustment of the individual for the particular year with respect to an employer shall be deemed to be, and to always have been, the amount that it would have been had the retroactive contribution been made at the end of the particular year, and

(d) the retroactive contribution shall be deemed, for the purpose of determining pension adjustments of the individual for any year after the particular year, to have been made at the end of the particular year and not to have been made at any subsequent time.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-363R2: Deferred profit sharing plans — deductibility of employer contributions and taxation of amounts received by a beneficiary (archived).

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for RPPs, paras. 23–25.

(6) Commitment to make retroactive contributions — Where

(a) an individual enters into a written commitment to make a contribution under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan,

(b) the commitment is made to the administrator of the plan or to an employer who participates in the plan, and

(c) the rules in subsection (5) would apply in respect of the contribution if the contribution were made at the time at which the individual enters into the commitment,

the following rules apply for the purposes of this Part:

(d) the individual shall be deemed to have made the contribution to the plan at the time at which the individual enters into the commitment,

(e) if the individual subsequently pays all or a part of the contribution to the plan pursuant to the commitment, the amount paid to the plan is, for the purposes of paragraphs 8301(4)(a) and (8)(e), a contribution described in this paragraph,

(f) any contribution that an employer is required to make under the money purchase provision conditional on the individual making the contribution that the individual has committed to pay and in respect of which subsection (5) would apply if the contribution were made by the employer at the time the individual enters into the commitment shall be deemed to have been made by the employer at that time, and

(g) if an employer subsequently pays to the plan all or a part of a contribution in respect of which paragraph (f) applies, the amount paid to the plan is, for the purposes of paragraph 8301(4)(a), a contribution described in this paragraph.

History: Paras. 8308(6)(e) and (g) amended by P.C. 1995-17, s. 6, January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to amounts paid to registered pension plans after 1989.

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for RPPs, paras. 23–25.

(7) Loaned employees — Where, pursuant to an arrangement between an employer (in this subsection referred to as the "lending employer") who is a participating employer in relation to a pension plan and an employer (in this subsection referred to as the "borrowing employer") who, but for this subsection, would not be a participating employer in relation to the plan,

(a) an employee of the lending employer renders services to the borrowing employer for which the employee receives remuneration from the borrowing employer, and

(b) while the employee renders services to the borrowing employer, benefits continue to accrue under a defined benefit provision of the plan to the employee, or the lending employer continues to make contributions under a money purchase provision of the plan with respect to the employee,

the following rules apply:

(c) for the purpose of the definition "participating employer" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act as it applies in respect of the plan, the borrowing employer is a prescribed employer,

(d) the determination, for the purposes of this Part, of the portion of the employee's benefit accrual under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of a year that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the employee's employment with each of the lending and borrowing employers shall be made with regard to the remuneration received by the employee for the year from each employer, and

(e) such portion of the contributions made under a money purchase provision of the plan by the lending employer as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the employee's remuneration from the borrowing employer shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Part, to be contributions made by the borrowing employer.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8507(5)E(a) — Additional compensation fraction.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §6.4 (loaned employees).

(8) Successor plans — Notwithstanding any other provisions of this Part, other than section 8310, where

(a) all benefits with respect to an individual under a defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "former provision") of a registered pension plan are replaced in a calendar year by identical benefits under a defined benefit provision of another registered pension plan,

(b) the replacement of benefits is consequent on a transfer of the individual's employment from one employer (in this subsection referred to as the "former employer") to another employer (in this subsection referred to as the "successor employer"), and

(c) the Minister consents in writing to the application of this subsection in respect of that replacement of benefits, the individual's pension adjustments for the year with respect to the former employer and the successor employer shall be the amounts that they would be if all benefits with respect to the individual under the former provision had been attributable to employment with the successor employer and not to employment with the former employer.

(9) Special downsizing benefits — Where

(a) lifetime retirement benefits that do not comply with the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(a) are provided to an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, and

(b) the benefits are permissible only by reason of subsection 8505(3), each pension credit of the individual under the provision and each provisional PSPA of the individual shall be determined without regard to the lifetime retirement benefits.

8308.1 Foreign plans — (1) Definitions — In this section, "foreign plan" means a plan or arrangement (determined without regard to subsection 207.6(5) of the Act) that would, but for paragraph (l) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, be a retirement compensation arrangement.

(2) Pension credit — Subject to subsections (3) to (4.1), the pension credit of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a foreign plan is

(a) where paragraph (b) does not apply, nil; and

(b) where

(i) the year is 1992 or a subsequent year,

(ii) the individual became entitled in the year, either absolutely or contingently, to benefits under the foreign plan in respect of services rendered to the employer in a period throughout which the individual was resident in Canada and rendered services to the employer that were primarily services rendered in Canada or services rendered in connection with a business carried on by the employer in Canada, or a combination of those services,

(iii) the individual continued to be entitled at the end of the year, either absolutely or contingently, to all or part of the benefits, and

(iv) either

(A) no contribution was made under the foreign plan in the year in respect of the individual, except where

(I) no contribution was made because the foreign plan had an actuarial surplus, and

(II) had a contribution been made in respect of the benefits referred to in subparagraph (ii), it would have been a resident's contribution (as defined in subsection 207.6(5.1) of the Act), or

(B) a contribution that is not a resident's contribution was made under the foreign plan in the year in respect of the individual, the lesser of

(v) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the year exceeds the PA offset for the year, and

(vi) the amount by which the money purchase limit for the year exceeds the PA offset for the year.

History: The opening words of subsec. 8308.1(2) and the portion of para. 8308.1(2)(b) after subpara. (iv) amended by P.C. 1998-2256, subsecs. 10(1), (2), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1991.

(2.1) Pension credit — tax treaty — For the purposes of applying subsection (2) in determining an individual's pension credit for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a foreign plan, if any contributions made to, or benefits accruing under, the plan in respect of the individual and the calendar year benefit from the application of paragraph 8 of Article XVIII of the Canada-United States Tax Convention signed at Washington on September 26, 1980, or from the application of a similar provision in another tax treaty,

(a) subparagraph (2)(b)(ii) shall be read without reference to the words "was resident in Canada and"; and

(b) the portion of subsection (2) after subparagraph (2)(b)(iv) shall be read as "the lesser of the money purchase limit for the year and 18% of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the year".

History: Subsec. 8308.1(2.1) added by 2009, c. 2, s. 115, applicable in determining pension credits for the 2009 and subsequent calendar years.

(3) Pension credit — alternative determination — Subject to subsection (4), where the Minister has, on the written application of an employer, approved in writing a method for determining pension credits for a year with respect to the employer under a foreign plan, the pension credits shall be determined in accordance with that method.

(4) Pension credits for 1992, 1993 and 1994 — The pension credit of an individual for 1992, 1993 or 1994 with respect to an employer under a foreign plan is the lesser of

(a) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined as the pension credit for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) 18% of the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraphs (b) and (c) of that definition, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the year

exceeds the total of

(iii) $1,000, and

(iv) the amount that would be the pension adjustment of the individual for the year with respect to the employer if subsection 8301(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that subsection.

(4.1) Pension credits — 1996 to 2002 — For the purpose of determining the pension credit of an individual for a calendar year after 1995 and before 2003 with respect to an employer under a foreign plan, subparagraph (2)(b)(vi) shall be read as

"(vi) the money purchase limit for the year.".

History: Subsec. 8308.1(4.1) amended by replacing "2004" with "2003" and the heading before it amended by replacing "2003" with "2002", by P.C. 2005-1508, s. 20, August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2002.

Subsec. 8308.1(4.1) added by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 10(3), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1991.

(5) Foreign plan PSPA — Subject to subsection (6), where the benefits to which an individual is entitled, either absolutely or contingently, under a foreign plan are modified, the foreign plan PSPA of the individual with respect to an employer associated with the modification of benefits is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount that, if this section were read without reference to subsection (3), would be the pension credit of the individual with respect to the employer under the foreign plan for a calendar year before the year in which the individual's benefits are modified

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(b) the pension credit of the individual with respect to the employer under the foreign plan for a calendar year before the year in which the individual's benefits are modified, or

(c) the foreign plan PSPA of the individual with respect to the employer associated with a previous modification of the individual's benefits under the foreign plan.

(6) Foreign plan PSPA — alternative determination — Where the Minister has, on the written application of an employer, approved in writing a method for determining the foreign plan PSPA of an individual with respect to the employer associated with a modification of the individual's benefits under a foreign plan, the individual's foreign plan PSPA shall be determined in accordance with that method.

8308.2 (1) For the purposes of the descriptions of B in the definitions "RRSP deduction limit" and "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) of the Act and the description of B in paragraph 204.2(1.1)(b) of the Act, there is prescribed in respect of an individual for a calendar year the lesser of the money purchase limit for the preceding calendar year (in this section referred to as the "service year") and the amount determined by subsection (2), if the individual

(a) rendered services to an employer (excluding services that were primarily services rendered in Canada or services rendered in connection with a business carried on by the employer in Canada, or a combination of those services) throughout a period in the service year in which the individual was resident in Canada;

(b) became entitled, either absolutely or contingently, in the service year to benefits under a foreign plan (as defined in subsection 8308.1(1)) in respect of the services; and

(c) continued to be entitled at the end of the service year, either absolutely or contingently, to all or part of the benefits.

(2) The amount determined for the purpose of subsection (1) is,

(a) if the only benefits to which the individual became entitled in the service year under the foreign plan were provided under one or more money purchase provisions of the foreign plan, the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's pension credit for the service year with respect to the employer under a money purchase provision of the foreign plan, determined

(i) as though the foreign plan were a registered pension plan,

(ii) without regard to any contributions made by the individual, and

(iii) if, under the laws of the country in which the foreign plan is established, any contributions made after the end of the service year are treated as having been made in the service year, as though those contributions were made in the service year and not when the contributions were actually made; and

(b) in any other case, the greater of

(i) the total that would be determined under paragraph (a) if the individual had not become entitled in the service year to any benefits under a defined benefit provision of the foreign plan, and

(ii) 10% of the portion of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the service year that is attributable to services rendered to the employer and included under paragraph (1)(a).

History [Reg. 8308.2]: S. 8308.2 amended by 2009, c. 2, s. 116, applicable in determining prescribed amounts for the 2009 calendar year et seq. except that in determining prescribed amounts for 2009, the amount of the money purchase limit for 2008 is deemed to be reduced by $600.

8308.3 Specified retirement arrangements — (1) Definition — In this section, "specified retirement arrangement" means, in respect of an individual and an employer, a plan or arrangement under which payments that are attributable to the individual's employment with the employer are to be, or may be, made to or for the benefit of the individual after the termination of the individual's employment with the employer, but does not include

(a) a plan or arrangement referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (k), (m) and (n) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act;

(b) [Repealed]

(c) a plan or arrangement that does not provide in any circumstances for payments to be made to or for the benefit of the individual after the later of the last day of the calendar year in which the individual attains 71 years of age and the day that is 5 years after the day of termination of the individual's employment with the employer;

(d) a plan or arrangement (in this paragraph referred to as the "arrangement") that is, or would be, but for paragraph (l) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, a retirement compensation arrangement where

(i) the funding of the arrangement is subject to the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province, or

(ii) the arrangement is funded substantially in accordance with the funding requirements that would apply if the arrangement were subject to the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985;

(e) a plan or arrangement that is deemed by subsection 207.6(6) of the Act to be a retirement compensation arrangement; or

(f) an arrangement established by the Judges Act or the Lieutenant Governors Superannuation Act.

History: Para. 8308.3(1)(c) amended by 2007, c. 29, s. 33, applicable after 2006.

Paras. 8308.3(1)(a) and (c) amended, para. 8308.3(1)(b) repealed, by P.C. 1998-2256, subsecs. 12(1)–(3), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, para. (a) and the repeal applicable after 1991; para. (c) applicable after 1997, except that the amendment does not apply in respect of an individual who attained 69 years of age before 1998.

(2) Pension credit — Subject to subsections (3) and (3.1), the pension credit of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer under a specified retirement arrangement is

(a) where paragraph (b) does not apply, nil; and

(b) where

(i) the year is 1993 or a subsequent year,

(ii) the employer is, at any time in the year,

(A) a person who is exempt, because of section 149 of the Act, from tax under Part I of the Act on all or part of the person's taxable income, or

(B) the Government of Canada or the government of a province,

(iii) the individual became entitled in the year, either absolutely or contingently, to benefits under the arrangement in respect of employment with the employer,

(iv) at the end of the year, the individual is entitled, either absolutely or contingently, to benefits under the arrangement, and

(v) the amount determined by the formula

0.85A – B

is greater than nil where

A is the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the year exceeds the PA offset for the year, and

(B) the amount by which the money purchase limit for the year exceeds the PA offset for the year, and

B is the amount that would be the pension adjustment of the individual for the year with respect to the employer if subsection 8301(1) were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that subsection, the amount that would be determined by the formula in subparagraph (v) if the reference to "0.85" in the formula were replaced by a reference to "1".

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

History: The opening words of subsec. 8308.3(2) and the portion of subpara. 8308.3(2)(b)(v) before the description of B amended by P.C. 1998-2256, subsecs. 12(4), (5), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1991.

(3) Pension credit — alternative determination — Where the Minister has, on the written application of an employer, approved in writing a method for determining pension credits for a year with respect to the employer under a specified retirement arrangement, the pension credits shall be determined in accordance with that method.

(3.1) Pension credits — 1996 to 2002 — For the purpose of determining the pension credit of an individual for a calendar year after 1995 and before 2003 with respect to an employer under a specified retirement arrangement, the portion of paragraph (2)(b) after subparagraph (iv) shall be read as

"(v) the amount determined by the formula

0.85A – B

is greater than nil where

A is the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the individual's resident compensation from the employer for the year exceeds the PA offset for the year, and

(B) the amount by which $15,500 exceeds the PA offset for the year, and

B is the amount that would be the pension adjustment of the individual for the year with respect to the employer if subsection 8301(1) were read without reference to paragraph (c), the amount that would be determined by the formula in subparagraph (v) if

(vi) the reference to "0.85A" in that formula were read as a reference to "A", and

(vii) clause (B) of the description of A in that subparagraph were read as

"(B) the money purchase limit for the year, and".".

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

(4) Specified retirement arrangement PSPA — Subject to subsection (5), where the benefits to which an individual is entitled, either absolutely or contingently, under a specified retirement arrangement are modified, the specified retirement arrangement PSPA of the individual with respect to an employer associated with the modification of benefits is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount that, if this section were read without reference to subsection (3), would be the pension credit of the individual with respect to the employer under the arrangement for a calendar year before the year in which the individual's benefits are modified

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(b) the pension credit of the individual with respect to the employer under the arrangement for a calendar year before the year in which the individual's benefits are modified, or

(c) the specified retirement arrangement PSPA of the individual with respect to the employer associated with a previous modification of the individual's benefits under the arrangement.

(5) Specified retirement arrangement PSPA — alternative determination — Where the Minister has, on the written application of an employer, approved in writing a method for determining the specified retirement arrangement PSPA of an individual with respect to the employer associated with a modification of the individual's benefits under a specified retirement arrangement, the individual's specified retirement arrangement PSPA shall be determined in accordance with that method.

History: S. 8308.3 added by P.C. 1996-911, s. 8, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable after 1991, except that, for the purpose of applying, before 1996, the definition "specified retirement arrangement" in subsec. (1), the definition shall be read with the following para. added after para. (a):

(a.1) an unfunded plan or arrangement that is maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents in respect of services rendered outside Canada,

8308.4 Government-sponsored retirement arrangements — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"administrator" means, in respect of a government-sponsored retirement arrangement, the government or other entity that has ultimate responsibility for the administration of the arrangement.

"government-sponsored retirement arrangement" means a plan or arrangement established to provide pensions directly or indirectly from the public money of Canada or a province to one or more individuals each of whom renders services in respect of which amounts that are included in computing the income from a business of any person or partnership are paid directly or indirectly from the public money of Canada or a province.

(2) Prescribed amount — Where

(a) in a particular calendar year after 1992 an individual renders services in respect of which an amount that is included in computing the income from a business of any person was payable directly or indirectly by the Government of Canada or of a province, and

(b) at the end of the particular year, the individual is entitled, either absolutely or contingently, to benefits under a government-sponsored retirement arrangement that provides benefits in connection with such services,

there is prescribed in respect of the individual for the year following the particular year, for the purposes of the descriptions of B in the definitions "RRSP deduction limit" and "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) of the Act and the description of B in paragraph 204.2(1.1)(b) of the Act,

(c) where the particular year is before 1996, the amount by which the RRSP dollar limit for that following year exceeds $1,000, and

(d) in any other case, the RRSP dollar limit for that following year.

8309. Prescribed amount for lieutenant governors and judges — (1) Subject to subsection (3), where an individual is, at any time in a particular calendar year after 1989, a lieutenant governor of a province (other than a lieutenant governor who is not a contributor as defined in section 2 of the Lieutenant Governors Superannuation Act), there is prescribed in respect of the individual for the year following the particular year, for the purposes of the descriptions of B in the definitions "RRSP deduction limit" and "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) of the Act and the description of B in paragraph 204.2(1.1)(b) of the Act, the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the salary received by the individual for the particular year as a lieutenant governor exceeds the PA offset for the particular year, and

(b) the amount by which the money purchase limit for the particular year exceeds the PA offset for the particular year.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), where an individual is, at any time in a particular calendar year after 1990, a judge in receipt of a salary under the Judges Act, there is prescribed in respect of the individual for the year following the particular year, for the purposes of the descriptions of B in the definitions "RRSP deduction limit" and "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) of the Act and the description of B in paragraph 204.2(1.1)(b) of the Act, the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which 18% of the portion of the salary received by the individual for the particular year under the Judges Act in respect of which contributions are required under subsection 50(1) or (2) of that Act exceeds the PA offset for the particular year; and

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{12}$$

where

A is the amount by which the money purchase limit for the particular year exceeds the PA offset for the particular year, and

B is the number of months, in the particular year, for which the individual received salary in respect of which contributions were required under subsection 50(1) or (2) of the Judges Act.

(3) For the purpose of determining the amount prescribed under subsection (1) or (2) in respect of an individual for a calendar year after 2000 and before 2004,

(a) paragraph (1)(b) shall be read as follows:

"(b) the money purchase limit for the particular year,", and

(b) the description of A in paragraph (2)(b) shall be read as follows:

"A is the money purchase limit for the particular year, and".

8310. Minister's powers — (1) Where more than one method for determining an amount under this Part complies with the rules in this Part, only such of those methods as are acceptable to the Minister shall be used.

(2) Where, in a particular case, the rules in this Part require the determination of an amount in a manner that is not appropriate having regard to the provisions of this Part read as a whole and the purposes for which the amount is determined, the Minister may permit or require the amount to be determined in a manner that, in the Minister's opinion, is appropriate.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §6.1 (qualifying transfers).

(3) Where, pursuant to subsection (2), the Minister gives permission or imposes a requirement, the permission or requirement is not effective unless it is given or imposed in writing.

Definitions [Reg. 8310]: "amount", "Minister" — ITA 248(1); "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

8311. Rounding of amounts — Where a pension credit, provisional PSPA or PAR of an individual is not a multiple of one dollar, it shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of one dollar or, if it is equidistant from 2 such consecutive multiples, to the higher of the two multiples.

History: S. 8311 amended by P.C. 1998-2256, s. 15, December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1996.

PART LXXXIV — RETIREMENT AND PROFIT SHARING PLANS — REPORTING AND PROVISION OF INFORMATION

History: The heading to Part LXXXIV amended by P.C. 1996-911, s. 9, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable after 1992. The heading formerly read: Registered Plans — Reporting and Provision of Information.

Part LXXXIV (ss. 8400–8410) added by P.C. 1991-2540, s. 7, December 16, 1991, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 15, 1992, ss. 8400 to 8405, 8409 and 8410 applicable after 1989 except that

(a) any return otherwise required to be filed under s. 8402 or 8403 or subsec. 8409(1) before the particular day that is 60 days after January 15, 1992 shall be deemed to have been filed as required if it is filed on or before the particular day;

(b) any copy of a return or form otherwise required under subsec. 8404(2) or (3) to be forwarded to an individual before the particular day that is 60 days after January 15, 1992 shall be deemed to have been forwarded as required if it is forwarded on or before the particular day;

(c) any return otherwise required by reason of s. 8405 to be filed before February 28, 1991 shall be deemed to have been filed as required if it is filed on or before February 28, 1991; and

(d) subsec. 8409(3) is applicable in respect of final distributions of property held in connection with registered pension plans where the distribution is made after 1989 and any return otherwise required to be filed under subsec. 8409(3) before the particular day that is 60 days after January 15, 1992 shall be deemed to have been filed as required if it is filed on or before the particular day.

8400. Definitions — (1) All words and expressions used in this Part that are defined in subsection 8300(1), 8308.4(1) or 8500(1) or in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act have the meanings assigned in those provisions.

History: Subsec. 8400(1) amended by P.C. 1996-911, s. 10, June 20, 1996, Canada Gazette, Part II, July 10, 1996, applicable after 1992.

(2) A reference in this Part to a pension credit of an individual means a pension credit of the individual as determined under Part LXXXIII.

(3) For the purposes of this Part, where the administrator of a pension plan is not otherwise a person, the administrator shall be deemed to be a person.

Definitions [Reg. 8400]: "administrator" — ITA 147.1(1), Reg. 8308.4(1); "individual" — ITA 248(1); "pension credit" — Reg. 8301, 8308.1(2)–(4), 8308.3(2), (3), Reg. 8400(2); "person" — ITA 248(1).

8401. Pension adjustment — (1) Where the pension adjustment of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer is greater than nil, the employer shall, on or before the last day of February in the immediately following calendar year, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the pension adjustment, other than the portion, if any, required by subsection (2) or (3) to be reported by the administrator of a registered pension plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §6.5 (pension adjustment reporting).

(2) Where an individual makes a contribution in a particular calendar year to a registered pension plan that is a specified multi-employer plan in the year and the contribution is not remitted to the plan by any participating employer on behalf of the individual, the plan administrator shall, on or before the last day of February in the immediately following calendar year, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the portion, if any, of the individual's pension adjustment for the particular year with respect to an employer that may reasonably be considered to result from the contribution.

(3) Where the portion of a pension credit of an individual for a calendar year that, pursuant to subsection (4), is reportable by the administrator of a registered pension plan is greater than nil, the administrator shall, on or before the last day of February in the immediately following calendar year, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting that portion of the pension credit.

(4) For the purpose of subsection (3), where, on application by the administrator of a registered pension plan that is, in a calendar year, a multi-employer plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan), the Minister consents in writing to the application of this subsection with respect to the plan in the year, such portion of each pension credit for the year under a defined benefit provision of the plan as may reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits provided in respect of a period of reduced services or disability of an individual is, to the extent permitted by the Minister, reportable by the administrator.

(5) Subsections (1) to (3) do not apply to require the reporting of amounts with respect to an individual for the calendar year in which the individual dies.

(6) Where the pension adjustment of an individual for a calendar year with respect to an employer is altered by reason of the application of paragraph 8308(4)(d) or (5)(c) and the amount (in this subsection referred to as the "redetermined amount") that a person would have been required to report based on the pension adjustment as altered exceeds

(a) if the person has not previously reported an amount in respect of the individual's pension adjustment, nil, and

(b) otherwise, the amount reported by the person in respect of the individual's pension adjustment, the person shall, within 60 days after the day on which paragraph 8308(3)(c) or (5)(c), as the case may be, applies to alter the pension adjustment, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the redetermined amount.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §6.5 (pension adjustment reporting).

Definitions [Reg. 8401]: "administrator" — ITA 147.1(1), Reg. 8308.4(1); "amount" — ITA 248(1); "calendar year" — Interpretation Act 37(1)(a); "contribution" — Reg. 8302(12); "defined benefit provision" — ITA 147.1(1); "employer", "individual", "Minister" — ITA 248(1); "multi-employer plan", "participating employer" — ITA 147.1(1); "pension adjustment" — ITA 248(1); "pension credit" — Reg. 8301, 8308.1(2)–(4), 8308.3(2), (3), Reg. 8400(2); "person" — ITA 248(1), Reg. 8400(3); "prescribed" — ITA 248(1); "redetermined amount" — Reg. 8401(6); "registered pension plan" — ITA 248(1); "specified multi-employer plan" — ITA 147.1(1), Reg. 8510(2), (3); "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

8402. Past service pension adjustment — (1) Where a provisional PSPA (computed under section 8303, 8304 or 8308) of an individual with respect to an employer that is associated with a past service event (other than a certifiable past service event) is greater than nil, the administrator of each registered pension plan to which the past service event relates shall, within 120 days after the day on which the past service event occurs, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting such portion of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the individual's PSPA with respect to an employer that is associated with the past service event as may reasonably be considered to be attributable to benefits provided under the plan, except that a return is not required to be filed by an administrator if the amount that would otherwise be reported by the administrator is nil.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §6.6 (past service pension adjustment reporting).

(2) Where a foreign plan PSPA (computed under subsection 8308.1(5) or (6)) of an individual with respect to an employer associated with a modification of benefits under a foreign plan (as defined by subsection 8308.1(1)) is greater than nil, the employer shall, on or before the last day of February in the year following the calendar year in which the individual's benefits were modified, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the foreign plan PSPA.

(3) Where a specified retirement arrangement PSPA (computed under subsection 8308.3(4) or (5)) of an individual with respect to an employer associated with a modification of benefits under a specified retirement arrangement (as defined by subsection 8308.3(1)) is greater than nil, the employer shall, on or before the last day of February in the calendar year following the calendar year in which the individual's benefits were modified, file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the specified retirement arrangement PSPA.

8402.01 Pension adjustment reversal — (1) Deferred profit sharing plan — Where the PAR determined in connection with an individual's termination from a deferred profit sharing plan is greater than nil, each trustee under the plan shall file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the PAR

(a) where the termination occurs in the first, second or third quarter of a calendar year, on or before the day that is 60 days after the last day of the quarter in which the termination occurs, and

(b) where the termination occurs in the fourth quarter of a calendar year, before February of the following calendar year, and, for this purpose, an information return filed by a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan is deemed to have been filed by each trustee under the plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8404(2) — Copy of return must be provided to taxpayer.

Forms: T10: Pension adjustment reversal; T10 Segment; T10 Summ: Summary of PARs.

(2) Deferred profit sharing plan — employer reporting — Where an amount included in an individual's pension credit in respect of an employer under a deferred profit sharing plan is included in determining a PAR in connection with the individual's termination from the plan, the employer is deemed to be a trustee under the plan for the purpose of reporting the PAR.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8404(2) — Copy of return must be provided to taxpayer.

(3) Benefit provision of a registered pension plan — Subject to subsection (4), where the PAR determined in connection with an individual's termination from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan is greater than nil, the administrator of the plan shall file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the PAR

(a) where the termination occurs in the first, second or third quarter of a calendar year, on or before the day that is 60 days after the last day of the quarter in which the termination occurs; and

(b) where the termination occurs in the fourth quarter of a calendar year, before February of the following calendar year.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8404(2) — Copy of return must be provided to taxpayer.

(4) Extended deadline — PA transfer amount — Where, in determining an individual's PAR in connection with the individual's termination from a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, it is reasonable for the administrator of the plan to conclude, on the basis of information provided to the administrator by the administrator of another pension plan or by the individual, that the value of D in paragraph 8304.1(5)(a) in respect of the termination may be greater than nil, the administrator shall file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form reporting the PAR, if it is greater than nil, on or before the later of

(a) the day on or before which it would otherwise be required to be filed; and

(b) the day that is 60 days after the earliest day on which the administrator has all the information required to determine that value.

(5) Calendar year quarter — For the purposes of this section,

(a) the first quarter of a calendar year is the period beginning on January 1 and ending on March 31 of the calendar year;

(b) the second quarter of a calendar year is the period beginning on April 1 and ending on June 30 of the calendar year;

(c) the third quarter of a calendar year is the period beginning on July 1 and ending on September 30 of the calendar year; and

(d) the fourth quarter of a calendar year is the period beginning on October 1 and ending on December 31 of the calendar year.

8406. Provision of information — (1) Where a person who is required to file an information return under section 8401 requires information from another person in order to determine an amount that is to be reported or to otherwise complete the return and makes a written request to the other person for the information, the other person shall provide the person with the information that is available to that other person,

(a) where the information return is required to be filed in the calendar year in which the request is received, within 30 days after receipt of the request; or

(b) in any other case, by January 31 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which the request is received.

(2) Where the administrator of a registered pension plan requires information from a person in order to determine a provisional PSPA of an individual under section 8303, 8304 or 8308 and makes a written request to the person for the information, the person shall, within 30 days after receipt of the request, provide the administrator with the information that is available to the person.

(3) Where the administrator of a registered pension plan requires information from a person in order to complete an information return required to be filed under section 8409 and makes a written request to the person for the information, the person shall, within 30 days after receipt of the request, provide the administrator with the information that is available to that person.

(4) Where a person requires information from another person in order to determine a PAR under section 8304.1 in connection with an individual's termination in a calendar year from a deferred profit sharing plan or from a benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than information that the other person is required to provide to the person under subsection (5)) and makes a written request to the other person for the information, the other person shall provide the person with the information that is available to the other person on or before

(a) if the request is received before December 17 of the year, the day that is 30 days after the day on which the request is received; and

(b) in any other case, the later of the day that is 15 days after the day on which the request is received and January 15 of the year following the year.

History: Reg. 8406(4) added by P.C. 1998-2256, s. 18, December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1996, except that any information otherwise required by subsec. 8406(4) to be provided before March 7, 1999 is required to be provided on or before that day.

(5) Where benefits provided to an individual under a registered pension plan (in this subsection referred to as the "importing plan") as a consequence of a past service event result in a PA transfer amount in relation to the individual's termination from a defined benefit provision of another registered pension plan (in this subsection referred to as the "exporting plan"),

(a) the administrator of the importing plan shall, in writing on or before the day that is 30 days after the day on which the past service event occurred, notify the administrator of the exporting plan of the occurrence of the past service event and of its relevance in determining the individual's PAR in connection with the individual's termination from the defined benefit provision; and

(b) the administrator of the importing plan shall notify the administrator of the exporting plan of the PA transfer amount in writing on or before the day that is 60 days after

(i) in the case of a certifiable past service event, the day on which the Minister issues a certification for the purposes of subsection 147.1(10) of the Act in respect of the past service event and the individual, and

(ii) in any other case, the day on which the past service event occurred.

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 8409(2)

CCRA, Registered Plans Directorate Newsletter No. 03-1 (June 27, 2003): Joint Annual Information Return — New Participating Pension Supervisory Authority

Further to our Newsletter No. 95-4, New Filing Requirements for the Registered Pension Plan Annual Information Return, and our Newsletter No. 01-2, Joint Annual Information Return — New Participating Pension Supervisory Authorities, the CCRA has developed a new joint annual information return with the Régie des rentes du Québec....

In creating the joint annual information return with the Régie des rentes du Québec, we created a new schedule to include with Quebec's annual information return. The new schedule, called RC154, Schedule of Required Information for the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, is to be filed with Quebec's annual information return....

Subsection 8409(2) of the Income Tax Regulations will be amended to reflect the agreement reached with the province of Quebec concerning the annual information return.

If you need a copy of Quebec's annual information return, or if you have questions concerning the return, contact the Régie des rentes du Québec at (418) 643-8282 or visit their Web site at www.rrq.gouv.qc.ca.

If you have question concerning the RC154 schedule, contact the Registered Plans Directorate [English 613-954-0419; French 613-954-0930; Fax: (613) 952-0199]...

You can get a copy of the RC154 schedule on our Web site at www.ccra.gc.ca or call 1 800 959-3376.

"defined benefit limit" for a calendar year means the greater of

(a) $1,722.22, and

(b) 1/9 of the money purchase limit for the year;

History: "Defined benefit limit" in subsec. 8500(1) amended by P.C. 1998-2256, s. 19, December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after 1995, except that paragraph (b) of the definition applies

(a) before March 6, 1996 as though the money purchase limit for each year after 1995 were the amount that it would be if the definition "money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1) of the Act applied as it read on December 31, 1995; and

(b) after March 5, 1996 and before 1997 as though the money purchase limit for each year after 1995 were the amount that it would be if the definition "money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1) of the Act applied as it read on January 1, 1997.

"Defined benefit limit" in subsec. 8500(1) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 8(1), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1991.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.16 (defined benefit limit).

"dependant" of an individual at the time of the individual's death means a parent, grandparent, brother, sister, child or grandchild of the individual who, at that time, is both dependent on the individual for support and

(a) under 19 years of age and will not attain 19 years of age in the calendar year that includes that time,

(b) in full-time attendance at an educational institution, or

(c) dependent on the individual by reason of mental or physical infirmity;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.18 (dependant).

"designated plan" has the meaning assigned by section 8515;

History: "Designated plan" added to subsec. 8500(1) by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 82(1), applicable after 2007.

"disabled" means, in relation to an individual, suffering from a physical or mental impairment that prevents the individual from performing the duties of the employment in which the individual was engaged before the commencement of the impairment;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.19 (disabled).

"eligible period of reduced pay" of an employee with respect to an employer means a period (other than a period in which the employee is, at any time after 1990, connected with the employer or a period any part of which is a period of disability of the employee)

(a) that begins after the employee has been employed by the employer or predecessor employers to the employer for not less than 36 months,

(b) throughout which the employee renders services to the employer, and

(c) throughout which the remuneration received by the employee from the employer is less than the remuneration that it is reasonable to expect the employee would have received from the employer had the employee rendered services throughout the period on a regular basis (having regard to the services rendered by the employee to the employer before the period) and had the employee's rate of remuneration been commensurate with the employee's rate of remuneration before the period;

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for RPPs, para. 10.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.20 (eligible period of reduced pay).

"eligible period of temporary absence" of an individual with respect to an employer means a period throughout which the individual does not render services to the employer by reason of leave of absence, layoff, strike, lock-out or any other circumstance acceptable to the Minister, other than a period

(a) a part of which is a period of disability of the individual, or

(b) in which the individual is, at any time after 1990, connected with the employer;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.21 (eligible period of temporary absence).

"eligible survivor benefit period" in relation to a person who is a dependant of an individual at the time of the individual's death, means the period beginning on the day of death of the individual and ending on the latest of

(a) where the dependant is under 19 years of age throughout the calendar year that includes the day of death of the individual, the earlier of

(i) December 31 of the calendar year in which the dependant attains 18 years of age, and

(ii) the day of death of the dependant,

(b) where the dependant is in full-time attendance at an educational institution on the later of the day of death of the individual and December 31 of the calendar year in which the dependant attains 18 years of age, the day on which the dependant ceases to be in full-time attendance at an educational institution, and

(c) where the dependant is dependent on the individual at the time of the individual's death by reason of mental or physical infirmity, the day on which the dependant ceases to be infirm or, if there is no such day, the day of death of the dependant;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.22 (eligible survivor benefit period).

"existing plan" means a pension plan that was a registered pension plan on March 27, 1988 or in respect of which an application for registration was made to the Minister before March 28, 1988, and includes a pension plan that was established before March 28, 1988

pursuant to an Act of Parliament that deems member contributions to be contributions to a registered pension plan;

"forfeited amount" under a money purchase provision of a pension plan means an amount to which a member of the plan has ceased to have any rights, other than the portion thereof, if any, that is payable

(a) to a beneficiary of the member as a consequence of the member's death, or

(b) to a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member as a consequence of the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership;

History: Para. (b) of the definition "forfeited amount" in subsec. 8500(1) amended by P.C. 2001-957, subsec. 8(1), May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable to 2001 et seq., except that if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act (S.C. 2000, c. 12), in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year et seq.

"grandfathered plan" means

(a) an existing plan that, on March 27, 1988, contained a defined benefit provision, or

(b) a pension plan that was established to provide benefits under a defined benefit provision to one or more individuals in lieu of benefits to which the individuals were entitled under a defined benefit provision of another pension plan that is a grandfathered plan, whether or not benefits are also provided to other individuals;

Related Provisions: Reg. 8509(13) — Grandfathering where plan complied before March 1996 budget date.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.23 (grandfathered plan).

"IPP minimum amount", for a year, for a person who is a member of an individual pension plan (or a beneficiary, in respect of the plan, who was, at the time of the member's death, a spouse or common-law partner of the member) means

(a) if there is only one such person in respect of the plan, the minimum amount that would be determined under subsection 146.3(1) of the Act for the year in respect of the plan if the plan were a registered retirement income fund that held the same property as the property held by the plan and the person were the annuitant of the fund, and

(b) in any other case, the minimum amount that would be determined under subsection 146.3(1) of the Act if the person were the annuitant of a registered retirement income fund and the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year were determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is the fair market value of all property held in connection with the plan at the beginning of the year,

B is the amount of the actuarial liabilities in respect of the benefits payable to the person under the terms of the plan at the beginning of the year, and

C is the amount of the actuarial liabilities in respect of all benefits payable under the terms of the plan at the beginning of the year;

Related Provisions: Reg. 8502(d)(x) — Permissible distributions; Reg. 8503(26) — IPP — minimum withdrawal.

History: "IPP minimum amount" added to subsec. 8500(1) by 2011, c. 24, s. 93, applicable to 2012 et seq.

"lifetime retirement benefits" provided to a member under a benefit provision of a pension plan means

(a) retirement benefits provided to the member under the provision that, after they commence to be paid, are payable to the member until the member's death, unless the benefits are commuted or payment of the benefits is suspended, and

(b) for greater certainty, retirement benefits provided to the member under the provision in accordance with paragraph 8506(1)(e.1);

History: Definition "lifetime retirement benefits" in subsec. 8500(1) amended to add para. (b), by P.C. 2005-1508, subsec. 24(1), August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2003.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.24 (lifetime retirement benefits).

"multi-employer plan" in a calendar year means

(a) a pension plan in respect of which it is reasonable to expect, at the beginning of the year (or at the time in the year when the plan is established, if later), that at no time in the year will more than 95 per cent of the active members of the plan be employed by a single participating employer or by a related group of participating employers, other than a plan where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons there is more than one employer participating in the plan is to obtain the benefit of any of the provisions of the Act or these Regulations that are applicable only with respect to multi-employer plans, or

(b) a pension plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan, and, for the purposes of this definition, 2 corporations that are related to each other solely by reason that they are both controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province shall be deemed not to be related persons;

Related Provisions: ITA 252.1 — Trade union locals and branches deemed to be a single employer; ITA 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

Regulations: 8510(2), (3) (meaning of "specified multi-employer plan").

"period of disability" of an individual means a period throughout which the individual is disabled;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.32 (period of disability).

"predecessor employer" means, in relation to a particular employer, an employer (in this definition referred to as the "vendor") who has sold, assigned or otherwise disposed of all or part of the vendor's business or undertaking or all or part of the assets of the vendor's business or undertaking to the particular employer or to another employer who, at any time after the sale, assignment or other disposition, becomes a predecessor employer in relation to the particular employer, where one or more employees of the vendor have, in conjunction with the sale, assignment or disposition, become employees of the employer acquiring the business, undertaking or assets;

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 8500(1)"predecessor employer"

"predecessor employer" means, in relation to a particular employer, an employer (in this definition referred to as the "vendor") who has sold, assigned or otherwise disposed of all or part of the vendor's business or undertaking or all or part of the assets of the vendor's business or undertaking to the particular employer or to another employer who, at any time after the sale, assignment or other disposition, becomes a predecessor employer in relation to the particular employer, where all or a significant number of employees of the vendor have, in conjunction with the sale, assignment or disposition, become employees of the employer acquiring the business, undertaking or assets;

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), subsec. 42(1), will amend the definition "predecessor employer" in subsec. 8500(1) to read as above, applicable after November 5, 2010, except that it does not apply to benefits provided on or before November 5, 2010.

Technical Notes: Subsection 8500 provides a number of definitions relating to registered pension plans (RPPs). The definition of "predecessor employer" is amended so that provisions pertaining to RPPs apply appropriately in the context of certain purchases of businesses. In particular, with this amendment an employer will be a "predecessor employer" in relation to a particular employer (or to another employer who subsequently becomes the predecessor employer of the particular employer) if the employer has disposed of all or part of its business or assets to the particular employer and all or a significant number of its employees have become employees of the particular employer.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8500(1.2) — Definition applies for purposes of ITA 147.2(8); Reg. 8504(2.1) — Employment with predecessor employer included in calculation of maximum benefits.

"public pension benefits" means amounts payable on a periodic basis under the Canada Pension Plan, a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of the Canada Pension Plan, or Part I of the Old Age Security Act, but does not include disability, death or survivor benefits provided under those Acts;

"public safety occupation" means the occupation of

(a) firefighter,

(b) police officer,

(c) corrections officer,

(d) air traffic controller,

(e) commercial airline pilot, or

(f) paramedic;

History: Para. (f) added to "public safety occupation" in subsec. 8500(1) by P.C. 2005-1508, subsec. 24(2), August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2004.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.34 (public safety occupation).

"retirement benefits" provided to an individual under a benefit provision of a pension plan means benefits provided to the individual under the provision that are payable on a periodic basis;

Related Provisions: ITA 60.021(4)(b) — Definition applies to 2008 RRIF minimum amount reduction.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.35 (retirement benefits).

"surplus" under a money purchase provision of a pension plan at any time means such portion, if any, of the amount held at that time in respect of the provision as has not been allocated to members and is not reasonably attributable to

(a) forfeited amounts under the provision or earnings of the plan that are reasonably attributable to those amounts,

(b) contributions made under the provision by an employer that will be allocated to members as part of the regular allocation of such contributions, or

(c) earnings of the plan (other than earnings that are reasonably attributable to the surplus under the provision before that time) that will be allocated to members as part of the regular allocation of such earnings;

Related Provisions: Reg. 8500(1.1) — Definition applies to ITA 147.3(7.1).

History: Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "surplus" in subsec. 8500(1) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 8(2), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.39 (surplus).

"totally and permanently disabled" means, in relation to an individual, suffering from a physical or mental impairment that prevents the individual from engaging in any employment for which the individual is reasonably suited by virtue of the individual's education, training or experience and that can reasonably be expected to last for the remainder of the individual's lifetime;

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.40 (totally and permanently disabled).

"Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings" for a calendar year has the meaning assigned by section 18 of the Canada Pension Plan.

(1.1) [Application of "surplus"] — The definition "surplus" in subsection (1) applies for the purpose of subsection 147.3(7.1) of the Act.

History: Subsec. 8500(1.1) added by P.C. 2003-1497, subsec. 7(1), October 2, 2003, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 22, 2003, applicable after 1998.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.39 (surplus).

Proposed Addition — Reg. 8500(1.2)

(1.2) [Application of "predecessor employer"] — The definition "predecessor employer" in subsection (1) applies for the purpose of subsection 147.2(8) of the Act.

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), subsec. 42(2), will add subsec. 8500(1.2), applicable to contributions made after 1990.

Technical Notes: Under new ITA subsection 147.2(8), a former employee of a predecessor employer in relation to a participating employer is deemed to be a former employee of the participating employer in certain circumstances. New subsection 8500(1.2) provides that the amended definition of "predecessor employer" in subsection 8500(1) applies for the purpose of subsection 147.2(8).

For more information, see the commentary to new subsection 147.2(8).

(2) [Definitions in ITA 147.1(1) and Part 83] — All words and expressions used in this Part that are defined in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act or in Part LXXXIII have the meanings assigned in those provisions.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8300(3) — Mirror image rule causing terms in Reg. 8500(1) to be defined for purposes of Part 83.

History: Subsec. 8500(2) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 82(2), applicable after 2007.

(3) ["Connected"] — For the purposes of this Part, a person is connected with an employer at any time where, at that time, the person

(a) owns, directly or indirectly, not less than 10 per cent of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the employer or of any other corporation that is related to the employer,

(b) does not deal at arm's length with the employer, or

(c) is a specified shareholder of the employer by reason of paragraph (d) of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, and, for the purposes of this subsection,

(d) a person shall be deemed to own, at any time, each share of the capital stock of a corporation owned, at that time, by a person with whom the person does not deal at arm's length,

(e) where shares of the capital stock of a corporation are owned at any time by a trust,

(i) if the share of any beneficiary in the income or capital of the trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power, each beneficiary of the trust shall be deemed to own, at that time, all the shares owned by the trust, and

(ii) in any other case, each beneficiary of a trust shall be deemed to own, at that time, that proportion of the shares owned by the trust that the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust is of the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interests in the trust,

(f) each member of a partnership shall be deemed to own, at any time, that proportion of all shares of the capital stock of a corporation that are property of the partnership at that time that the fair market value at that time of the member's interest in the partnership is of the fair market value at that time of the interests of all members in the partnership, and

(g) a person who, at any time, has a right under a contract, in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to, or to acquire, shares of the capital stock of a corporation shall be deemed to own, at that time, those shares if one of the main reasons for the existence of the right may reasonably be considered to be that the person not be connected with an employer.

(4) [Offices] — For the purposes of this Part, an officer who receives remuneration for holding an office shall, for any period that the officer holds the office, be deemed to render services to, and to be in the service of, the person from whom the officer receives the remuneration.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-167R6: Registered pension plans — employee's contributions.

(5) ["Spouse" and "former spouse"] — For the purpose of this Part, "spouse" and "former spouse" of a particular individual include another individual who is a party to a void or voidable marriage with the particular individual.

History: Subsec. 8500(5) amended by P.C. 2007-849, s. 15, May 31, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 13, 2007, in force June 13, 2007.

Subsec. 8500(5) amended by P.C. 2001-957, subsec. 8(2), May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable to 2001 et seq., except that if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act (S.C. 2000, c. 12), in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year et seq.

(6) [Combining periods] — Where this Part provides that an amount is to be determined by aggregating the durations of periods that satisfy specified conditions, a period shall be included in determining the aggregate only if it is not part of a longer period that satisfies the conditions.

(7) [Deemed contributions] — For the purposes of the definition "active member" in subsection (1), subparagraph 8503(3)(a)(v) and paragraphs 8504(7)(d), 8506(2)(c.1) and 8507(3)(a), the portion of an amount allocated to an individual at any time under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan that is attributable to

(a) forfeited amounts under the provision or earnings of the plan that are reasonably attributable to those amounts,

(b) a surplus under the provision,

(c) property transferred to the provision in respect of the actuarial surplus under a defined benefit provision of the plan or another registered pension plan, or

(d) property transferred to the provision in respect of the surplus under another money purchase provision of the plan or under a money purchase provision of another registered pension plan shall be deemed to be a contribution made under the provision on behalf of the individual at that time.

History: The opening words of subsec. 8500(7) amended to add reference to para. 8506(2)(c.1), by P.C. 2005-1508, subsec. 24(3), August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2003.

Para. 8500(7)(d) added by P.C. 2003-1497, subsec. 7(2), October 2, 2003, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 22, 2003, applicable to allocations that occur after 1998.

Subsec. 8500(7) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 8(3), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988, except that with respect to amounts allocated on or before April 5, 1994, subsec. (7) shall be read without reference to the expression "[of] the definition 'active member' in subsection (1)", and for the purposes of subparagraph 8507(3)(a)(vi), without reference to paragraph (c) thereof.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.2 (active member); §1.43 (deemed contributions).

(8) [Member and non-member benefits] — Where an individual who is entitled to receive benefits (in this subsection referred to as "member benefits") under a pension plan because of the individual's membership in the plan is also entitled to receive other benefits (in this subsection referred to as "non-member benefits") under the plan or under any other pension plan solely because of the participation of another individual in the plan or in the other plan, the following rules apply:

(a) for the purpose of determining whether the member benefits are permissible under this Part, the non-member benefits shall be disregarded;

(b) for the purpose of determining whether the non-member benefits are permissible under this Part, the member benefits shall be disregarded; and

(c) for the purpose of determining a pension adjustment, pension adjustment reversal or provisional past service pension adjustment of the individual under Part LXXXIII, the non-member benefits shall be disregarded.

History: Subsec. 8500(8) added by P.C. 2001-153, s. 5, January 30, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 14, 2001, applicable after 1988, except that before 1997, para. (c) shall be read without reference to the words "pension adjustment reversal".

Proposed Addition — Reg. 8500(9)

(9) For the purposes of paragraph 147.3(6)(b) of the Act and subparagraphs 8502(d)(iv) and 8503(2)(h)(iii), where an amount is transferred in accordance with subsection 147.3(3) of the Act to a defined benefit provision (referred to in this subsection as the "current provision") of a registered pension plan from a defined benefit provision (referred to in this subsection as the "former provision") of another registered pension plan on behalf of all or a significant number of members whose benefits under the former provision are replaced by benefits under the current provision, each current service contribution made at a particular time under the former provision by a member whose benefits are so replaced is deemed to be a current service contribution made at that particular time under the current provision by the member.

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), subsec. 42(3), will add subsec. 8500(9), applicable after 1999.

Technical Notes: New subsection 8500(9) will accommodate certain transfers and refunds from registered pension plans that occur after business re-organizations. The new subsection will ensure that, for the purposes of specified transfers or refunds of a member's contributions made to a registered pension plan, the member's contributions will include amounts contributed to a former defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan if his or her benefits under the former provision have been replaced by benefits under the current defined benefit provision.

This new rule will deem member contributions under the former provision to be contributions under the current provision if

- assets have been transferred from the former provision to the current provision under section 147.3(3) of the Act; and
- the current provision replaces the benefits of all or a significant number of the members of the former provision.

8501. Prescribed conditions for registration and other conditions applicable to registered pension plans — (1) Conditions for registration — For the purposes of section 147.1 of the Act, and subject to sections 8509 and 8510, the prescribed conditions for the registration of a pension plan are

(a) the conditions in paragraphs 8502(a), (c), (e), (f) and (l),

(b) if the plan contains a defined benefit provision, the conditions in paragraphs 8503(4)(a) and (c), and

(c) if the plan contains a money purchase provision, the conditions in paragraphs 8506(2)(a) and (d),

and the following conditions:

(d) there is no reason to expect, on the basis of the documents that constitute the plan and establish the funding arrangements, that

(i) the plan may become a revocable plan pursuant to subsection (2), or

(ii) the conditions in subsection 147.1(10) of the Act may not be complied with, and

(e) there is no reason to expect that the plan may become a revocable plan under subsection 147.1(8) or (9) of the Act or subsections 8503(15) or (26) or 8506(4).

Related Provisions: Reg. 8501(3) — Conditions inapplicable where inconsistent with 8503(6) and (8) and 8505(3) and (4); Reg. 8501(6) — Rule where contributions made through employer association or trade union from employer or individual.

History: Subsec. 8501(3) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 9(2), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §7.3 (permissive rules).

(4) Supplemental plans — Where

(a) the benefits provided under a pension plan (in this subsection referred to as the "supplemental plan") that contains one defined benefit provision and no money purchase provisions may reasonably be considered to be supplemental to the benefits provided under a defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "base provision") of another pension plan,

(b) the supplemental plan does not otherwise comply with the condition set out in paragraph 8502(a) or the condition in paragraph 8502(c), and

(c) the Minister has approved the application of this subsection, which approval has not been withdrawn, for the purpose of determining whether the supplemental plan complies with the conditions in paragraphs 8502(a) and (c), the benefits provided under the base provision shall be considered to be provided under the supplemental plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §7.4 (supplemental plans).

(5) Benefits payable after the breakdown of the marriage or common-law partnership — Where

(a) an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of a member of a registered pension plan is entitled to receive all or a portion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the plan to the member, and

(b) the entitlement was created

(i) by assignment of benefits by the member, on or after the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or common-law partnership, or

(ii) by a provision of the law of Canada or a province applicable in respect of the division of property between the member and the individual, on or after the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or common-law partnership,

the following rules apply:

(c) except where paragraph (d) applies, the benefits to which the individual is entitled are, for the purposes of this Part, deemed to be benefits provided and payable to the member, and

(d) the benefits to which the individual is entitled are, for the purposes of this Part, deemed to be benefits provided and payable to the individual and not provided or payable to the member where

(i) the entitlement of the individual was created by a provision of the law of Canada or a province described in subparagraph (b)(ii), and

(ii) that provision

(A) requires that benefits commence to be paid to the individual at a time that may be different from the time benefits commence to be paid to the member, or

(B) gives the individual any rights in respect of the benefits to which the individual is entitled in addition to the rights that the individual would have as a consequence of an assignment by the member, in whole or in part, of the member's right to benefits under the plan.

(6) Indirect contributions — Where an employer or an individual makes payments to a trade union or an association of employers (in this subsection referred to as the "contributing entity") to enable the contributing entity to make contributions to a pension plan, such portion of a contribution made by the contributing entity to the plan as is reasonably attributable to a payment made to the contributing entity by an employer or individual shall, for the purposes of the conditions in this Part, be considered to be a contribution made by the employer or individual, as the case may be, and not by the contributing entity.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §7.6 (indirect contributions).

(6.1) Member contributions for unfunded liability — For the purposes of the conditions in this Part (other than subparagraph 8510(9)(b)(i)), a contribution made by a member of a pension plan in respect of a defined benefit provision of the plan is deemed to be a current service contribution made by the member in respect of the member's benefits under the provision if

(a) the contribution cannot, but for this subsection, reasonably be considered to be made in respect of the member's benefits under the provision;

(b) the contribution is determined by reference to the actuarial liabilities under the provision in respect of periods before the time of the contribution; and

(c) the contribution is made pursuant to an arrangement

(i) under which all, or a significant number, of the active members of the plan are required to make similar contributions,

(ii) the main purpose of which is to ensure that the plan has sufficient assets to pay benefits under the provision, and

(iii) that is approved by the Minister.

(7) Benefits provided with surplus on plan wind-up — Where

(a) a single amount is paid in full or partial satisfaction of an individual's entitlement to retirement benefits (in this subsection referred to as the "commuted benefits") under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan,

(b) other benefits are subsequently provided to the individual under the provision as a consequence of an allocation, on full or partial wind-up of the plan, of an actuarial surplus under the provision,

(c) the other benefits include benefits (in this subsection referred to as "ancillary benefits") that, but for this subsection, would not be permissible under this Part,

(d) if the individual had previously terminated from the provision and the conditions in subsection 8304.1(14) were satisfied with respect to the termination, it is reasonable to consider that all of the ancillary benefits are in respect of periods before 1990, and

(e) the Minister has approved the application of this subsection in respect of the ancillary benefits, for the purpose of determining whether the ancillary benefits are permissible under this Part, the individual is considered to have an entitlement under the provision to the commuted benefits.

8502. Conditions applicable to all plans — For the purposes of section 8501, the following conditions are applicable in respect of a pension plan:

(a) primary purpose — the primary purpose of the plan is to provide periodic payments to individuals after retirement and until death in respect of their service as employees;

Registered Plans Directorate Newsletters: 91-4R (registration rules for money purchase provisions); 94-2 (q.2 — money purchase provision — bridging benefit); 04-1 (transfer from a defined benefit provision).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §8.1 (primary purpose).

(b) permissible contributions — each contribution made to the plan after 1990 is an amount that

(i) is paid by a member of the plan in accordance with the plan as registered, where the amount is credited to the member's account under a money purchase provision of the plan, or is paid in respect of the member's benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan,

(ii) is paid in accordance with a money purchase provision of the plan as registered, by an employer with respect to the employer's employees or former employees,

(iii) is an eligible contribution that is paid in respect of a defined benefit provision of the plan by an employer with respect to the employer's employees or former employees,

(iv) is transferred to the plan in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 146.3(14.1), 147(19) and 147.3(1) to (8) of the Act, or

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 8502(b)(iv)

(iv) is transferred to the plan in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 146.3(14.1), 147(19), 147.3(1) to (8) and 147.5(20) of the Act, or

Application: The December 14, 2011 draft legislation, s. 26, will amend subpara. 8502(b)(iv) to read as above, in force or deemed in force on the day of the coming into force of S.C. 2012, c. 16 (Bill C-25, Royal Assent June 18, 2012), Pooled Registered Pension Plans Act.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 8502(b) lists contributions that are permitted to be made to a registered pension plan (RPP). The list includes transfers from other registered plans in accordance with any of subsections 146(16) (from a registered retirement savings plan), 146.3(14.1) (from a registered retirement income fund), 147(19) (from a deferred profit sharing plan) and 147.3(1) to (8) of the Act (from an RPP).

Paragraph 8502(b) is amended to expand the list of permissible contributions to include transfers from a pooled registered pension plan (PRPP) made in accordance with new subsection 147.5(20) of the Act. Subsection 147.5(20) permits the direct transfer of an amount from a PRPP account, on behalf of an individual who is a PRPP member or surviving spouse or common-law partner, to an RPP for the benefit of the individual.

For further information regarding PRPPs, please see the commentary on section 147.5.

(v) is acceptable to the Minister and that is transferred to the plan from a pension plan that is maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents in respect of services rendered outside Canada,

Proposed Addition — Reg. 8502(b)(v.1)

(v.1) is paid by the trustees of the trust described in paragraph 6802(h), where the amount would have been an eligible contribution if the amount had been paid in respect of a defined benefit provision of the plan by an employer with respect to the employer's employees or former employees,

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), s. 43, will add subpara. 8502(b)(v.1), applicable after 2008.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 8502(b) lists the contributions that are permitted to be made to a registered pension plan. Paragraph 8502(b) is amended to add a reference to the Air Canada trust described in paragraph 6802(h). This will allow pension contributions made by the trust to Air Canada pension plans to be accepted without jeopardizing the registration of the Air Canada pension plans. For more information, please refer to the commentary on new paragraph 6802(h).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 23, 2009: See under Reg. 6802(h).

and, for the purposes of this paragraph,

(vi) an eligible contribution is a contribution that is paid by an employer in respect of a defined benefit provision of a pension plan is where it is an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act or, in the case of a plan in which Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province is a participating employer, would be an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act if all amounts held to the credit of the plan in the accounts of Canada or the province were excluded from the assets of the plan, and

(vii) the portion of each contribution that is made by Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, or by a person described in paragraph 4802(1)(d), in respect of a defined benefit provision of the plan and that can reasonably be considered to be made with respect to one or more employees or former employees of another person is deemed to be a contribution made by that other person;

(d) permissible distributions — each distribution that is made from the plan is

(i) a payment of benefits in accordance with the plan as registered,

(ii) a transfer of property held in connection with the plan where the transfer is made in accordance with subsection 147.3(3), (4.1), (7.1) or (8) of the Act,

(iii) a return of all or a portion of the contributions made by a member of the plan or an employer who participates in the plan, where the payment is made to avoid the revocation of the registration of the plan,

(iv) a return of all or a portion of the contributions made by a member of the plan under a defined benefit provision of the plan, where the return of contributions is pursuant to an amendment to the plan that also reduces the future contributions that would otherwise be required to be made under the provision by members,

(v) a payment of interest (computed at a rate not exceeding a reasonable rate) in respect of contributions that are returned as described in subparagraph (iv),

(vi) a payment in full or partial satisfaction of the interests of a person in an actuarial surplus that relates to a defined benefit provision of the plan,

(vii) a payment to an employer of property held in connection with a money purchase provision of the plan,

(viii) where the Minister has, under subsection 8506(2.1), waived the application of the condition in paragraph 8506(2)(b.1) in respect of a money purchase provision of the plan, a payment under the provision of an amount acceptable to the Minister,

(ix) a payment, other than a payment described in subparagraph (i), with respect to a member of a single amount that the plan is required to make because of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province, where the single amount is not transferred directly to another registered pension plan, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund, or

(x) the portion of the IPP minimum amount for an individual that is not described in subparagraph (i),

(e) payment of pension — the plan

(i) requires that the retirement benefits of a member under each benefit provision of the plan begin to be paid not later than the end of the calendar year in which the member attains 71 years of age except that,

(A) in the case of benefits provided under a defined benefit provision, the benefits may begin to be paid at any later time that is acceptable to the Minister, if the amount of benefits (expressed on an annualized basis) payable does not exceed the amount of benefits that would be payable if payment of the benefits began at the end of the calendar year in which the member attains 71 years of age, and

(B) in the case of benefits provided under a money purchase provision in accordance with paragraph 8506(1)(e.1), the benefits may begin to be paid not later than the end of the calendar year in which the member attains 72 years of age, and

(ii) provides that retirement benefits under each benefit provision are payable not less frequently than annually;

(a) subject to paragraph (b), cl. 8502(e)(i)(A), as amended, applies in respect of benefits provided to an individual who attained 70 years of age before 1997 or 69 years of age in 1996 as though the reference in that clause to "69 years of age" were a reference to "71 years of age" and "70 years of age" respectively; and

(b) where retirement benefits under a pension plan are provided to an individual by means of an annuity contract issued before March 6, 1996 and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the individual attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the individual had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the individual attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined,

cl. 8502(e)(i)(A), as amended, applies in respect of the benefits as though the reference in that clause to "69 years of age" were a reference to "71 years of age".

(i) borrowing — a trustee or other person who holds property in connection with the plan does not borrow money for the purposes of the plan, except where

(i) the borrowing is for a term not exceeding 90 days,

(ii) the borrowing is not part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, and

(iii) none of the property that is held in connection with the plan is used as security for the borrowed money (except where the borrowing is necessary to provide funds for the current payment of benefits or the purchase of annuities under the plan without resort to a distressed sale of the property that is held in connection with the plan), or where

(iv) the money is borrowed for the purpose of acquiring real property that may reasonably be considered to be acquired for the purpose of producing income from property,

(v) the aggregate of all amounts borrowed for the purpose of acquiring the property and any indebtedness incurred as a consequence of the acquisition of the property does not exceed the cost to the person of the property, and

(vi) none of the property that is held in connection with the plan, other than the real property, is used as security for the borrowed money;

8503. Defined benefit provisions — (1) Net contribution accounts — In this section and subsection 8517(2), the net contribution account of a member of a pension plan in relation to a defined benefit provision of the plan is an account that is

(a) credited with

(i) the amount of each contribution that is made by the member to the plan in respect of the provision,

(ii) each amount that is transferred on behalf of the member to the plan in respect of the provision in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 147(19) and 147.3(2) and (5) to (7) of the Act,

(iii) such portion of each amount that is transferred to the plan in respect of the provision in accordance with subsection 147.3(3) of the Act as may reasonably be considered to derive from contributions that are made by the member to a registered pension plan or interest (computed at a reasonable rate) in respect of such contributions,

(iv) the amount of any property that was held in connection with another benefit provision of the plan and that has been made available to provide benefits under the provision, to the extent that if the provisions were in separate registered pension plans, the amount would be included in the member's net contribution account by reason of subparagraph (ii) or (iii), and

(v) interest (computed at a reasonable rate determined by the plan administrator) in respect of each period throughout which the account has a positive balance; and

(b) charged with

(i) each amount that is paid under the provision with respect to the member, otherwise than in respect of an actuarial surplus under the provision,

(ii) the amount of any property that is held in connection with the provision (other than property that is in respect of an actuarial surplus under the provision) and that is made available to provide benefits with respect to the member under another benefit provision of the plan, and

(iii) interest (computed at a reasonable rate determined by the plan administrator) in respect of each period throughout which the account has a negative balance.

(2) Permissible benefits — For the purposes of paragraph 8502(c), the following benefits may, subject to the conditions set out in respect of each benefit, be provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan:

(a) lifetime retirement benefits — lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member where the benefits are payable in equal periodic amounts, or are not so payable only by reason that

(i) the benefits payable to a member after the death of the member's spouse or common-law partner are less than the benefits that would be payable to the member were the member's spouse or common-law partner alive,

(ii) the plan provides for periodic cost-of-living adjustments to be made to the benefits, where the adjustments

(A) are determined in such a manner that they do not exceed cost-of-living adjustments warranted by increases in the Consumer Price Index after the benefits commence to be paid,

(B) consist of periodic increases at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent per annum after the time the benefits commence to be paid,

(C) are based on the rates of return on a specified pool of assets after the benefits commence to be paid, or

(D) consist of any combination of adjustments described in clauses (A) to (C), and, in the case of adjustments described in clauses (C) and (D), the present value (at the time the member's benefits commence to be paid) of additional benefits that can reasonably be expected to be paid as a consequence of the adjustments does not exceed the greater of

(E) the present value (at the time the member's benefits commence to be paid) of additional benefits that could reasonably be expected to be paid as a consequence of adjustments warranted by increases in the Consumer Price Index after the member's benefits commence to be paid, and

(F) the present value (at the time the member's benefits commence to be paid) of additional benefits that would be paid as a consequence of adjustments at a fixed rate of 4 per cent per annum after the time the member's benefits commence to be paid,

(iii) where the plan does not provide for periodic cost-of-living adjustments to be made to the benefits, or provides only for such adjustments as are described in clause (ii)(A) or (B), the plan provides for cost-of-living adjustments to be made to the benefits from time to time at the discretion of any person, where the adjustments, together with periodic cost-of-living adjustments, if any, are warranted by increases in the Consumer Price Index after the benefits commence to be paid,

(iv) the amount of the benefits is increased as a consequence of additional lifetime retirement benefits becoming provided to the member under the provision,

(v) the amount of the benefits is determined with a reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both (or with any other similar reduction), and the amount is subsequently adjusted to reduce or eliminate the portion, if any, of the reduction that is not required for the benefits to comply with the conditions in paragraph (3)(c),

(vi) the amount of the benefits is determined with a reduction computed by reference to the following benefits and the amount is subsequently adjusted to reduce or eliminate the reduction:

(A) disability benefits to which the member is entitled under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act,

(B) benefits to which the member is entitled under an employees' or workers' compensation law of Canada or a province in respect of an injury or disability, or

(C) benefits to which the member is entitled pursuant to a sickness or accident insurance plan or a disability insurance plan,

(vii) the amount of the benefits is determined with a reduction computed by reference to other benefits provided under the provision in respect of the member that are permissible under paragraph (c), (d), (k) or (n), and the amount is subsequently adjusted to reduce or eliminate the reduction,

(viii) the amount of the benefits is reduced as a consequence of benefits that are permissible under paragraph (c), (d), (k) or (n) becoming provided under the provision in respect of the member,

(ix) the amount of the benefits payable to the member while the member is in receipt of remuneration from a participating employer is less than the amount of the benefits that would otherwise be payable to the member if the member were not in receipt of the remuneration, or

(x) the amount of the benefits is adjusted in accordance with plan terms that were submitted to the Minister before April 19, 2000, where the benefits have commenced to be paid before 2003 and the adjustment is approved by the Minister;

(b) bridging benefits — bridging benefits provided to a member where

(i) the bridging benefits are payable for a period beginning no earlier than the time lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member and ending no later than the end of the month immediately following the month in which the member attains 65 years of age, and

(ii) the amount of the bridging benefits payable for a particular month does not exceed the amount that is determined for that month by the formula

$$A \times (1 - .0025 \times B) \times C \times \frac{D}{10}$$

where

A is the amount (or a reasonable estimate thereof) of public pension benefits that would be payable to the member for the month in which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member if

(A) the member were 65 years of age throughout that month,

(B) that month were the first month for which public pension benefits were payable to the member,

(C) the member were entitled to the maximum amount of benefits payable under the Old Age Security Act, and

(D) the member were entitled to that proportion, not exceeding 1, of the maximum benefits payable under the Canada Pension Plan (or a provincial plan as defined in section 3 of the Canada Pension Plan) that the total of the member's remuneration for the 3 calendar years in which the remuneration is the highest is of the total of the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for those 3 years (or such other proportion of remuneration to Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings as is acceptable to the Minister),

B is

(A) except where clause (B) is applicable, the number of months, if any, from the date on which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member to the date on which the member attains 60 years of age, and

(B) where the member is totally and permanently disabled at the time the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member and the member was not, at any time after 1990, connected with an employer who has participated in the plan, nil,

C is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of the Consumer Price Index for a month not before the month in which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member and not after the particular month, to the Consumer Price Index for the month in which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member, and

(A) except where clause (B) is applicable, the lesser of 10 and

(I) where the member was not, at any time after 1990, connected with an employer who has participated in the plan, the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is pensionable service of the member under the provision, and

(II) in any other case, the aggregate that would be determined under subclause (I) if the duration of each period were multiplied by a fraction (not greater than 1) that measures the services rendered by the member throughout the period to employers who participate in the plan as a proportion of the services that would have been rendered by the member throughout the period to such employers had the member rendered services on a full-time basis, and

(B) where the member is totally and permanently disabled at the time at which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member and the member was not, at any time after 1990, connected with an employer who has participated in the plan, 10;

(c) guarantee period — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "continued retirement benefits") provided to one or more beneficiaries of a member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) the continued retirement benefits are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending

(A) if retirement benefits permissible under paragraph (d) are provided under the provision to a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member, no later than five years, and

(B) in any other case, no later than 15 years after the day on which retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member, and

(ii) the aggregate amount of continued retirement benefits payable under the provision for each month does not exceed the amount of retirement benefits that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive;

(d) post-retirement survivor benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "survivor retirement benefits") provided to one or more beneficiaries of a member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) each beneficiary is, at the time of the member's death, a spouse, a common-law partner, a former spouse, a former common-law partner or a dependant, of the member,

(ii) the survivor retirement benefits provided to a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending with the death of the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner,

(iii) the survivor retirement benefits provided to a dependant are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending no later than at the end of the dependant's eligible survivor benefit period,

(iv) the amount of survivor retirement benefits payable for each month to a beneficiary does not exceed 66⅔ per cent of the amount of retirement benefits that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive, and

(v) the aggregate amount of survivor retirement benefits and other retirement benefits payable under the provision for each month to beneficiaries of the member does not exceed the amount of retirement benefits that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive;

(e) pre-retirement survivor benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "survivor retirement benefits") provided to one or more beneficiaries of a member who dies before retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) no other benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (g), (j), (l.1) or (n)) are payable as a consequence of the member's death,

(ii) each beneficiary is, at the time of the member's death, a spouse, a common-law partner, a former spouse, a former common-law partner or a dependant, of the member,

(iii) the survivor retirement benefits provided to a spouse or common-law partner are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending with the death of the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner,

(iv) the survivor retirement benefits provided to a dependant are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending no later than at the end of the dependant's eligible survivor benefit period,

(v) the amount of survivor retirement benefits payable for a month to a beneficiary does not exceed 66⅔ per cent of the amount that is determined in respect of the month by the formula set out in subparagraph (vi), and

(vi) the aggregate amount of survivor retirement benefits payable under the provision for a particular month to beneficiaries of the member does not exceed the amount that is determined for the particular month by the formula

$$\frac{(A + B)}{12} \times C$$

where

A is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that accrued under the provision to the member as of the member's day of death, determined without any reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both, and without any other similar reduction,

B is, in the case of a member who attains 65 years of age before the member's death or who was, at any time after 1990, connected with an employer who has participated in the plan, nil, and, otherwise, the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(A) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that could reasonably be expected to have accrued to the member to the day on which the member would have attained 65 years of age if the member had survived to that day and continued in employment and if the member's rate of remuneration had not increased after the member's day of death, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which ½ of the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the calendar year in which the member dies exceeds such amount as is required by the Minister to be determined in respect of benefits provided, as a consequence of the death of the member, under other benefit provisions of the plan and under benefit provisions of other registered pension plans

exceeds the amount determined for A, and

C is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of the Consumer Price Index for a month not before the month in which the member dies and not after the particular month, to the Consumer Price Index for the month in which the member dies;

(f) pre-retirement survivor benefits — alternative rule — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "survivor benefits") provided to a beneficiary of a member who dies before retirement benefits under the defined benefit provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) no other benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (g), (j), (l.1) or (n)) are payable as a consequence of the member's death,

(ii) the beneficiary is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member,

(iii) the survivor benefits are payable for a period beginning not later than the later of

(A) the day that is one year after the day of death of the member, and

(B) the end of the calendar year in which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age, and ending with the death of the beneficiary,

(iv) the survivor benefits would be in accordance with paragraph (a) if the beneficiary were a member of the plan, and

(v) the present value (at the time of the member's death) of all benefits provided as a consequence of the member's death does not exceed the present value (immediately before the member's death) of all benefits that have accrued under the provision with respect to the member to the day of the member's death;

(g) pre-retirement survivor benefits — guarantee period — retirement benefits provided to one or more individuals as a consequence of the death of a person who

(i) is a beneficiary of a member who died before retirement benefits under the provision commenced to be paid to the member,

(ii) was, at the time of the member's death, a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member, and

(iii) dies after the member's death,

where the benefits would be in accordance with paragraph (c) if the person were a member of the plan;

(h) lump-sum payments on termination — the payment, with respect to a member in connection with the member's termination from the plan (otherwise than by reason of death), of one or more single amounts where

(i) the payments are the last payments to be made under the provision with respect to the member,

(ii) if subparagraph (iii) is not applicable, each single amount does not exceed the balance in the member's net contribution account immediately before the time of payment of the single amount, and

(iii) if

(A) the Minister has, pursuant to subsection (5), waived the application of the conditions in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the provision, or

(B) the member's contributions under the provision for each calendar year after 1990 would have been in accordance with paragraph (4)(a) if the reference in clause (i)(B) thereof to "70 per cent" were read as a reference to "50 per cent", each single amount does not exceed the amount that would be the balance in the member's net contribution account immediately before the time of the payment of the single amount if, for each current service contribution made by the member under the provision, the account were credited at the time of the contribution with an additional amount equal to the amount of the contribution (other than the portion of the contribution, if any, paid in respect of one or more periods that were not periods of regular employment and that would not have been required to be paid by the member if the periods were periods of regular employment);

(i) payment of commuted value of benefits on death before retirement — the payment of one or more single amounts to one or more beneficiaries of a member who dies before retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) no retirement benefits are payable as a consequence of the member's death, and

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts, each of which is such a single amount (other than the portion thereof, if any, that can reasonably be considered to be interest, computed at a rate not exceeding a reasonable rate, in respect of the period from the day of death of the member to the day the single amount is paid), does not exceed the present value, immediately before the death of the member, of all benefits that have accrued under the provision with respect to the member to the day of the member's death;

(j) lump sum payments on death — the payment of one or more single amounts after the death of a member where

(i) the payments are the last payments to be made under the provision with respect to the member,

(ii) if the member dies before retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member and no retirement benefits are payable as a consequence of the member's death, the aggregate amount to be paid at any time complies with whichever of the conditions in subparagraphs (h)(ii) and (iii) would be applicable if the single amounts were paid in connection with the member's termination from the plan otherwise than by reason of death, and

(iii) if subparagraph (ii) is not applicable, the aggregate amount to be paid at any time does not exceed the balance, immediately before that time, in the member's net contribution account in relation to the provision;

(k) additional post-retirement death benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "additional death benefits") payable after the death of a member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where the additional death benefits are

(i) retirement benefits provided to a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member that are in excess of the benefits that are permissible under paragraph (d), but that would be permissible under that paragraph if the reference in subparagraph (d)(iv) to "66⅔ per cent" were read as a reference to "100 per cent",

(ii) retirement benefits provided to one or more beneficiaries of the member that are in excess of the benefits that are permissible under paragraph (c), but that would be permissible under that paragraph if it were read without reference to clause (i)(A) thereof, or

(iii) a combination of retirement benefits described in subparagraphs (i) and (ii), and where

(iv) the additional death benefits are provided in lieu of a proportion of the lifetime retirement benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provision to the member, and

(v) the present value of all benefits provided under the provision with respect to the member does not exceed the present value of the benefits that would be provided if

(A) the amount of the member's lifetime retirement benefits were determined without any reduction dependent on the benefits payable after the death of the member or on circumstances that are relevant in determining such death benefits,

(B) the maximum amount of retirement benefits that are permissible under paragraph (d) were payable to the member's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner after the death of the member, and

(C) those present values were determined as of

(I) except where subclause (II) applies, the particular time at which retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member, and

(II) where the additional death benefits become provided after the particular time, the time at which the additional death benefits become provided;

(l) additional bridging benefits — bridging benefits in excess of bridging benefits that are permissible under paragraph (b) (referred to in this paragraph as "additional bridging benefits") provided to a member where

(i) the additional bridging benefits would be permissible under paragraph (b) if

(A) the formula in subparagraph (b)(ii) were replaced by the formula "A/12 × C", and

(B) the description of A in subparagraph (b)(ii) were read as follows:

"A is 40% of the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the year in which the bridging benefits commence to be paid to the member,"

(ii) the additional bridging benefits are provided in lieu of all or a proportion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provision with respect to the member, and

(iii) the present value (at the time retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member) of all benefits provided under the provision with respect to the member does not exceed the present value (at that time) of the benefits that would be so provided if the additional bridging benefits were not provided;

(l.1) survivor bridging benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "survivor bridging benefits") provided to a beneficiary of a member after the death of the member where

(i) the beneficiary is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member,

(ii) the survivor bridging benefits are payable at the election of the beneficiary, and

(iii) the survivor bridging benefits would be in accordance with paragraph (l) if the beneficiary were a member of the plan;

(m) commutation of benefits — the payment with respect to a member of a single amount in full or partial satisfaction of the member's entitlement to other benefits under the provision, where the single amount does not exceed the total of

(i) the present value (at the particular time determined in accordance with subsection (2.1)) of

(A) the other benefits that, as a consequence of the payment, cease to be provided, and

(B) benefits, other than benefits referred to in clause (A), that it is reasonable to consider would cease to be provided as a consequence of the payment if

(I) where retirement benefits have not commenced to be paid under the provision to the member at the particular time, the plan provided for the retirement benefits that accrued to the member under the provision to be adjusted to reflect the increase in a general measure of wages and salaries from the particular time to the day on which the benefits commence to be paid, and

(II) the plan provided for periodic cost-of-living adjustments to be made to the retirement benefits payable under the provision to the member to reflect increases in the Consumer Price Index after the retirement benefits commence to be paid (other than increases before the particular time), and

(ii) interest (computed at a reasonable rate) from the particular time to the time the single amount is paid; and

(n) [commutation of benefits] — the payment, with respect to an individual after the death of a member, of a single amount in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to other benefits under the provision, where

(i) the individual is a beneficiary of the member,

(ii) the single amount does not exceed the total of

(A) the present value (at the particular time determined in accordance with subsection (2.1)) of the other benefits that, as a consequence of the payment, cease to be provided, and

(B) interest (computed at a reasonable rate) from the particular time to the time the single amount is paid, and

(iii) if the other benefits in respect of which the single amount is paid include benefits described in paragraph (e) and the beneficiary was a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member at the time of the member's death, the single amount is not transferred from the plan directly to another registered pension plan, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund except with the approval of the Minister.

(2.1) Rule for commutation of benefits — For the purpose of determining the limit on a single amount that can be paid with respect to an individual under paragraph (2)(m) or (n), the particular time referred to in that paragraph is

(a) except where paragraph (b) applies, the time the single amount is paid; and

(b) an earlier time than the time the single amount is paid, where

(i) the amount is based on a determination of the actuarial value (at the earlier time) of the individual's benefits,

(ii) the use of the earlier time in determining the actuarial value

(A) is required by the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province, or

(B) is reasonable having regard to accepted actuarial practice and the circumstances in which the individual acquires the right to the payment, and

(iii) except where clause (ii)(A) applies, the earlier time is no more than two years before the time the single amount is paid.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §9.18 (rule for commutation of benefits).

(3) Conditions applicable to benefits — For the purposes of subsection 8501(2) and subparagraph 8502(c)(i), the following conditions are applicable with respect to the benefits provided under each defined benefit provision of a pension plan:

(a) eligible service — the only lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member (other than additional lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member because the member is totally and permanently disabled at the time the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid) are lifetime retirement benefits provided in respect of one or more of the following periods (other than the portion of a period that is after the calendar year in which the member attains 71 years of age), namely,

(i) a period throughout which the member is employed in Canada by, and receives remuneration from, an employer who participates in the plan,

(ii) a period throughout which the member was employed in Canada by, and received remuneration from, a predecessor employer to an employer who participates in the plan,

(iii) an eligible period of temporary absence of the member with respect to an employer who participates in the plan or a predecessor employer to such an employer,

(iv) a period of disability of the member subsequent to a period described in subparagraph (i) where, throughout such part of the period of disability as is after 1990, the member is not connected with an employer who participates in the plan,

(v) a period in respect of which

(A) benefits that are attributable to employment of the member with a former employer accrued to the member under a defined benefit provision of another registered pension plan, or

(B) contributions were made by or on behalf of the member under a money purchase provision of another registered pension plan, where the member has ceased to be a member of that other plan,

(vi) a period throughout which the member was employed in Canada by a former employer where the period was an eligibility period for the participation of the member in another registered pension plan, and

(vii) a period acceptable to the Minister throughout which the member is employed outside Canada;

(b) benefit accruals after pension commencement — benefits are not provided under the provision (in this paragraph referred to as the "particular provision") to a member in respect of a period that is after the day on which retirement benefits commence to be paid to the member under a defined benefit provision of

(i) the plan, or

(ii) any other registered pension plan if

(A) an employer who participated under the particular provision for the benefit of the member, or

(B) an employer who does not deal at arm's length with an employer referred to in clause (A)

has participated under the defined benefit provision of the other plan for the benefit of the member;

(c) early retirement — where lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to a member at any time before

(i) in the case of a member whose benefits are provided in respect of employment in a public safety occupation, the earliest of

(A) the day on which the member attains 55 years of age,

(B) the day on which the member has 25 years of early retirement eligibility service in relation to the provision,

(C) the day on which the aggregate of the member's age (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) and years of early retirement eligibility service in relation to the provision is equal to 75, and

(D) if the member was not, at any time after 1990, connected with any employer who has participated in the plan, the day on which the member becomes totally and permanently disabled, and

(ii) in any other case, the earliest of

(A) the day on which the member attains 60 years of age,

(B) the day on which the member has 30 years of early retirement eligibility service in relation to the provision,

(C) the day on which the aggregate of the member's age (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) and years of early retirement eligibility service in relation to the provision is equal to 80, and

(D) if the member was not, at any time after 1990, connected with any employer who has participated in the plan, the day on which the member becomes totally and permanently disabled, the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits payable to the member for each calendar year does not exceed the amount determined for the year by the formula

$$X \times (1 - .0025 \times Y)$$

where

X is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that would be payable to the member for the year if the benefits were determined without a reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both, and without any other similar reduction, and

Y is the number of months in the period from the day on which lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid to the member to the earliest of the days that would be determined under clauses (i)(A) to (C) or (ii)(A) to (C), as the case may be, if the member continued in employment with an employer who participates in the plan, and, for the purposes of this paragraph,

(iii) "early retirement eligibility service" of a member in relation to a defined benefit provision of a pension plan means one or more periods each of which is

(A) a period that is pensionable service of the member under the provision, or

(B) a period throughout which the member was employed by an employer who has participated in the plan or by a predecessor employer to such an employer, and

(iv) "years of early retirement eligibility service" of a member in relation to a defined benefit provision of a pension plan means the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is early retirement eligibility service of the member in relation to the provision;

(d) increased benefits for disabled member — where the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member depends on whether the member is physically or mentally impaired at the time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of commencement") at which retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member,

(i) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable if the member

(A) is not totally and permanently disabled at the time of commencement, or

(B) is totally and permanently disabled at the time of commencement and was, at any time after 1990, connected with an employer who has participated in the plan satisfies the limit that would be determined by the formula set out in paragraph (c) if the member were not impaired at the time of commencement, and

(ii) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable for a particular month to the member if subparagraph (i) is not applicable does not exceed the amount that is determined for the particular month by the formula

$$\frac{(A + B)}{12} \times C$$

where

A is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that have accrued under the provision to the member to the time of commencement, determined as if the member were not impaired at the time of commencement and without any reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both, and without any other similar reduction,

B is, in the case of a member who attains 65 years of age before the time of commencement, nil, and, otherwise, the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(A) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that could reasonably be expected to have accrued to the member to the day on which the member would have attained 65 years of age if the member had survived to that day and continued in employment and if the member's rate of remuneration had not increased after the time of commencement, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the calendar year that includes the time of commencement exceeds such amount as is required by the Minister to be determined in respect of benefits provided to the member under other benefit provisions of the plan and under benefit provisions of other registered pension plans

C is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of the Consumer Price Index for a month not before the month that includes the time of commencement and not after the particular month, to the Consumer Price Index for the month that includes the time of commencement;

(e) pre-1991 benefits — all benefits provided under the provision in respect of periods before 1991 are acceptable to the Minister and, for the purposes of this condition, any benefits in respect of periods before 1991 that become provided after 1988 with respect to a member who is connected with an employer who participates in the plan or was so connected at any time before the benefits become provided shall, unless the Minister is notified in writing that the benefits are provided with respect to the member, be deemed to be unacceptable to the Minister;

(f) determination of retirement benefits — the amount of retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member is determined in such a manner that the member's pension credit (as determined under Part LXXXIII) under the provision for a calendar year with respect to an employer is determinable at the end of the year;

(g) benefit accrual rate — if the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member is determined, in part, by multiplying the member's remuneration (or a function of the member's remuneration) by an annual benefit accrual rate, or in a manner that is equivalent to that calculation, the annual benefit accrual rate or the equivalent annual benefit accrual rate does not exceed

(i) in the case of a member whose benefits are provided in respect of employment in a public safety occupation and for whom the formula for determining the amount of the lifetime retirement benefits can reasonably be considered to take into account public pension benefits, 2.33 per cent, and

(ii) in any other case, 2 per cent;

(h) increase in accrued benefits — where the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member in respect of a calendar year depends on

(i) the member's remuneration in subsequent years, or

(ii) the average wage (or other general measure of wages and salaries) for subsequent years, and this condition has not been waived by the Minister, the formula for determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits is such that

(iii) the percentage increase from year to year in the amount of lifetime retirement benefits that accrued to the member in respect of the year can reasonably be expected to approximate or be less than the percentage increase from year to year in the member's remuneration or in the average wage (or other general measure of wages and salaries), as the case may be, or

(iv) the condition in subparagraph (iii) is not satisfied only by reason that the formula can reasonably be considered to have been designed taking into account the public pension benefits payable to members, and, for the purposes of this condition, where in determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member there is deducted an amount described in subparagraph (j)(i), it shall be assumed that the amount so deducted is nil;

(i) where the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member in respect of a calendar year depends on the member's remuneration in other years, the formula for determining the amount of the lifetime retirement benefits is such that any increase in the amount of lifetime retirement benefits that accrued to the member in respect of the year that is attributable to increased remuneration is primarily attributable to an increase in the rate of the member's remuneration;

(j) offset benefits — where

(i) in determining the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member there is deducted

(A) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided to the member under a benefit provision of a registered pension plan, or

(B) the amount of a lifetime annuity that is provided to the member under a deferred profit sharing plan, and

(ii) a single amount is paid in full or partial satisfaction of the member's entitlement to benefits under the benefit provision referred to in clause (i)(A) or the deferred profit sharing plan referred to in clause (i)(B),

the amount that is so deducted in determining the amount of the member's lifetime retirement benefits under the defined benefit provision includes the amount of lifetime retirement benefits or lifetime annuity that may reasonably be considered to have been forgone as a consequence of the payment of the single amount;

(k) bridging benefits — cross-plan restriction — bridging benefits are not paid under the provision to a member who receives bridging benefits under another defined benefit provision of the plan (in this paragraph referred to as the "particular plan") or under a defined benefit provision of another registered pension plan, except that this condition is not applicable where it is waived by the Minister or where

(i) bridging benefits are paid to the member under only one defined benefit provision of the particular plan,

(ii) the decision to provide bridging benefits under the particular plan to the member was not made by the member, by persons with whom the member does not deal at arm's length or by the member and such persons, and

(iii) each employer who has participated in any registered pension plan (other than the particular plan) under a defined benefit provision of which the member receives bridging benefits

(A) has not participated in the particular plan, and

(B) has always dealt at arm's length with each employer who has participated in the particular plan, and, for the purposes of this paragraph, bridging benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan to the member do not include benefits that are provided on a basis no more favourable than an actuarially equivalent basis in lieu of all or a proportion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provision with respect to the member; and

(l) division of benefits on breakdown of the marriage or common-law partnership — if, by reason of a provision of a law described in subparagraph 8501(5)(b)(ii), an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of a member becomes entitled to receive all or a portion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the defined benefit provision to the member, and paragraph 8501(5)(d) applies with respect to the benefits,

(i) the present value of benefits provided under the provision with respect to the member (including, for greater certainty, benefits provided with respect to the individual) is not increased as a consequence of the individual becoming so entitled to benefits, and

(ii) the benefits provided under the provision to the member are not, at any time, adjusted to replace, in whole or in part, the portion of the member's benefits to which the individual has become entitled.

(4) Additional conditions — For the purposes of section 8501, the following conditions are applicable in respect of each defined benefit provision of a pension plan:

(a) member contributions — where members are required or permitted to make contributions under the provision,

(i) the aggregate amount of current service contributions to be made by a member in respect of a calendar year after 1990, no part of which is a period of disability or an eligible period of reduced pay or temporary absence of the member, does not exceed the lesser of

(A) 9 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the member's compensation for the year from an employer who participates in the plan in the year for the benefit of the member, and

(B) the aggregate of $1,000 and 70 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount that would be the member's pension credit (as determined under Part LXXXIII) for the year under the provision with respect to an employer if section 8302 were read without reference to paragraphs (2)(b) and (3)(g) thereof,

(ii) the method for determining current service contributions to be made by a member in respect of a calendar year that includes a period of disability or an eligible period of reduced pay or temporary absence of the member (referred to in this subparagraph as a "period of reduced services") is consistent with that used for determining contributions in respect of years described in subparagraph (i), except that the member may be permitted or required to make, in respect of a period of reduced services, current service contributions not exceeding the amount reasonably necessary to fund the member's benefits in respect of the period of reduced services, and

(iii) the aggregate amount of contributions to be made by a member in connection with benefits that, as a consequence of a transaction, event or circumstance occurring at a particular time, become provided under the provision in respect of periods before that time does not exceed the amount reasonably necessary to fund such benefits;

(b) pre-payment of member contributions — the contributions that are made under the provision by a member in respect of a calendar year are not paid before the year;

(c) reduction in benefits and return of contributions — where the plan is not established by an enactment of Canada or a province, it includes a stipulation that permits, for the purpose of avoiding revocation of the registration of the plan,

(i) the plan to be amended at any time to reduce the benefits provided under the provision with respect to a member, and

(ii) a contribution that is made under the provision by a member or an employer to be returned to the person who made the contribution which stipulation may provide that an amendment to the plan, or a return of contributions, is subject to the approval of the authority administering the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province;

(d) undue deferral of payment — each single amount that is payable after the death of a member is paid as soon as is practicable after the member's death (or, in the case of a single amount permitted by reason of paragraph (2)(j), after all other benefits have been paid);

(e) evidence of disability — where additional lifetime retirement benefits are provided under the provision to a member because the member is totally and permanently disabled, the additional benefits are not paid before the plan administrator has received from a medical doctor who is licensed to practise under the laws of a province or of the place where the member resides a written report providing the information on the medical condition of the member taken into account by the administrator in determining that the member is totally and permanently disabled; and

(f) where lifetime retirement benefits are provided under the provision to a member in respect of a period of disability of the member, the benefits, to the extent that they would not be in accordance with paragraph (3)(a) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (iv) thereof, are not paid before the plan administrator has received from a medical doctor who is licensed to practise under the laws of a province or of the place where the member resides a written report providing the information on the medical condition of the member taken into account by the administrator in determining that the period is a period of disability.

(5) Waiver of member contribution conditions — The Minister may waive the conditions in paragraph (4)(a) where member contributions under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan are determined in a manner acceptable to the Minister and it is reasonable to expect that, on a long-term basis, the aggregate of the regular current service contributions made under the provision by all members will not exceed ½ of the amount that is required to fund the aggregate benefits in respect of which those contributions are made.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.6 (waiver of member contribution condition).

(6) Pre-retirement death benefits — A pension plan may provide, in the case of a member who dies before retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan commence to be paid to the member but after becoming eligible to have retirement benefits commence to be paid, benefits under the provision to the beneficiaries of the member where the benefits would be in accordance with subsection (2) if retirement benefits under the provision had commenced to be paid to the member immediately before the member's death.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8501(3) — Conditions inapplicable where inconsistent with 8503(6).

(7) Commutation of lifetime retirement benefits — Where a pension plan permits a member to receive a single amount in full or partial satisfaction of the member's entitlement to lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan, the following rules apply:

(a) the condition in subparagraph (2)(b)(i) that the payment of bridging benefits under the provision not commence before lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member is not applicable where, before the member's lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid, a single amount is paid in full satisfaction of the member's entitlement to the lifetime retirement benefits; and

(b) such part of the member's lifetime retirement benefits as remains payable after a single amount is paid in full satisfaction of the member's entitlement to lifetime retirement benefits that would otherwise be payable after the member attains a particular age shall be deemed, for the purposes of the conditions in this section, to be lifetime retirement benefits and not to be bridging benefits.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.8 (commutation of lifetime retirement benefits).

(7.1) Bridging benefits and election — Where a pension plan permits a member, or a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member, to elect to receive benefits described in any of paragraphs (2)(b), (l) or (l.1) under a defined benefit provision of the plan on a basis no more favourable than an actuarially equivalent basis in lieu of all or a proportion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provision with respect to the member, the following rules apply:

(a) the condition in subparagraph (2)(b)(i) that the payment of bridging benefits under the provision not commence before lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member does not apply if, as a consequence of the election, no lifetime retirement benefits remain payable under the provision to the member; and

(b) for the purpose of determining whether retirement benefits provided under the provision to beneficiaries of the member are in accordance with paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (k), the election may be disregarded.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.9 (bridging benefits and elections).

(8) Suspension or cessation of pension — A pension plan may provide for

(a) the suspension of payment of a member's retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan where

(i) the retirement benefits payable to the member after the suspension are not altered by reason of the suspension, or

(ii) subsection (9) is applicable in respect of the member's retirement benefits; and

(b) the cessation of payment of any additional benefits that are payable to a member under a defined benefit provision of the plan because of a physical or mental impairment of the member or the termination of the member's employment under a downsizing program (within the meaning assigned by subsection 8505(1)).

Related Provisions: Reg. 8501(3) — Conditions inapplicable where inconsistent with 8503(8).

History: Para. 8503(8)(b) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 11(6), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.10 (suspension or cessation of pension).

(9) Re-employed member — Subject to subsection (10), where a pension plan provides, in the case of a member who becomes an employee of a participating employer after the member's retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan have commenced to be paid, that

(a) payment of the member's retirement benefits under the provision is suspended while the member is employed by a participating employer, and

(b) the amount of retirement benefits payable to the member after the suspension is redetermined

(i) to include benefits in respect of all or any part of the period throughout which payment of the member's benefits was suspended,

(i.1) where the retirement benefits payable under the provision to the member after the suspension are not adjusted by any cost-of-living or similar adjustments in respect of the period throughout which payment of the member's benefits was suspended, to take into account the member's remuneration from the employer for the period throughout which payment of the benefits was suspended,

(ii) where the member was totally and permanently disabled at the time the member's retirement benefits commenced to be paid, to include benefits in respect of all or a part of the period of disability of the member,

(iii) where the amount of the member's retirement benefits was previously determined with a reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both, or with any other similar reduction, by redetermining the amount of the reduction, or

(iv) where payment of the member's retirement benefits resumes after the member attains 65 years of age, by applying an adjustment for the purpose of compensating, in whole or in part, for the payments forgone by the member after attaining 65 years of age,

the following rules apply:

(c) the condition in paragraph (3)(b) is not applicable in respect of benefits provided under the provision to the member in respect of a period throughout which payment of the member's benefits is suspended,

(d) where the member was totally and permanently disabled at the time the member's retirement benefits commenced to be paid, the condition in paragraph (3)(b) is not applicable in respect of benefits provided under the provision to the member in respect of a period of disability of the member,

(e) the conditions in paragraphs (2)(b) and (3)(c) and (d) and section 8504 are applicable in respect of benefits payable under the provision to the member after a suspension of the member's retirement benefits as if the member's retirement benefits had not previously commenced to be paid,

(f) for the purpose of paragraph 8502(c) as it applies in respect of benefits provided under the provision on the death of the member during or after a period throughout which payment of the member's benefits is suspended, subsections (2) and (6) are applicable as if the member's retirement benefits had not commenced to be paid before the period, and

(g) the provisions in paragraph (2)(m), Part LXXXIII and subsection 8517(4) that depend on whether the member's retirement benefits have commenced to be paid apply to past service events, commutations and transfers occurring in the period in which the member's benefits are suspended as if the member's benefits had not previously commenced to be paid.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.11 (re-employed member).

(10) Re-employed member — special rules not applicable — Subsection (9) does not apply in respect of benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan to a member unless the terms of the plan that provide for the redetermination of the amount of the member's retirement benefits do not apply where retirement benefits have, at any time, been paid under the provision to the member while the member was an employee of a participating employer.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8503(11.1) — Special rules for member aged 70–71 in 2007.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.12 (re-employed member — rules not applicable).

(11) Re-employed member — anti-avoidance — Where a member of a registered pension plan has become an employee of a participating employer after the member's retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan have commenced to be paid and it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the employment of the member is to enable the member to benefit from terms of the plan that provide for a redetermination of the amount of the member's retirement benefits provided in respect of a period before the benefits commenced to be paid, the plan becomes a revocable plan at the time the payment of the member's benefits resumes.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.13 (re-employed member — anti-avoidance).

(11.1) Special rules for member aged 70 or 71 in 2007 — Where

(a) a member of a registered pension plan attained 69 years of age in 2005 or 2006,

(b) the member's retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan commenced to be paid to the member in the year in which the member attained 69 years of age,

(c) the member's retirement benefits are suspended as of any particular time in 2007, and

(d) the member was employed with a participating employer from the time the member's retirement benefits commenced to be paid to the particular time,

the following rules apply:

(e) subsections (9) and (11) shall apply with respect to the member as though the member became an employee of the participating employer at the particular time, and

(f) for the purpose of subsection (10), retirement benefits paid under the provision to the member before the particular time shall be disregarded.

History: Subsec. 8503(11.1) added by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 35(2), applicable after 2006.

(12) Limits dependent on Consumer Price Index — Benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan that are benefits to which a condition in any of subparagraphs (2)(b)(ii) and (e)(v) and (vi) and (3)(d)(ii) is applicable shall be deemed to comply with the condition where they would so comply if the Consumer Price Index ratio computed as part of the formula that applies for the purpose of the condition were replaced by a substantially similar measure of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.14 (limits dependent on Consumer Price Index).

(13) Statutory plans — special rules — Notwithstanding subsection (3),

(a) for the purposes of the condition in paragraph (3)(b) as it applies in respect of benefits provided under the pension plan established by the Public Service Superannuation Act, the reference to "any other registered pension plan" in subparagraph (3)(b)(ii) does not include the pension plans established by the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act; and

(b) the condition in paragraph (3)(c) does not apply in respect of benefits provided under the pension plan established by the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.15 (statutory plans — special rules).

(14) Artificially reduced pension adjustment — Where

(a) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan to a member depends on the member's remuneration,

(b) remuneration (in this subsection referred to as "excluded remuneration") of certain types is disregarded for the purpose of determining the amount of the member's lifetime retirement benefits, and

(c) it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that remuneration in the form of excluded remuneration was paid to the member by an employer at any time was to artificially reduce a pension credit of the member under the provision with respect to the employer, the following rules apply for the purposes of the conditions in subsection 8504(1):

(d) the member shall be deemed to have been connected with the employer while the member was employed by the employer, and

(e) the member shall be deemed not to have received such remuneration as is excluded remuneration.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.14 (connected person); §11.16 (artificially reduced pension adjustment).

(15) Past service employer contributions — Where

(a) a contribution that is made by an employer to a registered pension plan is made, in whole or in part, in respect of benefits (in this subsection referred to as "past service benefits") provided under the plan to a member in respect of a period before 1990 and before the calendar year in which the contribution is made,

(b) the contribution is made

(i) after December 10, 1989, or

(ii) before December 10, 1989 where the contribution has not, before that date, been approved by the Minister under paragraph 20(1)(s) of the Act, and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that all or substantially all of such portion of the contribution as is in respect of past service benefits was paid by the employer, with the consent of the member, in lieu of a payment or other benefit to which the member would otherwise be entitled, the plan becomes, for the purposes of paragraph 147.1(11)(c) of the Act, a revocable plan on the later of December 11, 1989 and the day immediately before the day on which the contribution is made.

(16) [Phased retirement benefits] Definitions — The following definitions apply in this subsection and in subsections (17) to (23).

"qualifying period" of a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan means a period throughout which the member is employed by an employer who participates in the plan but does not include any period that is before the day that is the first day, on or after the later of the following days, in respect of which retirement benefits are provided under the provision to the member:

(a) the day on which retirement benefits first commenced to be paid to the member under the provision; and

(b) the member's specified eligibility day under the provision.

"specified eligibility day" of a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan means the earlier of

(a) the later of

(i) the day on which the member attains 55 years of age, and

(ii) the day on which the member attains the earliest age at which payment of the member's lifetime retirement benefits may commence under the terms of the provision without a reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both (and without any other similar reduction), otherwise than because of the member being totally and permanently disabled; and

(b) the day on which the member attains 60 years of age.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.18 (definitions for purpose of phased retirement benefits).

(17) Bridging benefits payable on a stand-alone basis — The condition in subparagraph (2)(b)(i) that bridging benefits be payable to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan for a period beginning no earlier than the time lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member does not apply where the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) the bridging benefits do not commence to be paid before the member's specified eligibility day under the provision;

(b) the plan provides that bridging benefits are payable under the provision to the member only for calendar months

(i) at any time in which the member is employed by an employer who participates in the plan, or

(ii) that begin on or after the time the member's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid;

(c) the member was not, at any time before the time at which the bridging benefits commence to be paid, connected with an employer who participates in the plan; and

(d) the plan is not a designated plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.19 (bridging benefits payable on a stand-alone basis).

(18) Rules of application — Where bridging benefits under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan commence to be paid to a member in circumstances to which subsection (17) applies, the following rules apply:

(a) if the member dies before lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member, subsections (2) and (6) apply in respect of benefits provided under the provision on the death of the member as if the bridging benefits had not commenced to be paid before the member's death; and

(b) the provisions in paragraph (2)(m), Part LXXXIII and subsection 8517(4) that depend on whether the member's retirement benefits have commenced to be paid apply to past service events, commutations and transfers occurring before lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member as if the bridging benefits had not commenced to be paid.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.20 (rules of application).

(19) Benefit accruals after pension commencement [phased retirement] — Paragraph (3)(b) does not apply to retirement benefits (in this subsection and in subsections (20) and (21) referred to as "additional benefits") provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan to a member of the plan if the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) the additional benefits are provided in respect of all or part of a qualifying period of the member under the provision;

(b) the amount of retirement benefits payable to the member under the provision for each whole calendar month in the qualifying period does not exceed 5% of the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of retirement benefits that have accrued under the provision to the member to the beginning of the month, determined without a reduction computed by reference to the member's age, duration of service, or both, and without any other similar reduction (except that, if the plan limits the amount of pensionable service of a member or prohibits the provision of benefits in respect of periods after a member attains a specific age or combination of age and pensionable service, this condition does not apply to any calendar month in respect of which no benefits can be provided to the member because of the limit or prohibition, as the case may be);

(c) no part of the additional benefits are provided as a consequence of a past service event, unless the benefits are provided in circumstances to which subsection 8306(1) would apply if no qualifying transfers were made in connection with the past service event;

(d) the member was not, at any time before the additional benefits become provided, connected with an employer who participates in the plan; and

(e) the plan is not a designated plan.

(21) Rules of application — Where additional benefits are provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan to a member in respect of a qualifying period of the member under the provision, the following rules apply:

(a) if the qualifying period ends as a consequence of the member's death, subsections (2) and (6) apply in respect of benefits provided under the provision on the death of the member as if the member's retirement benefits had not commenced to be paid before the member's death; and

(b) the provisions in paragraph (2)(m), Part LXXXIII and subsection 8517(4) that depend on whether the member's retirement benefits have commenced to be paid apply to past service events, commutations and transfers occurring in the qualifying period as if the member's retirement benefits had not commenced to be paid.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8503(19) — Meaning of "additional benefits"; Reg. 8503(22) — Anti-avoidance.

(22) Anti-avoidance — Subsections (20) and (21) do not apply where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the provision of additional benefits to the member is to obtain the benefit of any of those subsections.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.24 (anti-avoidance).

(23) Cross-plan rules — Where a member is provided with benefits under two or more associated defined benefit provisions, the determination of whether the conditions in subsections (17) and (19) are satisfied in respect of benefits payable or provided to the member under a particular associated provision shall be made on the basis of the following assumptions:

(a) benefits payable to the member under each of the other associated provisions were payable under the particular associated provision;

(b) if, before the member's specified eligibility day (determined without reference to this paragraph) under the particular associated provision, the member had commenced to receive retirement benefits under another associated provision on or after the member's specified eligibility day under that provision, the member's specified eligibility day under the particular associated provision were the member's specified eligibility day under that other associated provision; and

(c) if one or more of the other associated provisions is in a designated plan, the plan that includes the particular provision were also a designated plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8503(24), (25) — Meaning of "associated".

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.25 (cross-plan rules).

(24) Associated defined benefit provisions — For the purpose of subsection (23), a defined benefit provision is associated with another defined benefit provision (other than a provision that is not in a registered pension plan) if

(a) the provisions are in the same pension plan; or

(b) the provisions are in separate pension plans and

(i) there is an employer who participates in both plans, or

(ii) an employer who participates in one of the plans does not deal at arm's length with an employer who participates in the other plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8503(25) — Exception.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §11.26 (associated defined benefit provisions).

(25) Subsec. (24) not applicable — A particular defined benefit provision of a pension plan is not associated with a defined benefit provision of another pension plan if it is unreasonable to expect the benefits under the particular provision to be coordinated with the benefits under the other provision and the Minister has agreed not to treat the particular provision as being associated with the other provision.

History [Reg. 8503(16)–(25)]: Subsecs. 8503(16) to (25) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 83(3), applicable to benefits that are provided or payable after 2007.

(26) IPP — minimum withdrawal — An individual pension plan becomes a revocable plan at the end of a year if

(a) a person who is a member or a beneficiary, in respect of the plan, who was, at the time of the member's death, a spouse or common-law partner of the member, is in receipt of retirement benefits under the terms of the plan;

(b) the person has attained 71 years of age before the year; and

(c) the plan has not paid in the year an amount to the person equal to the greater of the retirement benefits payable to the person for the year and the IPP minimum amount for the person for the year.

8504. Maximum benefits — (1) Lifetime retirement benefits — For the purposes of subparagraph 8502(c)(i), the following conditions are applicable in respect of the lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan:

(a) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits payable to the member for the calendar year (in this paragraph referred to as the "year of commencement") in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid does not exceed the aggregate of

(i) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is, in respect of a calendar year after 1990 (in this paragraph referred to as a "specified year") in which the member was, at any time, connected with an employer who participated in the plan in the year for the benefit of the member, the lesser of

(A) the amount determined by the formula

$$.02 \times A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the member's compensation for the specified year from an employer who participated under the provision in the year for the benefit of the member,

B is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the average wage for a calendar year not before the specified year and not after the year of commencement, and

C is the average wage for the specified year, and

(B) the amount determined by the formula

$$D \times E$$

where

D is the defined benefit limit for the year of commencement, and

E is the fraction of the specified year that is pensionable service of the member under the provision, and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$F \times G$$

where

F is the lesser of

(A) 2 per cent of the member's highest average compensation (computed under subsection (2)) for the purpose of the provision, indexed to the year of commencement, and

(B) the defined benefit limit for the year of commencement, and;

G is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is pensionable service of the member under the provision and no part of which is in a specified year; and

(b) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits payable to the member for a particular calendar year after the year in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid does not exceed the product of

(i) the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs (a)(i) and (ii), and

(ii) the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of

(A) the average Consumer Price Index for a calendar year not earlier than the calendar year in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid and not later than the particular year

to

(B) the average Consumer Price Index for the calendar year in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid.

(2) Highest average compensation — For the purposes of subsection (1) and paragraph 8505(3)(d), the highest average compensation of a member of a pension plan for the purpose of a defined benefit provision of the plan, indexed to the calendar year (in this subsection referred to as the "year of commencement") in which the member's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid, is,

(a) in the case of a member who has been employed for 3 non-overlapping periods of 12 consecutive months each by employers who participated under the provision for the benefit of the member, 1/3 of the greatest of all amounts each of which is the aggregate of the member's total indexed compensation for the purpose of the provision for each of the 36 months in 3 such periods throughout which the member was so employed, and

(b) in any other case, the amount determined by the formula

$$12 \times \frac{H}{I}$$

where

H is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the member's total indexed compensation for the purpose of the provision for a month throughout which the member was employed by an employer who participated under the provision for the benefit of the member, and

I is the number of months for which total indexed compensation is included in the amount determined for H, and, for the purposes of this subsection, the member's total indexed compensation for a month for the purpose of the provision is the amount determined by the formula

$$J \times \frac{K}{L}$$

where

J is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is such portion of the member's compensation for the calendar year (in this subsection referred to as the "compensation year") that includes the month from an employer who participated under the provision for the benefit of the member as may reasonably be considered to have been received in the month or to otherwise relate to the month,

K is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the average wage for a calendar year not before the later of the compensation year and 1986 and not after the year of commencement, and

L is the average wage for the later of the compensation year and 1986.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.2 (highest average compensation).

Proposed Addition — Reg. 8504(2.1)

(2.1) Predecessor employer — For the purposes of subsection (2), if the pensionable service of the member under the provision includes a period throughout which the member was employed by a predecessor employer to an employer who participates in the plan, the predecessor employer is deemed to have participated under the provision for the benefit of the member.

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), s. 44, will add subsec. 8504(2.1), applicable after 1990.

Technical Notes: Subsection 8504(2) specifies how to compute the highest average indexed compensation of a plan member for the purpose of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan. The highest average indexed compensation is relevant in determining, under subsection 8504(1), the maximum lifetime retirement benefits that may be paid to the member.

New subsection 8504(2.1) accommodates situations where part or all of an employee's highest compensation was earned with a predecessor employer. Under new subsection 8504(2.1), where the pensionable service of a plan member includes a period of employment with a predecessor employer (see also new ITA subsection 147.2(8)), the predecessor employer is deemed to have participated under the defined benefit provision for the benefit of the member. These amendments ensure that compensation received by the plan member for periods of employment with the predecessor employer is taken into account for purposes of computing the highest average compensation, and hence for purposes of the maximum lifetime retirement benefits payable to the member.

(3) Alternative compensation rules — Lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan shall be deemed to comply with the conditions in subsection (1) where they would so comply if either or both of the following rules were applicable:

(a) determine, for the purpose of subsection (2), the member's compensation from an employer for a calendar year by adding to the compensation otherwise determined such portion of the amount of each bonus and retroactive increase in remuneration paid by the employer to the member after the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the year and by deducting therefrom such portion of the amount of each bonus and retroactive increase in remuneration paid by the employer to the member in the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of a preceding year; and

(b) determine, for the purpose of computing the amount J in subsection (2), the portion of the member's compensation from an employer for a calendar year that may reasonably be considered to relate to a month in the year by apportioning the compensation uniformly over the period in the year in respect of which it was paid.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.3 (alternative compensation rules).

(4) Part-time employees — Where the pensionable service of a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan includes a period throughout which the member rendered services on a part-time basis to an employer who participates in the plan, the lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to the member shall be deemed to comply with the conditions in subsection (1) where they would so comply or be deemed by subsection (3) to so comply if

(a) for the purpose of determining the amount J in subsection (2), the member's compensation from an employer for a calendar year in which the member rendered services on a part-time basis to the employer were the amount that it is reasonable to expect would have been the member's compensation for the year from the employer if the member had rendered services to the employer on a full-time basis throughout the period or periods in the year throughout which the member rendered services to the employer, and

(b) in determining the amount G in subparagraph (1)(a)(ii), the duration of each period were multiplied by a fraction (not greater than 1) that measures the services rendered by the member throughout the period to employers who participate in the plan as a proportion of the services that would have been rendered by the member throughout the period to such employers had the member rendered services on a full-time basis,

and, for the purposes of this subsection,

(c) where a member of a pension plan has rendered services throughout a period to 2 or more employers who participate in the plan, the employers shall be deemed to be, throughout the period, the same employer, and

(d) where a period is

(i) an eligible period of reduced pay or temporary absence of a member of a pension plan with respect to an employer, or

(ii) a period of disability of the member,

the member shall be deemed to have

(iii) rendered services throughout the period on a regular basis (having regard to the services rendered by the employee before the period) to the employer or employers by whom the member was employed before the period, and

(iv) received remuneration throughout the period at a rate commensurate with the member's rate of remuneration before the period.

(5) Retirement benefits before age 65 — For the purposes of subparagraph 8502(c)(i), the following conditions are applicable in respect of retirement benefits payable under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan to a member of the plan for the period (in this subsection referred to as the "bridging period") from the time the benefits commence to be paid to the time the member attains 65 years of age:

(a) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of retirement benefits payable to the member for that part of the bridging period that is in the calendar year in which the benefits commence to be paid does not exceed the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the defined benefit limit for the calendar year in which the benefits commence to be paid,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is pensionable service of the member under the provision,

C is the average of the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the year in which the benefits commence to be paid and for each of the 2 immediately preceding years, and

D is the lesser of 35 and the amount determined for B; and

(b) the amount of retirement benefits (expressed on an annualized basis) payable to the member for that part of the bridging period that is in a particular calendar year after the year in which the retirement benefits commence to be paid does not exceed the product of

(i) the amount determined by the formula set out in paragraph (a), and

(ii) the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of

(A) the average Consumer Price Index for a calendar year not earlier than the calendar year in which the retirement benefits commence to be paid and not later than the particular year

to

(B) the average Consumer Price Index for the calendar year in which the retirement benefits commence to be paid.

(a) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of such lifetime retirement benefits payable to the member for a particular calendar year (in this subsection referred to as the "payment year")

does not exceed

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{2}{3} \times A \times B \times C$$

where

A is the greater of $1,725 and the defined benefit limit for the year in which the benefits commence to be paid,

B is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured as a fraction of a year) of a period in the benefit year that is pensionable service of the member under the provision, and

C is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of

(i) the average Consumer Price Index for a calendar year not earlier than the calendar year in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid and not later than the payment year

to

(ii) the average Consumer Price Index for the calendar year in which the lifetime retirement benefits commence to be paid.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.6 (pre-1990 benefits).

(7) Limit not applicable — The condition in subsection (6) is not applicable with respect to lifetime retirement benefits provided to an individual in respect of periods of pensionable service in a particular calendar year if

(a) at any time before June 8, 1990, a period in the particular year was pensionable service of the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan;

(b) on June 7, 1990, the individual was entitled, pursuant to an arrangement in writing, to be provided with lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan in respect of a period in the particular year, whether or not the individual's entitlement was conditional upon the individual making contributions under the provision;

(c) at the commencement of the particular year, a period in a preceding year was pensionable service of the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, and the individual did not, by reason of disability or leave of absence, render services in the particular year to an employer who participated in the plan with respect to the individual;

(d) contributions were made before June 8, 1990 by or on behalf of the individual under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan in respect of the year; or

(e) contributions were made in the year by or on behalf of the individual to a deferred profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8500(7) — Amounts allocated under money purchase provision deemed to be contribution.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.7 (limit not applicable).

(8) Cross-plan restrictions — Where an individual is provided with benefits under more than one defined benefit provision, the determination of whether the benefits provided to the individual under a particular defined benefit provision comply with the conditions in subsections (5) and (6) shall be made on the assumption that benefits provided to the individual under each other defined benefit provision (other than a provision that is not included in a registered pension plan) associated with the particular provision were provided under the particular provision.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8504(9) — Associated defined benefit provisions; Reg. 8510(5) — Special rules — multi-employer plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.8 (cross-plan restrictions).

(9) Associated defined benefit provisions — For the purposes of subsection (8), a defined benefit provision is associated with a particular defined benefit provision if

(a) the provisions are in the same pension plan, or

(b) the provisions are in separate pension plans and

(i) there is an employer who participates in both plans,

(ii) an employer who participates in one of the plans does not deal at arm's length with an employer who participates in the other plan, or

(iii) there is an individual who is provided with benefits under both provisions and the individual, or a person with whom the individual does not deal at arm's length, has the power to determine the benefits that are provided under the particular provision, unless it is unreasonable to expect the benefits under the particular provision to be coordinated with the benefits under the other provision and the Minister has agreed not to treat the other provision as being associated with the particular provision.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.9 (associated defined benefit provisions).

(10) Excluded benefits — For the purpose of determining whether lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan comply with the conditions in subsection (1), the following benefits shall be disregarded:

(a) additional lifetime retirement benefits payable to a member because the member is totally and permanently disabled at the time the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid; and

(b) additional lifetime retirement benefits payable to a member whose retirement benefits commence to be paid after the member attains 65 years of age, where the additional benefits result from an adjustment that is made to offset, in whole or in part, the decrease in the value of lifetime retirement benefits that would otherwise result by reason of the deferral of such benefits after the member attains 65 years of age and the adjustment is not more favourable than such an adjustment made on an actuarially equivalent basis.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8504(11), (12) — Benefits to be disregarded.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.10 (excluded benefits).

(11) [Excluded benefits] — For the purpose of determining whether retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan comply with the conditions in subsection (5), the following benefits shall be disregarded:

(a) additional lifetime retirement benefits described in paragraph (10)(a); and

(b) bridging benefits payable at the election of a member, where the benefits are provided on a basis that is not more favourable than an actuarially equivalent basis in lieu of all or a proportion of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provision with respect to the member.

History: Para. 8504(11)(b) amended by P.C. 2001-153, s. 7, January 30, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 14, 2001, applicable after June 4, 1997.

(12) [Excluded benefits] — For the purpose of determining whether lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan comply with the condition in subsection (6), additional lifetime retirement benefits that are described in paragraph (10)(b) shall be disregarded.

(13) Alternative CPI indexing — The lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan shall be deemed to comply with the condition in paragraph (1)(b) where they would so comply, or would be deemed by subsection (3) or (4) to so comply, if the ratio that is determined under subparagraph (1)(b)(ii) were replaced by a substantially similar measure of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §12.11 (alternative CPI indexing).

(14) [Idem] — The retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan shall be deemed to comply with the condition in paragraph (5)(b) where they would so comply if the ratio that is determined under subparagraph (5)(b)(ii) were replaced by a substantially similar measure of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

(15) [Idem] — The lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan shall be deemed to comply with the condition in subsection (6) where they would so comply if the amount C in the formula set out in paragraph (6)(b) were replaced by a substantially similar measure of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

8505. Additional benefits on downsizing — (1) Downsizing program — For the purposes of this section, "downsizing program" means the actions that are taken by an employer to bring about a reduction in the employer's workforce, including

(a) the termination of the employment of employees; and

(b) the payment of amounts and the provision of special benefits to employees who elect to or are required to terminate their employment.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.1 (downsizing program).

(2) Applicability of downsizing rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a downsizing program is an approved downsizing program if the Minister has approved in writing the application of this section in respect of the program;

(b) subject to subsection (2.1), an individual is a qualifying individual in relation to an approved downsizing program if

(i) the employment of the individual is terminated while the downsizing program is in effect,

(ii) the individual was not, at any time before the termination of employment, connected with the employer from whom the individual terminated employment, and

(iii) the Minister has approved in writing the application of this section to the individual; and

(c) the specified day is, in respect of an approved downsizing program,

(i) the day that is designated by the Minister in writing for the purpose of subparagraph (3)(c)(ii), and

(ii) if no such day has been designated, the day that is 2 years after the day on which the Minister approves the application of this section in respect of the downsizing program.

History: The portion of para. 8505(2)(b) before subpara. (i) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 12(1), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to an individual whose employment is terminated after February 14, 1992, other than an individual who, on or before that date,

(a) was notified that the individual's employment would be terminated after that date; or

(b) elected to terminate employment after that date.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.2 (applicability of downsizing rules).

(2.1) Qualifying individual — exclusion — An individual whose employment is terminated under an approved downsizing program is not a qualifying individual in relation to the program if, at the time the individual's employment is terminated, it is reasonable to expect that

(a) the individual will become employed by, or provide services to,

(i) a person or body of persons from whom the individual terminated employment under the downsizing program, or

(ii) a person or body of persons that does not deal at arm's length with a person or body of persons referred to in subparagraph (i), or

(b) a corporation with which the individual is connected will provide services to a person or body of persons referred to in paragraph (a) and the individual will be directly involved in the provision of the services, except that this subsection does not apply with respect to an individual where

(c) it is reasonable to expect that

(i) the individual will not be employed or provide services, or

(ii) if paragraph (b) is applicable, the corporation will not provide services, for a period exceeding 12 months, and

(d) the Minister has waived the application of this subsection with respect to the individual.

History: Subsec. 8505(2.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 12(2), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable with respect to an individual whose employment is terminated after February 14, 1992, other than an individual who, on or before that date,

(a) was notified that the individual's employment would be terminated after that date; or

(b) elected to terminate employment after that date.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.3 (qualifying individual — exclusion).

(3) Additional lifetime retirement benefits — Lifetime retirement benefits (in this section referred to as "special retirement benefits") that do not comply with the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(a) may be provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan to a member of the plan who terminates employment after attaining 55 years of age where the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) the special retirement benefits are provided pursuant to an approved downsizing program;

(b) the member is a qualifying individual in relation to the downsizing program;

(c) under the terms of the provision,

(i) retirement benefits will not commence to be paid to the member until the member ceases to be employed by all employers who participate in the plan, and

(ii) retirement benefits will commence to be paid to the member no later than on the specified day;

(d) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of special retirement benefits payable to the member for a particular calendar year does not exceed the amount that is determined by the formula

$$A \times B \times C$$

where

A is the lesser of

(i) 2 per cent of the member's highest average compensation (computed under subsection 8504(2)) for the purpose of the provision, indexed to the calendar year (in this paragraph referred to as the "year of commencement") in which retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member, and

(ii) the defined benefit limit for the year of commencement,

B is the lesser of 7 and the amount, if any, by which 65 exceeds the member's age (expressed in years, including any fraction of a year) at termination of employment, and

C is the greatest of all amounts each of which is the ratio of

(i) the average Consumer Price Index for a calendar year not earlier than the year of commencement and not later than the particular year

to

(ii) the average Consumer Price Index for the year of commencement;

(e) [Repealed]

(f) the plan

(i) does not permit the commutation of retirement benefits payable to the member, or

(ii) permits the commutation of retirement benefits payable to the member only if the life expectancy of the member is significantly shorter than normal; and

(g) lifetime retirement benefits that are permissible only by reason of this subsection are not provided to the member under any other defined benefit provision, unless this condition has been waived by the Minister.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.4 (additional lifetime retirement benefits).

(3.1) Re-employed members — Where

(a) a member of a pension plan becomes an employee of a participating employer after lifetime retirement benefits that are permissible only by reason of subsection (3) have commenced to be paid under a defined benefit provision of the plan to the member, and

(b) payment of the member's retirement benefits under the provision is suspended while the member is so employed, the condition in paragraph (3)(d) is applicable in respect of benefits payable under the provision to the member after the suspension as if

(c) the member had not become so employed, and

(d) payment of the member's retirement benefits had not been suspended.

History: Subsec. 8505(3.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 12(4), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

(4) Early retirement reduction — Where a member of a pension plan is a qualifying individual in relation to an approved downsizing program, the terms of a defined benefit provision of the plan that determine the amount by which the member's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision are reduced because of the early commencement of the benefits may, under the downsizing program, be modified in such a way that the benefits do not comply with the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(c) but would so comply if the member's benefits were provided in respect of employment in a public safety occupation.

(5) Exception for future benefits — Subsection (4) does not apply with respect to benefits that are provided to an individual in respect of a period that is after the day on which the individual's employment was terminated under an approved downsizing program.

History: Subsec. 8505(5) amended by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 12(5), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.6 (exception for future benefits).

(6) Alternative CPI indexing — Special retirement benefits provided to a member under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan shall be deemed to comply with the condition in paragraph (3)(d) where they would so comply if the amount C in that paragraph were replaced by a substantially similar measure of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.7 (alternative CPI indexing).

(7) Exclusion from maximum pension rules — For the purpose of determining whether retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan comply with the conditions in subsections 8504(1) and (5), lifetime retirement benefits that are permissible only by reason of subsection (3) shall be disregarded.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §13.8 (exclusion from maximum pension rules).

(8) Exemption from past service contribution rule — Subsection 8503(15) does not apply in respect of a contribution that is made in respect of benefits provided to a qualifying individual pursuant to an approved downsizing program.

8506. Money purchase provisions — (1) Permissible benefits — For the purposes of paragraph 8502(c), the following benefits may, subject to the conditions specified in respect of each benefit, be provided under a money purchase provision of a pension plan:

(a) lifetime retirement benefits — lifetime retirement benefits provided to a member where the benefits are payable in equal periodic amounts or are not so payable only by reason that

(i) the benefits payable to a member after the death of the member's spouse or common-law partner are less than the benefits that would be payable to the member were the member's spouse or common-law partner alive, or

(ii) the benefits are adjusted, after they commence to be paid, where those adjustments would be in accordance with any of subparagraphs 146(3)(b)(iii) to (v) of the Act if the annuity by means of which the lifetime retirement benefits are provided were an annuity under a retirement savings plan;

(b) bridging benefits — bridging benefits provided to a member where the bridging benefits are payable for a period ending no later than the end of the month following the month in which the member attains 65 years of age;

(c) guarantee period — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "continued retirement benefits") provided to one or more beneficiaries of a member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) the continued retirement benefits are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending no later than 15 years after the day on which retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member, and

(ii) the total amount of continued retirement benefits payable under the provision for each month does not exceed the amount of retirement benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (e.1)) that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive;

(d) post-retirement survivor benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "survivor retirement benefits") provided to a beneficiary of a member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member where

(i) the beneficiary is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member at the time the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid,

(ii) the survivor retirement benefits are payable for a period beginning after the death of the member and ending with the death of the beneficiary, and

(iii) the total amount of survivor retirement benefits and other retirement benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (e.1)) payable under the provision for each month to beneficiaries of the member does not exceed the amount of retirement benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (e.1)) that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive;

(e) pre-retirement survivor benefits — retirement benefits provided to a beneficiary of a member who dies before retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the member, and benefits provided to other individuals after the death of the beneficiary, where

(i) the beneficiary is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the member at the time of the member's death,

(ii) the benefits would be permissible under paragraphs (a) to (c) if the beneficiary were a member of the plan, and

(iii) the retirement benefits are payable to the beneficiary beginning no later than on the later of one year after the day of death of the member and the end of the calendar year in which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age;

(e.1) variable benefits — retirement benefits (in this paragraph referred to as "variable benefits"), other than benefits permissible under any of paragraphs (a) to (e), provided to a member and, after the death of the member, to one or more beneficiaries of the member if

(i) the variable benefits are paid from the member's account,

(ii) the variable benefits provided to the member or a beneficiary (other than a beneficiary who is the specified beneficiary of the member in relation to the provision) are payable for a period ending no later than the end of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the member dies,

(iii) the variable benefits provided to a beneficiary who is the specified beneficiary of the member in relation to the provision are payable for a period ending no later than the end of the calendar year in which the specified beneficiary dies, and

(iv) the amount of variable benefits payable to the member and beneficiaries of the member for each calendar year is not less than the minimum amount for the member's account under the provision for the calendar year;

(f) payment from account — the payment with respect to a member of a single amount from the member's account under the provision;

(g) payment from account after death — the payment, with respect to one or more beneficiaries of a member, of one or more single amounts from the member's account under the provision;

(h) commutation of benefits — the payment with respect to a member of a single amount in full or partial satisfaction of the member's entitlement to other benefits under the provision, where the single amount does not exceed the present value (at the time the single amount is paid) of the other benefits that, as a consequence of the payment, cease to be provided; and

(i) the payment, with respect to an individual after the death of a member, of a single amount in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to other benefits under the provision, where the individual is a beneficiary of the member and the single amount does not exceed the present value (at the time the single amount is paid) of the other benefits that, as a consequence of the payment, cease to be provided.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §14.1 (money purchase provisions — permissible benefits).

(2) Additional conditions — For the purposes of section 8501, the following conditions are applicable with respect to each money purchase provision of a pension plan:

(a) employer contributions acceptable to minister — the amount of contributions that are to be made under the provision by each employer who participates in the plan is determined in a manner acceptable to the Minister;

(b) employer contributions with respect to particular members — each contribution that is made under the provision by an employer consists only of amounts each of which is an amount that is paid by the employer with respect to a particular member;

(b.1) allocation of employer contributions — each contribution that is made under the provision by an employer is allocated to the member with respect to whom it is made;

(c) employer contributions not permitted — contributions are not made under the provision by an employer, and property is not transferred to the provision in respect of the actuarial surplus under a defined benefit provision of the plan or another registered pension plan,

(i) at a time when there is a surplus under the provision, or

(ii) at a time after 1991 when an amount that became a forfeited amount under the provision before 1990, or any earnings of the plan that are reasonably attributable to that amount, is being held in respect of the provision and has not been reallocated to members of the plan;

(c.1) contributions not permitted — no contribution is made under the provision with respect to a member, and no amount is transferred for the benefit of a member to the provision from another benefit provision of the plan, at any time after the calendar year in which the member attains 71 years of age, other than an amount that is transferred for the benefit of the member to the provision

(i) in accordance with subsection 146.3(14.1) or 147.3(1) or (4) of the Act, or

(ii) from another benefit provision of the plan, where the amount so transferred would, if the benefit provisions were in separate registered pension plans, be in accordance with subsection 147.3(1) or (4) of the Act;

(d) return of contributions — where the plan is not established by an enactment of Canada or a province, it includes a stipulation that permits, for the purpose of avoiding revocation of the registration of the plan, a contribution made under the provision by a member or by an employer to be returned to the person who made the contribution, which stipulation may provide that a return of contributions is subject to the approval of the authority administering the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province;

(e) allocation of earnings — the earnings of the plan, to the extent that they relate to the provision and are not reasonably attributable to forfeited amounts or a surplus under the provision, are allocated to plan members on a reasonable basis and no less frequently than annually;

(f) payment or reallocation of forfeited amounts — each forfeited amount under the provision (other than an amount forfeited before 1990) and all earnings of the plan that are reasonably attributable to the forfeited amount are

(i) paid to participating employers,

(ii) reallocated to members of the plan, or

(iii) paid as or on account of administrative, investment or similar expenses incurred in connection with the plan on or before December 31 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which the amount is forfeited, or such later time as is permitted by the Minister under subsection (3);

(g) retirement benefits — retirement benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (1)(e.1)) under the provision are provided by means of annuities that are purchased from a licensed annuities provider;

(h) undue deferral of payment — death of member — each single amount that is payable after the death of a member (other than a single amount that is payable after the death of the specified beneficiary of the member in relation to the provision) is paid as soon as is practicable after the member's death; and

(i) undue deferral of payment — death of specified beneficiary — each single amount that is payable after the death of the specified beneficiary of a member in relation to the provision is paid as soon as is practicable after the specified beneficiary's death.

(5) Minimum amount — For the purposes of paragraph (1)(e.1) and subsection (4), but subject to subsection (7), the minimum amount for a member's account under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan for a calendar year is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the balance in the account at the beginning of the year; and

B is

(a) if there is a specified beneficiary of the member for the year in relation to the provision, the factor designated under subsection 7308(4) for the year in respect of the specified beneficiary,

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply for the year, the factor designated under subsection 7308(4) for the year in respect of an individual where

(i) the individual was, at the time the designation referred to in subparagraph (ii) was made, the member's spouse or common-law partner,

(ii) the member had, before the beginning of the year, provided the administrator of the plan with a written designation of the individual for the purpose of this paragraph in relation to the provision, and

(iii) the member had not, before the beginning of the year, revoked the designation, and

(c) in any other case, the factor designated under subsection 7308(4) for the year in respect of the member.

(6) Determination of account balance — For the purpose of the description of A in subsection (5), the balance in a member's account at the beginning of a calendar year (in this subsection referred to as the "current year") is to be determined in accordance with the following rules:

(a) the determination is to be made in a manner that reasonably reflects the fair market value of the property held in connection with the account at the beginning of the current year, including an estimate of the portion of any unallocated earnings of the plan that arose in the preceding calendar year and that can reasonably be expected to be allocated to the account in the current year; and

(b) if retirement benefits (other than benefits permissible under paragraph (1)(e.1)) provided under the provision with respect to the member had commenced to be paid before the current year and continue to be payable in the current year, the determination is to be made without regard to the value of any property held in connection with those benefits.

History: Subsec. 8506(6) added by P.C. 2005-1508, subsec. 28(8), August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2003.

(7) Special rules for minimum amount — The minimum amount for a member's account under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan for a calendar year is

(a) nil, if an individual who is either the member or the specified beneficiary of the member for the year in relation to the provision

(i) is alive at the beginning of the year, and

(ii) had not attained 71 years of age at the end of the preceding calendar year; and

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply and the year is 2008, 75 per cent of the amount that would, in the absence of this subsection, be the minimum amount for the account for the year.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §14.7 (when the minimum amount is nil).

(8) Specified beneficiary — In this section, an individual is the specified beneficiary of a member for a calendar year in relation to a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan if

(a) the member died before the beginning of the year;

(b) the individual is a beneficiary of the member and was, immediately before the member's death, the member's spouse or common-law partner; and

(c) the member or the member's legal representative had, before the beginning of the year, provided the administrator of the plan with a written designation of the individual (and of no other individual) as the specified beneficiary of the member for the calendar year in relation to the provision.

History: Subsec. 8506(8) added by P.C. 2005-1508, subsec. 28(8), August 31, 2005, Canada Gazette, Part II, September 21, 2005, applicable after 2003.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §14.8 (specified beneficiary).

(9) Recontribution — adjusted minimum amount for 2008 — If a contribution made by a member of a registered pension plan and credited to the member's account under a money purchase provision of the plan complies with the conditions in subsection (10), the contribution

(a) is deemed to have been made in accordance with the plan as registered;

(b) is to be disregarded for the purposes of paragraph (2)(c.1); and

(c) is deemed to be an excluded contribution for the purposes of paragraph 8301(4)(a).

Related Provisions: ITA 60.021 — Parallel rule for RRIF; Reg. 8506(9), (10) — Recontribution of overwithdrawn amount for 2008.

History: Subsec. 8506(9) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 117(2), in force March 12, 2009.

Contributions described in subsecs. 8506(9) and (10) that are made during the period that begins after 2008 and ends April 10, 2009 (or such longer period as is acceptable to the Minister of National Revenue) are deemed for the purpose of subsec. 8506(10) to have been made on December 31, 2008, and not when they were actually made, except that the amounts so deemed shall not exceed the amount that would be determined in respect of the account under para. 8506(10)(c) if the value of C in the formula in that paragraph were nil.

(10) Conditions referred to in subsec. (9) — The conditions referred to in subsection (9) are as follows:

(a) the contribution is made in 2008;

(b) the contribution is designated for the purposes of this subsection in a manner acceptable to the Minister; and

(c) the amount of the contribution does not exceed the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - C$$

where

A is the lesser of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a retirement benefit (other than a retirement benefit permissible under any of paragraphs (1)(a) to (e)) paid from the plan in 2008 in respect of the account and included, because of paragraph 56(1)(a) of the Act, in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year, and

(ii) the amount that would, in the absence of paragraph (7)(b), be the minimum amount for the account for 2008,

B is the minimum amount for the account for 2008, and

C is the total of all other contributions made by the member under the money purchase provision at or before the time of the contribution and designated for the purposes of this subsection.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

History: Subsec. 8506(10) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 117(2), in force March 12, 2009.

Contributions described in subsecs. 8506(9) and (10) that are made during the period that begins after 2008 and ends April 10, 2009 (or such longer period as is acceptable to the Minister of National Revenue) are deemed for the purpose of subsec. 8506(10) to have been made on December 31, 2008, and not when they were actually made, except that the amounts so deemed shall not exceed the amount that would be determined in respect of the account under para. 8506(10)(c) if the value of C in the formula in that paragraph were nil.

(2) Additional compensation in respect of qualifying period — For the purposes of paragraph (1)(a) and subsection (5), the amount that is determined in respect of a period in a calendar year that is a qualifying period of an individual with respect to an employer is the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that it is reasonable to consider would have been the remuneration of the individual for the period from the employer if the individual had rendered services to the employer throughout the period on a regular basis (having regard to the services rendered by the individual to the employer before the complete period of reduced pay of which the period is a part) and the individual's rate of remuneration had been commensurate with the individual's rate of remuneration before the beginning of the complete period of reduced pay

exceeds

(ii) the remuneration of the individual for the period from the employer, and

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$(5 + A + B - C) \times D$$

where

A is the lesser of 3 and the amount that would be the cumulative additional compensation fraction of the individual with respect to the employer, determined to the time that is immediately before the end of the period, if the individual's only qualifying periods had been periods that are also periods of parenting,

B is

(i) if no part of the period is a period of parenting, nil, and

(ii) otherwise, the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which 3 exceeds the amount determined for A, and

(B) the ratio of

(I) the amount that would be determined under paragraph (a) if the remuneration referred to in subparagraphs (a)(i) and (ii) were the remuneration for such part of the period as is a period of parenting

to

(II) the amount determined for D,

C is the cumulative additional compensation fraction of the individual with respect to the employer, determined to the time that is immediately before the end of the period, and

D is the amount that it is reasonable to consider would have been the individual's remuneration for the year from the employer if the individual had rendered services to the employer on a full-time basis throughout the year and the individual's rate of remuneration had been commensurate with the individual's rate of remuneration before the beginning of the complete period of reduced pay of which the period is a part.

(3) Qualifying periods and periods of parenting — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a period in a calendar year is a qualifying period of an individual in the year with respect to an employer if

(i) the period is an eligible period of reduced pay or temporary absence of the individual in the year with respect to the employer,

(ii) either

(A) lifetime retirement benefits are provided to the individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan (other than a plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan) in respect of the period, or

(B) contributions are made by or on behalf of the individual under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan (other than a plan that is, in the year, a specified multi-employer plan) in respect of the period, pursuant to terms of the plan that apply in respect of periods that are not regular periods of employment,

(iii) the lifetime retirement benefits or the contributions, as the case may be, exceed the benefits that would otherwise be provided or the contributions that would otherwise be made if the benefits or contributions were based on the services actually rendered by the individual and the remuneration actually received by the individual,

(iv) the individual's pension adjustment for the year with respect to the employer includes an amount in respect of the lifetime retirement benefits or the contributions, as the case may be,

(v) no benefits are provided in respect of the period to the individual under a defined benefit provision of any registered pension plan in which the employer does not participate,

(vi) no contributions are made by or on behalf of the individual in respect of the period under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or a deferred profit sharing plan in which the employer does not participate,

(vii) no part of the period is after the earlier of

(A) the time at which bridging benefits commence to be paid to the individual in circumstances to which subsection 8503(17) applied, and

(B) the earliest day in respect of which benefits have been provided to the individual in circumstances to which subsection 8503(19) applied; and

(b) a period of parenting of an individual is all or a part of a period that begins

(i) at the time of the birth of a child of whom the individual is a natural parent, or

(ii) at the time the individual adopts a child, and ends 12 months after that time.

(4) Cumulative additional compensation fraction — For the purposes of this section, the cumulative additional compensation fraction of an individual with respect to an employer, determined to any time, is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the additional compensation fraction that is associated with a period that ends at or before that time and that is a qualifying period of the individual in a calendar year after 1990 with respect to

(a) the employer;

(b) any other employer who does not deal at arm's length with the employer; or

(c) any other employer who participates in a registered pension plan in which the employer participates for the benefit of the individual.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §15.4 (cumulative additional compensation fraction).

(5) Additional compensation fraction — For the purposes of subsection (4), the additional compensation fraction associated with a qualifying period of an individual in a calendar year with respect to a particular employer is the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{E}{D}$$

where

D is the amount determined for D under paragraph (2)(b) in respect of the qualifying period, and

E is

(a) if

(i) all or a part of the qualifying period is a period throughout which the individual renders services to another employer pursuant to an arrangement in respect of which subsection 8308(7) is applicable,

(ii) the particular employer is a lending employer for the purposes of subsection 8308(7) as it applies in respect of the arrangement, and

(iii) the particular employer and the other employer deal with each other at arm's length, the amount that would be determined under subsection (2) in respect of the qualifying period if, in the determination of the amount under paragraph (2)(a), no remuneration were included in respect of the portion of the qualifying period referred to in subparagraph (a)(i), and

(b) otherwise, the amount that is determined under subsection (2) in respect of the qualifying period.

8509. Transition rules — (1) Prescribed conditions applicable before 1992 to grandfathered plan — The prescribed conditions for the registration of a grandfathered plan are, before 1992,

(a) the condition set out in paragraph 8502(a),

(b) the condition set out in paragraph 8502(c), but only in respect of benefits provided under a money purchase provision of the plan, and

(c) if the plan contains a money purchase provision, the condition set out in paragraph 8506(2)(a),

and the following conditions:

(d) the benefits provided under each defined benefit provision of the plan are acceptable to the Minister and, for the purposes of this condition, any benefits in respect of periods before 1991 that become provided after 1988 with respect to a member who is connected with an employer who participates in the plan, or was so connected at any time before the benefits become provided, shall, unless the Minister is notified in writing that the benefits are provided with respect to the member, be deemed to be unacceptable to the Minister, and

(e) the plan contains such terms as may be required by the Minister.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.1 (prescribed conditions applicable before 1992 to grandfathered plans).

(2) Conditions applicable after 1991 to benefits under grandfathered plan — For the purpose of the condition in paragraph 8502(c) as it applies after 1991 in respect of a grandfathered plan,

(a) the condition in subparagraph 8503(2)(b)(ii) is replaced by the condition that the amount of bridging benefits payable to a member for a particular month does not exceed the amount that is determined in respect of the month by the formula

where

A is the amount determined for A under subparagraph 8503(2)(b)(ii) with respect to the member for the month,

C is the amount determined for C under subparagraph 8503(2)(b)(ii) with respect to the member for the month,

E is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period ending before 1992 that is pensionable service of the member under the provision,

F is the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the duration (measured in years, including any fraction of a year) of a period that is pensionable service of the member under the provision, and

G is the amount determined with respect to the member for the month by the formula in subparagraph 8503(2)(b)(ii);

(b) the conditions in paragraphs 8503(3)(c), (h) and (i) and 8504(1)(a) and (b) apply only in respect of lifetime retirement benefits provided in respect of periods after 1991; and

(c) for the purposes of the conditions in paragraphs 8504(1)(a) and (b),

(i) the aggregate that is determined under subparagraph 8504(1)(a)(i) does not include an amount in respect of 1991, and

(ii) the amount that is determined for G under subparagraph 8504(1)(a)(ii) is based only on periods of pensionable service after 1991.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.2 (post-91 conditions for grandfathered plan).

(3) Additional prescribed condition for grandfathered plan after 1991 — The prescribed conditions for the registration of a grandfathered plan include, after 1991, the condition that all benefits provided under each defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of periods before 1992 are acceptable to the Minister.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.3 (additional prescribed conditions for grandfathered plan after 1991).

(4) Defined benefits under grandfathered plan exempt from conditions — The Minister may, after 1991, exempt from the condition in paragraph 8502(c) the following benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a grandfathered plan:

(a) benefits that are payable after the death of a member, to the extent that the benefits can reasonably be considered to relate to lifetime retirement benefits provided to the member in respect of periods before 1992; and

(b) bridging benefits in excess of bridging benefits that are permissible under paragraph 8503(2)(b), to the extent that the excess bridging benefits are vested in a member on December 31, 1991.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.4 (defined benefits under grandfathered plan exempt from conditions).

(4.1) Benefits under grandfathered plan — pre-1992 disability — Where benefits are provided under a defined benefit provision of a grandfathered plan to a member of the plan as a consequence of the member having become, before 1992, physically or mentally impaired, the following rules apply:

(a) the conditions in this Part (other than the condition in paragraph (b)) do not apply in respect of the benefits;

(b) the prescribed conditions for the registration of the plan include the condition that the benefits are acceptable to the Minister; and

(c) subsections 147.1(8) and (9) of the Act do not apply to render the plan a revocable plan where those subsections would not so apply if the member's pension credits under the provision were determined without regard to the benefits.

History: Subsec. 8509(4.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 15(1), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.4 (defined benefits under grandfathered plan exempt from conditions); §16.5 (benefits under grandfathered plan — pre-1992 disability).

(5) Conditions not applicable to grandfathered plan — Where a pension plan is a grandfathered plan,

(a) the conditions referred to in paragraph 8501(2)(b) do not apply before 1992 in respect of the plan;

(b) the condition in paragraph 8502(d) does not apply in respect of distributions that are made before 1992 under a defined benefit provision of the plan; and

(c) the conditions in paragraphs 8503(3)(a) and (b) do not apply in respect of benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of periods before 1992.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.6 (conditions not applicable to grandfathered plan).

(6) PA limits for grandfathered plan for 1991 — Subsections 147.1(8) and (9) of the Act do not apply in respect of a grandfathered plan for a calendar year before 1992 if

(a) the plan does not contain a money purchase provision in that year; or

(b) no contributions are made in respect of that year under the money purchase provisions of the plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.7 (PA limits for grandfathered plan for 1991).

(7) Limit on pre-age 65 benefits — Where a pension plan is a grandfathered plan or would be a grandfathered plan if the references to "March 27, 1988" in the definitions "existing plan" and "grandfathered plan" in subsection 8500(1) were read as references to "June 7, 1990" and the references to "March 28, 1988" in the definition "existing plan" in that subsection were read as references to "June 8, 1990",

(a) the conditions in paragraphs 8504(5)(a) and (b) apply only in respect of retirement benefits provided in respect of periods after 1991; and

(b) the amounts that are determined for B and D under paragraph 8504(5)(a) are based only on periods of pensionable service after 1991.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.8 (limit on pre-age 65 benefits).

(8) Benefit accrual rate greater than 2 per cent — Where a pension plan is a grandfathered plan or would be a grandfathered plan if the references to "March 27, 1988" in the definitions "existing plan" and "grandfathered plan" in subsection 8500(1) were read as references to "July 31, 1991" and the references to "March 28, 1988" in the definition "existing plan" in that subsection were read as references to "August 1, 1991",

(a) the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(g) applies only in respect of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of periods after 1994; and

(b) subparagraph 8503(3)(h)(iv) is not applicable in respect of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of the plan to a member unless the formula for determining the amount of the member's lifetime retirement benefits complies with the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(g) as that condition would, but for this subsection, apply.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.9 (benefit accrual rate greater then 2%).

(9) Benefits under plan other than grandfathered plan — The following rules apply in respect of the benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan that is not a grandfathered plan:

(a) the condition in paragraph 8502(c) does not apply in respect of benefits provided with respect to an individual

(i) to whom retirement benefits have commenced to be paid under the provision before 1992, or

(ii) who has died before 1992; and

(b) the prescribed conditions for the registration of the plan include the condition that all benefits referred to in paragraph (a) are acceptable to the Minister.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.10 (benefits under plan other than grandfathered plan).

(10) Money purchase benefits exempt from conditions — The Minister may exempt from the condition in paragraph 8502(c) all or a portion of the benefits provided under a money purchase provision of a pension plan with respect to a member that may reasonably be considered to derive from contributions made before 1992 under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan.

Registered Plans Directorate Newsletters: 91-4R (registration rules for money purchase provisions).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.27 (money purchase provision); §16.11 (money purchase benefits exempt from conditions).

(10.1) Stipulation not required for pre-1992 plans — The conditions in paragraphs 8503(4)(c) and 8506(2)(d) do not apply in respect of a pension plan

(a) that was a registered pension plan on December 31, 1991,

(b) in respect of which an application for registration was made to the Minister before 1992, or

(c) that was established to provide benefits to one or more individuals in lieu of benefits to which the individuals were entitled under another pension plan that is a plan described in paragraph (a) or (b) or this paragraph, whether or not benefits are also provided to other individuals.

History: Subsec. 8509(10.1) added by P.C. 1995-17, subsec. 15(2), January 11, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 25, 1995, applicable after 1988.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.12 (stipulation not required for pre-1992 plans).

(11) Benefits acceptable to Minister — For greater certainty, where benefits under a defined benefit provision of a pension plan are, by reason of paragraph 8503(3)(e) or subsection (3), subject to the condition that they be acceptable to the Minister, the provisions of this section shall not be considered to limit in any way the requirements that may be imposed by the Minister in respect of the benefits.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §16.13 (benefits acceptable to Minister).

(12) PA limits — 1996 to 2002 — Neither subsection 147.1(8) nor (9) of the Act applies to render a registered pension plan a revocable plan at the end of any calendar year after 1995 and before 2003 solely because a pension adjustment, a total of pension adjustments or a total of pension credits of an individual for the year (each of which is, in this subsection, referred to as a "test amount") is excessive where the subsection would not apply to render the plan a revocable plan at the end of the year if each test amount were decreased by the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) a pension credit under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan that is included in determining the test amount, or

(B) a pension credit under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan or under a deferred profit sharing plan that is included in determining the test amount and that is taken into account, under paragraph 8302(2)(c), in determining a pension credit referred to in clause (A), and

(ii) $15,500

exceeds the money purchase limit for the year, and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is a pension credit referred to in clause (a)(i)(A).

(13) Maximum benefits indexed before 2005 — Where

(a) a pension plan is a grandfathered plan or would be a grandfathered plan if the references to "March 27, 1988" in the definitions "existing plan" and "grandfathered plan" in subsection 8500(1) were read as references to "March 5, 1996" and the references to "March 28, 1988" in the definition "existing plan" in that subsection were read as references to "March 6, 1996",

(b) under the terms of the plan as they read immediately before March 6, 1996, the plan provided for benefits that are benefits to which a condition in any of subsections 8504(1), (5) and (6) and paragraph 8505(3)(d) applies and, at that time, the benefits complied with the condition, and

(c) as a consequence of the change in the defined benefit limit effective March 6, 1996, the benefits would, if this Part were read without reference to this subsection, cease to comply with the condition,

the following rules apply:

(d) for the purpose of determining at any time after March 5, 1996 and before 1998 whether the benefits comply with the condition, the defined benefit limit for each year after 1995 is deemed to be the amount that it would be if the definition "money purchase limit" in subsection 147.1(1) of the Act were applied as it read on December 31, 1995, and

(e) for the purpose of determining at any time after 1997 whether the benefits comply with the condition, the defined benefit limit for 1996 and 1997 is deemed to be the amount that it would be if it were determined in accordance with paragraph (d).

History: Subsec. 8509(13) added by P.C. 1998-2256, subsec. 24(3), December 16, 1998, Canada Gazette, Part II, January 6, 1999, applicable after March 5, 1996, except that where

(a) the retirement benefits provided to an individual under a pension plan are provided by means of an annuity contract issued before March 6, 1996, and

(b) under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before March 6, 1996,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after 1997, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined, subsec. 8509(13) shall, in its application to those benefits, be read without reference to the words "and before 1998" in para. (d) and without reference to para. (e).

8510. Multi-employer plans and other special plans —

History: Heading before s. 8510 amended to substitute "other special plans" for "specified multi-employer plans" by P.C. 2007-1443, s. 7, September 27, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 17, 2007, applicable after June 23, 2007.

(1) Definition of "multi-employer plan" — The definition "multi-employer plan" in subsection 8500(1) is applicable for the purposes of subsection 147.1(1) of the Act.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.28 (multi-employer plan); §17.1 (definition of a multi-employer plan (MEP)).

(2) Definition of "specified multi-employer plan" — For the purposes of this Part and subsection 147.1(1) of the Act, "specified multi-employer plan" in a calendar year means a pension plan

(a) in respect of which the conditions in subsection (3) are satisfied at the beginning of the year (or at the time in the year when the plan is established, if later),

(b) that has, on application by the plan administrator, been designated in writing by the Minister to be a specified multi-employer plan in the year, or

(c) that was, by reason of paragraph (a), a specified multi-employer plan in the immediately preceding calendar year (where that year is after 1989), but does not include a pension plan where the Minister has, before the beginning of the year, given notice by registered mail to the plan administrator that the plan is not a specified multi-employer plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8510(4) — Minister's notice concerning specified multi-employer plans.

Registered Plans Frequently Asked Questions: RPFAQ-2 (RPPs), q. 13 (what is a SMEP?).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.37 (specified multi-employer plan); §17.2 (definition of a SMEP).

(3) Qualification as a specified multi-employer plan — The conditions referred to in paragraph (2)(a) are the following:

(a) it is reasonable to expect that at no time in the year will more than 95 per cent of the active members of the plan be employed by a single participating employer or by a related group of participating employers;

(b) where the year is 1991 or a subsequent year, it is reasonable to expect that

(i) at least 15 employers will contribute to the plan in respect of the year, or

(ii) at least 10 per cent of the active members of the plan will be employed in the year by more than one participating employer, and, for the purposes of this condition, all employers who are related to each other shall be deemed to be a single employer;

(c) employers participate in the plan pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement;

(d) all or substantially all of the employers who participate in the plan are persons who are not exempt from tax under Part I of the Act;

(e) contributions are made by employers in accordance with a negotiated contribution formula that does not provide for any variation in contributions determined by reference to the financial experience of the plan;

(f) the contributions that are to be made by each employer in the year are determined, in whole or in part, by reference to the number of hours worked by individual employees of the employer or some other measure that is specific to each employee with respect to whom contributions are made to the plan;

(g) the administrator is a board of trustees or similar body that is not controlled by representatives of employers; and

(h) the administrator has the power to determine the benefits to be provided under the plan, whether or not that power is subject to the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

Registered Plans Frequently Asked Questions: RPFAQ-2 (RPPs), q. 13 (what is a SMEP?).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §1.37 (specified multi-employer plan); §17.3 (qualification as a specified multi-employer plan).

(4) Minister's notice — For the purpose of subsection (2), the Minister may give notice that a plan is not a specified multi-employer plan only if the Minister is satisfied that participating employers will be able to comply with all reporting obligations imposed by Part LXXXIV in respect of the plan if it is not a specified multi-employer plan, and

(a) the notice is given at or after a time when the conditions in subsection (3) are not satisfied in respect of the plan; or

(b) the plan administrator has applied to the Minister for the notice.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §17.4 (Minister's notice).

(5) Special rules — multi-employer plan — Where a pension plan is a multi-employer plan in a calendar year,

(a) each member of the plan who is connected at any time in the year with an employer who participates in the plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of applying the conditions in sections 8503 and 8504 in respect of the plan in the year and in each subsequent year, not to be so connected in the year;

(b) paragraph 8503(3)(b) shall, in its application in respect of benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of a period in the year, be read without reference to subparagraph (ii) thereof; and

(c) the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(k) and the rule in subsection 8504(8) shall apply in the year in respect of the plan without regard to benefits provided under any other pension plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §17.5 (special rules — MEPs).

(6) Special rules — specified multi-employer plan — Where a pension plan is a specified multi-employer plan in a calendar year,

(a) a contribution that is made in the year in respect of a defined benefit provision of the plan by an employer with respect to the employer's employees or former employees in accordance with the plan as registered shall be deemed, for the purpose of paragraph 8502(b), to be an eligible contribution;

(b) subparagraph 8502(c)(i) shall, in its application in the year in respect of the plan, be read as follows:

"(i) benefits that are in accordance with subsection 8503(2), paragraphs 8503(3)(c), (e) and (g) and subsections 8504(5) and (6)";

(c) the conditions in paragraphs 8503(3)(j) and (4)(a) do not apply in the year in respect of the plan; and

(d) a payment made in the year under a defined benefit provision of the plan with respect to a member is deemed to comply with the conditions in paragraph 8503(2)(h) (in the case of a payment made in connection with the member's termination from the plan otherwise than by reason of death) or (j) (in the case of a payment made after the death of the member) where it would comply if paragraph 8503(2)(h) were read as follows:

"(h) the payment, with respect to a member in connection with the member's termination from the plan (otherwise than by reason of death), of one or more single amounts where

(i) the payments are the last payments to be made under the provision with respect to the member, and

(ii) each single amount does not exceed the amount that would be the balance in the member's net contribution account immediately before the time of payment of the single amount if, for each contribution that is a specified contribution, the account were credited at the time of the specified contribution with an additional amount equal to the amount of the specified contribution and, for this purpose, a specified contribution is

(A) a contribution included in determining a pension credit of the member under the provision because of paragraph 8301(5)(b), or

(B) a contribution made before 1990 in respect of the provision by a participating employer, to the extent that the contribution can reasonably be considered to have been determined by reference to the number of hours worked by the member or some other measure specific to the member;".

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §17.6 (special rules — SMEPs).

(7) Additional prescribed conditions — Where a pension plan is a specified multi-employer plan in a calendar year, the prescribed conditions for the registration of the plan include, in that year, the following conditions:

(a) when employer and member contribution rates under the plan were last established, it was reasonable to expect that, for each calendar year beginning with the year in which the contribution rates were last established,

(i) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the pension credit of an individual for the year with respect to an employer under a benefit provision of the plan would not exceed

(ii) 18 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is, for an individual and an employer where the pension credit of the individual for the year with respect to the employer under a benefit provision of the plan is greater than nil, the compensation of the individual from the employer for the year, except that this condition does not apply for years before 1992 in the case of a pension plan that is a grandfathered plan; and

(b) where the plan contains a money purchase provision,

(i) the plan terms are such that, if subsection 147.1(9) of the Act were applicable in respect of the plan, the plan would not under any circumstances become a revocable plan at the end of the year pursuant to that subsection, or

(ii) if the plan terms do not comply with the condition in subparagraph (i), the only circumstances that would result in the plan becoming a revocable plan at the end of the year pursuant to subsection 147.1(9) of the Act, if that subsection were applicable in respect of the plan, are circumstances acceptable to the Minister.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §17.7 (additional prescribed conditions).

(8) Purchase of additional benefits — Where, in the case of a pension plan that is a specified multi-employer plan in a calendar year,

(a) the amount of lifetime retirement benefits provided under a defined benefit provision of the plan to each member is determined by reference to the hours of employment of the member with participating employers,

(b) the plan permits a member whose actual hours of employment in a period are fewer than a specified number of hours for the period to make contributions to the plan in order to increase, to an amount not exceeding the specified number of hours for the period, the number of hours that are treated under the provision as hours of employment of the member in the period, and

(c) the specified number of hours for a period does not exceed a reasonable measure of the actual hours of employment of members who render services throughout the period on a full-time basis, the condition in paragraph 8503(3)(a) does not apply in respect of such portion of the lifetime retirement benefits provided under the provision to a member as is determined by reference to hours acquired by the member as a consequence of contributions made to the plan in the year by the member, as described in paragraph (b).

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §17.8 (purchase of additional benefits).

(9) Special rules — member-funded pension plans — Where a pension plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan) is a member-funded pension plan for the purposes of Division IX of the Regulation respecting the exemption of certain categories of pension plans from the provisions of the Supplemental Pension Plans Act of Quebec (R.Q., c. R.-15.1, r. 2), as amended from time to time,

(a) paragraph 8502(c) shall in its application in respect of the plan be read without reference to subparagraph (iii);

(b) the prescribed conditions for the registration of the plan include the following conditions:

(i) the plan terms are such that each contribution to be made by a member under a defined benefit provision of the plan would be an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act if

(A) the contribution were made by an employer who participates in the plan for the benefit of the member, and

(B) this subsection were read without reference to paragraph (c),

(ii) unless this condition is waived by the Minister, the plan is maintained pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement,

(iii) the plan is not, and it is reasonable to expect that the plan will not become, a designated plan, and

(iv) the amount of benefits provided to members, the amount of contributions required to be made by members and the entitlement of members' to benefit from actuarial surplus are determined in a manner that is

(A) clearly established in the plan terms, and

(B) not more advantageous for members who, at any time after the plan is established, are specified individuals (within the meaning assigned by subsection 8515(4)) under the plan than for members who are not specified individuals; and

(c) a contribution made by an employer to the plan is a prescribed contribution for the purposes of subsection 147.2(2) of the Act if

(i) the contribution is a current service contribution that would be an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act if no contributions were prescribed for the purposes of that subsection and if that subsection were read without reference to its subparagraph (d)(ii), and

(ii) the recommendation pursuant to which the contribution is made is such that the current service contributions to be made by the employer do not exceed,

(A) where the amount of actuarial surplus in respect of the employer is greater than the amount determined under subparagraph 147.2(2)(d)(ii) of the Act, 50% of the current service contribution that would be required to be made by the employer if there were no actuarial surplus under the provisions, and

(B) in any other case, the current service contributions that would be required to be made by the employer if there were no actuarial surplus under the provisions.

History: Subpara. 8510(9)(c)(i) amended by 2010, c. 12, subsec. 24(1), to substitute "subparagraph (d)(ii)" for "subparagraphs (d)(ii) and (iii)", applicable to contributions made after 2009 to fund benefits provided in respect of periods of pensionable service after 2009.

Cl. 8510(9)(c)(ii)(A) amended by the said c. 12, subsec. 24(2), applicable to contributions made after 2009 to fund benefits provided in respect of periods of pensionable service after 2009.

Subsec. 8510(9) added by P.C. 2007-1443, s. 8, September 27, 2007, Canada Gazette, Part II, October 17, 2007, applicable after June 23, 2007.

8514. Prohibited investments — (1) For the purposes of subparagraph 8502(h)(i) and subject to subsections (2), (2.1) and (3), a prohibited investment in respect of a registered pension plan is a share of the capital stock of, an interest in, or a debt of

(a) an employer who participates in the plan,

(b) a person who is connected with an employer who participates in the plan,

(c) a member of the plan,

(d) a person or partnership that controls, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, a person or partnership referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), or

(e) a person or partnership that does not deal at arm's length with a person or partnership referred to in paragraph (a), (b), (c) or (d), or an interest in, or a right to acquire, such a share, interest or debt.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §18.6 (prohibited investments).

(2) A prohibited investment does not include

(a) a debt obligation described in paragraph (a) of the definition "fully exempt interest" in subsection 212(3) of the Act;

(b) a share listed on a designated stock exchange;

(c) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation of a corporation any shares of which are listed on a designated stock exchange;

(d) an interest in, or a right to acquire, property referred to in paragraph (b) or (c); or

(e) a mortgage in respect of real property situated in Canada that

(i) where this condition has not been waived by the Minister and the amount paid for the mortgage, together with the amount of any indebtedness outstanding at the time the mortgage was acquired under any mortgage or hypothec that ranks equally with or superior to the mortgage, exceeds 75 per cent of the fair market value, at that time, of the real property that is subject to the mortgage, is insured under the National Housing Act or by a corporation that offers its services to the public in Canada as an insurer of mortgages,

(ii) where the registered pension plan in connection with which the mortgage is held would be a designated plan for the purposes of subsection 8515(5) if subsection 8515(4) were read without reference to paragraph (b) thereof, is administered by an approved lender under the National Housing Act, and

(iii) bears a rate of interest that would be reasonable in the circumstances if the mortgagor dealt with the mortgagee at arm's length.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §18.7 (mortgages).

(2.1) [Multi-employer plan] — Where a share of the capital stock of, an interest in or a debt of, a person who is connected with a particular employer who participates in a registered pension plan that is a multi-employer plan would, but for this subsection, be a prohibited investment in respect of the plan, the property is not a prohibited investment in respect of the plan if

(a) the plan does not contain a money purchase provision;

Proposed Amendment — Reg. 8514(2.1)(a)

(a) the plan contains no money purchase provision other than a money purchase provision under which each member account is allocated at a time (referred to in this paragraph as an "allocation time") an amount equal to that portion of the income, gains or losses, as 35 the case may be, earned or realized after the last allocation time, on all of the property held by the plan, that the fair market value of the property held by the plan in the member account at the allocation time is of the fair market value of all the property held by the plan at the allocation time;

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, s. 70, will amend para. 8514(2.1)(a) to read as above, deemed to have come into force on January 1, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 8514(2.1) generally provides to registered pension plans that are multi-employer plans (MEPs, as defined in subsection 8500(1)) a conditional exclusion in respect of investments in connected employers that would otherwise fall within the definition of a "prohibited investment" in respect of a registered pension plan in subsection 8514(1). A registered pension plan that holds a prohibited investment may be subject to de-registration.

One of the conditions for the application of the exclusion in subsection 8514(2.1) is that the MEP does not contain a money purchase provision.

Paragraph 8514(2.1)(a) is amended to a permit a MEP to offer a money purchase provision, and to continue to permit such a MEP to make limited investments in connected employers, provided that each member's money purchase account is credited only with income, gains and losses at the same rate that is earned or realized by the pension fund overall and not based on income, gains or losses attributable solely to property described in subsection 8514(2.1).

Existing Regulation 8500(3) defines who is a person "connected with an employer" for the purposes of Part LXXXV of the Regulations, including for purposes of the prohibited investment rules in section 8514.

(b) at the time the property is acquired by the plan, there are at least 15 employers who participate in the plan, and, for this purpose,

(i) all employers who are related to each other are deemed to be a single employer, and

(ii) all the structural units of a trade union, including each local, branch, national and international unit, are deemed to be a single employer;

(c) at the time the property is acquired by the plan, no more than 10% of the active members of the plan are employed by the particular employer or by any person related to the particular employer;

(d) the property would not be a prohibited investment in respect of the plan if subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (1)(b); and

(e) immediately after the time the property is acquired by the plan, the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to a person of a property held in connection with the plan that would, but for this subsection, be a prohibited investment in respect of the plan does not exceed 10% of the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to a person of a property held in connection with the plan.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8514(2.2) — Whether Crown corporations "related" to each other.

(2.2) [Crown corporations — whether related] — For the purposes of the conditions in paragraphs (2.1)(b) and (c), two corporations that are related to each other solely because they are both controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province are deemed not to be related to each other.

(3) A prohibited investment in respect of a registered pension plan does not include an investment that was acquired by the plan before March 28, 1988.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8514(4) — When debt obligation deemed to be issued.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3), where at any time after March 27, 1988, the principal amount of a bond, debenture, note, mortgage or similar obligation increases as a consequence of the advancement or lending of additional amounts, or the maturity date of such an obligation is extended, the obligation shall, after that time, be deemed to have been issued at that time.

8515. Special rules for designated plans [IPPs] — (1) Designated plans — For the purposes of subsections (5) and (9), and subject to subsection (3), a registered pension plan that contains a defined benefit provision is a designated plan throughout a calendar year if the plan is not maintained pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement and

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a pension credit (as determined under Part LXXXIII) for the year of a specified individual under a defined benefit provision of the plan

exceeds

(b) 50 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a pension credit (as determined under Part LXXXIII) for the year of an individual under a defined benefit provision of the plan.

(3) Exceptions — A registered pension plan is not a designated plan in a calendar year pursuant to subsection (1) if

(a) the plan would not be a designated plan in the year pursuant to that subsection if the reference in paragraph (1)(b) to "50 per cent" were read as a reference to "60 per cent",

(b) the plan was established before the year, and

(c) the amount determined under paragraph (1)(a) in respect of the plan for the immediately preceding year did not exceed the amount determined under paragraph (1)(b).

(4) Specified individuals — An individual is a specified individual for the purposes of paragraph (1)(a) in respect of a pension plan and a particular calendar year if

(a) the individual was connected at any time in the year with an employer who participates in the plan; or

(b) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the remuneration of the individual for the year from an employer who participates in the plan, or from an employer who does not deal at arm's length with a participating employer, exceeds 2½ times the Year's Maximum Pensionable Earnings for the year.

(5) Eligible contributions — For the purpose of determining whether a contribution made by an employer to a registered pension plan at a time when the plan is a designated plan is an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act, a prescribed condition is that

(a) the contribution satisfies the condition in subsection (6), or

(b) the contribution would satisfy the condition in subsection (6) if

(i) paragraph (6)(b) and subparagraph (7)(e)(i) were applicable only in respect of retirement benefits that became provided under the plan after 1990,

(ii) paragraph (6)(c) were applicable only in respect of those benefits payable after the death of a member that relate to retirement benefits that became provided under the plan to the member after 1990, and

(iii) the assumption as to the time retirement benefits (other than retirement benefits that became provided after 1990) will commence to be paid is the same for the purposes of the maximum funding valuation as for the purposes of the actuarial valuation that forms the basis for the recommendation referred to in subsection 147.2(2) of the Act pursuant to which the contribution is made.

Related Provisions: ITA 147.2(7) — Amount paid by letter-of-credit issuer deemed to be eligible contribution; Reg. 8515(1)–(3) — Designated plans.

(6) Funding restriction — The condition referred to in subsection (5) is that the contribution would be required to be made for the plan to have sufficient assets to pay benefits under the defined benefit provisions of the plan, as registered, with respect to the employees and former employees of the employer if

(a) required contributions were determined on the basis of a maximum funding valuation prepared as of the same effective date as the actuarial valuation that forms the basis for the recommendation referred to in subsection 147.2(2) of the Act pursuant to which the contribution is made;

(a.1) each defined benefit provision of the plan provided that, with respect to restricted-funding members, retirement benefits are payable monthly in advance;

(b) each defined benefit provision of the plan provided that, after retirement benefits commence to be paid with respect to a restricted-funding member, the benefits are adjusted annually by a percentage increase for each year that is 1 percentage point less than the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index for the year, in lieu of any cost-of-living adjustments actually provided;

(c) each defined benefit provision of the plan provided the following benefits after the death of a restricted-funding member who dies after retirement benefits under the provision have commenced to be paid to the member, in lieu of the benefits actually provided:

(i) where the member dies within 5 years after retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision, the continuation of the retirement benefits for the remainder of the 5 years as if the member were alive, and

(ii) where an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner of the member when retirement benefits commence to be paid under the provision to the member is alive on the later of the day of death of the member and the day that is 5 years after the day on which the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid, retirement benefits payable to the individual for the duration of the individual's life, with the amount of the benefits payable for each month equal to 66⅔ per cent of the amount of retirement benefits that would have been payable under the provision for the month to the member if the member were alive;

(d) where more than one employer participates in the plan, assets and actuarial liabilities were apportioned in a reasonable manner among participating employers with respect to their employees and former employees; and

(e) the rule in paragraph 147.2(2)(d) of the Act that provides for the disregard of a portion of the assets of the plan apportioned to the employer with respect to the employer's employees and former employees were applicable for the purpose of determining required contributions pursuant to this subsection.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §19.6 (funding restriction).

(7) Maximum funding valuation — For the purposes of subsection (6), a maximum funding valuation is a valuation prepared by an actuary in accordance with the following rules:

(a) the projected accrued benefit method is used for the purpose of determining actuarial liabilities and current service costs;

(b) the valuation rate of interest is 7.5 per cent per annum;

(c) it is assumed that

(i) the rate of increase in general wages and salaries and in each member's rate of remuneration will be 5.5 per cent per annum, and

(ii) the rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index will be 4 per cent per annum;

(d) each assumption made in respect of economic factors other than those referred to in paragraph (c) is consistent with the assumptions in that paragraph;

(e) in the case of a restricted-funding member, it is assumed that

(i) retirement benefits will commence to be paid to the member no earlier than the day on which the member attains 65 years of age,

(ii) the member will survive to the time the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid,

(iii) where the member is employed by a participating employer as of the effective date of the valuation, the member will continue in employment until the time when the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid, and

(iv) when the member's retirement benefits commence to be paid, the member will be married to a person who is the same age as the member;

(f) the rate of mortality at each age is equal to

(i) in the case of a restricted-funding member, 80 per cent of the average of the rates at that age for males and females in the 1983 Group Annuity Mortality Table, as published in Volume XXXV of the Transactions of the Society of Actuaries, and

(ii) in the case of any other member, 80 per cent of the rate at that age in the mortality table referred to in subparagraph (i) for individuals of the same sex as the member;

(g) it is assumed that where a member has a choice between receiving retirement benefits or a lump sum payment, retirement benefits will be paid to the member; and

(h) the plan's assets are valued at an amount equal to their fair market value as of the effective date of the valuation.

Related Provisions: Reg. 8515(8) — Restricted-funding member.

(i) on or before June 4, 1994, or

(ii) pursuant to a valuation report filed with the Minister in accordance with subsec. 147.2(3) of the Income Tax Act on or before June 4, 1994, subpara. 8515(7)(f)(i) shall be read as follows:

(i) in the case of a restricted-funding member, or a male member who is not a restricted-funding member, 80 per cent of the average of the rates at that age for males and females in the 1983 Group Annuity Mortality Table, as published in Volume XXXV of the Transactions of the Society of Actuaries, and

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §19.7 (maximum funding valuation).

(8) Restricted-funding members — For the purposes of subsections (6) and (7) as they apply in respect of a contribution made to a registered pension plan, a member of the plan is a restricted-funding member if, at the time the maximum funding valuation is prepared,

(a) the member has a right, whether absolute or contingent, to receive retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan and the benefits have not commenced to be paid; or

(b) the payment of retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of the plan to the member has been suspended.

Registered Plans Frequently Asked Questions: RPFAQ-2 (RPPs), q. 25 (designated status where specified individuals have no further defined benefit credits).

(9) Member contributions — Where

(a) a member of a registered pension plan makes a contribution to the plan to fund benefits that have become provided at a particular time under a defined benefit provision of the plan in respect of periods before that time,

(b) the contribution is made at a time when the plan is a designated plan, and

(c) the contribution would not be an eligible contribution under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act if it were made by an employer who participates in the plan on behalf of the member,

the plan becomes, for the purposes of paragraph 147.1(11)(c) of the Act, a revocable plan immediately before the time the contribution is made.

(2) Funding on termination basis — A contribution that is made by an employer to a registered pension plan is described in this subsection if

(a) the contribution is made pursuant to a recommendation by an actuary in whose opinion the contribution is required to be made so that, if the plan is terminated immediately after the contribution is made, it will have sufficient assets to pay benefits accrued under the defined benefit provisions of the plan, as registered, to the time the contribution is made;

(b) the recommendation is based on an actuarial valuation that complies with the following conditions:

(i) the effective date of the valuation is not more than four years before the day on which the contribution is made,

(ii) all assumptions made for the purposes of the valuation are reasonable at the time the valuation is prepared and at the time the contribution is made,

(iii) the valuation is prepared in accordance with generally accepted actuarial principles applicable with respect to a valuation prepared on the basis that a plan will be terminated, and

(iv) where more than one employer participates in the plan, assets and actuarial liabilities are apportioned in a reasonable manner among participating employers;

(c) the recommendation is approved by the Minister; and

(d) at the time the contribution is made, the plan is not a designated plan.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §19.10 (funding on termination basis).

(3) Contributions required by pension benefits legislation — A contribution that is made by an employer to a registered pension plan is described in this subsection if

(a) the contribution

(i) is required to be made to comply with the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province,

(ii) is made in respect of benefits under the defined benefit provisions of the plan as registered, and

(iii) is made pursuant to a recommendation by an actuary;

(b) the recommendation is based on an actuarial valuation that complies with the following conditions:

(i) the effective date of the valuation is not more than four years before the day on which the contribution is made,

(ii) all assumptions made for the purposes of the valuation are reasonable at the time the valuation is prepared and at the time the contribution is made, and

(iii) where more than one employer participates in the plan, assets and actuarial liabilities are apportioned in a reasonable manner among participating employers;

(c) the recommendation is approved by the Minister; and

(d) at the time the contribution is made, the plan is not a designated plan.

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commuted in connection with the transfer, as determined under subsection (4), and

B is

(a) the present value factor that corresponds to the age attained by the individual at the time of the transfer, determined pursuant to the table to this subsection, or

(b) where the present value factor referred to in paragraph (a) is less than the present value factor that corresponds to the next higher age, the present value factor determined by interpolation between those two factors on the basis of the age (expressed in years, including any fraction of a year) of the individual.

(3) Underfunded pension [conditions for 8517(3.01)] — Subsection (3.01) applies in respect of a transfer of an amount on behalf of an individual in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan if

(a) the individual is an employee or a former employee of an employer (or a predecessor employer of the employer);

(b) the employer

(i) was a participating employer under the provision,

(ii) is the subject of proceedings commenced under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, and

(iii) has ceased making regular contributions under the provision;

(c) after the commencement of the proceedings, lifetime retirement benefits paid or payable to the individual under the provision have been reduced because the assets of the plan are insufficient to pay the benefits provided under the provision of the plan as registered;

(d) the plan is not a designated plan; and

(e) the Minister has approved the application of subsection (3.01) in respect of the transfer.

History: Subsec. 8517(3) amended by 2011, c. 24, s. 97, applicable after 2010.

(3.01) [Rollover of commuted pension where employer insolvent] — If this subsection applies, the description of A in subsection (1) shall be read as follows in respect of the transfer:

A is the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commuted in connection with the transfer, as determined under subsection (4), but without reference to the benefit reduction referred to in paragraph (3)(c); and

(3.02) [Prescribed amount for ITA 147.3(4)(c)] — If a particular amount is transferred in full or partial satisfaction of an individual's entitlement to benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan and subsection (3.01) had applied in respect of a transfer (in this subsection referred to as the "initial transfer") of an amount on behalf of the individual under the provision, for the purpose of paragraph 147.3(4)(c) of the Act the prescribed amount in respect of the transfer of the particular amount is the lesser of

(a) the particular amount, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the prescribed amount in respect of the initial transfer exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a previous transfer to which this subsection or subsection (3.01) applied in respect of the individual's entitlement to benefits under the provision.

History: Subsec. 8517(3.02) added by 2011, c. 24, s. 97, applicable after 2010.

(3.1) Benefits provided with surplus on plan wind-up — Where an amount is transferred in full or partial satisfaction of an individual's entitlement to benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan and the benefits include benefits (in this subsection referred to as "ancillary benefits") that are permissible solely because of subsection 8501(7), the prescribed amount for the purpose of paragraph 147.3(4)(c) of the Act in respect of the transfer is the total of

(a) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be the prescribed amount, and

(b) an amount approved by the Minister not exceeding the lesser of

(i) the present value (at the time of the transfer) of the ancillary benefits that, as a consequence of the transfer, cease to be provided, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is, in respect of a previous transfer from the provision to a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to other benefits under the defined benefit provision, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the prescribed amount for the purpose of paragraph 147.3(4)(c) of the Act in respect of the previous transfer

exceeds

(B) the amount of the previous transfer.

(4) Amount of lifetime retirement benefits commuted — For the purposes of subsection (1), and subject to subsection (7), the amount of an individual's lifetime retirement benefits under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan commuted in connection with the transfer of an amount on behalf of the individual in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under the provision is the aggregate of

(a) where retirement benefits have commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual, the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) by which the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision are reduced as a result of the transfer,

(b) where retirement benefits have not commenced to be paid under the provision to the individual, the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) by which the individual's normalized pension (computed in accordance with subsection (5)) under the provision at the time of the transfer is reduced as a result of the transfer, and

(c) where, in conjunction with the transfer, any other payment (other than an amount that is transferred in accordance with subsection 147.3(5) of the Act or that is transferred after 1991 in accordance with subsection 147.3(3) of the Act) is made from the plan in partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under the provision, the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) by which

(i) if paragraph (a) is applicable, the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision are reduced, and

(ii) if paragraph (b) is applicable, the individual's normalized pension (computed in accordance with subsection (5)) under the provision at the time of the payment is reduced, as a result of the payment, except to the extent that such reduction is included in determining, for the purposes of subsection (1), the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the provision commuted in connection with the transfer of another amount on behalf of the individual.

Registered Pension Plans Technical Manual: §20.5 (amounts of lifetime retirement benefits commuted).

(5) Normalized pensions — For the purposes of subsection (4), the normalized pension of an individual under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan at a particular time is the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of lifetime retirement benefits that would be payable under the provision at the particular time if

(a) lifetime retirement benefits commenced to be paid to the individual at the particular time;

(b) where the individual has not attained 65 years of age before the particular time, the individual attained that age at the particular time;

(c) all benefits to which the individual is entitled under the provision were fully vested;

(d) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits would otherwise be determined with a reduction computed by reference to the individual's age, duration of service, or both, or with any other similar reduction, no such reduction were applied;

(e) where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on the amount of benefits provided under another benefit provision of the plan or under another plan or arrangement, a reasonable estimate were made of those other benefits;

(f) where the individual's lifetime retirement benefits would otherwise include benefits that the plan is required to provide by reason of a designated provision of the law of Canada or a province, or that the plan would be required to provide if each such provision were applicable to the plan with respect to all its members, such benefits were not included; and

(g) except as otherwise provided by subsection (6), where the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits depends on

(i) the form of benefits provided with respect to the individual under the provision (whether or not at the option of the individual), including

(A) the benefits to be provided after the death of the individual,

(B) the amount of retirement benefits, other than lifetime retirement benefits, provided to the individual, or

(C) the extent to which the lifetime retirement benefits will be adjusted to reflect changes in the cost of living, or

(ii) circumstances that are relevant in determining the form of benefits, the form of benefits and the circumstances were such as to maximize the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits on commencement of payment.

(6) Optional forms — Where

(a) the terms of a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan permit an individual to elect to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits in lieu of benefits that would, in the absence of the election, be payable after the death of the individual if the individual dies after retirement benefits under the provision commence to be paid to the individual, and

(b) the elections available to the individual include an election

(i) to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits, not exceeding additional benefits determined on an actuarially equivalent basis, in lieu of all or a portion of a guarantee that retirement benefits will be paid for a minimum period of 10 years or less, or

(ii) to receive additional lifetime retirement benefits in lieu of retirement benefits that would otherwise be payable to a person who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual for a period beginning after the death of the individual and ending with the death of the person, where

(A) the election may be made only if the life expectancy of the person is significantly shorter than normal and has been so certified in writing by a medical doctor licensed to practise under the laws of a province or of the place where the person resides, and

(B) the additional benefits do not exceed additional benefits determined on an actuarially equivalent basis and on the assumption that the person has a normal life expectancy, paragraph (5)(g) applies as if

(c) the election described in subparagraph (b)(i) were not available to the individual, and

(d) where the particular time the normalized pension of the individual is determined under subsection (5) is after 1991, the election described in subparagraph (b)(ii) were not available to the individual.

History: Subpara. 8517(6)(b)(ii) amended by P.C. 2001-957, s. 12, May 31, 2001, Canada Gazette, Part II, June 20, 2001, applicable to 2001 et seq., except that if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act (S.C. 2000, c. 12), in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year et seq.

(7) Replacement benefits — Where

(a) an amount is transferred on behalf of an individual in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a defined benefit provision (in this subsection referred to as the "particular provision") of a registered pension plan,

(b) in conjunction with the transfer, benefits become provided to the individual under another defined benefit provision of the plan or under a defined benefit provision of another registered pension plan, and

(c) an employer who participated under the particular provision for the benefit of the individual also participates under the other provision for the individual's benefit, the amount of the individual's lifetime retirement benefits under the particular provision commuted in connection with the transfer is the amount that would be determined under subsection (4) if the benefits provided under the other provision were provided under the particular provision.

"attributed surplus" of a non-resident insurer for a taxation year has the meaning assigned by subsection 2400(1);

"Canadian assets" of a corporation that is a financial institution (as defined in subsection 181(1) of the Act) at any time in a taxation year means, in respect of the year, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount at which an asset of the corporation (which asset is required, or, if the corporation were a bank to which the Bank Act applied, would be required, to be reflected in a return under subsection 223(1) of the Bank Act, as that Act read on May 31, 1992, if that return were prepared on a non-consolidated basis) would be shown on the corporation's balance sheet at the end of the year if its balance sheet were prepared on a non-consolidated basis

(b) the investment allowance of the corporation for the year determined under subsection 181.3(4) of the Act, and

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount outstanding at the end of the year on account of a deposit made by the corporation that is described in paragraph (c) of the definition "eligible loan" in subsection 33.1(1) of the Act;

"Canadian premiums" for a taxation year, in respect of an insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year and throughout the year did not carry on a life insurance business, means the total of the insurance corporation's net premiums for the year

(a) in respect of insurance on property situated in Canada, and

(b) in respect of insurance, other than on property, from contracts with persons resident in Canada, and, for the purposes of this definition, "net premiums" has the same meaning as in subsection 403(2), and subsection 403(3) applies as if the references therein to "province" were read as references to "country";

"Canadian reserve liabilities" of an insurer as at the end of a taxation year has the meaning assigned by subsection 2400(1);

"permanent establishment" has the same meaning as in subsection 400(2);

"total assets" of a corporation that is a financial institution (as defined in subsection 181(1) of the Act) at any time in a taxation year means, in respect of that year, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount at which an asset of the corporation would be shown on the corporation's balance sheet at the end of the year if its balance sheet were prepared on a non-consolidated basis

(b) the investment allowance of the corporation for the year determined under subsection 181.3(4) of the Act;

"total premiums" for a taxation year, in respect of an insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year and throughout the year did not carry on a life insurance business, means the total of the corporation's net premiums for the year (as defined in subsection 403(2)) that are included in computing its income under Part I of the Act;

"total reserve liabilities" of an insurer as at the end of a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total amount as at the end of the year of the insurer's liabilities and reserves (other than liabilities and reserves in respect of a segregated fund within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12) of the Act) in respect of all its insurance policies, as determined for the purposes of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, if the insurer is required by law to report to the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, or, in any other case, the superintendent of insurance or other similar officer or authority of the province under the laws of which the insurer is incorporated, and

B is the total of the reinsurance recoverable (within the meaning assigned by subsection 2400(1)) reported as a reinsurance asset by the insurer as at the end of the year relating to its liabilities and reserves in A.

8602. [Prescribed proportion of amount under s. 123.2] — For the purposes of paragraph (b) of the definition "Canadian surtax payable" in subsection 125.3(4) of the Act, the prescribed proportion of the amount determined under section 123.2 of the Act in respect of a corporation for a taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount determined under section 123.2 of the Act in respect of the corporation for the year;

B is

(a) where the corporation carried on a life insurance business at any time in the year, the corporation's taxable capital (as determined under Part I.3 of the Act) for the year, and

(b) in any other case, the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada (as would be determined under Part I.3 of the Act if that Part were read without reference to paragraphs 181.3(1)(a) and (b) thereof) for the year; and

C is the corporation's taxable capital (as determined under Part I.3 of the Act) for the year.

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 8604

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft regulations (Part 1 — technical), s. 176, will repeal s. 8604, applicable after December 19, 2002. See instead the proposed Schedule after ITA 262.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Existing section 8604 prescribes corporations for the purposes of paragraph (g) of the definition "financial institution" in subsection 181(1) of the Act. In its paragraph (a), section 8604 also provides that a corporation of which all or substantially all of the assets are shares or indebtedness of a financial institution (as defined in subsection 181(1)) to which the corporation is related also falls within the definition.

Section 8604 is proposed to be repealed as a consequence of amendments to paragraph (g) of the definition "financial institution" [and introduction of a Schedule at the end of the ITA — ed.], and readers may consult the notes for the amendments to that paragraph for additional information.

History: The reference to "Farm Credit Corporation" in s. 8604(u) replaced with a reference to "Farm Credit Canada", by 2001, c. 22, para. 22(b), applicable June 14, 2001.

(a) to taxation years ending after April 1994;

(b) to the 1994 and subsequent taxation years of the particular corporation referred to in any of paragraphs 8604(q), (r), (t) or (u), and of all corporations related to the particular corporation, and if the particular corporation has so elected by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 1995, to the 1993 taxation year of the particular corporation and of all corporations related to the particular corporation; and

(c) if the particular corporation referred to in paragraph 8604(s) so elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 1999, to taxation years ending after 1989 of the particular corporation and of all corporations related to the particular corporation; and para. 8604(v) applicable to taxation years commencing after 1993.

Definitions [Reg. 8604]: "Canada" — ITA 255, Interpretation Act 35(1); "corporation" — ITA 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "prescribed" — ITA 248(1); "related" — ITA 251(2)–(6); "share" — ITA 248(1).

8605. (1) For the purposes of subclause 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(A)(II) and clause 190.11(b)(i)(B) of the Act, the amount prescribed in respect of a particular corporation for a taxation year ending at a particular time is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined in respect of a corporation that is, at the particular time, a foreign insurance subsidiary of the particular corporation, equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount by which the total, at the end of the subsidiary's last taxation year ending at or before the particular time, of

(i) the amount of the subsidiary's long-term debt, and

(ii) the amount of the subsidiary's capital stock (or, in the case of an insurance corporation incorporated without share capital, the amount of its member's contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses

exceeds the total of

(iii) the amount of the subsidiary's deferred tax debit balance at the end of the year, and

(iv) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing the subsidiary's shareholders' equity at the end of the year

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(b) the carrying value to its owner at the particular time for the taxation year that includes the particular time of a share of the subsidiary's capital stock or its long term debt that is owned at the particular time by

(i) the particular corporation,

(ii) a subsidiary of the particular corporation,

(iii) a corporation

(A) that is resident in Canada,

(B) that carried on a life insurance business in Canada at any time in its taxation year ending at or before the particular time, and

(C) that is

(I) a corporation of which the particular corporation is a subsidiary, or

(II) a subsidiary of a corporation described in subclause (I), or

(iv) a subsidiary of a corporation described in subparagraph (iii), or

(c) an amount included under paragraph (a) in respect of any surplus of the subsidiary contributed by a corporation described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iv), other than an amount included under paragraph (b).

(d) [Repealed]

(2) For the purposes of subclause 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(A)(III) and clause 190.11(b)(i)(C) of the Act, the amount prescribed in respect of a particular corporation for a taxation year ending at a particular time is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined in respect of a corporation that is, at the particular time, a foreign insurance subsidiary of the particular corporation, equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the amounts determined under paragraphs (1)(b) and (c) in respect of the subsidiary for the year

exceeds

(b) the amount determined under paragraph (1)(a) in respect of the subsidiary for the year.

(3) For the purposes of subclause 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(A)(V) and clause 190.11(b)(i)(E) of the Act, the amount prescribed in respect of a particular corporation for a taxation year ending at a particular time means the total of all amounts each of which would be the total reserve liabilities of a foreign insurance subsidiary of the particular corporation as at the end of the subsidiary's last taxation year ending at or before the particular time if the subsidiary were required by law to report to the Superintendent of Financial Institutions for that year.

(4) The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"foreign insurance subsidiary" of a particular corporation at any time means a non-resident corporation that

(a) carried on a life insurance business throughout its last taxation year ending at or before that time,

(b) did not carry on a life insurance business in Canada at any time in its last taxation year ending at or before that time, and

(c) is at that time

(i) a subsidiary of the particular corporation, and

(ii) not a subsidiary of any corporation that

(A) is resident in Canada,

(B) carried on a life insurance business in Canada at any time in its last taxation year ending at or before that time, and

(C) is a subsidiary of the particular corporation.

"subsidiary" of a corporation (in this definition referred to as the "parent corporation") means a corporation controlled by the parent corporation where shares of each class of the capital stock of the corporation having a fair market value of not less than 75% of the fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of that class belong to

(a) the parent corporation,

(b) a corporation that is a subsidiary of the parent corporation, or

(c) any combination of corporations each of which is a corporation referred to in paragraph (a) or described in paragraph (b).

PART LXXXVII — NATIONAL ARTS SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

History: Part LXXXVII (s. 8700) added by P.C. 1994-139, s. 16, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable after July 13, 1990.

8700. [Prescribed conditions] — For the purposes of paragraph 149.1(6.4)(d) of the Act, the following conditions are prescribed for a national arts service organization:

(a) the organization is an organization

(i) that is, because of paragraph 149(1)(l) of the Act, exempt from tax under Part I of the Act,

(ii) that represents, in an official language of Canada, a community of artists from one or more of the following sectors of activity in the arts community, that is, theatre, opera, music, dance, painting, sculpture, drawing, crafts, design, photography, the literary arts, film, sound recording and other audio-visual arts,

(iii) no part of the income of which may be payable to, or otherwise available for the personal benefit of, any proprietor, member, shareholder, trustee, or settlor of the organization, except where the payment is for services rendered or is an amount to which paragraph 56(1)(n) of the Act applies in respect of the recipient,

(iv) all of the resources of which are devoted to the activities and objects described in its application for its last designation by the Minister of Canadian Heritage pursuant to paragraph 149.1(6.4)(a) of the Act,

(v) more than 50 per cent of the directors, trustees, officers or other officials of which deal with each other at arm's length, and

(vi) no more than 50% of the property of which at any time has been contributed or otherwise paid into the organization by one person or members of a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length and, for the purpose of this subparagraph, a reference to any person or to members of a group does not include a reference to Her Majesty in Right of Canada or a province, a municipality, a registered charity that is not a private foundation or any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l) of the Act; and

(b) the activities of the organization (which may include collective bargaining on behalf of its sector of activity under the Status of the Artist Act, provided it is not the organization's primary activity) are confined to one or more of

(i) promoting one or more art forms,

(ii) conducting research into one or more art forms,

(iii) sponsoring arts exhibitions or performances,

(iv) representing interests of the arts community or a sector thereof (but not of individuals) before governmental, judicial, quasi-judicial or other public bodies,

(v) conducting workshops, seminars, training programs and similar development programs relating to the arts for members of the organization, in respect of which the value of benefits received or enjoyed by members of the organization is required by paragraph 56(1)(aa) [now 56(1)(z.1) — ed.] of the Act to be included in computing the incomes of those members,

(vi) educating the public about the arts community or the sector represented by the organization,

(vii) organizing and sponsoring conventions, conferences, competitions and special events relating to the arts community or the sector represented by the organization,

(viii) conducting arts studies and surveys of interest to members of the organization relating to the arts community or the sector represented by the organization,

(ix) acting as an information centre by maintaining resource libraries and data bases relating to the arts community or the sector represented by the organization,

(x) disseminating information relating to the arts community or the sector represented by the organization, and

(xi) paying amounts to which paragraph 56(1)(n) of the Act applies in respect of the recipient and which relate to the arts community or the sector represented by the organization.

PART LXXXIX — ENTITIES PRESCRIBED WITH RESPECT TO CERTAIN RULES

8900. (1) International organizations — For the purpose of subparagraph 110(1)(f)(iii) of the Act, the following international organizations are prescribed:

(a) the United Nations; and

(b) each international organization that is a specialized agency brought into relationship with the United Nations in accordance with Article 63 of the Charter of the United Nations.

(2) International non-governmental organizations — For the purpose of subparagraph 110(1)(f)(iv) of the Act, the following international non-governmental organizations are prescribed:

(a) the International Air Transport Association;

(b) the Société internationale de télécommunications aéronautiques; and

(c) the World Anti-Doping Agency.

History: S. 8900 and the preceding heading amended by P.C. 2003-266, s. 1, February 27, 2003, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 12, 2003, applicable to 2001 et seq.

S. 8900 added by P.C. 1995-663, s. 1, April 26, 1995, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 17, 1995, applicable to 1991 et seq., except that para. 8900(b) applies only to 1993 et seq.

Definitions [Reg. 8900]: "prescribed" — ITA 248(1).

8901. Partnership — For the purpose of paragraph 249.1(1)(b) of the Act, Gaz Métropolitain and Company, Limited Partnership is a prescribed partnership.

Proposed Repeal — Reg. 8901

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, s. 71, will repeal s. 8901, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 249.1(1) of the Act defines "fiscal period" for the purposes of the Act. Paragraph 249.1(1)(b) provides restrictions on the timing of fiscal periods of certain individuals, trusts, partnerships and professional corporations (other than the fiscal period of a business not carried on in Canada or a business that is a prescribed business or is carried on by a prescribed person or partnership).

Section 8901 lists prescribed partnerships for the purposes of paragraph 249.1(1)(b). This section is repealed consequential on the concurrent amendment of paragraph 249.1(1)(b).

History: S. 8901 added by P.C. 2003-266, s. 2, February 27, 2003, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 12, 2003, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after 1994.

PART XC — FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS — PRESCRIBED ENTITIES AND PROPERTIES

9000. Prescribed trust not a financial institution — For the purpose of paragraph (e) of the definition "financial institution" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a trust is, at any particular time, a prescribed person if the following conditions are satisfied at that particular time:

(a) the trust is a related segregated fund trust (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 138.1(1)(a) of the Act);

(b) the trust is deemed, under paragraph 138.1(1)(a) of the Act, to have been created at a time that is not more than two years before that particular time; and

(c) the cost of the trustee's interest (as determined by paragraph 138.1(1)(c) and (d) of the Act) in the trust does not exceed $5,000,000.

History: S. 9000 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 9000]: "person", "prescribed" — ITA 248(1); "related segregated fund trust" — ITA 138.1(1)(a); "trust" — ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3).

9001. Prescribed property not mark-to-market property — (1) In this section, "qualified small business corporation", at any time, means a corporation in respect of which the following conditions are satisfied at that time:

(a) the corporation is a Canadian-controlled private corporation;

(b) the corporation either is an eligible corporation (as defined in subsection 5100(1)) or would be an eligible corporation if the definition "eligible corporation" in subsection 5100(1) were read without reference to its paragraph (e);

(c) the carrying value of the total assets of the corporation and all corporations related to it (determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles on a consolidated or combined basis, where applicable) does not exceed $50,000,000; and

(d) the number of employees of the corporation and all corporations related to it does not exceed 500.

(2) For the purpose of paragraph (e) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a share of the capital stock of a corporation is a prescribed property of a taxpayer if

(a) immediately after the time at which the taxpayer acquired the share, the corporation was a qualified small business corporation, and

(i) the corporation continued to be a qualified small business corporation for one year after that time, or

(ii) the taxpayer could not reasonably expect at that time that the corporation would cease to be a qualified small business corporation within one year after that time; or

(b) the share was issued to the taxpayer in exchange for one or more shares of the capital stock of the corporation that were, at the time of the exchange, prescribed property of the taxpayer under this subsection.

History: S. 9001 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, except that in applying it to taxation years that begin before October 2006, the references in the section to "excluded property" are to be read as references to "mark-to-market property".

Definitions [Reg. 9001]: "business" — ITA 248(1); "Canadian-controlled private corporation" — ITA 125(7), 248(1); "corporation" — ITA 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "eligible corporation" — Reg. 5100(1); "employee", "prescribed", "property" — ITA 248(1); "qualified small business corporation" — Reg. 9001(1); "related" — ITA 251(2)–(6); "share", "small business corporation", "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

9002. Prescribed property not mark-to-market property — (1) For the purposes of paragraph (e) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, and of subparagraph 142.6(4)(a)(ii) of the Act, a debt obligation held by a bank is a prescribed property of the bank if the obligation is

(a) an exposure to a designated country (within the meaning assigned by section 8006); or

(b) a United Mexican States Collateralized Par Bond due 2019; or

(c) a United Mexican States Collateralized Discount Bond due 2019.

(2) For the purpose of paragraph (e) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a share is a prescribed property of a taxpayer for a taxation year if

(a) the share is a lending asset of the taxpayer in the year; or

(b) the share was, immediately after its issuance, a share described in paragraph (e) of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, and the share would, at any time in the year, be a term preferred share if

(i) that definition were read without reference to the portion following paragraph (b), and

(ii) where the share was issued or acquired on or before June 28, 1982, it were issued or acquired after that day.

(3) For the purpose of paragraph (e) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a share of the capital stock of a corporation that is held by a credit union is a prescribed property of the credit union for a taxation year if, throughout the period (referred to in this subsection as the "holding period") in that taxation year during which the credit union holds the share

(a) the corporation is a credit union; or

(b) the following conditions are satisfied:

(i) credit unions hold shares of the corporation that

(A) give those credit unions at least 50% of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation, and

(B) have a fair market value of at least 50% of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the corporation,

(ii) the corporation is not controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by any person that is not a credit union, and

(iii) the corporation would not be controlled by a person that is not a credit union if each share of the corporation that is not owned at any time in the holding period by a credit union were owned, at that time, by the person.

History: Subsec. 9002(3) amended by 2009, c. 2, s. 118(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after February 2, 2009 except that

(a) it also applies to taxation years of a taxpayer that end after 2002 and begin before February 3, 2009, if the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in 2009; and

(b) if a taxpayer makes an election under para. (a), in applying the subsec. as amended, for taxation years of the taxpayer that begin before October 2006, the reference in that subsection to "excluded property" is to be read as a reference to "mark-to-market property".

S. 9002 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, except that in applying it to taxation years that begin before October 2006, the references in it to "excluded property" are to be read as references to "mark-to-market property".

Definitions [Reg. 9002]: "bank", "corporation" — ITA 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "credit union" — ITA 137(6), 248(1); "excluded property" — ITA 142.2(1); "lending asset", "person", "prescribed", "property", "share", "shareholder" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer", "term preferred share" — ITA 248(1).

9002.1 Prescribed payment card corporation share not mark-to-market property — For the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a prescribed payment card corporation share of a taxpayer at any time means a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation if, at that time,

(a) the particular corporation is any one of the following

(i) MasterCard International Incorporated,

(ii) MasterCard Incorporated, or

(iii) Visa Inc.; and

(b) the share

(i) is of a class of shares that is not listed on a stock exchange,

(ii) is not convertible into or exchangeable for a share of the class of the capital stock of a corporation that is listed on a stock exchange, and

(iii) was issued by the particular corporation to the taxpayer or to a person related to the taxpayer.

History: S. 9002.1 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994 except that, for taxation years that begin before October 2006, the reference in it to "paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded property"" is to be read as a reference to "paragraph (d.1) of the definition "mark-to-market property"".

9002.2 [Repealed]

History: The heading to s. 9002.2 repealed by P.C. 2010-548, s. 26, April 29, 2010, Canada Gazette, Part II, May 12, 2010, applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

S. 9002.2 repealed by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

S. 9002.2 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1998 and before 2008, except that, for taxation years that begin before October 2006, the reference in it to "paragraph (c) of the definition "excluded property"" is to be read as a reference to "paragraph (d.2) of the definition "mark-to-market property"".

9003. Significant interest in a corporation — For the purpose of paragraph 142.2(3)(c) of the Act, a share described in paragraph 9002(2)(b) is prescribed in respect of all taxpayers.

History: S. 9003 added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 9003]: "prescribed", "share", "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

9004. Financing arrangement not a specified debt obligation — For the purpose of paragraph (c) of the definition "specified debt obligation" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act, a property is a prescribed property throughout a taxation year if

(a) the property is a direct financing lease, or any other financing arrangement, of a taxpayer that is reported as a loan in the taxpayer's financial statements for the year prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles; and

(b) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, an amount is deductible under paragraph 20(1)(a) of the Act in respect of the property that is the subject of the arrangement.

History: S. 9004 amended by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after February 2, 2009.

S. 9004 added by P.C. 1999-195, s. 8, February 11, 1999, Canada Gazette, Part II, March 3, 1999, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer elects in writing to have para. 20(1)(l) of the Act, as amended, to apply to the year and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

PART XCI — FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS — INCOME FROM SPECIFIED DEBT OBLIGATIONS

9100. Interpretation — Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part.

"fixed payment obligation", of a taxpayer, means a specified debt obligation under which

(a) the amount and timing of each payment (other than a fee or similar payment or an amount payable because of a default by the debtor) to be made by the debtor were fixed when the taxpayer acquired the obligation and have not been changed; and

(b) all payments are to be made in the same currency.

"primary currency", of a specified debt obligation, means

(a) the currency with which the obligation is primarily connected; and

(b) if there is no such currency, Canadian currency.

"tax basis", of a specified debt obligation at any time to a taxpayer, has the meaning assigned by subsection 142.4(1) of the Act.

"total return", of a taxpayer from a fixed payment obligation, means the amount, measured in the primary currency of the obligation, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a payment (other than a fee or similar payment) required to be made by the debtor under the obligation after its acquisition by the taxpayer

exceeds

(b) the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation.

History: S. 9100 added by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(1), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 9100]: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "fixed payment obligation", "primary currency" — Reg. 9100; "specified debt obligation" — ITA 142.2(1); "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

9101. Prescribed inclusions and deductions — (1) Inclusion — For the purpose of paragraph 142.3(1)(a) of the Act, where a taxpayer holds a specified debt obligation at any time in a taxation year, the amount prescribed in respect of the obligation for the year is the total of

(a) the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for the year,

(b) if the taxpayer's accrual adjustment determined under section 9102 in respect of the obligation for the year is greater than nil, the amount of the adjustment, and

(c) if a foreign exchange adjustment is determined under section 9104 in respect of the obligation for the year and is greater than nil, the amount of the adjustment.

(2) Deduction — For the purpose of paragraph 142.3(1)(b) of the Act, where a taxpayer holds a specified debt obligation at any time in a taxation year, the amount prescribed in respect of the obligation is the total of

(a) if the taxpayer's accrual adjustment determined under section 9102 in respect of the obligation for the year is less than nil, the absolute value of the amount of the adjustment, and

(b) if a foreign exchange adjustment is determined under section 9104 in respect of the obligation for the year and is less than nil, the absolute value of the amount of the adjustment.

History: S. 9101 added by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(1), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 9101]: "accrual adjustment" — Reg. 9102(4), (5); "accrued return" — Reg. 9102(3); "amount" — ITA 248(1); "foreign exchange adjustment" — Reg. 9104(1); "prescribed" — ITA 248(1); "specified debt obligation" — ITA 142.2(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

9102. General accrual rules — (1) Fixed payment obligation not in default — For the purpose of paragraph 9101(1)(a), a taxpayer's accrued return for a taxation year from a fixed payment obligation, under which each payment required to be made before the end of the year was made by the debtor when it was required to be made, shall be determined in accordance with the following rules:

(a) determine, in the primary currency of the obligation, the portion of the taxpayer's total return from the obligation that is allocated to each day in the year using

(i) the level-yield method described in subsection (2), or

(ii) any other reasonable method that is substantially similar to the level-yield method;

(b) if the primary currency of the obligation is not Canadian currency, translate to Canadian currency the amount allocated to each day in the year, using a reasonable method of translation; and

(c) determine the total of all amounts each of which is the Canadian currency amount allocated to a day, in the year, at the beginning of which the taxpayer holds the obligation.

(2) Level-yield method — For the purpose of subsection (1), the level-yield method for allocating a taxpayer's total return from a fixed payment obligation is the method that allocates, to each particular day in the period that begins on the day following the day on which the taxpayer acquired the obligation and that ends on the day on which the obligation matures, the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B - C) \times D$$

where

A is the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer (expressed in the primary currency of the obligation);

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of the taxpayer's total return from the obligation that is allocated to a day before the particular day;

C is the total of all payments required to be made under the obligation after it was acquired by the taxpayer and before the particular day; and

D is the rate of interest per day that, if used in computing the present value (as of the end of the day on which the taxpayer acquired the obligation and based on daily compounding) of all payments to be made under the obligation after it was acquired by the taxpayer, produces a present value equal to the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation (expressed in the primary currency of the obligation).

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

(3) Other specified debt obligations — For the purpose of paragraph 9101(1)(a), a taxpayer's accrued return for a taxation year from a specified debt obligation, other than an obligation to which subsection (1) applies, shall be determined

(a) using a reasonable method that,

(i) taking into account the extent to which the obligation differs from fixed payment obligations, is consistent with the principles implicit in the methods that can be used under subsection (1) for fixed payment obligations, and

(ii) is in accordance with generally accepted accounting practice for the measurement of profit from debt obligations; and

(b) on the basis of reasonable assumptions with respect to the timing and amount of any payments to be made by the debtor under the obligation that are not fixed in their timing or amount (measured in the primary currency of the obligation).

(4) Accrual adjustment nil — For the purposes of paragraphs 9101(1)(b) and (2)(a), if subsection 142.3(1) of the Act applies to a taxpayer for a particular taxation year in respect of a specified debt obligation and either the subsection did not apply in respect of the obligation for the taxpayer's immediately preceding taxation year or the taxpayer did not own the obligation at the end of that immediately preceding taxation year, the taxpayer's accrual adjustment in respect of the obligation for the particular taxation year is nil.

(5) Accrual adjustment — For the purposes of paragraphs 9101(1)(b) and (2)(a), if subsection (4) does not apply to determine a taxpayer's accrual adjustment in respect of a specified debt obligation for a particular taxation year, the taxpayer's accrual adjustment is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount that would be the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for a taxation year, before the particular taxation year, for which subsection 142.3(1) of the Act applied to the taxpayer in respect of the obligation if the accrued return were redetermined on the basis of

(a) the information available at the end of the particular year, and

(b) the assumptions, if any, with respect to the timing and amount of payments to be made under the obligation after the particular taxation year that were used for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for the particular taxation year; and

B is the total of

(a) the amount included under paragraph 9101(1)(a) as the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for the taxation year immediately preceding the particular taxation year, and

(b) if the taxpayer's accrual adjustment in respect of the obligation for that immediately preceding taxation year was determined under this subsection, the value of A for the purpose of determining that accrual adjustment.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

(6) Special cases and transition — The rules in this section for determining accrued returns and accrual adjustments are subject to section 9103.

History: S. 9102 added by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(1), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Definitions [Reg. 9102]: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "fixed payment obligation" — Reg. 9100; "level-yield method" — Reg. 9102(2); "primary currency" — Reg. 9100; "specified debt obligation" — ITA 142.2(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "total return" — Reg. 9100.

9103. Accrual rules — special cases and transition — (1) Convertible obligation — For the purposes of section 9102, if the terms of a specified debt obligation of a taxpayer give the taxpayer the right to exchange the obligation for shares of the debtor or of a corporation related to the debtor

(a) subject to paragraph (b), the right shall be disregarded (whether it has been exercised or not); and

(b) if 5% or more of the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer is attributable to the right, the cost is deemed to equal the amount by which the cost exceeds the portion of the cost attributable to the right.

(2) [Repealed]

(3) Amendment of obligation — If the terms of a specified debt obligation of a taxpayer are amended at any time in a taxation year of the taxpayer to change the timing or amount of any payment to be made, at or after that time, under the obligation, the taxpayer's accrued returns for the taxation year and for each subsequent taxation year are to be redetermined under section 9102 using a reasonable method that fully gives effect, in those accrued returns, to the alteration to the payments under the obligation.

(4) Obligations acquired before financial institution rules apply — If a taxpayer held a specified debt obligation at the beginning of the taxpayer's first taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "initial year") for which subsection 142.3(1) of the Act applied to the taxpayer in respect of the obligation, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for the initial year or a subsequent taxation year shall not include an amount to the extent that the amount was included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year preceding the initial year; and

(b) if interest on the obligation in respect of a period before the initial year becomes receivable or is received by the taxpayer in a particular taxation year that is the initial year or a subsequent taxation year, and all or part of the interest would not, but for this paragraph, be included in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, there shall be included in determining the taxpayer's accrued return from the obligation for the particular taxation year the amount, if any, by which

(i) the portion of the interest that would not otherwise be included in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer that is reasonably attributable to that portion of the interest.

(5) Prepaid interest — transition rule — If, before November 1994 and in a taxation year that ended after February 22, 1994, a taxpayer received an amount under a specified debt obligation in satisfaction, in whole or in part, of the debtor's obligation to pay interest in respect of a period after the taxation year,

(a) the amount may, at the election of the taxpayer, be included in determining the taxpayer's accrued return for the taxation year from the obligation; and

(b) if the amount is so included, the taxpayer's accrued returns for subsequent taxation years from the obligation shall not include any amount in respect of interest that, because of the payment of the amount, the debtor is no longer required to pay.

History: Subsec. 9103(2) repealed by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(2), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to a taxpayer's taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer has made an election under para. 81(11)(b) of S.C. 1998, c. 19 (Royal Assent June 18, 1998), the Income Tax Amendments Act, 1997.

S. 9103 added by the said P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, except that in respect of taxation years beginning before April 11, 2009, subsec. 9103(3) is to be read as follows:

(3) For the purposes of determining accrued returns and accrual adjustments under section 9102, if the terms of a specified debt obligation of a taxpayer have been amended to change the timing or amount of any payment to be made under the obligation, the amendment shall be taken into account as if the obligation had been acquired at the time the amendment was made.

Definitions [Reg. 9103]: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "corporation" — ITA 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "initial year" — Reg. 9103(4); "related" — ITA 251(2)–(6); "share" — ITA 248(1); "specified debt obligation" — ITA 142.2(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

9104. Foreign exchange adjustment — (1) Obligations held at end of taxation year — For the purposes of paragraphs 9101(1)(c) and (2)(b), if, at the end of a taxation year, a taxpayer holds a specified debt obligation the primary currency of which is not Canadian currency, the taxpayer's foreign exchange adjustment in respect of the obligation for the taxation year is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$(A \times B) - C$$

where

A is the amount that would be the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer at the end of the year if

(a) the tax basis were determined using the primary currency of the obligation as the currency in which all amounts are expressed,

(b) the definition "tax basis" in subsection 142.4(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraphs (f), (h), (o) and (q), and

(c) the taxpayer's foreign exchange adjustment in respect of the obligation for each year were nil;

B is the rate of exchange at the end of the year of the primary currency of the obligation into Canadian currency; and

C is the amount that would be the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer at the end of the year if

(a) the definition "tax basis" in subsection 142.4(1) of the Act were read without reference to paragraphs (h) and (q), and

(b) the taxpayer's foreign exchange adjustment in respect of the obligation for the year were nil.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

I.T. Technical News: 15 (tax consequences of the adoption of the "euro" currency).

(2) Disposition of obligation — If a taxpayer disposes of a specified debt obligation the primary currency of which is not Canadian currency, the taxpayer's foreign exchange adjustment in respect of the obligation for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs is the amount that would be the foreign exchange adjustment if the taxation year had ended immediately before the disposition.

(3) Disposition of obligation before 1996 — At the election of a taxpayer, subsection (2) does not apply to specified debt obligations disposed of by the taxpayer before 1996.

History: S. 9104 added by P.C. 2009-1212, subsec. 7(1), July 30, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 19, 2009, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

PART XCII — FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS — DISPOSITION OF SPECIFIED DEBT OBLIGATIONS

9200. Interpretation — (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part.

"gain", of a taxpayer from the disposition of a specified debt obligation, means the gain from the disposition determined under paragraph 142.4(6)(a) of the Act.

"loss", of a taxpayer from the disposition of a specified debt obligation, means the loss from the disposition determined under paragraph 142.4(6)(b) of the Act.

"residual portion", of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation, means the amount determined under subsection 142.4(8) of the Act in respect of the disposition.

(2) Amortization date — For the purposes of this Part, the amortization date for a specified debt obligation disposed of by a taxpayer is the day determined as follows:

(a) subject to paragraphs (b) to (d), the amortization date is the later of the day of disposition and the day on which the debtor is required to make the final payment under the obligation, determined without regard to any option respecting the timing of payments under the obligation (other than an option that was exercised before the disposition);

(b) subject to paragraphs (c) and (d), the amortization date is the day of disposition if the day on which the debtor is required to make the final payment under the obligation is not determinable for the purpose of paragraph (a);

(c) subject to paragraph (d), the amortization date is the first day, if any, after the disposition on which the interest rate could change, if the obligation is one in respect of which the following conditions are satisfied:

(i) the obligation provides for stipulated interest payments,

(ii) the rate of interest for one or more periods after the issuance of the obligation was not fixed on the day of issue, and

(iii) when the obligation was issued, it was reasonable to expect that the interest rate for each period would equal or approximate a reasonable market rate of interest for that period; and

(d) if, for purposes of its financial statements, the taxpayer had a gain or loss from the disposition that is being amortized to profit, the amortization date is the last day of the amortization period.

9201. Transition amount — For the purpose of subsection 142.4(1) of the Act, "transition amount", of a taxpayer in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation, means,

(a) if neither paragraph (b) nor (c) applies, nil;

(b) if

(i) the taxpayer acquired the obligation before its taxation year that includes February 23, 1994,

(ii) neither paragraph 7000(2)(a) nor (b) has applied to the obligation, and

(iii) the principal amount of the obligation exceeds the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer (which excess is referred to in this paragraph as the "discount"),

the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount included in respect of the discount in computing the taxpayer's profit for a taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount included in respect of the discount in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994; and

(c) where

(i) the conditions in subparagraphs (b)(i) and (ii) are satisfied, and

(ii) the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer exceeds the principal amount of the obligation (which excess is referred to in this paragraph as the "premium"), the negative of the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted in respect of the premium in computing the taxpayer's profit for a taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted in respect of the premium in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

9202. Prescribed debt obligations — (1) Application of related election — The following rules apply with respect to an election made under subsection (3) or (4) by a taxpayer:

(a) the election applies only if

(i) it is in writing,

(ii) it specifies the first taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "initial year") of the taxpayer to which it is to apply, and

(iii) either it is received by the Minister within six months after the end of the initial year, or the Minister has expressly accepted the later filing of the election;

(b) subject to paragraph (c), the election applies to dispositions of specified debt obligations in the initial year and subsequent taxation years; and

(c) if the Minister has approved, on written application by the taxpayer, the revocation of the election, the election does not apply to dispositions of specified debt obligations in the taxation year specified in the application and in subsequent taxation years.

(2) Prescribed specified debt obligation — For the purpose of subparagraph 142.4(5)(a)(ii) of the Act, a specified debt obligation disposed of by a taxpayer in a taxation year is prescribed in respect of the taxpayer if the amortization date for the obligation is not more than two years after the end of the taxation year.

(3) Prescribed specified debt obligation — exception — Subsection (2) does not apply in respect of a taxpayer for a taxation year if

(a) generally accepted accounting principles require that the taxpayer's gains and losses arising on the disposition of a class of debt obligations be amortized to profit for the purpose of the taxpayer's financial statements;

(b) the taxpayer has elected not to have subsection (2) apply; and

(c) the election applies to dispositions in the year.

(4) Prescribed specified debt obligation — For the purpose of subparagraph 142.4(5)(a)(ii) of the Act, a specified debt obligation disposed of by a taxpayer in a taxation year is prescribed in respect of the taxpayer if

(a) the taxpayer has elected to have this subsection apply;

(b) the election applies to dispositions in the year; and

(c) the absolute value of the positive or negative amount determined by the formula (A – B) does not exceed the lesser of $5,000 and the amount, if any, specified in the election, where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the residual portion of the taxpayer's gain from the disposition of the obligation or any other specified debt obligation disposed of in the same transaction, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the residual portion of the taxpayer's loss from the disposition of the obligation or any other specified debt obligation disposed of in the same transaction.

Related Provisions: ITA 257 — Negative amounts in formulas.

(5) Prescribed specified debt obligation — For the purpose of subparagraph 142.4(5)(a)(ii) of the Act, a specified debt obligation disposed of by a taxpayer in a taxation year is prescribed in respect of the taxpayer if

(a) the disposition resulted in an extinguishment of the obligation, other than an extinguishment that occurred because of a purchase of the obligation by the debtor in the open market;

(b) the taxpayer had the right to require the obligation to be settled at any time; or

(c) the debtor had the right to settle the obligation at any time.

9203. Residual portion of gain or loss — (1) Allocation of residual portion — Subject to section 9204, if subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies to the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer, the amount allocated to each taxation year in respect of the residual portion of the gain or loss from the disposition shall be determined, for the purpose of that subsection,

(a) by a method that complies with, or is substantially similar to a method that complies with, subsection (2); or

(b) if gains and losses from the disposition of debt obligations are amortized to profit for the purpose of the taxpayer's financial statements, by the method used for the purpose of the taxpayer's financial statements.

(2) Proration method — For the purpose of subsection (1), a method for allocating to taxation years the residual portion of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation complies with this subsection if the amount allocated to each taxation year is determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the residual portion of the taxpayer's gain or loss;

B is the number of days in the taxation year that are in the period referred to in the description of C; and

C is the number of days in the period that,

(a) where subsection (3) applies in respect of the obligation, is determined under that subsection, and

(b) in any other case,

(i) begins on the day on which the taxpayer disposed of the obligation, and

(ii) ends on the earlier of

(A) the amortization date for the obligation, and

(B) the day that is 20 years after the day on which the taxpayer disposed of the obligation.

(3) Single proration period — This subsection applies in respect of specified debt obligations disposed of by a taxpayer in a transaction in a taxation year, and the period determined under this subsection in respect of the obligations is the period that begins on the day of disposition and ends on the weighted average amortization date for those obligations so disposed of to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies, if

(a) the taxpayer has elected in its return of income for the taxation year to have this subsection apply in respect of the obligations so disposed of;

(b) all the obligations so disposed of were disposed of at the same time; and

(c) the number of the obligations so disposed of to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies is at least 50.

(4) Weighted average amortization date — For the purpose of subsection (3), the weighted average amortization date for a group of specified debt obligations disposed of on the same day by a taxpayer is,

(a) if paragraph (b) does not apply, the day that is the number of days after the day of disposition equal to the total of the number of days determined in respect of each obligation by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the number of days from the day of disposition to the amortization date for the obligation,

B is the residual portion of the gain or loss from the disposition of the obligation, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the residual portion of the gain or loss from the disposition of an obligation in the group; and

(b) the day that the taxpayer determines using a reasonable method for estimating the day determined under paragraph (a).

9204. Special rules for residual portion of gain or loss — (1) Application — This section applies for the purposes of subparagraphs 142.4(4)(c)(ii) and (d)(ii) of the Act.

(2) Winding-up — If subsection 88(1) of the Act has applied to the winding-up of a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary"), the following rules apply in respect of the residual portion of a gain or loss of the subsidiary from the disposition of a specified debt obligation to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies:

(a) the amount of that residual portion allocated to the taxation year of the subsidiary in which its assets were distributed to its parent on the winding-up shall be determined on the assumption that the taxation year ended when the assets were distributed to its parent;

(b) no amount shall be allocated in respect of that residual portion to any taxation year of the subsidiary after its taxation year in which its assets were distributed to its parent; and

(c) the amount of that residual portion allocated to the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's assets were distributed to it shall be determined on the assumption that the taxation year began when the assets were distributed to it.

(2.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 9204(2.1) repealed by P.C. 2009-1869, subsec. 12(2), November 19, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 9, 2009, applicable to windings-up that occur after June 14, 2004.

Subsec. 9204(2.1) added by the said P.C. 2009-1869, subsec. 12(1), applicable after June 27, 1999 except that before August 9, 2000 it applies only in respect of authorized foreign banks.

(3) Transfer of an insurance business — No amount in respect of the residual portion of a gain or loss of an insurer from the disposition of a specified debt obligation to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies shall be allocated to any taxation year of the insurer that ends after the insurer ceased to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business, if

(a) subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act has applied to the transfer of that business; and

(b) the person to whom that business was transferred is considered, because of paragraph 138(11.5)(k) of the Act, to be the same person as the insurer in respect of that residual portion.

(4) Transfer to new partnership — If subsection 98(6) of the Act deems a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "new partnership") to be a continuation of another partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "predecessor partnership"), the following rules apply in respect of the residual portion of a gain or loss of the predecessor partnership from the disposition of a specified debt obligation to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies:

(a) the amount of that residual portion allocated to the taxation year of the predecessor partnership in which its property was transferred to the new partnership shall be determined on the assumption that the taxation year ended when the property was transferred;

(b) no amount shall be allocated in respect of that residual portion to any taxation year of the predecessor partnership after its taxation year in which its property was transferred to the new partnership; and

(c) the amount of that residual portion allocated to the taxation year of the new partnership in which the predecessor partnership's property was transferred to it shall be determined on the assumption that the taxation year began when the property was transferred to it.

(5) Ceasing to carry on business — There shall be allocated to a particular taxation year of a taxpayer the part, if any, of the residual portion of the taxpayer's gain or loss that is from a disposition of a specified debt obligation to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies and that was not allocated to a preceding taxation year, if

(a) at any time in the particular taxation year the taxpayer ceases to carry on all or substantially all of a business, otherwise than as a result of a merger to which subsection 87(2) of the Act applies, a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies or a transfer of the business to which subsection 98(6) or 138(11.5) or (11.94) of the Act applies;

(b) the disposition occurred before that time; and

(c) the specified debt obligation was property used in the business.

(5.1) Non-resident taxpayer — For the purpose of subsection (5), a non-resident taxpayer is considered to cease to carry on all or substantially all of a business if the taxpayer ceases to carry on, or ceases to carry on in Canada, all or substantially all of the part of the business that was carried on in Canada.

History: Subsec. 9204(5.1) added by P.C. 2009-1869, subsec. 12(3), November 19, 2009, Canada Gazette, Part II, December 9, 2009, applicable after June 27, 1999 except that before August 9, 2000 it applies only in respect of authorized foreign banks.

(6) Ceasing to be a financial institution — There shall be allocated to a particular taxation year of a taxpayer the part, if any, of the residual portion of the taxpayer's gain or loss that is from a disposition of a specified debt obligation to which subsection 142.4(4) of the Act applies and that was not allocated to a preceding taxation year, if

(a) the particular taxation year ends immediately before the time at which the taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution, otherwise than because it has ceased to carry on a business; and

(b) the disposition occurred before that time.

PART XCIV — PRESCRIBED CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

History: The heading to Part XCIV amended by 2011, c. 24, s. 98, applicable to 2011 et seq.

Part XCIV (s. 9400) added by 2007, c. 35, s. 88, applicable after 2006.

9400. (1) The following definitions apply in this Part.

"physical activity" means a supervised activity suitable for children (other than an activity where a child rides on or in a motorized vehicle as an essential component of the activity) that

(a) in the case of a qualifying child in respect of whom an amount is deductible under section 118.3 of the Act in computing any person's income for the taxation year, results in movement and in an observable expenditure of energy in a recreational context; and

(b) in the case of any other child, contributes to cardio-respiratory endurance and to one or more of the following:

(i) muscular strength,

(ii) muscular endurance,

(iii) flexibility, and

(iv) balance.

"qualifying child" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.03(1) of the Act.

(2) Prescribed program of physical activity — For the purpose of the definition "eligible fitness expense" in subsection 118.03(1) of the Act, a prescribed program of physical activity is

(a) a weekly program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks in which all or substantially all of the activities include a significant amount of physical activity;

(b) a program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of five or more consecutive days of which more than 50% of the daily activities include a significant amount of physical activity;

(c) a program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks, offered to children by a club, association or similar organization (in this section referred to as an "organization") in circumstances where a participant in the program may select amongst a variety of activities if

(i) more than 50% of those activities offered to children by the organization are activities that include a significant amount of physical activity, or

(ii) more than 50% of the time scheduled for activities offered to children in the program is scheduled for activities that include a significant amount of physical activity; or

(d) a membership in an organization, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks if more than 50% of all the activities offered to children by the organization include a significant amount of physical activity.

(3) Mixed-use facility — For the purpose of the definition "eligible fitness expense" in subsection 118.03(1) of the Act, a prescribed program of physical activity is that portion of a program, which program does not meet the requirements of paragraph (2)(c) and is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks, offered to children by an organization in circumstances where a participant in the program may select amongst a variety of activities

(a) that is the percentage of those activities offered to children by the organization that are activities that include a significant amount of physical activity; or

(b) that is the percentage of the time scheduled for activities in the program that is scheduled for activities that include a significant amount of physical activity.

(4) Membership — For the purpose of the definition "eligible fitness expense" in subsection 118.03(1) of the Act, a prescribed program of physical activity is that portion of a membership in an organization, which membership does not meet the requirements of paragraph (2)(d) and is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks that is the percentage of all the activities offered to children by the organization that are activities that include a significant amount of physical activity.

(5) Horseback riding — For the purpose of the definition "physical activity" in subsection (1), horseback riding is deemed to be an activity that contributes to cardio-respiratory endurance and to one or more of muscular strength, muscular endurance, flexibility and balance.

9401. Program of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity — (1) Definition of "artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity" — In this section,"artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity" means a supervised activity, including an activity adapted for children in respect of whom an amount is deductible under section 118.3 of the Act, suitable for children (other than a physical activity), that

(a) is intended to contribute to a child's ability to develop creative skills or expertise, acquire and apply knowledge, or improve dexterity or coordination, in an artistic or cultural discipline including

(i) literary arts,

(ii) visual arts,

(iii) performing arts,

(iv) music,

(v) media,

(vi) languages,

(vii) customs, and

(viii) heritage;

(b) provides a substantial focus on wilderness and the natural environment;

(c) assists with the development and use of intellectual skills;

(d) includes structured interaction among children where supervisors teach or assist children to develop interpersonal skills; or

(e) provides enrichment or tutoring in academic subjects.

(2) Prescribed program of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity — For the purpose of the definition "eligible expense" in subsection 118.031(1) of the Act, a prescribed program of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity is

(a) a weekly program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks in which all or substantially all the activities include a significant amount of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity;

(b) a program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of five or more consecutive days of which more than 50% of the daily activities include a significant amount of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity;

(c) a program, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks, offered to children by a club, association or similar organization (in this section referred to as an "organization") in circumstances where a participant in the program may select amongst a variety of activities if

(i) more than 50% of those activities offered to children by the organization are activities that include a significant amount of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity, or

(ii) more than 50% of the time scheduled for activities offered to children in the program is scheduled for activities that include a significant amount of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity; or

(d) a membership in an organization, that is not part of a school's curriculum, of a duration of eight or more consecutive weeks if more than 50% of all the activities offered to children by the organization include a significant amount of artistic, cultural, recreational or developmental activity.

Class 24 — (50 per cent)

[Reg. 1100(1)(t), (ta)]

Property acquired after April 26, 1965 and before 1971

(a) that would otherwise be included in Class 2, 3, 6 or 8 and that

(i) was acquired primarily for the purpose of preventing, reducing or eliminating pollution of

(A) any of the inland, coastal or boundary waters of Canada, or

(B) any lake, river, stream, watercourse, pond, swamp or well in Canada, by industrial waste, refuse or sewage created by operations in the course of carrying on a business by the taxpayer or that would be created by such operations if the property had not been acquired and used, and

(ii) had not been used for any purpose whatever before it was acquired by the taxpayer, but not including property acquired for use in the production of by-products or the recovery of materials unless the by-products are produced from, or the materials are recovered from, materials that after April 26, 1965,

(iii) were being discarded as waste by the taxpayer, or

(iv) were commonly being discarded as waste by other taxpayers who carried on operations of a type similar to the operations carried on by the taxpayer, and property acquired before 1999

(b) that would otherwise be included in another class in this Schedule

(i) that has not been included by the taxpayer in any other class,

(ii) that had not been used for any purpose whatever before it was acquired by the taxpayer,

(iii) that was acquired by the taxpayer after 1970 primarily for the purpose of preventing, reducing or eliminating pollution of

(A) any of the inland, coastal or boundary waters of Canada, or

(B) any lake, river, stream, watercourse, pond, swamp or well in Canada, that is caused, or that, if the property had not been acquired and used, would be caused by

(C) operations carried on by the taxpayer at a site in Canada at which operations have been carried on by him from a time that is before 1974,

(D) the operation in Canada of a building or plant by the taxpayer, the construction of which was either commenced before 1974 or commenced under an agreement in writing entered into by him before 1974, or

(E) the operation of transportation or other movable equipment that has been operated by the taxpayer in Canada (including any of the inland, coastal or boundary waters of Canada) from a time that is before 1974, or that was acquired by him after May 8, 1972, that would otherwise have been property referred to in this subparagraph except that

(F) it was acquired

(I) for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business by a taxpayer whose business includes the preventing, reducing or eliminating of pollution of a kind referred to in this subparagraph that is caused or that otherwise would be caused primarily by operations referred to in clause (C), (D) or (E) carried on by other taxpayers (not including persons referred to in section 149 of the Act), and

(II) to be used in a business referred to in subclause (I) in the preventing, reducing or eliminating of pollution of a kind referred to in this subparagraph, or

(G) it was acquired

(I) for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a property by a corporation whose principal business is the purchasing of conditional sales contracts, accounts receivable, bills of sale, chattel mortgages, bills of exchange or other obligations representing part or all of the sale price of merchandise or services, the lending of money, or the leasing of property, or any combination thereof, and

(II) to be leased to a taxpayer (other than a person referred to in section 149 of the Act) to be used by him, in an operation referred to in clause (C), (D), (E) or (F), in the preventing, reducing or eliminating of pollution of a kind referred to in this subparagraph, and

(iv) that has, upon application by the taxpayer to the Minister of the Environment, been accepted by that Minister as property the primary use of which is to be the preventing, reducing or eliminating of pollution of a kind referred to in subparagraph (iii), and for the purposes of paragraphs (a) and (b)

(c) where a corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "predecessor corporation") has, as a result of an amalgamation within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1) of the Act, merged at any time after 1973 with one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity (in this paragraph referred to as the "new corporation"), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation;

(d) where a corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "subsidiary") has been wound up at any time after 1973 in circumstances to which subsection 88(1) of the Act applies, the parent (within the meaning assigned by that subsection) shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary; and

(e) this class shall be read without reference to subparagraph (b)(i) where paragraph (c) or (d) applies to the taxpayer and the property was acquired before 1992.

Related Provisions: Reg. 1100(2)(a)(iv) — Half-year rule inapplicable to Class 24 property; Reg. 4600(1)(a), 4600(2)(k) — Qualified property for investment tax credit; 4604(1)(a), 4604(2)(j) — Approved project property.

Class 28 — (30 per cent)

[Reg. 1100(1)(a)(xx), 1100(1)(w), (zc)(i)(H)]

Property situated in Canada that would otherwise be included in another class in this Schedule that

(a) was acquired by the taxpayer

(i) before 1988, or

(ii) before 1990

(A) pursuant to an obligation in writing entered into by the taxpayer before June 18, 1987,

(B) that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987, or

(C) that is machinery or equipment that is a fixed and integral part of a building, structure, plant facility or other property that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987,

and that

(b) was acquired by the taxpayer principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from one or more mines operated by the taxpayer and situated in Canada and each of which

(i) came into production in reasonable commercial quantities after November 7, 1969, or

(ii) was the subject of a major expansion after November 7, 1969

(A) whereby the greatest designed capacity, measured in weight of input of ore, of the mill that processed the ore from the mine was not less than 25% greater in the year following the expansion than it was in the year preceding the expansion, or

(B) where in the one-year period preceding the expansion,

(I) the Minister, in consultation with the Minister of Natural Resources, determines that the greatest designed capacity of the mine, measured in weight of output of ore, immediately after the expansion was not less than 25% greater than the greatest designed capacity of the mine immediately before the expansion, and

(II) either

1. no mill processed the ore from the mine at any time, or

2. the mill that processed the ore from the mine processed other ore,

(c) was acquired by the taxpayer

(i) after November 7, 1969,

(ii) before the coming into production of the mine or the completion of the expansion of the mine referred to in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, and

(iii) in the case of a mine that was the subject of a major expansion described in subparagraph (b)(ii), in the course of and principally for the purposes of the expansion,

(d) had not, before it was acquired by the taxpayer, been used for any purpose whatever by any person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, and

(e) is any of the following, namely,

(i) property that was acquired before the mine came into production and that would, but for this class, be included in Class 10 by virtue of paragraph (g), (k), (l) or (r) of that class or would have been so included in that class if it had been acquired after the 1971 taxation year,

(ii) property that was acquired before the mine came into production and that would, but for this class, be included in Class 10 by virtue of paragraph (m) of that class, or

(iii) property that was acquired after the mine came into production and that would, but for this class, be included in Class 10 by virtue of paragraph (g), (k), (l) or (r) of that class, or that would be described in paragraphs (b) to (e) if in those paragraphs each reference to a "mine" were read as a reference to a "mine that is a location in a bituminous sands deposit, oil sands deposit or oil shale deposit from which material is extracted", and each reference to "after November 7, 1969" were read as "before November 8, 1969".

Class 29 — (50 per cent, straight-line)

[Reg. 1100(1)(t), (ta)]

Property (other than property included in Class 41 solely because of paragraph (c) or (d) of that Class or property included in Class 47 because of paragraph (b) of that Class) that would otherwise be included in another class in this Schedule

(a) that is property manufactured by the taxpayer, the manufacture of which was completed by him after May 8, 1972, or other property acquired by the taxpayer after May 8, 1972,

(i) to be used directly or indirectly by him in Canada primarily in the manufacturing or processing of goods for sale or lease, or

(ii) to be leased, in the ordinary course of carrying on a business in Canada of the taxpayer, to a lessee who can reasonably be expected to use, directly or indirectly, the property in Canada primarily in Canadian field processing carried on by the lessee or in the manufacturing or processing by the lessee of goods for sale or lease, if the taxpayer is a corporation whose principal business is

(A) leasing property,

(B) manufacturing property that it sells or leases,

(C) the lending of money,

(D) the purchasing of conditional sales contracts, accounts receivable, bills of sale, chattel mortgages, bills of exchange or other obligations representing part or all of the sale price of merchandise or services, or

(E) selling or servicing a type of property that it also leases, or any combination thereof, unless use of the property by the lessee commenced before May 9, 1972;

(b) that is

(i) property that, but for this class, would be included in Class 8, except railway rolling stock or a property described in paragraph (j) of Class 8,

(ii) an oil or water storage tank,

(iii) a powered industrial lift truck,

(iv) electrical generating equipment described in Class 9,

(v) property that is described in paragraph (b) or (f) of Class 10, or

(vi) property that would be described in paragraph (f) of Class 10 if the portion of that paragraph before subparagraph (i) read as follows:

"(f) general-purpose electronic data processing equipment and systems software for that equipment, including ancillary data processing equipment, acquired after March 18, 2007 and before January 28, 2009, but not including property that is principally or is used principally as";

and

(c) that is property acquired by the taxpayer

(i) before 1988,

(ii) before 1990

(A) pursuant to an obligation in writing entered into by the taxpayer before June 18, 1987,

(B) that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987, or

(C) that is machinery or equipment that is a fixed and integral part of a building, structure, plant facility or other property that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987, or

(iii) after March 18, 2007 and before 2014 if the property is machinery, or equipment,

(A) that would be described in paragraph (a) if subparagraph (a)(ii) were read without reference to "in Canadian field processing carried on by the lessee or,", and

(B) that is described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii) and (vi),

(ii) is to be leased by the taxpayer to a lessee for use by the lessee in Canada, and

(d) that is property in respect of which a certificate has been issued

(i) before December 11, 1979 by the Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce certifying that the property is part of a plan designed to

(A) produce heat derived primarily from the consumption of wood wastes or municipal wastes,

(B) produce electrical energy by the utilization of fuel that is petroleum, natural gas or related hydrocarbons, coal, coal gas, coke, lignite or peat (in this clause referred to as "fossil fuel"), wood wastes or municipal wastes, or any combination thereof, if the consumption of fossil fuel (expressed as the high heat value of the fossil fuel), if any, chargeable to electrical energy on an annual basis in respect of the property is no greater than 7,000 British Thermal Units per kilowatt-hour of electrical energy produced, or

(C) recover heat that is a by-product of an industrial process, or

(ii) after December 10, 1979 by the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources certifying that the property is part of a plan designed to

(A) produce heat derived primarily from the consumption of natural gas, coal, coal gas, lignite, peat, wood wastes or municipal wastes, or any combination thereof,

(B) produce electrical energy by the utilization of fuel that is petroleum, natural gas or related hydrocarbons, coal, coal gas, coke, lignite or peat (in this clause referred to as "fossil fuel"), wood wastes or municipal wastes, or any combination thereof, if the consumption of fossil fuel (expressed as the high heat value of the fossil fuel), if any, chargeable to electrical energy on an annual basis in respect of the property is no greater than 7,000 British Thermal Units per kilowatt-hour of electrical energy produced, or

(C) recover heat that is a by-product of an industrial process, and property that was acquired by the taxpayer after December 10, 1979 (other than property described in paragraph (a)) and would otherwise be included in another Class in this Schedule

(e) that is

(i) active solar heating equipment including solar collectors, solar energy conversion equipment, storage equipment, control equipment, equipment designed to interface solar heating equipment with other heating equipment, and solar water heaters, used to

(A) heat a liquid or air to be used directly in the course of manufacturing or processing,

(B) provide space heating when installed in a new building or other new structure at the time of its original construction where that construction commenced after December 10, 1979, or

(C) heat water for a use other than a use described in clause (A) or (B),

(ii) a hydro electric installation of a producer of hydro electric energy with a planned maximum generating capacity not exceeding 15 megawatts upon completion of site development that is the generating equipment and plant (including structures) of that producer including a canal, a dam, a dyke, an overflow spillway, a penstock, a powerhouse complete with generating equipment and other equipment ancillary thereto, control equipment, fishways or fish bypasses and transmission equipment, except distribution equipment and a property included in Class 10 or 17,

(iii) heat recovery equipment that is designed to conserve energy or reduce the requirement to acquire energy by extracting and reusing heat from thermal waste including con-

densers, heat exchange equipment, steam compressors used to upgrade low pressure steam, waste heat boilers and ancillary equipment such as control panels, fans, instruments or pumps,

(iv) an addition or alteration to a hydro electric installation described in subparagraph (ii) that results in a change in generating capacity if the new maximum generating capacity at the hydro electric installation does not exceed 15 megawatts, or

(v) a fixed location device acquired after February 25, 1986, that is a wind energy conversion system designed to produce electrical energy, consisting of a wind-driven turbine, generating equipment and related equipment, including control and conditioning equipment, support structures, a powerhouse complete with equipment ancillary thereto, and transmission equipment, but not including distribution equipment, equipment designed to store electrical energy or property included in Class 10 or 17,

(f) that

(i) was acquired by the taxpayer for use by him for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on in Canada or from property situated in Canada, or

(ii) is to be leased by the taxpayer to a lessee for use by the lessee in Canada, and

(g) that is property in respect of which a certificate has been issued by the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, but not including

(h) property in respect of which a certificate issued under paragraph (d), (g) has been revoked pursuant to subsection 1104(11),

(i) property that had been used before it was acquired by the taxpayer unless the property had previously been included in Class 34 for the purpose of computing the income of the person from whom it was acquired,

(j) property acquired by the taxpayer after February 21, 1994 other than

(i) property acquired by the taxpayer

(A) pursuant to an agreement of purchase and sale in writing entered into by the taxpayer before February 22, 1994,

(B) in order to satisfy a legally binding obligation entered into by the taxpayer in writing before February 22, 1994 to sell electricity to a public power utility in Canada,

(C) that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, or

(D) that is machinery or equipment that is a fixed and integral part of a building, structure or other property that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, and

(ii) property acquired by the taxpayer before 1996

(A) pursuant to an agreement of purchase and sale in writing entered into before 1995 to acquire the property from a person or partnership in circumstances where

(I) the property was part of a project that was under construction by the person or partnership on February 22, 1994, and

(II) it is reasonable to conclude, having regard to all of the circumstances, that the person or partnership constructed the project with the intention of transferring all or part of the project to another taxpayer after completion, or

(B) pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before 1995 by the taxpayer with a person or partnership where the taxpayer agrees to assume a legally binding obligation entered into by the person or partnership before February 22, 1994 to sell electricity to a public power utility in Canada, or

(k) property in respect of which a certificate has not been issued under paragraph (d) or (g) before the time that is the later of

(i) the end of 1995, and

(ii) 2 years after the property is acquired by the taxpayer or, where the property is property acquired in circumstances to which paragraph (j) applies, 2 years after substantial completion of the property.

Class 41 — (25 per cent)

[Reg. 1100(1)(a)(xxvii), 1100(1)(y), (ya)]

Property (other than property included in Class 41.1)

(a) not included in Class 28 that would otherwise be included in that class if that Class were read without reference to paragraph (a) of that Class, and if subparagraphs (e)(i) to (iii) of that Class were read as follows:

"(i) property that was acquired before the mine came into production and that would, but for this Class, be included in Class 10 because of paragraph (g), (k), (l) or (r) of that class or would have been so included in that class if it had been acquired after the 1971 taxation year, and property that would, but for this class, be included in Class 41 because of subsection 1102(8) or (9),

(ii) property that was acquired before the mine came into production and that would, but for this Class, be included in Class 10 because of paragraph (m) of that Class, or

(iii) property that was acquired after the mine came into production and that would, but for this Class, be included in Class 10 because of paragraph (g), (k), (l) or (r) of that Class, and property that would, but for this Class, be included in Class 41 because of subsection 1102(8) or (9);"

(a.1) that is the portion, expressed as a percentage determined by reference to capital cost, of property that

(i) would, but for this Class, be included in Class 10 because of paragraph (g), (k), or (l) of that Class, or that is included in this Class because of subsection 1102(8) or (9),

(ii) is not described in paragraph (a) or (a.2),

(iii) was acquired by the taxpayer principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from one or more mines that are operated by the taxpayer and situated in Canada, and that became available for use for the purpose of subsection 13(26) of the Act in a taxation year, and

(iv) had not, before it was acquired by the taxpayer, been used for any purpose by any person or partnership with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, where that percentage is determined by the formula

$$100 \times \frac{[A - (B \times 365/C)]}{A}$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the capital cost of a property of the taxpayer that became available for use for the purpose of subsection 13(26) of the Act in the year and that is described in subparagraphs (i) to (iv) in respect of the mine or mines, as the case may be,

B is 5% of the taxpayer's gross revenue from the mine or mines, as the case may be, for the year, and

C is the number of days in the year;

(a.2) that

(i) is property that would, but for this Class, be included in Class 10 because of paragraph (g), (k), or (l) of that Class or that is included in this Class because of subsection 1102(8) or (9),

(ii) was acquired by the taxpayer in a taxation year principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from one or more mines each of which

(A) is one or more wells operated by the taxpayer for the extraction of material from a deposit of bituminous sands or oil shales, operated by the taxpayer and situated in Canada,

(B) was the subject of a major expansion after March 6, 1996, and

(C) is a mine in respect of which the Minister, in consultation with the Minister of Natural Resources, determines that the greatest designed capacity of the mine, measured in volume of oil that is not beyond the crude oil stage or its equivalent, immediately after the expansion was not less than 25% greater than the greatest designed capacity of the mine immediately before the expansion,

(iii) was acquired by the taxpayer

(A) after March 6, 1996,

(B) before the completion of the expansion, and

(C) in the course of and principally for the purposes of the expansion, and

(iv) had not, before it was acquired by the taxpayer, been used for any purpose by any person or partnership with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length;

(a.3) that is property included in this Class because of subsection 1102(8) or (9), other than property described in paragraph (a) or (a.2) or the portion of property described in paragraph (a.1);

(b) that is property, other than property described in subsection 1101(2c),

(i) described in paragraph (f.1), (g), (j), (k), (l), (m), (r), (t) or (u) of Class 10 that would be included in that Class if this Schedule were read without reference to this paragraph; or

(ii) that is a vessel, including the furniture, fittings, radio communication equipment and other equipment attached thereto, that is designed principally for the purpose of

(A) determining the existence, location, extent or quality of accumulations of petroleum, natural gas or mineral resources, or

(B) drilling oil or gas wells, and that was acquired by the taxpayer after 1987 other than property that was acquired before 1990

(iii) pursuant to an obligation in writing entered into by the taxpayer before June 18, 1987,

(iv) that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987, or

(v) that is machinery and equipment that is a fixed and integral part of property that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on June 18, 1987;

(c) acquired by the taxpayer after May 8, 1972, to be used directly or indirectly by the taxpayer in Canada primarily in Canadian field processing, where the property would be included in Class 29 if

(i) Class 29 were read without reference to

(A) the words "property included in Class 41 solely because of paragraph (c) or (d) of that Class or",

(B) its subparagraphs (b)(iii) and (v), and

(C) its paragraph (c),

(ii) subsection 1104(9) were read without reference to paragraph (k) of that subsection, and

(iii) this Schedule were read without reference to this Class, Class 39 and Class 43; or

(d) acquired by the taxpayer after December 5, 1996 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing made before December 6, 1996) to be leased, in the ordinary course of carrying on a business in Canada of the taxpayer, to a lessee who can reasonably be expected to use, directly or indirectly, the property in Canada primarily in Canadian field processing carried on by the lessee, where the property would be included in Class 29 if

(i) Class 29 were read without reference to

(A) the words "property included in Class 41 solely because of paragraph (c) or (d) of that Class or",

(B) its subparagraphs (b)(iii) and (v), and

(C) its paragraph (c), and

(ii) this Schedule were read without reference to this Class, Class 39 and Class 43.

(iii) has not been used for any purpose before it was acquired by the taxpayer unless

(A) the property was depreciable property that

(I) was included in Class 34, 43.1 or 43.2 of the person from whom it was acquired, or

(II) would have been included in Class 34, 43.1 or 43.2 of the person from whom it was acquired had the person made a valid election to include the property in Class 43.1 or 43.2, as the case may be, under paragraph 1102(8)(d) or 1102(9)(d), and

(B) the property was acquired by the taxpayer not more than five years after the time it is considered to have become available for use, for the purpose of subsection 13(26) of the Act, by the person from whom it was acquired and remains at the same site in Canada as that at which that person used the property, and

(c) that is

(i) part of a system (other than an enhanced combined cycle system) that

(A) is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, to generate electrical energy, or both electrical and heat energy, using only fuel that is fossil fuel, eligible waste fuel, spent pulping liquor, or any combination of those fuels, and

(B) has a heat rate attributable to fossil fuel (other than solution gas) not exceeding 6,000 BTU per kilowatt-hour of electrical energy generated by the system, which heat rate is calculated as the fossil fuel (expressed as the high heat value of the fossil fuel) used by the system that is chargeable to gross electrical energy output on an annual basis,

(ii) part of an enhanced combined cycle system that

(A) is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, to generate electrical energy using only a combination of natural gas and thermal waste from one or more natural gas compressor systems located on a natural gas pipeline,

(B) has an incremental heat rate not exceeding 6,700 BTU per kilowatt-hour of electricity generated by the system, which heat rate is calculated as the natural gas (expressed as its high heat value) used by the system that is chargeable to gross electrical energy output on an annual basis, and

(C) does not have economically viable access to a steam host, or

(iii) equipment that is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, to generate electrical energy in a process all or substantially all of the energy input of which is thermal waste, other than

(A) equipment that uses heat produced by a gas turbine that is part of the first stage of a combined cycle system, and

(B) equipment that, on the date of its acquisition, uses chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) or hydrochlorofluorocarbons (HCFCs), within the meaning assigned by the Ozone-Depleting Substances Regulations, 1998, and property, other than reconditioned or remanufactured equipment, that would otherwise be included in another Class in this Schedule

(d) that is

(i) property that meets the following conditions:

(A) it is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of heating an actively circulated liquid or gas and is

(I) active solar heating equipment, including such equipment that consists of above ground solar collectors, solar energy conversion equipment, solar water heaters, energy storage equipment, control equipment and equipment designed to interface solar heating equipment with other heating equipment, or

(II) equipment that is part of a ground source heat pump system that transfers heat to or from the ground or groundwater (but not to or from surface water such as a river, a lake or an ocean) and that, at the time of installation, meets the standards set by the Canadian Standards Association for the design and installation of earth energy systems, including such equipment that consists of piping (including above or below ground piping and the cost of drilling a well, or trenching, for the purpose of installing that piping), energy conversion equipment, energy storage equipment, control equipment and equipment designed to enable the system to interface with other heating or cooling equipment, and

(B) it is not a building, part of a building (other than a solar collector that is not a window and that is integrated into a building), equipment used to heat water for use in a swimming pool, energy equipment that backs up equipment described in subclause (A)(I) or (II) nor equipment that distributes heated or cooled air or water in a building,

(ii) a hydro-electric installation of a producer of hydro-electric energy, where that installation

(A) has, if acquired after February 21, 1994 and before December 11, 2001, an annual average generating capacity not exceeding 15 megawatts upon completion of the site development, or, if acquired after December 10, 2001, a rated capacity at the hydro-electric installation site that does not exceed 50 megawatts, and

(B) is the electrical generating equipment and plant (including structures) of that producer including a canal, a dam, a dyke, an overflow spillway, a penstock, a powerhouse (complete with electrical generating equipment and other ancillary equipment), control equipment, fishways or fish bypasses, and transmission equipment, other than distribution equipment, property otherwise included in Class 10 and property that would be included in Class 17 if that Class were read without reference to its subparagraph (a.1)(i),

(iii) an addition or alteration, which is acquired after February 21, 1994 and before December 11, 2001, to a hydro-electric installation that is described in subparagraph (ii) or that would be so described if that installation were acquired by the taxpayer after February 21, 1994, and which results in an increase in generating capacity, if the resulting annual average generating capacity of the hydro-electric installation does not exceed 15 megawatts,

(iii.1) an addition or alteration, which is acquired after December 10, 2001, to a hydro-electric installation that is described in subparagraph (ii) or that would be so described if that installation were acquired by the taxpayer after February 21, 1994, and which results in an increase in generating capacity, if the resulting rated capacity at the hydro-electric installation site does not exceed 50 megawatts,

(iv) heat recovery equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of conserving energy, or reducing the requirement to acquire energy, by extracting for reuse thermal waste that is generated directly in an industrial process (other than an industrial process that generates or processes electrical energy), including such equipment that consists of heat exchange equipment, compressors used to upgrade low pressure steam, vapour or gas, waste heat boilers and other ancillary equipment such as control panels, fans, instruments or pumps, but not including property that is employed in re-using the recovered heat (such as property that is part of the internal heating or cooling system of a building or electrical generating equipment), is a building or is equipment that recovers heat primarily for use for heating water in a swimming pool.

(v) a fixed location device that is a wind energy conversion system that

(A) is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of generating electrical energy, and

(B) consists of a wind-driven turbine, electrical generating equipment and related equipment, including

(I) control, conditioning and battery storage equipment,

(II) support structures,

(III) a powerhouse complete with other ancillary equipment, and

(IV) transmission equipment,

other than distribution equipment, auxiliary electrical generating equipment, property otherwise included in Class 10 and property that would be included in Class 17 if that Class were read without reference to its subparagraph (a.1)(i),

(vi) fixed location photovoltaic equipment that is used by the taxpayer, or a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of generating electrical energy from solar energy if the equipment consists of solar cells or modules and related equipment including inverters, control, conditioning and battery storage equipment, support structures and transmission equipment, but not including

(A) a building or a part of a building (other than a solar cell or module that is integrated into a building),

(B) auxiliary electrical generating equipment, property otherwise included in Class 10 and property that would be included in Class 17 if that Class were read without reference to its subparagraph (a.1)(i), and

(C) distribution equipment,

(vii) equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of generating electrical energy solely from geothermal energy, including such equipment that consists of piping (including above or below ground piping and the cost of drilling a well, or trenching, for the purpose of installing that piping), pumps, heat exchangers, steam separators, electrical generating equipment and ancillary equipment used to collect the geothermal heat, but not including buildings, transmission equipment, distribution equipment, equipment designed to store electrical energy, property otherwise included in Class 10 and property that would be included in Class 17 if that Class were read without reference to its subparagraph (a.1)(i),

(viii) equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of collecting landfill gas or digester gas, including such equipment that consists of piping (including above or below ground piping and the cost of drilling a well, or trenching, for the purpose of installing that piping), fans, compressors, storage tanks, heat exchangers and other ancillary equipment used to collect gas, to remove non-combustibles and contaminants from the gas or to store the gas, but not including property otherwise included in Class 10 or 17,

(ix) equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of generating heat energy from the consumption of eligible waste fuel, and not using any fuel other than eligible waste fuel or fossil fuel, if the heat energy is used directly in an industrial process, or in a greenhouse, including such equipment that consists of fuel handling equipment used to upgrade the combustible portion of the fuel and control, feedwater and condensate systems, and other ancillary equipment, but not including buildings or other structures, heat rejection equipment (such as condensers and cooling water systems), fuel storage facilities, other fuel handling equipment and electrical generating equipment, and property otherwise included in Class 10 or 17,

Proposed Amendment — Cl. 43.1(d)(ix) — No industrial process or greenhouse requirement

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 29, 2012: See at end of Cl. 43.1, under subheading "Waste-Fuelled Thermal Energy Equipment".

(x) an expansion engine with one or more turbines, or cylinders, that convert the compression energy in pressurized natural gas into shaft power that generates electricity, including the related electrical generating equipment and ancillary controls, where the expansion engine

(A) is part of a system that is installed

(I) on a distribution line of a distributor of natural gas, or

(II) on a branch distribution line of a taxpayer primarily engaged in the manufacturing or processing of goods for sale or lease if the branch line is used to deliver natural gas directly to the taxpayer's manufacturing or processing facility,

(B) is used instead of a pressure reducing valve,

(xi) equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, in a system that converts wood waste or plant residue into bio-oil, if that bio-oil is used primarily for the purpose of generating heat that is used directly in an industrial process or a greenhouse, generating electricity or generating electricity and heat, other than equipment used for the collection, storage or transportation of wood waste or plant residue, buildings or other structures and property otherwise included in Class 10 or 17,

(xii) fixed location fuel cell equipment used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, that uses hydrogen generated only from ancillary electrolysis equipment (or, if the fuel cell is reversible, the fuel cell itself) using electricity all or substantially all of which is generated by photovoltaic, wind energy conversion or hydro-electric equipment, of the taxpayer or the lessee, and equipment ancillary to the fuel cell equipment other than buildings or other structures, transmission equipment, distribution equipment, auxiliary electrical generating equipment and property otherwise included in Class 10 or 17,

(xiii) property that is part of a system that is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily to produce and store biogas, which property includes equipment that is an anaerobic digester reactor, a buffer tank, a pre-treatment tank, biogas piping, a biogas storage tank and a biogas scrubbing equipment, but not including

(A) property (other than a buffer tank) that is used to collect, move or store organic waste,

(B) equipment used to process the residue after digestion or to treat recovered liquids,

(C) buildings or other structures, and

(D) property otherwise included in Class 10 or 17,

(xiv) property that is used by the taxpayer, or by a lessee of the taxpayer, primarily for the purpose of generating electricity using wave or tidal energy (otherwise than by using physical barriers or dam-like structures), including support structures, control, conditioning and battery storage equipment, submerged cables and transmission equipment, but not including buildings, distribution equipment, auxiliary electricity generating equipment, property otherwise included in Class 10 and property that would be included in Class 17 if that class were read without reference to its subparagraph (a.1)(i), or

(xv) district energy equipment that

(A) is used by the taxpayer or by a lessee of the taxpayer,

(B) is part of a district energy system that uses thermal energy that is primarily supplied by equipment that is described in subparagraph (i) or (iv) or would be described in subparagraph (i) or (iv) if owned by the taxpayer, and

Proposed Amendment — Cl. 43.1(d)(xv)(B) — Energy primarily generated by waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 29, 2012: See at end of Cl. 43.1, under subheading "Equipment of a District Energy System".

(C) is not a building, and

(e) that

(i) is situated in Canada,

(ii) is

(A) acquired by the taxpayer for use by the taxpayer for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on in Canada or from property situated in Canada, or

(B) leased by the taxpayer to a lessee for the use by the lessee for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on in Canada or from property situated in Canada, and

(iii) has not been used for any purpose before it was acquired by the taxpayer unless

(A) the property was depreciable property that was

(I) was included in Class 34, 43.1 or 43.2 of the person from whom it was acquired, or

(II) would have been included in Class 34, 43.1 or 43.2 of the person from whom it was acquired had the person made a valid election to include the property in Class 43.1 or 43.2, as the case may be, under paragraph 1102(8)(d) or 1102(9)(d), and

(B) the property was acquired by the taxpayer not more than five years after the time it is considered to have become available for use, for the purpose of subsection 13(26) of the Act, by the person from whom it was acquired and remains at the same site in Canada as that at which that person used the property.

Proposed Amendment — Alternative Minimum Tax rules for CRCE

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 28, 2010: See under ITA 127.52(1)(e).

Proposed Amendments — Cl. 43.1 — Clean energy generation equipment

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 29, 2012: Clean Energy Generation Equipment: Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance

Under the capital cost allowance (CCA) regime in the income tax system, Class 43.2 of Schedule II to the Income Tax Regulations provides an accelerated CCA rate (50% per year on a declining balance basis) for investment in specified clean energy generation and conservation equipment. The class incorporates by reference to Class 43.1[a] a detailed list of eligible equipment that generates or conserves energy by:

- using a renewable energy source (for example, wind, solar, small hydro);
- using fuels from waste (for example, landfill gas, wood waste, manure); or
- making efficient use of fossil fuels (for example, high efficiency cogeneration systems, which simultaneously produce electricity and useful heat).

Providing accelerated CCA in this context is an exception to the general practice of setting CCA rates based on the useful life of assets. Accelerated CCA provides a financial benefit by deferring taxation. This incentive for investment is premised on the environmental benefits of low-emission or no-emission energy generation equipment.

In addition, if the majority of the tangible property in a project is eligible for inclusion in Class 43.2, certain intangible project start-up expenses (for example, engineering and design work and feasibility studies) are treated as Canadian Renewable and Conservation Expenses [defined in ITA 66.1(6) — ed.]. These expenses [are CEE under 66.1(6)"Canadian exploration expense"(g.1), and therefore — ed.] may be deducted in full in the year incurred [66.1(2) — ed.], carried forward indefinitely for use in future years [66.1(6)"cumulative Canadian exploration expenses"A — ed.], or transferred to investors using flow-through shares [66(12.6) — ed.].

Budget 2010 expanded Class 43.2 to broaden the eligible range of applications for which heat recovery equipment and equipment of a district energy system can be used. Equipment that generates electricity using waste heat was added to Class 43.2 in Budget 2011.

Budget 2012 proposes to further expand Class 43.2 with respect to waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment, and equipment of a district energy system that uses thermal energy provided primarily by eligible waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment. Budget 2012 also proposes to expand Class 43.2 to include equipment that uses the residue of plants — generally produced by the agricultural sector — to generate electricity and heat.

These measures will encourage investment in technologies that can contribute to a reduction in emissions of greenhouse gases and air pollutants, in support of Canada's targets set out in the Federal Sustainable Development Strategy. These measures could also contribute to the diversification of Canada's energy supply.

[a] Class 43.1 was introduced in 1994 and provides an accelerated CCA rate of 30% (per year on a declining balance basis) for properties acquired after February 21, 1994. Class 43.2 was introduced in 2005 and it is available for properties acquired after February 22, 2005 and before 2020. The eligibility criteria for these two CCA classes are generally the same, except that cogeneration systems that use fossil fuels must meet a higher efficiency standard in order to qualify for Class 43.2.

Waste-Fuelled Thermal Energy Equipment

Waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment produces heat using wastes (for example, wood waste) and fuels from waste (for example, biogas and bio-oil). Currently, Class 43.2 includes waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment [43.1(d)(ix) — ed.], subject to the requirement that the heat energy generated from the equipment is used in an industrial process or a greenhouse.

Budget 2012 proposes to expand Class 43.2 by removing this requirement. This change will allow waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment to be used in a broad range of applications, including space and water heating. For example, wood waste could be used as an alternative to heating oil for space and water heating in a shopping centre.

This measure will apply to assets acquired on or after March 29, 2012 that have not been used or acquired for use before that date.

Equipment of a District Energy System

District energy systems transfer thermal energy between a central generation plant and a group or district of buildings by circulating steam, hot water or cold water through a system of underground pipes. Thermal energy distributed by a district energy system can be used for heating, cooling or in an industrial process. Certain equipment that is part of a district energy system is currently included in Class 43.1 or Class 43.2 [43.1(d)(xv) — ed.], if the system distributes thermal energy primarily generated by one or more of an eligible cogeneration system, a ground source heat pump, active solar heating equipment and heat recovery equipment.

Building on the proposed expansion of Class 43.2 to include waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment used for a broader range of applications, Budget 2012 also proposes to expand Class 43.2 by adding equipment that is part of a district energy system that distributes thermal energy primarily generated by waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment (that is itself eligible for inclusion in Class 43.2). For example, in a remote community a district energy system that uses heat generated by waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment could provide an alternative to equipment that uses only fossil fuels.

This measure will apply to assets acquired on or after March 29, 2012 that have not been used or acquired for use before that date.

Energy Generation from Residue of Plants

The residue of plants (for example, straw, corn cobs, leaves and similar organic waste produced by the agricultural sector) can be used in a number of ways, including the production of heat, electricity, biofuels and other bioproducts. Subject to certain requirements, equipment that uses these residues to produce biogas or bio-oil is currently eligible for inclusion in Class 43.2.

Budget 2012 proposes to add the residue of plants to the list of eligible waste fuels [Reg. 1104(13)"eligible waste fuel" — ed.] (i.e., biogas, bio-oil, digester gas, landfill gas, municipal waste, pulp and paper waste, and wood waste) that can be used in waste-fuelled thermal energy equipment included in Class 43.2 or a cogeneration system included in Class 43.1 or Class 43.2. For example, a greenhouse could produce heat for its operations using a heating system fuelled by the residue of plants.

This measure will apply to assets acquired on or after March 29, 2012 that have not been used or acquired for use before that date.

Environmental Compliance

If equipment using fuels from waste does not comply with environmental regulations, there could, in some instances, be an increased risk of the release of pollutants. To ensure that taxpayers who benefit from Class 43.1 or 43.2 do so in an environmentally responsible manner, Budget 2012 proposes that equipment using eligible waste fuels not be eligible under Class 43.1 or Class 43.2 if the applicable environmental laws and regulations of Canada or of a province, territory, municipality, or a public or regulatory body are not complied with at the time the equipment first becomes available for use.

This measure will apply to assets acquired on or after March 29, 2012 that have not been used or acquired for use before that date.

Possible Future Addition — Carbon capture and storage assets

Dept of Finance consultation paper, April 17, 2009: Consultations on Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance for Carbon Capture and Storage Assets

The Department of Finance is inviting interested parties to participate in a consultative process regarding the potential provision of accelerated capital cost allowance (CCA) for income tax purposes to equipment used in carbon capture and storage.

Carbon capture and storage is an emerging technology with potential to significantly reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions resulting from the combustion of fossil fuels at large industrial facilities. Broadly speaking, carbon capture and storage consists of three activities:

1. Capture of carbon dioxide (CO_2) at the source plant, where it is compressed;
2. Transportation of the CO_2 to a storage site; and
3. Storage of the CO_2, typically in an underground geological formation.

In light of the potential importance of carbon capture and storage as a means of reducing GHG emissions, Budget 2009 committed to consulting with stakeholders to identify specific assets used in carbon capture and storage with a view to providing accelerated CCA in respect of such investments. Accelerated CCA is currently used to promote investment in certain clean-energy generation technologies. Advancing the timing of capital cost deductions for tax purposes defers taxation and improves the financial return from investment in particular assets.

Interested parties wishing to comment on the identification of assets used in carbon capture and storage in respect of which accelerated CCA might appropriately be provided should submit their views in writing by June 30, 2009 to:

Carbon Capture and Storage CCA Consultation, Department of Finance Canada, Business Income Tax Division, 17th Floor, 140 O'Connor Stree, Ottawa, ON, K1A 0G5 or

ConsultationsCCS-CSC@fin.gc.ca

Submissions should include:

1. The name, address, and telephone number of the person making the submission;
2. The organization, if any, on behalf of which the person is making the submission; and
3. Views on the issues that are identified in the backgrounder below.

Following the consultation period, the Government will review the submissions that have been received, and take them into consideration in its deliberations with respect to possible tax changes in this area.

Backgrounder

Carbon Capture and Storage

Carbon capture and storage is an emerging technology with potential to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions resulting from the combustion of fossil fuels at large industrial facilities. Broadly speaking, carbon capture and storage consists of three activities that can be accomplished using a variety of technology options:

1. Capture of carbon dioxide (CO_2) at the source plant where it would otherwise be emitted. This may be accomplished using various technologies. The CO_2 is then normally compressed to facilitate transportation.
2. Transportation of the CO_2 to a storage site, typically via pipeline.
3. Permanent storage of the CO_2, typically in an underground structure. While in some cases storage may be accomplished through simple sequestration in a geologic formation, in other instances, the CO_2 may be injected into a producing oil or gas reservoir to increase the rate of oil or gas production — so-called enhanced oil recovery.

Capital Cost Allowance

The capital cost allowance (CCA) system determines how much of the cost of a capital asset a firm may deduct each year for tax purposes. CCA rates are generally set so as to spread the deduction over the useful life of the asset — the period over which it contributes to earnings. This ensures a neutral tax treatment of different types of assets, so that investment is allocated to its most productive use.

An accelerated CCA rate allows an asset to be written off for tax purposes more quickly than its useful life would imply. By accelerating the timing of capital cost deductions, this defers taxation and improves the financial return from investment in particular assets.

Accelerated CCA is currently used to promote investment in certain clean energy generation technologies that have broad social benefits in terms of reduced environmental impacts. Class 43.2 provides accelerated CCA (50% per year on a declining balance basis) for specified equipment that generates energy in the form of electricity or heat by using a renewable energy source (e.g. wind, solar, small hydro), using waste fuel (e.g. landfill gas, wood waste, manure), or making efficient use of fossil fuels (e.g. high efficiency cogeneration systems, which produce electricity and heat simultaneously).

Consultations

Budget 2009 committed to consult with stakeholders on the identification of specific assets expected to be used in carbon capture and storage with a view to providing accelerated CCA for such investments. In this consultation process, the Department of Finance is particularly interested in views from interested parties on the following questions:

1. What are the specific assets likely to be used in a carbon capture and storage plant or installation as compared with a conventional plant or installation, and how could they be appropriately defined in the income tax regulations? What technologies are expected to be used and how might they differ among different types of facilities? How could the income tax regulations identify the incremental equipment used in a carbon capture and storage plant as compared with a conventional plant, in both retrofit and 'new build' situations? How could the regulations balance the need to provide general rules applicable to a range of situations with the need to provide enough specificity to ensure reasonable clarity on eligibility across that range of situations?
2. What is the anticipated cost of the various assets likely to be used in carbon capture and storage, and their incremental cost as compared with those used in conventional plants? What is the likely scale and timing of deployment?
3. What are the expected operating costs of these assets, and their incremental operating costs as compared with those used in conventional plants? How much impact on emissions of CO_2 and air pollutants is expected to result from the operation of these assets?
4. What is the expected useful life (sometimes referred to as economic life) of assets likely to be used in carbon capture and storage, and how does this compare with those used in conventional plants?
5. What is the likely characterization for tax purposes under the current tax regime (e.g. CCA classification, categorization of intangibles) of the various assets used in carbon capture and storage as compared with those used in conventional plants in the industrial contexts with which you are familiar?
6. What conditions might be appropriately applied to assets in order to be eligible for accelerated CCA treatment? For example, should a threshold percentage of emissions from a process or facility be required to be captured? What conditions should be imposed to ensure that captured CO_2 is stored to an adequate standard of safety and permanency? How could these conditions be applied when capture, transportation and storage activities in a carbon capture and storage system are carried out by different entities?

SCHEDULE III — CAPITAL COST ALLOWANCES, CLASS 13

History: Schedule H was consolidated and retitled Schedule III, by the Consolidated Regulations of Canada, chapter 945, proclaimed in force August 15, 1979, by P.C. 1979-1934, July 19, 1979, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 8, 1979.

1. For the purposes of paragraph 1100(1)(b), the amount that may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of the capital cost to him of a property of Class 13 in Schedule II is the lesser of

(a) the aggregate of each amount determined in accordance with section 2 of this Schedule that is a prorated portion of the part of the capital cost to him, incurred in a particular taxation year, of a particular leasehold interest; and

(b) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer as of the end of the taxation year (before making any deduction under section 1100) of property of the class.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "capital cost" — Reg. 1100(1)(b); "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

2. Subject to section 3 of this Schedule, the prorated portion for the year of the part of the capital cost, incurred in a particular taxation year, of a particular leasehold interest is the lesser of

(a) 1/5 of that part of the capital cost; and

(b) the amount determined by dividing that part of the capital cost by the number of 12-month periods (not exceeding 40 such periods) falling within the period commencing with the beginning of the particular taxation year in which the capital cost was incurred and ending with the day the lease is to terminate.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "capital cost" — Reg. 1100(1)(b); "taxation year" — ITA 249.

3. For the purpose of determining, under section 2 of this Schedule, the prorated portion for the year of the part of the capital cost, incurred in a particular taxation year, of a particular leasehold interest, the following rules apply:

(a) where an item of the capital cost of a leasehold interest was incurred before the taxation year in which the interest was acquired, it shall be deemed to have been incurred in the taxation year in which the interest was acquired;

(b) where, under a lease, a tenant has a right to renew the lease for an additional term, or for more than one additional term, after the term that includes the end of the particular taxation year in which the capital cost was incurred, the lease shall be deemed to terminate on the day on which the term next succeeding the term in which the capital cost was incurred is to terminate;

(c) the prorated portion for the year of the part of the capital cost, incurred in a particular taxation year, of a particular leasehold interest shall not exceed the amount, if any, remaining after deducting from that part of the capital cost the aggregate of the amounts claimed and deductible in previous years in respect thereof;

(d) where, at the end of a taxation year, the aggregate of

(i) the amounts claimed and deductible in previous taxation years in respect of a particular leasehold interest, and

(ii) the proceeds of disposition, if any, of part or all of that interest equals or exceeds the capital cost as of that time of the interest, the prorated portion of any part of that capital cost shall, for all subsequent years, be deemed to be nil; and

(e) where, at the end of a taxation year, the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of property of Class 13 in Schedule II is nil, the prorated portion of any part of the capital cost as of that time shall, for all subsequent years, be deemed to be nil.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "capital cost" — Reg. 1100(1)(b); "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-324: CCA — Emphyteutic lease (archived); IT-464R: CCA — Leasehold interests.

4. Where a taxpayer has acquired a property that would, if the property had been acquired by a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length at the time the property was acquired, be a leasehold interest of that person, a reference in this Schedule to a leasehold interest shall, in respect of the taxpayer, include a reference to that property, and the terms and conditions of the leasehold interest of that property in respect of the taxpayer shall be deemed to be the same as those that would have applied in respect of that person had that person acquired the property.

History: S. 4 added by P.C. 1994-139, s. 29, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to property acquired after December 23, 1991, other than property acquired by a taxpayer before 1993

(a) pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into by the taxpayer before December 24, 1991, or

(b) that was under construction by or on behalf of the taxpayer on December 23, 1991.

Definitions: "arm's length" — ITA 251(1); "person", "property", "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

SCHEDULE IV — CAPITAL COST ALLOWANCES, CLASS 15

History: Schedule D was consolidated and retitled Schedule IV, by the Consolidated Regulations of Canada, chapter 945, proclaimed in force August 15, 1979, by P.C. 1979-1934, July 19, 1979, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 8, 1979.

1. For the purposes of paragraph 1100(1)(f), the amount that may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of property described in Class 15 in Schedule II is the lesser of

(a) an amount computed on the basis of a rate per cord, board foot or cubic metre cut in the taxation year; and

(b) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer as of the end of the taxation year (before making any deduction under section 1100 for the taxation year) of property of that class.

History: Para. 1(a) amended by P.C. 1994-139, s. 30, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to 1986 et seq.

Definitions: "amount", "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

2. Where all the property of the class is used in connection with one timber limit or section thereof, the rate per cord, board foot or cubic metre is the amount determined by dividing

(a) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer as of the end of the taxation year (before making any deduction under section 1100 for the taxation year) of the property

by

(b) the number of cords, board feet or cubic metres of timber in the limit or section thereof as of the commencement of the taxation year, obtained by deducting the quantity cut up to that time from the amount shown by the latest cruise.

History: S. 2 substituted by P.C. 1994-139, s. 31, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to 1986 et seq.

3. Where a part of the property of the class is used in connection with one timber limit or a section thereof and a part is used in connection with another limit or section thereof, a separate rate shall be computed for each part of the property, in the manner provided in section 2 of this Schedule, as though each part of the property were the taxpayer's only property of that class.

Definitions: "property", "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

SCHEDULE V — CAPITAL COST ALLOWANCES, INDUSTRIAL MINERAL MINES

History: Schedule E was consolidated and retitled Schedule V, by the Consolidated Regulations of Canada, chapter 945, proclaimed in force August 15, 1979, by P.C. 1979-1934, July 19, 1979, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 8, 1979.

1. For the purposes of paragraph 1100(1)(g), the amount that may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of a property described in that paragraph that is an industrial mineral mine or a right to remove industrial minerals from an industrial mineral mine is the lesser of

(a) an amount computed on the basis of a rate (computed under section 2 or 3 of this Schedule, as the case may be) per unit of mineral mined in the taxation year; and

(b) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer as of the end of the taxation year (before making any deduction under section 1100) of the mine or right.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "industrial mineral mine", "mineral" — Reg. 1104(3); "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

2. Where the taxpayer has not been granted an allowance in respect of the mine or right for a previous taxation year, the rate for a taxation year is an amount determined by dividing the capital cost of the mine or right to the taxpayer minus the residual value, if any, by

(a) in any case where the taxpayer has acquired a right to remove only a specified number of units, the specified number of units of material that he acquired a right to remove; and

(b) in any other case, the number of units of commercially mineable material estimated as being in the mine when the mine or right was acquired.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "residual value" — Reg. Sch. V s. 5; "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

3. Where the taxpayer has been granted an allowance in respect of the mine or right in a previous taxation year, the rate for the taxation year is

(a) where paragraph (b) does not apply, the rate employed to determine the allowance for the most recent year for which an allowance was granted; and

(b) where it has been established that the number of units of material remaining to be mined in the previous taxation year was in fact different from the quantity that was employed in determining the rate for the previous year referred to in paragraph (a), or where it has been established that the capital cost of the mine or right is substantially different from the amount that was employed in determining the rate for that previous year, a rate determined by dividing the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of the mine or right as of the commencement of the year minus the residual value, if any, by

(i) in any case where the taxpayer has acquired a right to remove only a specified number of units, the number of units of commercially mineable material that, at the commencement of the year, he had a right to remove, and

(ii) in any other case, the number of units of commercially mineable material estimated as remaining in the mine at the commencement of the year.

Definitions: "amount", "employed" — ITA 248(1); "residual value" — Reg. Sch. V s. 5; "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

4. In lieu of the aggregate of deductions otherwise allowable under this Schedule, a taxpayer may elect that the deduction for the taxation year be the lesser of

(a) $100; and

(b) the amount received by him in the taxation year from the sale of mineral.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "mineral" — Reg. 1104(3); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

5. In this Schedule, "residual value" means the estimated value of the property if all commercially mineable material were removed.

Definitions: "property" — ITA 248(1).

Interpretation Bulletins [Schedule V]: IT-423: Sale of sand, gravel or topsoil (archived); IT-492: Industrial mineral mines.

SCHEDULE VI — CAPITAL COST ALLOWANCES, TIMBER LIMITS AND CUTTING RIGHTS

History: Schedule C was consolidated and retitled Schedule VI, by the Consolidated Regulations of Canada, chapter 945, proclaimed in force August 15, 1979, by P.C. 1979-1934, July 19, 1979, Canada Gazette, Part II, August 8, 1979.

1. For the purposes of paragraph 1100(1)(e), the amount that may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of the capital cost to him of a property, other than a timber resource property, that is a timber limit or a right to cut timber from a limit is the lesser of

(a) the aggregate of

(i) an amount computed on the basis of a rate (determined under section 2 or 3 of this Schedule) per cord, board foot or cubic metre cut in the year, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) 1/10 of the amount expended by the taxpayer after the commencement of his 1949 taxation year that is included in the capital cost to him of the timber limit or right, for surveys, cruises or preparation of prints, maps or plans for the purpose of obtaining a licence or right to cut timber, and

(B) the amount expended as described in clause (A) minus the aggregate of amounts deducted under this subparagraph in computing the income of the taxpayer in previous years; and

(b) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer as of the end of the year (before making any deduction under section 1100 for the year) of the timber limit or right.

History: Subpara. 1(a)(i) substituted by P.C. 1994-139, s. 32, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to 1986 et seq.

Definitions: "amount", "property" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "timber resource property", "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

2. If the taxpayer has not been granted an allowance in respect of the limit or right for a previous taxation year, the rate for a taxation year is an amount determined by dividing

(a) the capital cost of the limit or right to the taxpayer, minus the aggregate of the residual value of the timber limit and any amount expended by the taxpayer after the commencement of his 1949 taxation year that is included in the capital cost to him of the timber limit or right, for surveys, cruises or preparation of prints, maps or plans for the purpose of obtaining a licence or right to cut timber,

by

(b) the quantity of timber in the limit or the quantity of timber the taxpayer has obtained a right to cut, as the case may be, (expressed in cords, board feet or cubic metres) as shown by a cruise.

History: Para. 2(b) substituted by P.C. 1994-139, s. 33, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to 1986 et seq.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "residual value" — Reg. Sch. VI s. 5; "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

3. If the taxpayer has been granted an allowance in respect of the limit or right in a previous taxation year, the rate for a taxation year is

(b) where it has been established that the quantity of timber that was in the limit or that the taxpayer had a right to cut was in fact substantially different from the quantity that was employed in determining the rate for the previous year referred to in paragraph (a), or where it has been established that the capital cost of the limit or right is substantially different from the amount that was employed in determining the rate for that previous year, a rate determined by dividing

(i) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of the limit or right as of the commencement of the year, minus the residual value,

by

(ii) the estimated remaining quantity of timber that is in the limit or that the taxpayer has a right to cut, as the case may be, (expressed in cords, board feet or cubic metres) at the commencement of the year.

History: Subpara. 3(b)(ii) substituted by P.C. 1994-139, s. 34, January 27, 1994, Canada Gazette, Part II, February 9, 1994, applicable to 1986 et seq.

Definitions: "amount", "employed" — ITA 248(1); "residual value" — Reg. Sch. VI s. 5; "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1); "undepreciated capital cost" — ITA 13(21), 248(1).

4. In lieu of the deduction otherwise determined under this Schedule, a taxpayer may elect that the deduction for a taxation year to be the lesser of

(a) $100; and

(b) the amount received by him in the taxation year from the sale of timber.

Definitions: "amount" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "taxpayer" — ITA 248(1).

5. In this Schedule, "residual value" means the estimated value of the property if the merchantable timber were removed.

Definitions: "property" — ITA 248(1).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-481: Timber limits and cutting rights.

INCOME TAX CONVENTIONS INTERPRETATION ACT

An Act respecting the interpretation of Canada's international conventions relating to income tax and the Acts implementing such conventions.

R.S.C. 1985, c. I-4, AS AMENDED

Short Title

CRA Audit Manual [ITCIA]: 15.11.0: Tax treaties.

1. Short title — This Act may be cited as the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act.

Definition

2. Definition of "convention" — In this Act, "convention" means any convention or agreement between Canada and another state relating to tax on income, and includes any protocol or supplementary convention or agreement relating thereto.

Interpretation

3. Meaning of undefined terms — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, it is hereby declared that the law of Canada is that, to the extent that a term in the convention is

(a) not defined in the convention,

(b) not fully defined in the convention, or

(c) to be defined by reference to the laws of Canada, that term has, except to the extent that the context otherwise requires, the meaning it has for the purposes of the Income Tax Act, as amended from time to time, and not the meaning it had for the purposes of the Income Tax Act on the date the convention was entered into or given the force of law in Canada if, after that date, its meaning for the purposes of the Income Tax Act has changed.

I.T. Technical News: 18 (Cudd Pressure case).

4. Permanent establishments in Canada — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, it is hereby declared that the law of Canada is that where, for the purposes of the application of the convention, the profits from a business activity, including an industrial or commercial activity, attributable or allocable to a permanent establishment in Canada are to be determined for any period,

(a) there shall, except where the convention expressly otherwise provides, be included in the determination of those profits all amounts with respect to that activity that are attributable or allocable to the permanent establishment and that would be required to be included under the Income Tax Act, as amended from time to time, by a person resident in Canada carrying on the activity in Canada in the computation of his income from a business for that period; and

(b) there shall, except to the extent that an agreement between the competent authorities of the parties to the convention expressly otherwise provides, not be deducted in the determination of those profits any amount with respect to that activity that is attributable or allocable to the permanent establishment and that would not be deductible under the Income Tax Act, as amended from time to time, by a person resident in Canada carrying on the activity in Canada in the computation of his income from a business for that period.

4.1 Application of section 245 of the Income Tax Act — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, it is hereby declared that the law of Canada is that section 245 of the Income Tax Act applies to any benefit provided under the convention.

History: S. 4.1 added by 2005, c. 19, s. 60, applicable with respect to transactions entered into after September 12, 1988.

4.2 Stock exchanges — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, each reference in a convention to a stock exchange that is prescribed under, or for the purposes of, the Income Tax Act shall be read as a reference to a designated stock exchange, as defined in the Income Tax Act.

History: S. 4.2 added by 2007, c. 35, s. 70, applicable after December 13, 2007.

Definitions [s. 4.2]: "convention" — ITCIA 2; "designated stock exchange" — ITA 248(1), 262.

Proposed Addition — 4.3

4.3 Application of s. 94 of the Income Tax Act — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, if a trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) of the Income Tax Act to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purposes of computing its income, the trust is deemed to be a resident of Canada, and not a resident of the other contracting state, for the purposes of applying the convention

(a) in respect of the trust for that taxation year; and

(b) in respect of any other person for any period that includes all or part of that taxation year.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — FIEs/NRTs), s. 26, will add s. 4.3, applicable after March 4, 2010.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act is amended to add new section 4.3. New section 4.3 clarifies that the law of Canada is such that, notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, a trust that is deemed resident in Canada under new subsection 94(3) of the Income Tax Act will be a resident of Canada and not a resident of the other contracting state for the purposes of applying the convention. This amendment is intended to ensure consistent application of Canada's treaties and in a way that conforms to a principal objective of Canada's tax treaties, namely of preventing tax avoidance and tax evasion.

Definitions [s. 4.3]: "Canada" — ITCIA 5; "convention" — ITCIA 2; "person" — ITA 248(1); "taxation year" — ITA 249; "trust" — ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3).

5. Definitions — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention or the Act giving the convention the force of law in Canada, in this section and in the convention,

"annuity" does not include any pension payment or any payment under a plan, arrangement or contract described in subparagraphs (a)(i) to (ix) of the definition "pension";

History: The definition "annuity" amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 84(1), applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1996. It formerly read:

> "annuity" does not include a pension payment (other than a periodic pension payment) arising in Canada;

"Annuity" added by 1993, c. 24, s. 147, applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1991.

"Canada" means the territory of Canada, and includes

(a) every area beyond the territorial seas of Canada that, in accordance with international law and the laws of Canada, is an area in respect of which Canada may exercise rights with respect to the seabed and subsoil and their natural resources, and

(b) the seas and airspace above every area described in paragraph (a);

"immovable property" and "real property", with respect to such property in Canada, are hereby declared to include

(a) any right to explore for or exploit mineral deposits and sources in Canada and other natural resources in Canada, and

(b) any right to an amount computed by reference to the production, including profit, from, or to the value of production from, mineral deposits and sources in Canada and other natural resources in Canada;

Definitions [s. 5"immovable property"]: "immovable" — Quebec Civil Code art. 900-907.

"pension" means, in respect of payments that arise in Canada,

(a) if the convention does not include a definition "pension", a payment under any plan, arrangement or contract that is

(i) a registered pension plan,

(ii) a registered retirement savings plan,

(iii) a registered retirement income fund,

(iv) a retirement compensation arrangement,

(v) a deferred profit sharing plan,

(vi) a plan that is deemed by subsection 147(15) of the Income Tax Act not to be a deferred profit sharing plan,

(vii) an annuity contract purchased under a plan referred to in subparagraph (v) or (vi),

(viii) an annuity contract where the amount paid by or on behalf of an individual to acquire the contract was deductible under paragraph 60(l) of the Income Tax Act in computing the individual's income for any taxation year (or would have been so deductible if the individual had been resident in Canada), or

(ix) a superannuation, pension or retirement plan not otherwise referred to in this paragraph, and

(b) if the convention includes a definition "pension", a payment that is a pension for the purposes of the convention or a payment (other than a payment of social security benefits) that would be a periodic pension payment if the convention did not include a definition "pension";

Related Provisions: 5"annuity" — Annuity excludes pension payments and certain other payments.

History: The definition "pension" added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 84(3), applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1996.

"periodic pension payment" means, in respect of payments that arise in Canada, a pension payment other than

(a) a lump sum payment, or a payment that can reasonably be considered to be an instalment of a lump sum amount, under a registered pension plan,

(b) a payment before maturity, or a payment in full or partial commutation of the retirement income, under a registered retirement savings plan,

(c) a payment at any time in a calendar year under a registered retirement income fund, where the total of all payments (other than the specified portion of each such payment) made under the fund at or before that time and in the year exceeds the total of

(i) the amount that would be the greater of

(A) twice the amount that, if the value of C in the definition "minimum amount" in subsection 146.3(1) of the Income Tax Act were nil, would be the minimum amount under the fund for the year, and

(B) 10% of the fair market value of the property (other than annuity contracts that, at the beginning of the year, are not described in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsection 146.3(1) of the Income Tax Act) held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year

if all property transferred in the year and before that time to the carrier of the fund as consideration for the carrier's undertaking to make payments under the fund had been so transferred immediately before the beginning of the year and if the definition "minimum amount" in subsection 146.3(1) of the Income Tax Act applied with respect to all registered retirement income funds, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an annual or more frequent periodic payment under an annuity contract that is a qualified investment, as defined in subsection 146.3(1) of the Income Tax Act, (other than an annuity contract the fair market value of which is taken into account under clause (i)(B)) held by a trust governed by the fund that was paid into the trust in the year and before that time, or

(d) a payment to a recipient at any time in a calendar year under an arrangement, other than a plan or fund referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c), where

(i) the payment is not

(A) one of a series of annual or more frequent payments to be made over the lifetime of the recipient or over a period of at least 10 years,

(B) one of a series of annual or more frequent payments each of which is contingent on the recipient continuing to suffer from a physical or mental impairment, or

(C) a payment to which the recipient is entitled as a consequence of the death of an individual who was in receipt of periodic pension payments under the arrangement, and that is made under a guarantee that a minimum number of payments will be made in respect of the individual, or

(ii) at the time the payment is made, it may reasonably be concluded that

(A) the total amount of payments (other than excluded payments) under the arrangement to the recipient in the year will exceed twice the total amount of payments (other than excluded payments) made under the arrangement to the recipient in the immediately preceding year, otherwise than because of the fact that payments commenced to be made to the recipient in the preceding year and were made for a period of less than twelve months in that year, or

(B) the total amount of payments (other than excluded payments) under the arrangement to the recipient in the year will exceed twice the total amount of payments (other than excluded payments) to be made under the arrangement to the recipient in any subsequent year, otherwise than because of the termination of the series of payments or the reduction in the amount of payments to be made after the death of any individual, and, for the purposes of this subparagraph, "excluded payment" means a payment that is neither a periodic payment nor a payment described in any of clauses (i)(A) to (C).

History: The portion of the definition "periodic pension payment" before para. (a) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 84(2), applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1996. The portion formerly read:

"periodic pension payment" does not include a pension payment arising in Canada that is

Para. (c) of "periodic pension payment"amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 286, applicable to amounts paid after 1997. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) a payment at any time in a calendar year under a registered retirement income fund where the total of all payments made under the fund at or before that time and in the year, other than

(i) a payment or portion thereof that is not required by section 146.3 of the Income Tax Act to be included in computing the income of any person and that is not included under paragraph 212(1)(q) of that Act in respect of any person, and

(ii) a payment in respect of which a deduction is available under paragraph 60(l) of the Income Tax Act in computing the income of any person, exceeds the greater of

(iii) twice the amount that would be the minimum amount under the fund for the year, and

(iv) ten per cent of the amount that would be the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year,

if all property transferred in the year and before that time to the carrier of the fund as consideration under the fund had been transferred immediately before the beginning of the year and if the definition "minimum amount" in paragraph 146.3(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act were applicable with respect to all registered retirement income funds, or

"Periodic pension payment" added by 1993, c. 24, s. 147, applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1991.

"real property" — [see under "immovable" above — ed.]

Special note re s. 5: 1993, c. 24, subsec. 84(10) (re-enacted as 1994, c. 7, Sched. VIII, subsec. 84(10)), provides as follows:

(10) Notwithstanding subsection (9), [amended ITA 146.3(1)"minimum amount"] does not apply for the purposes of section 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act, with respect to payments made before 1993.

5.1 (1) [Repealed]

History: S. 5.1 repealed by 1999, c. 22, s. 85, applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1996. It formerly read:

(1) Definition of "pension" — For the purposes of the definitions "annuity" and "periodic pension payment" in section 5, "pension" includes payments arising in Canada under

(a) a registered pension plan;

(b) a registered retirement savings plan;

(c) a registered retirement income fund;

(d) a retirement compensation arrangement;

(e) a deferred profit sharing plan;

(f) a plan that is deemed by subsection 147(15) of the Income Tax Act not to be a deferred profit sharing plan;

(g) an annuity contract purchased under a plan referred to in paragraph (e) or (f);

(h) an annuity contract where the amount paid by or on behalf of an individual to acquire the contract was deductible under paragraph 60(l) of the Income Tax Act in computing the individual's income for any taxation year (or would have been so deductible if the individual had been resident in Canada); and

(i) a superannuation, pension or retirement plan not otherwise referred to in this section.

S. 5.1 renumbered as subsec. 5.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, s. 287, applicable to amounts paid after 1997.

S. 5.1 added by 1993, c. 24, s. 148, applicable with respect to amounts paid after 1991.

(2) Definition of "specified portion" — For the purpose of the definition "periodic pension payment" in section 5, the "specified portion" of a payment means the total of

(a) the portion of the payment that is not required by section 146.3 of the Income Tax Act to be included in computing the income of any person and that is not included under paragraph 212(1)(q) of that Act in respect of any person; and

(b) the portion of the payment in respect of which a deduction is available under paragraph 60(l) of the Income Tax Act in computing the income of any person.

History: Subsec. 5.1(2) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 287, applicable to amounts paid after 1997.

6. Meaning of "interest" — Notwithstanding section 3, the meaning of the term "interest" in any convention given the force of law in Canada before November 19, 1974 does not include any amount paid or credited, pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before June 23, 1983, as consideration for a guarantee referred to in paragraph 214(15)(a) of the Income Tax Act.

6.1 Transitional — Where a taxation year of a taxpayer includes June 23, 1983, the additional tax payable under the Income Tax Act (except Part XIII thereof) by the taxpayer for the taxation year by virtue of this Act shall be calculated in accordance with the following formula

$$A = T \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount of additional taxes payable under the Income Tax Act (except Part XIII thereof) by the taxpayer for the taxation year by virtue of this Act,

T is the amount of additional taxes payable under the Income Tax Act (except Part XIII thereof) by the taxpayer for the taxation year by virtue of this Act (except this section),

B is the number of days in the taxation year after June 23, 1983, and

C is the number of days in the taxation year.

History: S. 6.1 added by 1985, c. 48 (1st Supp.), s. 2, applicable to taxation years ending after June 23, 1983.

6.2 Partnerships — Notwithstanding the provisions of a convention between Canada and another state or the Act giving it the force of law in Canada, it is hereby declared that the law of Canada is that, for the purposes of the application of the convention and the Income Tax Act to a person who is a resident of Canada, a partnership of which that person is a member is neither a resident nor an enterprise of that other state.

History: S. 6.2 added by 1991, c. 49, s. 220, applicable to taxation years ending after June 23, 1983.

6.3 Gains arising in Canada — Except where a convention expressly otherwise provides, any amount of income, gain or loss in respect of the disposition of a property that is taxable Canadian property within the meaning assigned by the Income Tax Act is deemed to arise in Canada.

History: S. 6.3 added by 1999, c. 22, s. 86, applicable to dispositions that occur after February 23, 1998.

Proposed Amendment — International Tax Convention

Canada Revenue Agency news release, April 29, 2004: See under "Current Status of Tax Treaties", following Canada-U.K. Convention.

Application

7. Application — This Act applies

(a) in the case of tax under Part XIII of the Income Tax Act, to amounts paid or credited after June 23, 1983; and

(b) in all other cases, to taxation years ending after June 23, 1983.

CANADA–UNITED STATES TAX CONVENTION (1980)

Convention Between Canada and The United States of America With Respect to Taxes on Income and on Capital Signed on September 26, 1980, as Amended by the Protocols Signed on June 14, 1983, March 28, 1984, March 17, 1995, July 29, 1997 and September 21, 2007

Enacted in Canada by S.C. 1984, c. 20; 1995 Protocol by S.C. 1995, c. 34, Royal Assent November 8, 1995; 1997 Protocol by S.C. 1997, c. 38, Royal Assent December 10, 1997; 2007 Protocol by S.C. 2007, c. 32, Royal Assent December 14, 2007

Background: The Income Tax Convention (tax treaty) between Canada and the United States was signed on Sept. 26, 1980 (replacing one signed in 1942), and amended before ratification by Protocols signed on June 14, 1983 and March 28, 1984. Instruments of ratification were exchanged on Aug. 16, 1984. A third Protocol, signed on March 17, 1995 (replacing one signed on Aug. 31, 1994), came into force with instruments of ratification exchanged on Nov. 9, 1995. A fourth Protocol, signed on July 29, 1997, came into force with instruments of ratification exchanged on Dec. 16, 1997. A fifth Protocol, signed on Sept. 21, 2007, came into force with instruments of ratification exchanged on Dec. 15, 2008 (Dept. of Finance news release 2008-104).

For a summary of the Fifth Protocol changes, see the Backgrounder to Dept. of Finance news release 2007-070 (Sept. 21, 2007) in PITA 33rd or 34th eds. or www.fin.gc.ca. The United States Treasury Department (ustreas.gov) has released Technical Explanations of the Convention (April 26, 1984), the 1995 Protocol (June 13, 1995), the 1997 Protocol (December 18, 1997) and the 2007 Protocol (July 11, 2008). In each case the Canadian Dept. of Finance has issued a news release (Aug. 16, 1984; 95-048, June 13, 1995; 97-122, Dec. 18, 1998; 2008-052, July 10, 2008) stating that the Technical Explanation "accurately reflects understandings reached in the course of negotiations with respect to the interpretation and application of the various provisions in" the treaty or Protocol. For discussion of the 2008 Technical Explanation see Monica Biringer & Elinore Richardson, "Fifth Protocol Close to Ratification", XV(1) Corporate Finance 1586-90 (2008).

The Technical Explanation may be accepted as guidance by the Courts; see, e.g., Coblentz, [1996] 3 C.T.C. 295 (FCA). The relevant portion of the Technical Explanation is reproduced below after each paragraph of the relevant Article. However, the Federal Court of Appeal stated in Kubicek Estate, [1997] 3 C.T.C. 435: "The Technical Explanation is a domestic American document. True, it is stated to have the endorsation of the Canadian Minister of Finance, but in order to bind Canada it would have to amount to another convention, which it does not. From the Canadian viewpoint, it has about the same status as a Revenue Canada interpretation bulletin, of interest to a Court but not necessarily decisive of an issue".

Canada and the United States of America, desiring to conclude a Convention for the avoidance of double taxation and the prevention of fiscal evasion with respect to taxes on income and on capital, have agreed as follows:

Application of the 2007 Protocol: The coming into force of the Fifth Protocol (enacted in Canada by S.C. 2007, c. 32) is covered in article 27 of the Protocol:

> 1. This Protocol shall be subject to ratification in accordance with the applicable procedures in the United States and Canada. The Contracting States shall notify each other in writing, through diplomatic channels, when their respective applicable procedures have been satisfied [done on Dec. 15, 2008 — ed.].
>
> 2. This Protocol shall enter into force on the date of the later of the notifications referred to in paragraph 1, or January 1, 2008, whichever is later [i.e., Dec. 15, 2008 — ed.]. The provisions of this Protocol shall have effect:
>
> (a) In respect of taxes withheld at source, for amounts paid or credited on or after the first day of the second month that begins after the date on which this Protocol enters into force [i.e., on or after Feb. 1, 2009 — ed.];
>
> (b) In respect of other taxes, for taxable years that begin after (or, if the later of the notifications referred to in paragraph 1 is dated in 2007, taxable years that begin in and after) the calendar year in which this Protocol enters into force [i.e., taxable years that begin after 2008 — ed.].
>
> 3. Notwithstanding paragraph 2,
>
> (a) Paragraph 1 of Article 2 of this Protocol shall have effect with respect to corporate continuations effected after September 17, 2000;
>
> (b) New paragraph 7 of Article IV (Residence) of the Convention as added by Article 2 of this Protocol shall have effect as of the first day of the third calendar year that ends after this Protocol enters into force;
>
> (c) Article 3 of this Protocol shall have effect as of the third taxable year that ends after this Protocol enters into force, but in no event shall it apply to include, in the determination of whether an enterprise is deemed to provide services through a permanent establishment under paragraph 9 of Article V (Permanent Establishment) of the Convention, any days of presence, services rendered, or gross active business revenues that occur or arise prior to January 1, 2010;
>
> (d) In applying Article 6 of this Protocol to interest paid or credited during the first two calendar years that end after entry into force of this Protocol [i.e., during 2008 and 2009 — ed.], paragraph 1 of Article XI (Interest) of the Convention shall be read as follows:
>
> 1. Interest arising in a Contracting State and beneficially owned by a resident of the other Contracting State may be taxed only in that other State. However, if the interest is not exempt under paragraph 3 of Article XI (Interest) as it read on January 1, 2007, and the payer of the interest and the beneficial owner of the interest are related, or would be deemed to be related if the provisions of paragraph 2 of Article IX (Related Persons) applied for this purpose, such interest may also be taxed in the Contracting State in which it arises, and according to the laws of that State, but the tax so charged shall not exceed the following percentage of the gross amount of the interest:
>
> (a) If the interest is paid or credited during the first calendar year that ends after entry into force of this paragraph [2008 — ed.], 7 percent; and
>
> (b) If the interest is paid or credited during the second calendar year that ends after entry into force of this paragraph [2009 — ed.], 4 percent;
>
> (e) Paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 8 of this Protocol shall have effect with respect to alienations of property that occur (including, for greater certainty, those that are deemed under the law of a Contracting State to occur) after September 17, 2000;
>
> (f) Article 21 of this Protocol shall have effect with respect to
>
> (i) Cases that are under consideration by the competent authorities as of the date on which this Protocol enters into force [Dec. 15, 2008 — ed.]; and
>
> (ii) Cases that come under such consideration after that time, > and the commencement date for a case described in subparagraph (f)(i) shall be the date on which the Protocol enters into force; and
>
>
> (g) Article 22 of this Protocol shall have effect for revenue claims finally determined by an applicant State after November 9, 1985.

Technical Explanation [2007 Protocol]: Article 27 of the Protocol provides the entry into force and effective date of the provisions of the Protocol.

Paragraph 1

Paragraph 1 provides generally that the Protocol is subject to ratification in accordance with the applicable procedures in the United States and Canada. Further, the Contracting States shall notify each other by written notification, through diplomatic channels, when their respective applicable procedures have been satisfied.

Paragraph 2

The first sentence of paragraph 2 generally provides that the Protocol shall enter into force on the date of the later of the notifications referred to in paragraph 1, or January 1, 2008, whichever is later. The relevant date is the date on the second of these notification documents, and not the date on which the second notification is provided to the other Contracting State. The January 1, 2008 date is intended to ensure that the provisions of the Protocol will generally not be effective before that date.

Subparagraph 2(a) provides that the provisions of the Protocol shall have effect in respect of taxes withheld at source, for amounts paid or credited on or after the first day of the second month that begins after the date on which the Protocol enters into force. Further, subparagraph 2(b) provides that the Protocol shall have effect in respect of other taxes, for taxable years that begin after (or, if the later of the notifications referred to in paragraph 1 is dated in 2007, taxable years that begin in and after) the calendar year in which the Protocol enters into force. These provisions are generally consistent with the formulation in the U.S. Model treaty, with the exception that a parenthetical was added in subparagraph 2(b) to address the contingency that the written notifications provided pursuant to paragraph 1 may occur in the 2007 calendar year. Further, subparagraph 3(d) of Article 27 of the Protocol contains special provisions with respect to the taxation of cross-border interest payments that have effect for the first two calendar years that end after the date the Protocol enters into force. Therefore, during this period, cross-border interest payments are not subject to the effective date provisions of subparagraph 2(a).

Paragraph 3

Paragraph 3 sets forth exceptions to the general effective date rules set forth in paragraph 2 of Article 27 of the Protocol.

Dual corporate residence tie-breaker

Subparagraph 3(a) of Article 27 of the Protocol provides that paragraph 1 of Article 2 of the Protocol relating to Article IV (Residence) shall have effect with respect to corporate continuations effected after September 17, 2000. This date corresponds to a press release issued on September 18, 2000 in which the United States and Canada identified certain issues with respect to these transactions and stated their intention to negotiate a protocol that, if approved, would address the issues effective as of the date of the press release.

Certain payments through fiscally transparent entities

Subparagraph 3(b) of Article 27 of the Protocol provides that new paragraph 7 of Article IV (Residence) set forth in paragraph 2 of Article 2 of the Protocol shall have effect as of the first day of the third calendar year that ends after the Protocol enters into force.

Permanent establishment from the provision of services

Subparagraph 3(c) of Article 27 of the Protocol sets forth the effective date for the provisions of Article 3 of the Protocol, pertaining to Article V (Permanent Establishment) of the Convention. The provisions pertaining to Article V shall have effect as of the third taxable year that ends after the Protocol enters into force, but in no event shall it apply to include, in the determination of whether an enterprise is deemed to provide services through a permanent establishment under paragraph 9 of Article V of the Convention, any days of presence, services rendered, or gross active business revenues that occur or arise prior to January 1, 2010. Therefore, the provision will apply beginning no earlier than January 1, 2010 and shall not apply with regard to any presence, services or related revenues that occur or arise prior to that date.

Withholding rates on cross-border interest payments

Subparagraph 3(d) of Article 27 of the Protocol sets forth special effective date rules pertaining to Article 6 of the Protocol relating to Article XI (Interest) of the Convention. Article 6 of the Protocol sets forth a new Article XI of the Convention that provides for exclusive residence State taxation regardless of the relationship between the payer and the beneficial owner of the interest. Subparagraph 3(d), however, phases in the application of paragraph 1 of Article XI during the first two calendar years that end after the date the Protocol enters into force. During that period, paragraph 1 of Article XI of the Convention permits source State taxation of interest if the payer and the beneficial owner are related or deemed to be related by reason of paragraph 2 of Article IX (Related Persons) of the Convention ("related party interest"), and the interest would not otherwise be exempt under the provisions of paragraph 3 of Article XI as it read prior to the Protocol. However, subparagraph 3(d) also provides that the source State taxation on such related party interest is limited to 7 percent in the first calendar year that ends after entry into force of the Protocol and 4 percent in the second calendar year that ends after entry into force of the Protocol.

Subparagraph 3(d) makes clear that the provisions of the Protocol with respect to exclusive residence based taxation of interest when the payer and the beneficial owner are not related or deemed related ("unrelated party interest") applies for interest paid or credited during the first two calendar years that end after entry into force of the Protocol.

The withholding rate reductions for related party interest and exemptions for unrelated party interest will likely apply retroactively. For example, if the Protocol enters into force on June 30, 2008, paragraph 1 of Article XI, as it reads under subparagraph 3(d) of Article 27, will have the following effect during the first two calendar years. First, unrelated party interest that is paid or credited on or after January 1, 2008 will be exempt from taxation in the source State. Second, related party interest paid or credited on or after January 1, 2008 and before January 1, 2009, will be subject to source State taxation but at a rate not to exceed 7 percent of the gross amount of the interest. Third, related party interest paid or credited on or after January 1, 2009 and before January 1, 2010, will be subject to source State taxation but at a rate not to exceed 4 percent of the gross amount of the interest. Finally, all interest paid or credited after January 1, 2010, will be subject to the regular rules of Article XI without regard to subparagraph 3(d) of Article 27.

Further, the provisions of subparagraph 3(d) ensure that even with respect to circumstances where the payer and the beneficial owner are related or deemed related under the provisions of paragraph 2 of Article IX, the source State taxation of such cross-border interest shall be no greater than the taxation of such interest prior to the Protocol.

Gains

Subparagraph 3(e) of Article 27 of the Protocol provides the effective date for paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 8 of this Protocol, which relate to the changes made to paragraphs 5 and 7 of Article XIII (Gains) of the Convention. The changes set forth in those paragraphs shall have effect with respect to alienations of property that occur (including, for greater certainty, those that are deemed under the law of a Contracting State to occur) after September 17, 2000. This date corresponds to the press release issued on September 18, 2000 which announced the intention of the United States and Canada to negotiate a protocol that, if approved, would incorporate the changes set forth in these paragraphs to coordinate the tax treatment of an emigrant's gains in the United States and Canada.

Arbitration

Subparagraph 3(f) of Article 27 of the Protocol pertains to Article 21 of the Protocol which implements the new arbitration provisions. An arbitration proceeding will generally begin two years after the date on which the competent authorities of the Contracting States began consideration of a case. Subparagraph 3(f), however, makes clear that the arbitration provisions shall apply to cases that are already under consideration by the competent authorities when the Protocol enters into force, and in such cases, for purposes of applying the arbitration provisions, the commencement date shall be the date the Protocol enters into force. Further, the provisions of Article 21 of the Protocol shall be effective for cases that come into consideration by the competent authorities after the date that the Protocol enters into force. In order to avoid the potential for a large number of MAP cases becoming subject to arbitration immediately upon the expiration of two years from entry into force, the competent authorities are encouraged to develop and implement procedures for arbitration by January 1, 2009, and begin scheduling arbitration of otherwise unresolvable MAP cases in inventory (and meeting the agreed criteria) prior to two years from entry into force.

Assistance in collection

Subparagraph 3(g) of Article 27 of the Protocol pertains to the date when the changes set forth in Article 22 of the Protocol, relating to assistance in collection of taxes, shall have effect. Consistent with the third protocol that entered into force on November 9, 1995, and which had effect for requests for assistance on claims finally determined after November 9, 1985, the provisions of Article 22 of the Protocol shall have effect for revenue claims finally determined by an applicant State after November 9, 1985.

Application of the 1995 Protocol: Future consultations, and the coming into force of the Protocol, are covered in Articles 20 and 21.

Article 20 provides that the appropriate authorities of each country will consult within a three year period with a view to determining whether further reductions in the withholding rates should be introduced and whether amendments to the new limitation of benefits provisions would be appropriate. The authorities will also consult after a three year period to consider giving effect to the new arbitration procedure provided for under Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure).

Article 20 reads:

> 1. The appropriate authorities of the Contracting States shall consult within a three-year period from the date on which this Protocol enters into force with respect to further reductions in withholding taxes provided in the Convention, and with respect to the rules in Article XXIX-A (Limitation on Benefits) of the Convention.
> 2. The appropriate authorities of the Contracting States shall consult after a three-year period from the date on which the Protocol enters into force in order to determine whether it is appropriate to make the exchange of notes referred to in Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure) of the Convention.

Article 21 sets out the mechanism for the entry into force of the Protocol and the application of its provisions. In general, the provisions of the Protocol will be effective for the withholding tax as of the first day of the second month following the entry into force of the Protocol and, for other taxes, for taxable periods beginning on and after the first day of January following the entry into force of the Protocol. However, special rules are provided for a phased reduction of the withholding tax on direct dividends and the branch profits tax and for the provisions of Article XXVI-A (Assistance in Collection). The provisions relating to the US estate tax in Article XXIX-B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death) are effective retroactively for deaths occurring after November 10, 1988.

Article 21 reads:

> 1. This Protocol shall be subject to ratification in accordance with the applicable procedures in Canada and the United States and instruments of ratification shall be exchanged as soon as possible.
>
> 2. The Protocol shall enter into force upon the exchange of instruments of ratification, and shall have effect:
>
> (a) For tax withheld at the source on income referred to in Articles X (Dividends), XI (Interest), XII (Royalties) and XVIII (Pensions and Annuities) of the Convention, except on income referred to in paragraph 5 of Article XVIII of the Convention (as it read before the entry into force of this Protocol), with respect to amounts paid or credited on or after the first day of the second month next following the date on which the Protocol enters into force, except that the reference in paragraph 2(a) of Article X (Dividends) of the Convention, as amended by the Protocol, to "5 per cent" shall be read, in its application to amounts paid or credited on or after that first day:
>
> (i) Before 1996, as "7 per cent"; and
>
> (ii) After 1995 and before 1997, as "6 per cent"; and
>
> (b) For other taxes, with respect to taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January next following the date on which the Protocol enters into force, except that the reference in paragraph 6 of Article X (Dividends) of the Convention, as amended by the Protocol, to "5 per cent" shall be read, in its application to taxable years beginning on or after that first day and ending before 1997, as "6 per cent".
>
> 3. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, Article XXVI-A (Assistance in Collection) of the Convention shall have effect for revenue claims finally determined by a requesting State after the date that is 10 years before the date on which the Protocol enters into force.
>
> 4. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, paragraphs 2 through 8 of Article XXIX-B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death) of the Convention (and paragraph 2 of Article II (Taxes Covered) and paragraph 3(a) of Article XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules) of the Convention, as amended by the Protocol, to the extent necessary to implement paragraphs 2 through 8 of Article XXIX-B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death) of the Convention) shall, notwithstanding any limitation imposed under the law of a Contracting State on the assessment, reassessment or refund with respect to a person's return, have effect with respect to deaths occurring after the date on which the Protocol enters into force and, provided that any claim for refund by reason of this sentence is filed within one year of the date on which the Protocol enters into force or within the otherwise applicable period for filing such claims under domestic law, with respect to benefits provided under any of those paragraphs with respect to deaths occurring after November 10, 1988.
>
> 5. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, paragraph 2 of Article 3 of the Protocol shall have effect with respect to taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January next following the date on which the Protocol enters into force.

[The date of exchange of instruments of ratification was November 9, 1995 — ed.]

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]:

Article 20

Article 20 of the Protocol does not amend the text of the Convention. It states two understandings between the Contracting States regarding future action relating to matters dealt with in the Protocol. Paragraph 1 requires the appropriate authorities of the Contracting States to consult on two matters within three years from the date on which the Protocol enters into force. First, they will consult with a view to agreeing to further reductions in withholding rates on dividends, interest and royalties under Articles X, XI, and XII, respectively. This provision reflects the fact that, although the Protocol does significantly reduce withholding rates, the United States remains interested in even greater reductions, to further open the capital markets and fulfill the objectives of the North American Free Trade Agreement. Second, the appropriate authorities of the Contracting States will consult about the rules in Article XXIX A (Limitation on Benefits). By that time, both Contracting States will have had an opportunity to observe the operation of the Article, and the United States will have had greater experience with the corresponding provisions in other recent U.S. tax conventions.

Paragraph 2 of Article 20 also requires consultations between the appropriate authorities, after the three-year period from the date on which the Protocol enters into force, to determine whether to implement the arbitration procedure provided for in paragraph 6 of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure), added by Article 14 of the Protocol. The three-year period is intended to give the authorities an opportunity to consider how arbitration has functioned in other tax conventions, such as the U.S.-Germany Convention, before implementing it under this Convention.

Article 21

Article 21 of the Protocol provides the rules for the entry into force of the Protocol provisions. The Protocol will be subject to ratification according to the normal procedures in both Contracting States and instruments of ratification will be exchanged as soon as possible. Upon the exchange of instruments, the Protocol will enter into force.

Paragraph 2(a) of Article 21 generally governs the entry into force of the provisions of the Protocol for taxes withheld at source, while paragraph 2(b) generally governs for other taxes. Paragraphs 3, 4, and 5 provide special rules for certain provisions.

Paragraph 2(a) provides that the Protocol generally will have effect for taxes withheld at source on dividends, interest, royalties, and pensions and annuities (other than social security benefits), under Articles X, XI, XII, and XVIII, respectively, with respect to amounts paid or credited on or after the first day of the second month following the date on which the Protocol enters into force (i.e., the date on which instruments of ratification are exchanged). However, with respect to direct investment dividends, the 5 percent rate specified in paragraph 2(a) of Article X will be phased in as follows: (1) for dividends paid or credited after the first day of the second month referred to above, and during 1995, the rate of withholding will be 7 percent; (2) for dividends paid or credited after the first day of the second month, and during 1996, the rate will be 6 percent; and (3) for dividends paid or credited after the first day of the second month and after 1996, the rate will be 5 percent.

For taxes other than those withheld at source and for the provisions of the Protocol relating to taxes withheld on social security benefits, the Protocol will have effect with respect to taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January following the date on which the Protocol enters into force. However, the rate of tax applicable to the branch tax under paragraph 6 of Article X (Dividends) will be phased in in a manner similar to the direct investment dividend withholding tax rate; that is, a rate of 6 percent will apply for taxable years beginning in 1996 and a rate of 5 percent will apply for taxable years beginning in 1997 and subsequent years.

Paragraph 3 of Article 21 provides a special effective date for the provisions of the new Article XXVI A (Assistance in Collection) of the Convention, introduced by Article 15 of the Protocol. Collection assistance may be granted by a Contracting State with respect to a request by the other Contracting State for a claim finally determined by the requesting State after the date that is ten years before the date of the entry into force of the Protocol. Thus, for example, if instruments of ratification are exchanged on July 1, 1995, assistance may be given by Canada under Article XXVI A for a claim that was finally determined in the United States at any time after July 1, 1985.

Paragraph 4 of Article 21 provides special effective date provisions for paragraphs 2 through 7 of the new Article XXIX B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death) of the Convention, introduced by Article 18 of the Protocol, and certain related provisions elsewhere in the Convention. These special effective date provisions are discussed above in connection with Article 18.

Finally, paragraph 5 of Article 21 provides a special effective date for paragraph 2 of Article 3 of the Protocol, which provides a new residence rule for certain "continued" corporations. Under paragraph 5, the new residence rule for such corporations will have effect for taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January following the date on which the Protocol enters into force.

Article I — Personal Scope

This Convention is generally applicable to persons who are residents of one or both of the Contracting States.

Selected Cases [Art. I]: Wolf v. R., [2001] 1 C.T.C. 2172 (TCC); rev'd [2002] 3 C.T.C. 3 (FCA) (Tiebreaker rules applied).

Definitions: "person" — Art. III:1(e), ITCIA 3, Interpretation Act 35(1); "resident" — Art. IV.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Article I provides that the Convention is generally applicable to persons who are residents of either Canada or the United States or both Canada and the United States. The word "generally" is used because certain provisions of the Convention apply to persons who are residents of neither Canada nor the United States.

Article II — Taxes Covered

1. This Convention shall apply to taxes on income and on capital imposed on behalf of each Contracting State, irrespective of the manner in which they are levied.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 1 states that the Convention applies to taxes "on income and on capital" imposed on behalf of Canada and the United States, irrespective of the manner in which such taxes are levied. Neither Canada nor the United States presently impose taxes on capital. Paragraph 1 is not intended either to broaden or to limit paragraph 2, which provides that the Convention shall apply, in the case of Canada, to the taxes imposed by the Government of Canada under Parts I, XIII, and XIV of the Income Tax Act and, in the case of the United States, to the Federal income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code ("the Code").

National taxes not generally covered by the Convention include, in the case of the United States, the estate, gift, and generation-skipping transfer taxes, the Windfall Profits Tax, Federal unemployment taxes, social security taxes imposed under sections 1401, 3101, and 3111 of the Code, and the excise tax on insurance premiums imposed under Code section 4371. The Convention also does not generally cover the Canadian excise tax on net insurance premiums paid by residents of Canada for coverage of a risk situated in Canada, the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax (PGRT) and the Incremental Oil Revenue Tax (IORT). However, the Convention has the effect of covering the Canadian social security tax in certain respects because under Canadian domestic tax law no such tax is due if there is no income subject to tax under the Income Tax Act of Canada. Taxes imposed by the states of the United States, and by the provinces of Canada, are not generally covered by the Convention. However, if such taxes are imposed in accordance with the provisions of the Convention, a foreign tax credit is ensured by paragraph 7 of Article XXIV (Elimination of Double Taxation).

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the taxes existing on March 17, 1995 to which the Convention shall apply are:

(a) in the case of Canada, the taxes imposed by the Government of Canada under the Income Tax Act; and

(b) in the case of the United States, the Federal income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. However, the Convention shall apply to:

(i) the United States accumulated earnings tax and personal holding company tax, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraphs 5 and 8 of Article X (Dividends);

(ii) the United States excise taxes imposed with respect to private foundations, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 4 of Article XXI (Exempt Organizations);

(iii) the United States social security taxes, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 2 of Article XXIV (Elimination of Double Taxation) and paragraph 4 of Article XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules); and

(iv) the United States estate taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 3(g) of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure) and Article XXIX-B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death).

Related Provisions: Art. XXVI-A:9 — Cross-border collection assistance applies to other taxes as well.

History: Para. 2 amended by 1995 Protocol, art. 1, generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(2) and (4) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above). Para. 2 formerly read:

2. The existing taxes to which the Convention shall apply are:

(a) in the case of Canada, the taxes imposed by the Government of Canada under Parts I, XIII and XIV of the Income Tax Act; and

(b) in the case of the United States, the Federal income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code.

Definitions: "Canada" — Art. III:1(a), ITCIA 5; "personal holding company" — Internal Revenue Code s. 542(a); "United States" — Art. III:1(b).

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]: Article 1 of the Protocol amends Article II (Taxes Covered) of the Convention. Article II identifies the taxes to which the Convention applies. Paragraph 1 of Article 1 replaces paragraphs 2 through 4 of Article II of the Convention with new paragraphs 2 and 3. For each Contracting State, new paragraph 2 of Article II specifies the taxes existing on the date of signature of the Protocol to which the Convention applies. New paragraph 3 provides that the Convention will also apply to taxes identical or substantially similar to those specified in paragraph 2, and to any new capital taxes, that are imposed after the date of signature of the Protocol.

New paragraph 2(a) of Article II describes the Canadian taxes covered by the Convention. As amended by the Protocol, the Convention will apply to all taxes imposed by the Government of Canada under the Income Tax Act.

New paragraph 2(b) of Article II amends the provisions identifying the U.S. taxes covered by the Convention in several respects. The Protocol incorporates into paragraph 2(b) the special rules found in paragraph 4 of Article II of the present Convention. New paragraph 2(b)(iii) conforms the rule previously found in paragraph 4(c) of Article II to the amended provisions of Article XXIV (Elimination of Double Taxation), under which Canada has agreed to grant a foreign tax credit for U.S. social security taxes. In addition, the Protocol adds a fourth special rule to reflect the addition to the Convention of new Article XXIX B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death) and related provisions in new paragraph 3(g) of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure).

Article 1 of the Protocol also makes minor clarifying, non-substantive amendments to paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Article.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 2 contrasts with paragraph 1 of the Protocol to the 1942 Convention, which refers to "Dominion income taxes." In addition, unlike the 1942 Convention, the Convention does not contain a reference to "surtaxes and excess-profits taxes."

3. The Convention shall apply also to:

(a) any taxes identical or substantially similar to those taxes to which the Convention applies under paragraph 2; and

(b) taxes on capital;

which are imposed after March 17, 1995 in addition to, or in place of, the taxes to which the Convention applies under paragraph 2.

History: Para. 3 amended by 1995 Protocol, art. 1, generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(2) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above). Para. 3 formerly read:

3. The Convention shall apply also to:

(a) any identical or substantially similar taxes on income; and

(b) taxes on capital

which are imposed after the date of signature of the Convention in addition to, or in place of, the existing taxes.

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]: See under para. 2.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 3 provides that the Convention also applies to any taxes identical or substantially similar to the taxes on income in existence on September 26, 1980 which are imposed in addition to or in place of the taxes existing on that date. Similarly, taxes on capital imposed after that date are to be covered.

It was agreed that Part I of the Income Tax Act of Canada is a covered tax even though Canada has made certain modifications in the Income Tax Act after the signature of the Convention and before the signature of the 1983 Protocol. In particular, Canada has enacted a low flat rate tax on petroleum production (the PGRT) which, at the time of the signature of the 1983 Protocol, is imposed generally at a statutory rate of 14.67% for the period June 1, 1982 to May 31, 1983, and at 16% thereafter, generally reduced to an effective rate of 11% or 12% after deducting a 25% resource allowance. The PGRT is not deductible in computing income for Canadian income tax purposes. This agreement is not intended to have implications for any other convention or for the interpretation of Code sections 901 and 903. Further, the PGRT and IORT are not taxes described in paragraphs 2 or 3.

4. [Repealed]

History: Para. 4 repealed by 1995 Protocol, art. 1, generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(2) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above). Para. 4 formerly read:

4. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs 2(b) and 3, the Convention shall apply to:

(a) the United States accumulated earnings tax and personal holding company tax, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraphs 5 and 8 of Article X (Dividends);

(b) the United States excise taxes imposed with respect to private foundations, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 4 of Article XXI (Exempt Organizations); and

(c) the United States social security taxes, to the extent, and only to the extent, necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 4 of Article XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules).

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 4 provides that, notwithstanding paragraphs 2 and 3, the Convention applies to certain United States taxes for certain specified purposes: the accumulated earnings tax and personal holding company tax are covered only to the extent necessary to implement the provisions of paragraphs 5 and 8 of Article X (Dividends); the excise taxes imposed with respect to private foundations are covered only to the extent necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 4 of Article XXI (Exempt Organizations); and the social security taxes imposed under sections 1401, 3101, and 3111 of the Code are covered only to the extent necessary to implement the provisions of paragraph 4 of Article XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules). The pertinent provisions of Articles X, XXI, and XXIX are described below. Canada has no national taxes similar to the United States accumulated earnings tax, personal holding company tax, or excise taxes imposed with respect to private foundations.

Article II does not specifically refer to interest, fines and penalties. Thus, each Contracting State may, in general, impose interest, fines, and penalties or pay interest pursuant to its domestic laws. Any question whether such items are being imposed or paid in connection with covered taxes in a manner consistent with provisions of the Convention, such as Article XXV (Non-Discrimination), may, however, be resolved by the competent authorities pursuant to Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure). See, however, the discussion below of the treatment of certain interest under Articles XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules) and XXX (Entry Into Force).

Article III — General Definitions

1. For the purposes of this Convention, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) when used in a geographical sense, the term "Canada" means the territory of Canada, including any area beyond the territorial seas of Canada which, in accordance with international law and the laws of Canada, is an area within which Canada may exercise rights with respect to the seabed and subsoil and their natural resources;

(b) the term "United States" means:

(i) the United States of America, but does not include Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam or any other United States possession or territory; and

(ii) when used in a geographical sense, such term also includes any area beyond the territorial seas of the United States which, in accordance with international law and the laws of the United States, is an area within which the United States may exercise rights with respect to the seabed and subsoil and their natural resources;

(c) the term "Canadian tax" means the taxes referred to in Article II (Taxes Covered) that are imposed on income by Canada;

(d) the term "United States tax" means the taxes referred to in Article II (Taxes Covered), other than in subparagraph (b)(i) to (iv) of paragraph 2 thereof, that are imposed on income by the United States;

(e) the term "person" includes an individual, an estate, a trust, a company and any other body of persons;

(f) the term "company" means any body corporate or any entity which is treated as a body corporate for tax purposes;

(g) the term "competent authority" means:

(i) in the case of Canada, the Minister of National Revenue or his authorized representative; and

(ii) in the case of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate;

(h) the term "international traffic" with reference to a resident of a Contracting State means any voyage of a ship or aircraft to transport passengers or property (whether or not operated or used by that resident) except where the principal purpose of the voyage is to transport passengers or property between places within the other Contracting State;

(i) the term "State" means any national State, whether or not a Contracting State; and

(j) the term "the 1942 Convention" means the Convention and Protocol between Canada and the United States for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion in the case of Income Taxes signed at Washington on March 4, 1942, as amended by the Convention signed at Ottawa on June 12, 1950, by the Convention signed at Ottawa on August 8, 1956 and by the Supplementary Convention signed at Washington on October 25, 1966;

(k) the term "national" of a Contracting State means:

(i) any individual possessing the citizenship or nationality of that State; and

(ii) any legal person, partnership or association deriving its status as such from the laws in force in that State.

Related Provisions: ITCIA 3 — Terms have their meaning under the ITA as amended from time to time; 5 — Definitions of "annuity", "Canada", "immovable property", "real property", "periodic pension payment"; 6 — Definition of "interest".

History: Subpara. 1(k) added by 2007 Protocol, art. 1, generally effective with respect to taxable years beginning after 2008 (see art. 27(2) under "Application of the 2007 Protocol" above).

Subparas. 1(c) and (d) amended by 1995 Protocol, art. 2, generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(2) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above). Subparas. (c) and (d) formerly read:

(c) the term "Canadian tax" means the Canadian taxes referred to in paragraphs 2(a) and 3(a) of Article II (Taxes Covered);

(d) the term "United States tax" means the United States taxes referred to in paragraphs 2(b) and 3(a) of Article II (Taxes Covered);

Subpara. 1(h) amended by 1983 Protocol, art. I.

Selected Cases [Art. III(1)]: Cudd Pressure Control Inc. v. R., [1999] 1 C.T.C. 1 (FCA); leave to appeal to SCC refused (1999), 242 N.R. 400 (note) (Notional rent not deductible).

Definitions: "Canada" — Art. III:1(a), ITCIA 5; "estate", "individual" — ITCIA 3, ITA 248(1); "person" — Art. III:1(e); "property" — ITCIA 3, ITA 248(1); "resident" — Art. IV; "State" — Art. III:1(i); "trust" — ITCIA 3, ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3); "United States" — Art. III:1(b).

Technical Explanation [2007 Protocol]: Article 1 of the Protocol adds subparagraph 1(k) to Article III (General Definitions) to address the definition of "national" of a Contracting State as used in the Convention. The Contracting States recognize that Canadian tax law does not draw distinctions based on nationality as such. Nevertheless, at the request of the United States, the definition was added and contains references to both citizenship and nationality. The definition includes any individual possessing the citizenship or nationality of a Contracting State and any legal person, partnership or association whose status is determined by reference to the laws in force in a Contracting State. The existing Convention contains one reference to the term "national" in paragraph 1 of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure). The Protocol adds another reference in paragraph 1 of Article XXV (Non-Discrimination) to ensure that nationals of the United States are covered by the non-discrimination provisions of the Convention. The definition added by the Protocol is consistent with the definition provided in other U.S. tax treaties.

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]: This Article of the Protocol amends paragraphs 1(c) and 1(d) of Article III (General Definitions) of the Convention. These paragraphs define the terms "Canadian tax" and "United States tax," respectively. The present Convention defines "Canadian tax" to mean the Canadian taxes specified in paragraph 2(a) or 3(a) of Article II (Taxes Covered), i.e., Canadian income taxes. It similarly defines the term "United States tax" to mean the U.S. taxes specified in paragraph 2(b) or 3(a) of Article II, i.e., U.S. income taxes.

As amended by the Protocol, paragraph 2(a) of Article II of the Convention covers all taxes imposed by Canada under its Income Tax Act, including certain taxes that are not income taxes. As explained below, paragraph 2(b) is similarly amended by the Protocol to include certain U.S. taxes that are not income taxes. It was, therefore, necessary to amend the terms "Canadian tax" and "United States tax" so that they would continue to refer exclusively to the income taxes imposed by each Contracting State. The amendment to the definition of the term "Canadian tax" ensures, for example, that the Protocol will not obligate the United States to give a foreign tax credit under Article XXIV (Elimination of Double Taxation) for covered taxes other than income taxes.

The definition of "United States tax," as amended, excludes certain United States taxes that are covered in Article II only for certain limited purposes under the Convention. These include the accumulated earnings tax, the personal holding company tax, foundation excise taxes, social security taxes, and estate taxes. To the extent that these are to be creditable taxes in Canada, that fact is specified elsewhere in the Convention. A Canadian income tax credit for U.S. social security taxes is provided in new paragraph 2(a)(ii) of Article XXIV (Elimination of Double Taxation). A Canadian income tax credit for the U.S. estate taxes is provided in paragraph 6 of new Article XXIX B (Taxes Imposed by Reason of Death).

Technical Explanation [1984]: Article III provides definitions and general rules of interpretation for the Convention. Paragraph 1(a) states that the term "Canada," when used in a geographical sense, means the territory of Canada, including any area beyond the territorial seas of Canada which, under international law and the laws of Canada, is an area within which Canada may exercise rights with respect to the seabed and subsoil and their natural resources. This definition differs only in form from the definition of Canada in the 1942 Convention; paragraph 1(a) omits the reference in the 1942 Convention to "the Provinces, the Territories and Sable Island" as unnecessary.

Paragraph 1(b)(i) defines the term "United States" to mean the United States of America. The term does not include Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, or any other United States possession or territory.

Paragraph 1(b)(ii) states that when the term "United States" is used in a geographical sense the term also includes any area beyond the territorial seas of the United States which, under international law and the laws of the United States, is an area within which the United States may exercise rights with respect to the seabed and subsoil and their natural resources.

Paragraph 1(c) defines the term "Canadian tax" to mean the taxes imposed by the Government of Canada under Parts I, XIII, and XIV of the Income Tax Act as in existence on September 26, 1980 and any identical or substantially similar taxes on income imposed by the Government of Canada after that date and which are in addition to or in place of the then existing taxes. The term does not extend to capital taxes, if and when such taxes are ever imposed by Canada.

Paragraph 1(d) defines the term "United States tax" to mean the Federal income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code as in existence on September 26, 1980 and any identical or substantially similar taxes on income imposed by the United States after that date in addition to or in place of the then existing taxes. The term does not extend to capital taxes, nor to the United States taxes identified in paragraph 4 of Article II (Taxes Covered).

Paragraph 1(e) provides that the term "person" includes an individual, an estate, a trust, a company, and any other body of persons. Although both the United States and Canada do not regard partnerships as taxable entities, the definition in the paragraph is broad enough to include partnerships where necessary.

Paragraph 1(f) defines the term "company" to mean any body corporate or any entity which is treated as a body corporate for tax purposes.

The term "competent authority" is defined in paragraph 1(g) to mean, in the case of Canada, the Minister of National Revenue or his authorized representative and, in the case of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate. The Secretary of the Treasury has delegated the general authority to act as competent authority to the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, who has redelegated such authority to the Associate Commissioner (Operations). The Assistant Commissioner (Examination) has been delegated the authority to administer programs for simultaneous, spontaneous and industrywide exchanges of information. The Director, Foreign Operations District, has been delegated the authority to administer programs for routine and specific exchanges of information and mutual assistance in collection. The Assistant Commissioner (Criminal Investigations) has been delegated the authority to administer the simultaneous criminal investigation program with Canada.

Paragraph 1(h) defines the term "international traffic" to mean, with reference to a resident of a Contracting State, any voyage of a ship or aircraft to transport passengers or property (whether or not operated or used by that resident), except where the principal purpose of the voyage is transport between points within the other Contracting State. For example, in determining for Canadian tax purposes whether a United States resident has derived profits from the operation of ships or aircraft in international traffic, a voyage of a ship or aircraft (whether or not operated or used by that resident) that includes stops in both Contracting States will not be international traffic if the principal purpose of the voyage is to transport passengers or property from one point in Canada to another point in Canada.

Paragraph 1(i) defines the term "State" to mean any national State, whether or not a Contracting State.

Paragraph 1(j) establishes "the 1942 Convention" as the term to be used throughout the Convention for referring to the pre-existing income tax treaty relationship between the United States and Canada.

2. As regards the application of the Convention by a Contracting State any term not defined therein shall, unless the context otherwise requires and subject to the provisions of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure), have the meaning which it has under the law of that State concerning the taxes to which the Convention applies.

Related Provisions: ITCIA 3 — Terms have their meaning under the ITA as amended from time to time.

History: 2007 Protocol Annex B (diplomatic notes, Sept. 21, 2007), agreed to form an "integral part of the Convention", states (see also s. 3 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act):

> 1. Meaning of undefined terms
>
> For purposes of paragraph 2 of Article III (General Definitions) of the Convention, it is understood that, as regards the application at any time of the Convention, and any protocols thereto by a Contracting State, any term not defined therein shall, unless the context otherwise requires or the competent authorities otherwise agree to a common meaning pursuant to Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure), have the meaning which it has at that time under the law of that State for the purposes of the taxes to which the Convention, and any protocols thereto apply, any meaning under the applicable tax laws of that State prevailing over a meaning given to the term under other laws of that State.

Definitions: "State" — Art. III:1(i).

Technical Explanation [2007 Protocol]: The General Note provides that for purposes of paragraph 2 of Article III, as regards the application at any time of the Convention, any term not defined in the Convention shall, unless the context otherwise requires or the competent authorities otherwise agree to a common meaning pursuant to Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure), have the meaning which it has at that time under the law of that State for the purposes of the taxes to which the Convention apply, any meaning under the applicable tax laws of that State prevailing over a meaning given to the term under other laws of that State.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 2 provides that, in the case of a term not defined in the Convention, the domestic tax law of the Contracting State applying to the Convention shall control, unless the context in which the term is used requires a definition independent of domestic tax law or the competent authorities reach agreement on a meaning pursuant to Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure). The term "context" refers to the purpose and background of the provision in which the term appears.

Pursuant to the provisions of Article XXVI, the competent authorities of the Contracting States may resolve any difficulties or doubts as to the interpretation or application of the Convention. An agreement by the competent authorities with respect to the meaning of a term used in the Convention would supersede conflicting meanings in the domestic laws of the Contracting States.

Article IV — Residence

1. For the purposes of this Convention, the term "resident of a Contracting State" means any person that, under the laws of that State, is liable to tax therein by reason of that person's domicile, residence, citizenship, place of management, place of incorporation or any other criterion of a similar nature, but in the case of an estate or trust, only to the extent that income derived by the estate or trust is liable to tax in that State, either in its hands or in the hands of its beneficiaries. For the purposes of this paragraph, an individual who is not a resident of Canada under this paragraph and who is a

United States citizen or an alien admitted to the United States for permanent residence (a "green card" holder) is a resident of the United States only if the individual has a substantial presence, permanent home or habitual abode in the United States, and that individual's personal and economic relations are closer to the United States than to any third State. The term "resident" of a Contracting State is understood to include:

(a) the Government of that State or a political subdivision or local authority thereof or any agency or instrumentality of any such government, subdivision or authority, and

(b)

(i) a trust, organization or other arrangement that is operated exclusively to administer or provide pension, retirement or employee benefits; and

(ii) a not-for-profit organization that was constituted in that State and that is, by reason of its nature as such, generally exempt from income taxation in that State.

Related Provisions: ITCIA 4.3 — Residence of trust; ITCIA 6.2 — Residence of partnership.

History: Para. 1 amended by 1995 Protocol, art. 3(1), generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(2) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above). Para. 1 formerly read:

> 1. For the purposes of this Convention, the term "resident of a Contracting State" means any person who, under the laws of that State, is liable to tax therein by reason of his domicile, residence, place of management, place of incorporation or any other criterion of a similar nature, but in the case of an estate or trust, only to the extent that income derived by such estate or trust is liable to tax in that State, either in its hands or in the hands of its beneficiaries.

Definitions: "Canada" — Art. III:1(a), ITCIA 5; "estate", "individual" — ITCIA 3, ITA 248(1); "person" — Art. III:1(e), ITCIA 3, Interpretation Act 35(1); "State" — Art. III:1(i); "trust" — ITCIA 3, ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3); "United States" — Art. III:1(b).

I.T. Technical News: 16 (Crown Forest Industries case; U.S. S-Corps and LLCs); 34 (treaty interpretation and the meaning of "liable to tax"); 35 (treaty residence — resident of convenience).

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]: Article 3 of the Protocol amends Article IV (Residence) of the Convention. It clarifies the meaning of the term "resident" in certain cases and adds a special rule, found in a number of recent U.S. treaties, for determining the residence of U.S. citizens and "green-card" holders.

The first sentence of paragraph 1 of Article IV sets forth the general criteria for determining residence under the Convention. It is amended by the Protocol to state explicitly that a person will be considered a resident of a Contracting State for purposes of the Convention if he is liable to tax in that Contracting State by reason of citizenship. Although the sentence applies to both Contracting States, only the United States taxes its non-resident citizens in the same manner as its residents. Aliens admitted to the United States for permanent residence ("green card" holders) continue to qualify as U.S. residents under the first sentence of paragraph 1, because they are taxed by the United States as residents, regardless of where they physically reside.

U.S. citizens and green card holders who reside outside the United States, however, may have relatively little personal or economic nexus with the United States. The Protocol adds a second sentence to paragraph 1 that acknowledges this fact by limiting the circumstances under which such persons are to be treated, for purposes of the Convention, as U.S. residents. Under that sentence, a U.S. citizen or green card holder will be treated as a resident of the United States for purposes of the Convention, and, thereby, be entitled to treaty benefits, only if (1) the individual has a substantial presence, permanent home, or habitual abode in the United States, and (2) the individual's personal and economic relations with the United States are closer than those with any third country. If, however, such an individual is a resident of both the United States and Canada under the first sentence of the paragraph, his residence for purposes of the Convention is determined instead under the "tie-breaker" rules of paragraph 2 of the Article.

The fact that a U.S. citizen who does not have close ties to the United States may not be treated as a U.S. resident under Article IV of the Convention does not alter the application of the saving clause of paragraph 2 of Article XXIX (Miscellaneous Rules) to that citizen. However, like any other individual that is a resident alien under U.S. law, a green card holder is treated as a resident of the United States for purposes of the saving clause only if he qualifies as such under Article IV.

New paragraph 1(a) confirms that the term "resident" of a Contracting State includes the Government of that State or a political subdivision or local authority of that State, as well as any agency or instrumentality of one of these governmental entities. This is implicit in the current Convention and in other U.S. and Canadian treaties, even where not specified.

New paragraph 1 also clarifies, in subparagraph (b), that trusts, organizations, or other arrangements operated exclusively to provide retirement or employee benefits, and other not-for-profit organizations, such as organizations described in section 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, are residents of a Contracting State if they are constituted in that State and are generally exempt from income taxation in that State by reason of their nature as described above. This change clarifies that the specified entities are to be treated as residents of one of the Contracting States. This corresponds to the interpretation that had previously been adopted by the Contracting States. Such entities, therefore, will be entitled to the benefits of the Convention with respect to the other Contracting State, provided that they satisfy the requirements of new Article XXIX A (Limitation on Benefits) (discussed below).

Technical Explanation [1984]: Article IV provides a detailed definition of the term "resident of a Contracting State." The definition begins with a person's liability to tax as a resident under the respective taxation laws of the Contracting States. A person who, under those laws, is a resident of one Contracting State and not the other need look no further. However, the Convention definition is also designed to assign residence to one State or the other for purposes of the Convention in circumstances where each of the Contracting States believes a person to be its resident. The Convention definition is, of course, exclusively for purposes of the Convention.

Paragraph 1 provides that the term "resident of a Contracting State" means any person who, under the laws of that State, is liable to tax therein by reason of his domicile, residence, place of management, place of incorporation, or any other criterion of a similar nature. The phrase "any other criterion of a similar nature" includes, for U.S. purposes, an election under the Code to be treated as a U.S. resident. An estate or trust is, however, considered to be a resident of a Contracting State only to the extent that income derived by such estate or trust is liable to tax in that State either in its hands or in the hands of its beneficiaries. To the extent that an estate or trust is considered a resident of a Contracting State under this provision, it can be a "beneficial owner" of items of income specified in other articles of the Convention — e.g. paragraph 2 of Article X (Dividends).

2. Where by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1 an individual is a resident of both Contracting States, then his status shall be determined as follows:

(a) he shall be deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State in which he has a permanent home available to him; if he has a permanent home available to him in both States or in neither State, he shall be deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State with which his personal and economic relations are closer (centre of vital interests);

(b) if the Contracting State in which he has his centre of vital interests cannot be determined, he shall be deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State in which he has an habitual abode;

(c) if he has an habitual abode in both States or in neither State, he shall be deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State of which he is a citizen; and

(d) if he is a citizen of both States or of neither of them, the competent authorities of the Contracting States shall settle the question by mutual agreement.

Related Provisions: ITA 250(5) — Person not resident in Canada under treaty is deemed not resident under ITA.

Selected Cases [Art. IV:2]: Lingle v. R., [2010] 5 C.T.C. 162 (FCA) (Determination of habitual abode is mixed question of fact and law); Allchin v. R., [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2701 (TCC) (Tie-breaker rules re residence and resultant factors considered).

Definitions: "competent authority" — Art. III:1(g); "individual" — ITCIA 3, ITA 248(1); "resident" — Art. IV; "State" — Art. III:1(i).

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 provide rules to determine a single residence for purposes of the Convention for persons resident in both Contracting States under the rules set forth in paragraph 1. Paragraph 2 deals with individuals. A "dual resident" individual is initially deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State in which he has a permanent home available to him. If the individual has a permanent home available to him in both States or in neither, he is deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State with which his personal and economic relations are closer. If the personal and economic relations of an individual are not closer to one Contracting State than to the other, the individual is deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State in which he has a habitual abode. If he has such an abode in both States or in neither State, he is deemed to be a resident of the Contracting State of which he is a citizen. If the individual is a citizen of both States or of neither, the competent authorities are to settle the status of the individual by mutual agreement.

3. Where by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1, a company is a resident of both Contracting States, then

(a) if it is created under the laws in force in a Contracting State, but not under the laws in force in the other Contracting State, it shall be deemed to be a resident only of the first-mentioned State; and

(b) in any other case, the competent authorities of the Contracting States shall endeavor to settle the question of residency by mutual agreement and determine the mode of application of this Convention to the company. In the absence of such agreement, the company shall not be considered a resident of either Contracting State for purposes of claiming any benefits under this Convention.

Related Provisions: ITA 250(3) — Person not resident in Canada under treaty is not resident under ITA; ITA 250(5.1) — Continuation in other jurisdiction.

History: Para. 3 amended by 2007 Protocol, art. 2(1), effective with respect to corporate continuations effected after September 17, 2000 (see art. 27(2) and (3)(a) under "Application of the 2007 Protocol" above). The para. formerly read:

> 3. Where by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1 a company is a resident of both Contracting States, then if it was created under the laws in force in a Contracting State, it shall be deemed to be a resident of that State. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, a company that was created in a Contracting State, that is a resident of both Contracting States and that is continued at any time in the other Contracting State in accordance with the corporate law in that other State shall be deemed while it is so continued to be a resident of that other State.

The last sentence of para. 3 added by 1995 Protocol, art. 3(2), generally effective with respect to taxable years begining on or after January 1, 1996 (see art. 21(5) under "Application of the 1995 Protocol" above).

Definitions: "company" — Art. II:1(f); "competent authority" — Art. III:1(g); "State" — Art. III:1(i).

Technical Explanation [2007 Protocol]: Article 2 of the Protocol replaces paragraph 3 of Article IV (Residence) of the existing Convention to address the treatment of so-called dual resident companies. Article 2 of the Protocol also adds new paragraphs 6 and 7 to Article IV to determine whether income is considered to be derived by a resident of a Contracting State when such income is derived through a fiscally transparent entity.

Paragraph 3 of Article IV — Dual resident companies

Paragraph 3, which addresses companies that are otherwise considered resident in each of the Contracting States, is replaced. The provisions of paragraph 3, and the date upon which these provisions are effective, are consistent with an understanding reached between the United States and Canada on September 18, 2000, to clarify the residence of a company under the Convention when the company has engaged in a so-called corporate "continuance" transaction. The paragraph applies only where, by reason of the rules set forth in paragraph 1 of Article IV (Residence), a company is a resident of both Contracting States.

Subparagraph 3(a) provides a rule to address the situation when a company is a resident of both Contracting States but is created under the laws in force in only one of the Contracting States. In such a case, the rule provides that the company is a resident only of the Contracting State under which it is created. For example, if a company is incorporated in the United States but the company is also otherwise considered a resident of Canada because the company is managed in Canada, subparagraph 3(a) provides that the company shall be considered a resident only of the United States for purposes of the Convention. Subparagraph 3(a) is intended to operate in a manner similar to the first sentence of former paragraph 3. However, subparagraph 3(a) clarifies that such a company must be considered created in only one of the Contracting States to fall within the scope of subparagraph 3(a). In some cases, a company may engage in a corporate continuance transaction and retain its charter in the Contracting State from which it continued, while also being considered as created in the State to which the company continued. In such cases, the provisions of subparagraph 3(a) shall not apply because the company would be considered created in both of the Contracting States.

Subparagraph 3(b) addresses all cases involving a dual resident company that are not addressed in subparagraph 3(a). Thus, subparagraph 3(b) applies to continuance transactions occurring between the Contracting States if, as a result, a company otherwise would be considered created under the laws of each Contracting State, e.g., because the corporation retained its charter in the first State. Subparagraph 3(b) would also address so-called serial continuance transactions where, for example, a company continues from one of the Contracting States to a third country and then continues into the other Contracting State without having ceased to be treated as resident in the first Contracting State.

Subparagraph 3(b) provides that if a company is considered to be a resident of both Contracting States, and the residence of such company is not resolved by subparagraph 3(a), then the competent authorities of the Contracting States shall endeavor to settle the question of residency by a mutual agreement procedure and determine the mode of application of the Convention to such company. Subparagraph 3(b) also provides that in the absence of such agreement, the company shall not be considered a resident of either Contracting State for purposes of claiming any benefits under the Convention.

Technical Explanation [1995 Protocol]: Article 3 of the Protocol adds a sentence to paragraph 3 of Article IV of the current Convention to address the residence of certain dual resident corporations. Certain jurisdictions allow local incorporation of an entity that is already organized and incorporated under the laws of another country. Under Canadian law, such an entity is referred to as having been "continued" into the other country. Although the Protocol uses the Canadian term, the provision operates reciprocally. The new sentence states that such a corporation will be considered a resident of the State into which it is continued. Paragraph 5 of Article 21 of the Protocol governs the effective date of this provision.

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 3 provides that if, under the provisions of paragraph 1, a company is a resident of both Canada and the United States, then it shall be deemed to be a resident of the State under whose laws (including laws of political subdivisions) it was created. Paragraph 3 does not refer to the State in which a company is organized, thus making clear that the tie-breaker rule for a company is controlled by the State of the company's original creation. Various jurisdictions may allow local incorporation of an entity that is already organized and incorporated under the laws of another country. Paragraph 3 provides certainty in both the United States and Canada with respect to the treatment of such an entity for purposes of the Convention.

4. Where by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1 an estate, trust or other person (other than an individual or a company) is a resident of both Contracting States, the competent authorities of the States shall by mutual agreement endeavor to settle the question and to determine the mode of application of the Convention to such person.

Definitions: "company" — Art. II:1(f); "competent authority" — Art. III:1(g); "estate", "individual" — ITCIA 3, ITA 248(1); "person" — Art. III:1(e), ITCIA 3, Interpretation Act 35(1); "State" — Art. III:1(i); "trust" — ITCIA 3, ITA 104(1), 248(1), (3).

I.T. Technical News: 38 (Canada-US treaty's competent authority provision).

Technical Explanation [1984]: Paragraph 4 provides that where, by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1, an estate, trust, or other person, other than an individual or a company, is a resident of both Contracting States, the competent authorities of the States shall by mutual agreement endeavor to settle the question and determine the mode of application of the Convention to such person. This delegation of authority to the competent authorities complements the provisions of Article XXVI (Mutual Agreement Procedure), which implicitly grant such authority.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding paragraphs, an individual shall be deemed to be a resident of a Contracting State if:

(a) the individual is an employee of that State or of a political subdivision, local authority or instrumentality thereof rendering services in the discharge of functions or a governmental nature in the other Contracting State or in a third State; and

(b) the individual is subjected in the first-mentioned State to similar obligations in respect of taxes on income as are residents of the first-mentioned State.

The spouse and dependent children residing with such an individual and meeting the requirements of subparagraph (b) above shall also be deemed to be residents of the first-mentioned State.
